

One of the many reasons for having a patio cover in your backyard is Houston's warm climate. We all need a patio cover to provide shade to our backyard. Historically, home builders do not spoil home buyers with a patio cover which, in our opinion, it is a necessity. Patio covers allow you to enjoy the outdoors on even the hottest summer days. It provides protection from the elements, even protects your plants from exposure to frost.

PATIO COVERS HOUSTON

Patio Covers Houston TX

Eagle Patio Covers was originally founded in Houston as a roofing company in 1993 by Jerry Maciel and JC Micheloni and began building patio covers in 1997. Since then, Eagle Patio Covers has built countless patio covers, gazebos, sidings and stamped concrete floors in Houston, encountering and overcoming all types of home builders' design challenges and obstacles.

All patio covers built by Eagle are designed to homeowners' specifications and meet Homeowners Association guidelines as well as city codes where required. We design our patio covers to flow flawlessly into the surface of every home and, whether the surface is a roof or siding or a stand-alone gazebo, our finished product will appear to have been originally built with the home.

Patio Covers We build patio covers in a variety of styles: gable style, single slope, hip and contemporary styles. All of our work is done to suit your specifications, comply with Homeowners Association guidelines, and meet city codes where required.

Stamped Concrete We break out existing slabs, excavate the desired area, then frame and install #3 steel rebar. We usually dowel into the existing foundation, pour the concrete and apply the color of your choice. We then stamp your chosen design, allow for drying process, and apply an acrylic finish. The new stamped concrete can be straight or curved to enhance the new floor appearance.
