Did you know that France is a country of innovation and cutting edge technology that is applied not only in science but also in its gastronomy, fashion and art de vivre? The country that gave the world the croissant, haute couture, molecular cooking and discoveries by Pasteur and Curie, now wants to SPONSOR your studies!

If you have been accepted into a Master programme in an accredited French institution of higher learning, congratulations! You will benefit from France's long tradition of excellence in your chosen field, and at the same time feed your inner culture vulture on the staples of the French way of life. A well-rounded education could be your passport to future career and personal success.

If you are starting your Master programme in September 2021, we invite you to submit an application. If selected, you will get a scholarship for the duration of your course. The scholarship covers a return air ticket, visa application fee, a monthly allowance and tuition fees (T&C apply).
