

Three Popular Types of Branded Brigada Watches

If you're looking for a casual yet functional watch, look no further than Brigada watches. The company is a division of Motorola and was founded in 1985 with a mission to make watches Swiss mechanically powered. The company is headquartered in Switzerland and manufactures watches, accessories and Swiss inspired jewelry that are water resistant up to 30 meters. To ensure functionality, all of their mechanical watch movements are sealed within the case. All of the technology used is housed in a waterproof case to keep the movement safe even when subjected to water. Whether it's being worn underwater or out on the lake, these water-resistant watches are tough, reliable time pieces that will last you a lifetime.

Because the company believes so much in Swiss technology, all of their timepieces are created with Swiss movements. This includes the battery replacements and the functioning of the watch. When you buy a piece from them, you will receive a free shipping label with your purchase. The shipping label will also include all of the available warranty options available to you and your satisfaction is guaranteed.

There are many things that set Brigada watches apart from others in the fashion watch industry. They offer customizable features that give you more control over the timepiece you wear. For example, you can choose between interchangeable straps or the ability to use your watch to connect to your laptop or cell phone. If you live an active lifestyle, water resistance is a must have feature for you. This is why all of their watches come with a free shipping label in many cases.

The technology used by the company has led them to become one of the most innovative and widely used watchmakers in the world. All of their watches are water resistant up to thirty meters and all have multi-language support including both English and Spanish. These watches are offered at different price points, with some models starting at two hundred and fifty dollars. All of the watches have been designed with the military in mind, so they come in a variety of styles and colors. A multi-color dial provides a quick look-up option, so anyone can personalize their watch.

There are several different collections available from the company. Their Space Collection provides a collection of watches that are inspired by the collection of missions that astronauts take. They include an Air Force Band, an Aerospace chronograph, an Atlas Range, and an Apollo-themed model. The Apollo series gives you the chance to strap on a three-lever strap while you're flying in the sky. The Space collection offers a leather strap and a black leather case.

If you need a sporty type of watch, then you will love the rugged Locarno collection. These watches are water resistant up to thirty meters and they have both a chronograph and a push-button clasp. The two-tone sport dial and the stainless steel bracelet make these watches perfect for avid sportsmen. They are designed with a medium blue dial and a silver bezel set on top.

The Locarno collection is meant for people who like a bit more adventure in their timepiece. These watches have a mix of modern and classic design features. For example, the sport dial has black numbers, which are actually illuminated, and the bright red hour markers. Additionally, they are covered in a two-toned black leather strap with deep stitching. This rugged piece is perfect for those who like to explore the great outdoors.
