Barrett On Board To Work With Community On New England Aquarium Proposal

While not publicly critical of the handling of the New England Aquarium's proposed move to the Charlestown Navy Yard by any one group of officials, Boston Redevelopment Authority's Paul Barrett states that Charlestown has asked questions over the past several months and it is about time that residents received some answers and solutions.

Barrett, who is director of Neighborhood Projects for the BRA, has been assigned the task of working with the community on the aquarium proposal. He states that Mayor Raymond Flynn and BRA Executive Director Stephen Coyle want to see this project work "to the benefit of the community."

Barrett is more than familiar with the community, having grown up in South Boston and graduated from Boston College. He has spent the last two years as the Director of Programming for the Boston Parks and Recreation Department and as such has worked with this community on park issues including the Courageous Sailing Center on the Navy Yard's Pier Four.

Having met recently with several local individuals and groups, Barrett will go public at the Charlestown Neighborhood Council's May 10 meeting. At this time he will discuss the viability of Dry Dock 5 as an alternative site for the aquarium and will present the TAMS traffic management report. He also stated

Big Dig Underway — Shovels Hit Dirt At City Square

by Kathy Giordano

Dignitaries, residents, construction workers and area activists gathered in a dirt-covered lot off Rutherford Avenue in City Square on Tuesday, April 25 to kickoff the construction of the $180 million tunnel phase of the Central Artery/North Area (CANA) project.

Commissioner of the Mass. Department of Public Works Jane Garvey lead the ceremony by praising the community, especially the North Area Task Force members, for their support and cooperative relationship with the Department during the past 10 years. Garvey congratulated the efforts of Senator Francis Doris and Representative Richard Voke calling them the "godfathers" of the project for their continued support on assuring the needed funding for the project.

Senator Doris, in his remarks, praised the "teamwork" under the "tremendous leadership of House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Voke who was the catalyst to bring the project to fruition." Doris also stated that "it is most

City And State Budget Cuts Threaten Charlestown Treasure

Historic Charlestown is the site of many national treasures, not the least of which are the Bunker Hill Monument and the USS Constitution.

This town also contains a local treasure that is sometimes taken for granted — that is until a term paper is due, research is sought or a program piques the interest of the adult residents or their children.

This local treasure is housed in an architectural-ly questionable building on Main Street that is the scene of considerable traffic six days a week and on Thursday evenings — this treasure is the Charlestown Branch Library.

The residents of this community can no longer take this facility for granted. Mayor Raymond L. Flynn has recommended severe cuts for the Boston Public Library in next year's budget, which is currently in the hands of the Boston City Council. There is a projection that well over 100 employees will be terminated throughout the library system with hours and service cuts to follow.

Cuts have already been instituted at Copley Square with the elimination of Sunday hours and the evening closing of several departments. Also, Saturday and/or mealtime closings have been put into effect at several branch libraries.

The effect of these budget cuts on our local library is not yet specific, but all sources indicate that changes will occur at the Charlestown Branch.

In looking at the history of the library in Charlestown, it is necessary to go back some 170 years to 1819 when Charlestown had a circulating library. In 1820 the Charlestown Union Library was organized and assigned a room in the Town Hall. The public library was born in 1860. The founders decided to place the new library in the then Warren Institution for Savings Building at the corner of Main and Henley streets, now the site of the Tontine Crescent housing.

The new library opened its doors to the public in January 1862 with 6,000 volumes. In 1868, the rapidly growing library was moved to larger quarters of the newly completed City Hall in City Square. The collection at this time numbered 10,238. In 1874 the City of Charlestown was annexed to the City of Boston, and consequently the Charlestown Library became a branch of the Boston Public Library.

All residents are urged to attend a meeting sponsored by The Friends Of The Charlestown Branch Library on potential reductions in services, programs, hours and staff.
Thursday, May 4 at 7:30 p.m.
Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main St.

In 1913, Boston built the first real home for the Charlestown Library at 43 Monument Square, which now houses the Charlestown Historical Society's Bunker Hill Museum. This building contained separate rooms for the adults and children and a large lecture hall. In 1968, this facility had between 16,000 and 17,000 volumes.

The Monument Square facility housed the local library for 57 years, until the opening of the new branch at 179 Main St. on March 13, 1970.

In thinking about the present library and its service to the community, it is interesting to note that 30,733 volumes are currently on the shelves of the local branch.

During the 1988 fiscal year, from July 1, 1987 to June 30, 1988, a total of 50,145 books were circulated from the Charlestown Branch, the seventh largest circulation within the 25 branches. In addition, there were 60 adult programs with an attendance total of 980, and 214 children's programs attracting 6,271 youngsters. This figure is the seventh highest in attendance by children throughout the branch system.

These figures support the contention that the Charlestown Branch Library is well utilized.

In an effort to restore funds for the Boston Public Library system, the Citywide Friends group prepared a fact sheet. Listed among the restrictions that would be imposed on the library system with the proposed budget cuts is that seven neighborhood branch libraries would be closed; the Copley Square buildings would be closed two days a week; there would be naugh, president of the Friends of the Charlestown Branch Library, stated that the organization is very concerned over the projected cuts in the library system, and particularly how these cuts will relate to Charlestown.

The board of the Friends have called a meeting for Thursday, May 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Charlestown Branch Library. Cavanaugh has invited directors and trustees of the Boston Public Library, as well as city and state elected officials to attend this meeting.

According to Cavanaugh, the meeting will focus on the proposed reduction of services, programs, hours and staff which, if instituted, could leave the branch with very little to offer the residents.

Cavanaugh stressed that this is a serious problem and urged all residents to attend this meeting.

The Charlestown Branch Library is a treasure that cannot be taken for granted. Residents must join in the effort to lobby for the restoration of funds in order to maintain the type and quality of service so necessary to this community.

MAKE YOUR KITCHEN APPEALING

When prospective buyers look at a house, the kitchen can have a major influence on their decision about whether or not to make an offer. It need not be new and top of the line, but it should look its best.

While your home is on the market, it's important that your kitchen be spotlessly clean and well organized. The counter tops should be cleared off, with no dirty dishes in the sink. The appliances should be clean and in good working order. Make the floor look like a Spic 'N Span commercial, and add a few decorator touches. If your kitchen is not very attractive, consider some updating. It is possible to replace cabinets, flooring, and even appliances for a relatively small investment. If you are planning to sell, and if you believe you need some expert advice in this area, one of our agents would be happy to meet with you to consider the options you have. Remember, dollars spent on kitchen improvements can pay major dividends when you sell your home.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate professionals at Silva Realty Associates are ready to serve you. Call us at 242-7470 or drop by our offices at 142 Main St. in Charlestown.

Jack & John's Ice Cream Cafe Opens On Main Street

Her excitement is contagious — every flavor is better than the previous one, she says, and the add-ons and sauces offered are, to say the very least, mouth-watering. And be sure to try the frozen yogurt!

This excitement was generated by Nancy Sprague Flynn as she offered some taste-testing to guests last Friday evening, just prior to the grand opening of Jack & John's Ice Cream Cafe on Saturday. Flynn is the cafe's proprietor and her enthusiasm for her new business venture and the products she sells is contagious.

A blue awning greets patrons as they approach the cafe at 40 Main St., at the corner of Henley Street. The blue and white interior is reminiscent of a patio with several cafe tables for customers to pause and sample the cafe's offerings.

Flynn said that she began thinking about such a shop last winter when the one ice cream store in town eliminated ice cream from its offerings. She noted that she was also encouraged by a letter in the Patriot from a local teen calling for an ice cream store in Charlestown.

The cafe is presently offering 16 flavors of ice cream made by Annabelle's, which Flynn says is an outstanding product. She adds that the cafe will feature special flavors from time to time.

The cafe also carries sauces and toppings to complement the ice cream and Flynn noted that they are all available for takeout. She added that the whipped cream is freshly made daily on the premises.

The frozen yogurt is a favorite of Flynn's and she boasts that they will soon be adding a low-fat yogurt for the calorie conscious.

But for those who do not have to count calories, cookies and brownies are baked at the cafe. Flynn says that these may be used as the base of a delicious sundae or may be enjoyed with a cup of espresso or cappuccino. She also raved about the cappuccino float — one of the cafe's specialties.

The cafe is open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. and there are enough flavors and variations to

by Ronan FitzPatrick

Kenney Development Co., which developed the Parris, Billings, Carriage and Cooper buildings under the sagacity of President Robert Kenney, has delivered four outstanding projects. His blossoming real estate corporation is stretching across the inner harbor to the erstwhile Lincoln Wharf, renamed Burroughs Wharf. Targeted for 69 residential condominiums, with a 1990 completion date, the units start at $435,000 and soar to over $2 million. Marketing of the condos, which vary in size from 930-2,700 square feet, has been undertaken largely by the print media. The Boston Globe and the Boston Herald are the paramount vehicles for Burroughs advertising. An early trader, Francis Burroughs made millions importing exotic goods that found a satisfied consumer. All indications are that the Kenney team has found many an interested person to play the waterfront game of luxurious living. Our neighbors across the harbor will have the availability of the water taxi to visit and to deliver them to Logan Airport. Interested parties should contact 227-8282 for an appointment detailing Burroughs Wharf. The only negative about the development is the loss of the Boston Fire Department boat from Pier 4. For those who have not visited the boat at the end of the pier, please do so before 1990. The officers are informative about its history and most helpful. Our loss will be BFD's gain, as Kenney is building its boat a new home. To accomplished planner and builder Kenney, go the accolades.

Lifelong Townie, Anchorage resident and tobacco-nist James Duffy continues to support the numerous worthwhile projects that make the community a proud one. He has established a scholarship in memory of his loving wife Winifred Talbot Duffy. The scholarship is under the tutelage of the Old Charlestown Schoolgirls' Association. Qualified applicants have until April 30 to file. The Winifred Talbot Duffy scholarship is unique in its structure, available to Charlestown females enrolled in a four-year accredited college and entering their sophomore, junior or senior years. Established residency in the community for a minimum of 10 years is required. The winner will be drawn at the Old Schoolgirls' annual banquet. Helping our youth mature to leaders is a great method of preserving our great democratic society. During this busy season of application deadlines, Jim is going at a great pace along Ninth Street to guarantee that his Sullivan Square business is performing well. His departure for the scholarship activity won't hinder the business, as evidenced by son Jack Duffy making deliveries on First Avenue. For the Duffy family, they remember their departed wife and mother Winifred in a perpetuating scholarship that brings pleasure to them and financial assistance to the Charlestown girl — a marriage that will last an eternity.

Circle another date on your scholarship calendar for the Michael Patrick Quinn Scholarship application, which must be received by May 1. Established to commemorate Quinn, who was killed in combat in Vietnam on Aug. 29, 1969 and whose parents Mary and the late Leo Quinn were presented a Purple Heart for Michael on the Marine parade grounds within the National Park Service area on April 29, 1970, the scholarship is presently in its 20th year. The $1,500 award goes for the first year of college. To be eligible the candidate must be a resident since September 1988 and graduate with the high school class of 1989. A four-page application must be completed and forwarded to P.O. Box 216, Charlestown by May 1. For all eligible for this opportunity for additional revenue, make sure you meet the deadline.

You will be able to tour the Constitution Museum free of charge and learn about the exciting history of the USS Constitution. The society will be showing several videos it has created and is presently developing about different aspects of our neighborhood such as Main Street, the Bunker Hill Day Parade and the Charlestown waterfront.

Neill DePaoli, an archeologist involved in the recent City Square dig, will be showing slides about City Square and what was found there. We will also be making our annual Preservation Awards which will have a special emphasis on Main Street this year and which honor sensitive and appropriate work done in the community over the last year. All of this highlights our theme of Charlestown, Preserving a Historic Place to Live.

that Chairman Dennis McLaughlin will present a schedule of meetings on the issues of traffic and parking, community benefits and public access/design.

Barrett says that he is uncomfortable with the previously labeled workshops and prefers to call them "answer groups."

He went on to say that most questions should have been asked by now, pointing out that these upcoming meetings will have a "beginning and an end" and that by early June there should be enough information for the city, the aquarium and the community to make a solid decision on whether the Navy Yard is a go for the aquarium.

Some two months ago, a group of community residents suggested that the BRA and the aquarium consider Dry Dock 5 in the Yard's End portion of the Navy Yard as an alternative to the proposed Dry Dock 2. Barrett said that preliminary studies by the BRA and the aquarium, which will be completed next week, indicate that Dry Dock 5 won't work engineering-wise or program-matically for the facility.

He said that detailed studies will be presented on May 10, but listed several facts that would preclude construction in Dry Dock 5. Barrett noted that Dry Dock 5 is not long enough to accommodate the aquarium as proposed and would require excavation across First Avenue.

The second factor was economics. Barrett said the rebuilding of Dry Dock 5 would be a costly addition to the aquarium construction costs. He said that dry dock specialists were brought in and a diving crew viewed the interior of Dry Dock 5 last weekend, reporting that the structure was badly deteriorated.

Barrett agreed that the traffic and parking issues were of paramount concern. He said that the TAMS transportation management plan will be completed by May 1 and will be available at the May 10 meeting.

According to Barrett, the situating of the aquarium within the Navy Yard is feasible only if "on-site parking" is provided. He added that on-site refers to parking within the perimeter of the yard.

He said that the TAMS study was comprehensive and included every concept on the drawing board for the Navy Yard including a museum in the Ropewalk building. He added that some alternatives in the plan, such as an MBTA parking garage near the Community College station, have already been dismissed as possibilities by the community. Residents will be able to evaluate the plan on May 10.

Barrett stated that the TAMS study was done on two levels — the first utilizing the BRA/community master plan for the yard's development, and the second with the master plan of The Raymond Group, the yard's major developer. He added that the preliminary report indicates that The Raymond Group's plans are not feasible.

As to the yard's master plan, Barrett said that it would probably be released in June. He declined to give specifics, noting that it will not be "radically different from the plan agreed upon by the community a year ago." He did say that the square footage of the proposed hotel was increased in the plan, while "other things" were decreased. Barrett did say that there was a decrease of one acre of open space.

Barrett noted that once a decision is formally made for the aquarium to come to Charlestown, they face a long process involving land conversion, as well as approvals and permits for the Charlestown and the Central Wharf sites based on environmental issues. When asked about whether the entire 16 plus acres including Shipyard Park would be included in the proposed conversion, Barrett replied that he is an "open space" advocate and would work with the aquarium architects and the National Park Service to locate more of the service structures on the Pier Three side, leaving the park intact. He added that it has been suggested that aquarium offices be located in the adjacent Building 36 to decrease the number of support structures on the piers. Barrett was supportive of maintaining the park for residential enjoyment.

As to community benefits, Barrett mentioned the inclusion of residents in programming at the aquarium. In viewing the area, it is doubtful that the influx of potentially two million visitors annually would benefit businesses outside the Navy Yard gates. Barrett has been working on an idea that would allow Charlestown youth programs to benefit from sales of merchandise at or near the aquarium. He said that at the moment it is just an idea that could possibly be developed in order to provide some funds for the community from this project.

Barrett stated that he wants to see that the aquarium proposal "works for everyone — not just a select group." He added that "hopefully by the end of May, people who have felt left out of the planning process, will feel that they have been given answers."

Navy Yard National Park Service To Establish Junior Ranger Program

The Boston National Historical Park, a unit of the National Park Service, has announced plans to establish a Junior Ranger program at the Charlestown Navy Yard.

The first meeting to select volunteers will be held on Thursday, May 4 at the Charlestown Boys and Girls Club, 15 Green St. The meeting will get underway at approximately 4 p.m. with a slide show presentation by park rangers Dan Maharg and Bob Barrett. The rangers will introduce and explain the new program and answer questions. Plans call for the free program to begin in June with the selection of five boys and five girls between 10 and 13. The youngsters will meet once a week at the Charlestown Navy Yard as junior park rangers.

Junior park rangers will serve as volunteers, helping the park staff and the Charlestown community during special events. The selected youngsters will attend various park sessions and learn the historical, cultural and environmental philosophies of the National Park Service.

Applications will be distributed at the May 4 meeting and must be completed by the volunteering youngster. Those not selected will have their names placed on a waiting list. Parents are cordially invited and encouraged to attend the meeting with their child.

Callahan To Announce Candidacy For District 1 Council Seat

Charlestown attorney Brian Callahan has announced that he will formally declare his candidacy for the District 1 Boston City Council seat on Thursday, May 4.

A graduate of Charlestown High School, Suffolk University and Suffolk University Law School, Callahan stated: "My education coupled with my commitment to the community qualify me to address the complex issues facing the residents of District 1 in the 1990s."

Callahan further stated: "The issues of public education, crime and drug abuse and the dramatic impact of such public works projects as the depression of the central artery, the construction of a third harbor tunnel, the CANA project, and the Boston Harbor cleanup are, and will, continue to adversely affect the quality of urban life for the residents of District 1."

Callahan is the son of Edward P. "Chris" and Regina Callahan, both of Charlestown, and is married to the former Ann Marie Irwin of Medford. She serves as general counsel to the Massachusetts House of Representatives' Committee on Criminal Justice.

Upon graduation from Suffolk University Law School, Callahan served as a judicial law clerk with the Massachusetts Appeals Court and is currently associated with the firm of Cooley, Mannion, Moore and Jones. Callahan is active in the Catholic Lawyers Guild of Boston and is a member of the Ward 2 Democratic Committee.

Callahan extends an invitation to: "Please join me for my campaign kickoff on Thursday, May 4 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 75 W. School St., Charlestown. The party starts at 7 p.m. with entertainment provided by the Bill Walsh Showband."

Community Backs Plans To Construct Korean Veterans War Memorial

by Kathy Giordano

The Veterans Committee of the Charlestown Neighborhood Council met Tuesday, April 25 to hear a proposal by the Korean War Veterans of Massachusetts to construct a memorial on Shipyard Park in the Charlestown Navy Yard. The memorial would honor the 1,620 Massachusetts men and women killed during the war, the 107 still listed as missing in action and seven Massachusetts Medal of Honor recipients.

Committee chairman Jim Conway and vice chairmen Ronan FitzPatrick, Eugene Whelan and Tom White were joined by Boston City Councillor Albert O'Neil to listen to the proposal and any concerns the community might have regarding the memorial's location in Charlestown.

Robert Nolan, president of the Korean War Veterans Committee, explained the group's intentions and reasons for wanting to construct the memorial. Nolan stated that an informal organization was formed three years ago in an attempt to commemorate the war, and through its efforts, in 1986 Massachusetts became the first state in the union to set aside July 27 each year to remember the men and women who fought and died during that war. In September 1988 the group saw a portion of Route 495 dedicated and designated Korean War Veterans Highway. Although pleased with the annual commemoration day and highway designation, Nolan stated: "We wanted more than that. Our goal was a permanent memorial to the war."

William Mason, chairman of the memorial committee, said the group started looking for an appropriate design for the memorial last year and went no further than the veterans of that war, who, they felt, were the most capable and qualified to create this lasting monument. Once the design was agreed upon, the search began for the most appropriate site.

Through the cooperation of the City Veteran's Service Department, the committee was informed of the availability of a site on Shipyard Park in the Charlestown Navy Yard.

The city's Veterans Services Commissioner Tom Materazzo and Deputy Commissioner Tom Lyons, who were present at the meeting, stated that they were "impressed with the sincerity and maturity of the veterans group" involved with the construction of this memorial and "their financial accountability" relative to the project.

Fund-raising chairman Fred Waterhouse explained the steps taken by the committee to ensure complete financial accountability, stating that every cent raised would be put toward the construction and continuing maintenance of the memorial. To that end, a memorial fund has been established at the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Co. The committee has set $300,000 as the total cost for the memorial and has just begun its fund-raising project to achieve this goal.

City Councillor O'Neil, a World War II veteran and recipient of the Silver Star, stated that he had met with Boston Redevelopment Authority Director Stephen Coyle regarding the site on Shipyard Park, and as a result of that meeting, said: "I am authorized to inform you that the land is all wrapped up. The BRA gave it to us. Whenever you're ready, it's there and will stay there awaiting your arrival."

The general design of the memorial would be 32 feet in diameter including walks and benches. The hexagon, forming a closed perimeter, would symbolize the geographical constraints during the Korean War with the Yalu River to the north, the Sea of Japan to the east, the

MODEL of the state's Korean War Veterans Park in the Charlestown Navy Yard. Memorial proposed for a site in Shipyard

East China Sea to the south and the Yellow Sea to the west.

Constructed of gray Barre Vermont granite, the memorial would have six 12-foot columns supporting six 2-foot-high lentils. The exterior facing of the front center lentil will be inscribed "Korean War Veterans Memorial." The front facing lentil to the left of the center will show the Great Seal of the United States. The front facing lentil to the right of center will show the great Seal of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The facing of the interior lentils will, in circular fashion, have inscribed in chronological order the names and places of major battles along side Americans in the war. The inner face of the rear center lentil will show the insignia of the U.S. Army, the U.S. Marine Corps, the U.S. Navy, the U.S. Air Force and the United Nations.

The center piece of the memorial is an 8-foot bronze replica of the Korean War fighting man in winter clothing on a large 6-foot pedestal. All six-sided faces of the pedestal will have bronze markers listing the names of the seven Massachusetts Medal of Honor recipients, the names of the Massachusetts men and women killed and the names of those still listed as missing in action.

The memorial will be built on a grassy knoll, and the view of the statue will be enhanced through this perspective.

Conway received a unanimous vote of approval for the construction of the memorial from those in attendance. He stated that he will report this vote, along with the Korean War Veterans Committee proposal, to the neighborhood council at the next scheduled meeting on May 2 for its approval.

Representative Voke stated: "Here is one story that a book should be written about," referring to the efforts of the community through the North Area Task Force. "They have worked long and hard, plodding along until we come to this marvelous day," Voke added that he has not received one single call of complaint on the project, telling him that the MDPW has worked hard with the community.

Boston City Councillor Robert Travaglini echoed the comments of Doris and Voke, praising the "efforts and contributions of the North Area Task Force." Twelve years ago discussion began on the project. The reservations of the community have been safeguarded by the members of the Task Force," the councillor stated.

Task Force co-chairman

Ken Stone stated: "For 10 years the Charlestown community has had meetings concerning the project and the state DPW has listened and our elected officials, Representative Voke and Senator Doris have stood at our side.

"It is here that Governor Winthrop had his house. It is here that Paul Revere started his ride on April 19, 1775. It is here that the first bridge to Boston was built. So it is only appropriate that the beginning of the end of the overhead highway start here. When this project is over we will have a bigger park in City Square, a rejuvenated Chelsea Street and new housing to replace the neighborhood that was torn down in the early 50s. Today, a new chapter in the history of Charlestown begins," concluded Stone.

The ceremony ended with a bouquet of flowers being presented to Commissioner Garvey by Task Force member Elaine McCarthy, and with elected officials, MDPW representatives, Perini Construction Co. officials and members of the Task Force turning over the dirt with commemorative shovels.

Garvey stated the tunnel phase of the project will begin next month. The three tunnels will be under construction by September of this year. She advised motorists to take alternate routes and stay out of City Square while construction work proceeds.

Mishawum Manager's Trash Turmoil — 'It's Someone Else's Garbage'

by Lynn Peters

Early last week a local cab driver picked up a fare at an apartment in the rear of Mishawum Park. While he waited for the woman, he was shocked at the amount of garbage spilling from dumpsters and open bags.

"I couldn't believe people were living with all that around them," said the cabbie, who asked not to be identified.

If the overloaded dumpsters weren't enough, the rats feeding on the loose debris around the containers horrified him.

"What really bothered me was that I didn't even disturb them," he said.

He explained to the woman how overwhelmed he was, but she was used to it. After her what-can-you-do shrug, the cab driver filed complaints with the city's Code Enforcement Police later that morning.

When Code Enforcement officials investigated the complaint, Richard Iannella, the agency's director, says nine of Mishawum's 14 dumpsters were overloaded with loose trash laying out on the ground. Mishawum's management was handed nine $25 tickets. Iannella and Carl Salvi, Code Enforcement Police captain, wrote out two more tickets April 25 for the same violations of the city's trash storage ordinances. Iannella vowed that his department would crack down and clean up Mishawum.

"The management should take more responsibility," Iannella said. "The place is a mess."

A frustrated Mishawum superintendent, Terry Connors, said he'll pay the fines, but five of last week's unsightly dumpsters were filled with "outside trash." "It's a major problem," said Connors, 32, who has been the property manager for three years. "I just added more dumpsters (from nine to 14), and that would be enough if it were just our trash."

Disposal experts have said that biweekly trash pickups of the 14 dumpsters for Mishawum is probably not enough. Sam Wood, the city's rodent control expert, said the number sounds inadequate.

"If the dumpsters are continually overloaded, then additional pickups or containers are needed," Wood said. The dumpsters are providing the food source for rats.

But Connors said if it weren't for the outside dumpsters, 14 would be enough for the 337-unit development that stretches for four blocks.

Among the culprits Connors claims is using Mishawum as a dumping ground are restaurants, building contractors and a private plasterer from as far away as Randolph. He says he has evidence of four moonlight Mishawum dumpsters, including a restaurant from Portland Street in the North Station area and a business from Charlestown's Main Street.

"That's pretty impossible," the manager of the Portland Street eatery said. "We wouldn't have a reason to do that."

The manager said his restaurant has two of its own dumpsters, which are dumped daily. The business is charged extra for any loose bags that don't fit in the containers on busy nights, and the manager said, "For a couple of dollars, we just wouldn't (take the trash somewhere else)."

Connors said his conversation went differently with an apologetic owner, who told him that a worker he was paying to tote extra trash to the dump was leaving it instead at Mishawum without him knowing. "They would work it out," Connors said.

Connors' most recent find, after lifting up the rear lid of a dumpster he was ticketed for this week, was bags of garbage from a more local business on

IT'S NOT MY TRASH, contends Mishawum Park's Superintendent Terry Connors, who is being cited again this week for overloaded dumpsters and loose trash by Code Enforcement Police Captain Carl Salvi (left) and the agency's director Richard Iannella. Connors has been ticketed 11 times in the past two weeks for the same violations.

Main Street. Empty food containers and mail were among the incriminating evidence that Connors discovered to implicate the owner.

"I was hiring some 16-year-old kid to take it," the owner said in response to the find. "I thought he was taking it to the dump."

He went on to explain that he thought his young employee was taking the trash daily to an out-of-town dump. The owner wouldn't say why he doesn't have the garbage picked up in front of his business, only that there is only a weekly city pickup, which he says wouldn't do anything for the coming rat infiltration from the City Square dig.

Merchants don't generally rely on the city to handle their heavier volumes of trash and pay for daily pickups.

The owner said he'll take care of it.

has dropped that plan of action. "He's responsible for everything in and around his premises, but he's making a concerted effort."

Iannella said he'd like to see Connors do something with the debris that collects along the Rutherford Avenue fence and work on a better maintenance schedule in getting tenants' trash to the dumpsters more effectively and keeping the lids down.

Connors said he intends to replace the fence, do site cleanups and keep watching for the outside dumpsters.

In the wake of the tunnel dig under City Square with its potential rat problems, Connors said 6-inch concrete slabs will be poured under the dumpsters to prevent the rodents from an underground direct line to a food source. He recently replaced all his previously dented rotted dumpsters. The dumpsters are dumped twice a week, a local exterminator baits two to three times a week, and Connors believes that the measures should prove effective as long as he only has to store the trash that belongs to the development.

WHY NOT BUY FROM A TOWNIE?

The Amstar Mystery . . . The Saga Continues

by Lynn Peters

"We never agreed to go to that public meeting," says Dean Boylan Jr., president of Boston Sand and Gravel, of the April 18 community forum set up by the Charlestown Neighborhood Council Mitigation Committee in hopes of hearing the future plans for the former Amstar Domino Sugar refinery site. "We never said we'd be there."

Committee members and neighbors were infuriated by last week's no-show, which residents said was designed to keep their input out of the planning stages.

Boylan, and Stuart Lamb Jr., president of Trimount Bituminous Products Co., recently leased 11 acres of the Medford Street property from landlord-developer Harold Brown to operate as a general marine cargo terminal. Residents want to know what marine-related commodities will be imported or exported and how operations will impact them.

A March meeting with Brown's representative, attorney Bernard "Bud" Shadrawy, left little information for residents. When Shadrawy told neighbors that Boylan and Lamb had not made firm decisions, they had little trust that the partners would enter into a business deal without having any idea of what to do.

"It's impossible to believe that they've entered into a long-term lease without general or specific plans," says committee chairman Bill Galvin. "It defies logic."

Last week's meeting was an attempt to get Boylan and Lamb into the neighborhood to discuss their plans. When a letter arrived just before the scheduled meeting from the partners saying that they would not attend, committee members and residents were even madder.

Boylan says his representative tried to contact Galvin unsuccessfully before the meeting. Galvin says there is no way to cancel once notice was printed in the newspapers.

"They just wanted to avoid public input," Galvin says. "They're unwilling to share plans and don't seek community input on the planning process."

Boylan and Lamb admittedly want to avoid public gatherings. After Shadrawy's appearance last month, Boylan, 38, and Lamb, 46, say they don't want the same angry scenario when they would tell neighbors again that they just don't have a plan.

"It's not the right time for a public forum," Boylan says, "but we're willing to sit down (in a smaller setting)."

Council chairman Dennis McLaughlin says Boylan called him at home the weekend before the scheduled meeting. McLaughlin says he was uncomfortable.

"They said they wanted to talk in a rational setting, but that gets scary because it's not a public process," McLaughlin says, adding that it would not be his place to meet with them. "I told him that the community won't accept the story about not having a proposal," McLaughlin says, "but if you don't have a proposal you'll be strongly criticized."

Galvin says he too has concerns about small-group meetings. "Every communication should be public, but the council would have to decide whether (a small group) would be appropriate or not."

"Communication is important, and we know the community has concerns," says Lamb, who has been with Trimount for more than 20 years. "But we have our concerns too, and we're not going to sit down and have 40 people calling us fools."

"We have no evil intentions," Boylan maintains, but for him a large public setting would be non-productive.

In the wake of any or no meeting with community members, Boylan and Lamb still claim that there are no definite plans for the site, recently leased as their newly formed Boston Harbor Marine Terminal partnership between subsidiaries of their companies.

"We felt it was an opportunity for a general cargo marine terminal," Boylan says, using the description that has committee members and neighbors worried about the vagueness. The partners say that the site has to be used to import or export marine-related goods under the state's Chapter 91 licensing and has to be limited to what's allowed in the city's Maritime Economy Reserve zone.

Boylan and Lamb say they have to work within the licensing and zoning restrictions, but they won't discuss exactly what markets they've been exploring. According to Boylan and Lamb, some of the types of things that fit into those categories are lumber, salt and fruit. Newsprint could fit the bill, Boylan says, but it didn't make it to the economically viable list.

Their 10-year lease includes the pier, dock, crane and sugar storage facility abandoned by the refinery last year. The set-up allows for ships to dock and unload next to a crane, designed to carry granular materials, and a conveyor mechanism to move the unloaded commodity to the top of the dome. Inside, a huge sifting-like apparatus previously moved the sugar around to fill up the storage shell. Street-level doors allow for trucks to load from the dome.

Boylan says that since the operation was built for sugar, switching away from granular materials would require putting money into the mechanics to accommodate other uses. Most likely, it would be a mixed-use operation, Boylan says.

Whatever the operation, it will no doubt generate truck traffic because the site is within an industrially zoned area. Traffic will impact the neighborhood, and residents have been saying that they expect input and communication to mitigate adverse affects. Neighbors also worry that they'll end up with a tar or concrete plant in their back yard.

It would seem that materials used to make concrete or tar could fit into the allowed uses and that the site's equipment would have to change less for these materials than for lumber or fruit. But Boylan and Lamb claim they have no intention of transferring their existing plants to Charlestown.

Moving Boylan's plant from Portland Street or Lamb's asphalt operations from Everett wouldn't make economic sense, they say. The Charlestown property would serve an innovative purpose, so that Boston Harbor Marine Terminal could corner an untapped maritime market.

At the April 18 meeting, committee members wanted the no-manufacturing, no-transferring promises in writing. Galvin says he'd like to see that come in the form of a contractual agreement. Boylan says he thought the letter would be as good as a contract. According to Galvin, a letter has no binding effect and is not enough.

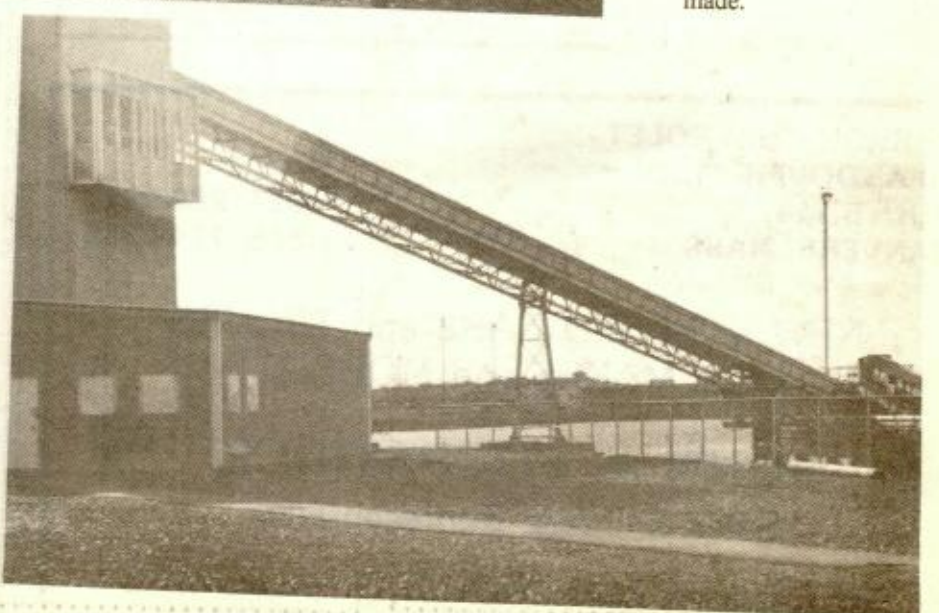

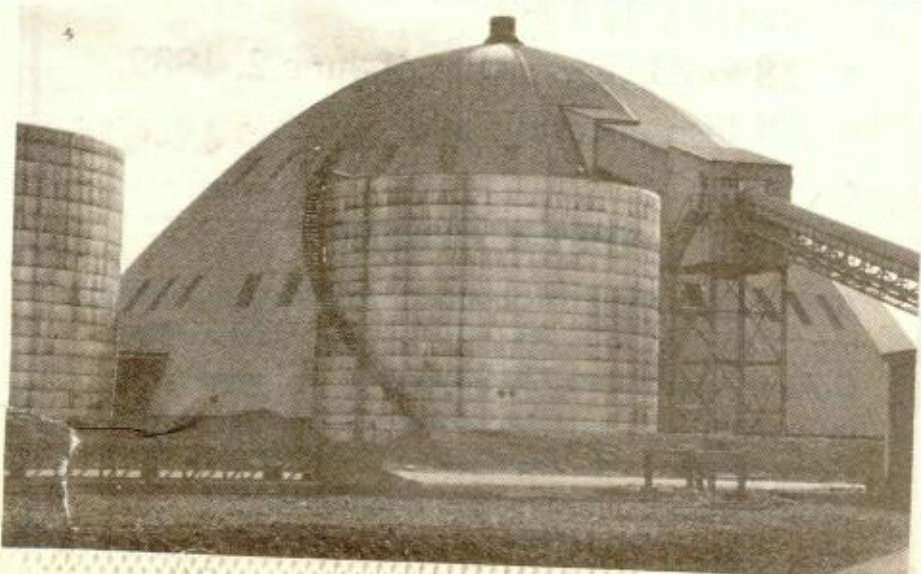

"Those are the facts," Boylan says. "Our word is our bond."

But, as evidenced at the last two community meetings, that probably won't comfort neighbors, who want their voices heard in the planning stages — before any decisions are made.

Bank Of New England's Main Street Plans Will Go If Zoning Is OK

by Lynn Peters

Not wanting to delay the Bank of New England's construction process for too long, members of the Charlestown Neighborhood Council Housing and Development Committee voted April 25 to recommend the latest design revisions to the full council, subject to the city's zoning board decision.

At a January 25 presentation of the bank's renovation and expansion plans, the committee's concerns centered around landscaping and traffic flow. This week's meeting with bank officials and committee members addressed those earlier concerns and the possibility of a zoning violation.

Paul Smith, the bank's branch administrator for the Boston area, said he felt that the planners had been successful with the community's concerns in January.

There would be two Main Street and Rutherford Avenue entrances and exits, no access from Baldwin Street, a 6-foot fence to shield neighboring General Warren Apartment residents when the warehouses are removed, a wrought iron fence fronting Main Street and a pedestrian walkway from Main Street to the bank's new entrance. Smith also said that the curbing lines for cars using the two drive-up windows were redesigned to keep customer traffic on the bank's lot and not in the streets and that there will be 38 parking spaces.

Smith discussed ways that residents could be recruited for the additional teller jobs that will be created after the Charlestown branch expands from 1,800 square feet to 5,000.

"This will be a first-rate banking facility," Smith said. "The community suggestions we've taken have enhanced the project."

Committee members seemed comfortable with the new bank, but after fellow member and Preservation Society President Dan Kovacevic wrote a recent letter to the city's Inspection Services department asking the commissioner to reject the bank's building proposal, they added a contingency on approving the plans to the full council.

"I hope it was not the intent of the Preservation Society to preclude the community," committee member Dennis McLaughlin said of not knowing about any zoning problems.

Committee chairman Tom Cunha said he was "miffed" that the group only knew about the landscaping and traffic flow concerns. "(At the Feb. 7 council meeting) we had no concerns about the building itself," Cunha said, "and now there's some concern about the way the building's being built — are we at square one again?"

Kovacevic defended the Society's role saying, "We have design review functions, and it was my responsibility to bring information back to the board members." Kovacevic said that he didn't want to preclude a public forum and that the letter was written to frame the issues for open discussions.

Bank planners believe that they have not violated any city zoning ordinances, while Society members and local architect Bill Lamb say that they have. The committee voted to leave the technical interpretations and "academic exercises" to the city's zoning experts.

Cunha added that, "The zoning shouldn't make or break the bank's progress, and I don't think there is real concern from the abutters."

For Society members Annette Tecce, Lamb and Kovacevic, the zoning concern makes a difference for the Main Street facility.

"We've been trying to restore the character of Main Street," Lamb said of his position to have the bank building moved closer to the street. "I'm disappointed to see that the warehouses, which have been holding the street line, are being demolished, leaving a gaping hole on Main Street."

Tecce said that she was not convinced that moving the building closer couldn't work.

"I would've liked the community to be in on the different alternatives and schematics and have the bank discuss them rather than just saying that it's not possible," Tecce said. "There's not enough give and take here."

Smith maintained that the designs were customer-driven. "We're sure that it's going to work," he said.

The committee will approve the plans for the bank, pending any zoning decisions, to the full council at its upcoming monthly meeting on May 2.

"The bank is ready to start working on the building," Cunha said, "and the bank has some rights."

Committee member Peter Looney commented: "I appreciate organizations outside of the council having concerns, but I'd appreciate an advance notice. I don't appreciate walking in here cold, and I thought the earlier concerns were addressed."

CHARLESTOWN BOYS & GIRLS CLUB

Nate Hurwitz Basketball Tournament Results

The Nate Hurwitz Tournament came to a close on April 15 and 16 with finals in six different divisions. Cablevision taped the boys' 16-and-under and 19-and-under finals.

As we have come to expect from the Hurwitz Tournament, all of the games were well-played and represented some of the best basketball talent in the Boston area. We extend special thanks to Dean Witter, our corporate sponsor, for its support of the tournament and the youth of Charlestown.

Boys 16-And-Under Division

The Talisman team, coached by Jack McMahon, came away with the victory in this division, defeating a scrappy Everett team by a 91-88 score. Down by 13 heading into the fourth quarter, the smaller Everett team made a late game change but could get no closer than the final three-point spread. As expected, Bill Curley, a 6-foot-9-inch player from Duxbury High School, dominated inside and ended the game with 32 points, leading all scorers. Sabatino Guerrio was the lead scorer for Everett with 28 points. In the semifinals Everett defeated Newton Yellow Cab 59-57, and Talisman defeated the Buddies 69-57.

THE TALISMAN, boys 16-and-under champs.

Boys 19-And-Under Division

Lead by tournament MVP Brian Holden, the Buddies defeated the Roxbury Boys and Girls Club 101-92 to capture the 19-and-under title. Holden scored 20 points and was 6 for 6 from the charity stripe in the fourth quarter, as the Buddies held off a late-game rally by the Roxbury club. Leading scorer for the Buddies was Curtis Bostic of Brockton High School, who had 33 points. Larry Wynn of Catholic Memorial High School was the leading scorer for Roxbury with 23 points. In the semifinals the Buddies defeated the Young Guns 82-64, and Roxbury defeated Talisman 69-60.

Corporate Division

Cowen and Co., a Boston-based investment firm, put itself on the top of the corporate heap with a victory in overtime over Pepsi. The final score was 99-96 as Cowen was able to hit 7 of 9 free throws in the overtime period to put it away. It was a close game all the way as Maturo led Cowen with 28 points, and Grace scored 39 for Pepsi. In the semifinals Pepsi defeated Brookfield/Saucony 60-47 and Cowen defeated Mayor Flynn's All-Stars 75-56.

Men's Open Division

Fernando's surprised a lot of people by getting to the finals of the Men's Open and certainly showed that it belonged, even though they fell to the Remingtons by a score of 129-126. It was a run-and-gun affair all the way with Fernando's three-point shooting, 15 three-pointers for the game and a Hurwitz record, keeping Fernando's in the game. In the end, Remington's McGafferey was a little too much for Fernando's to stop, scoring a total of 48 points in the title game. Mark Fernando scored 34 points in his team's losing effort. In the semifinals Fernando's defeated the Greeks 80-72, and Remingtons defeated the Buffalo Soldiers 86-83.

Boys 13-And-Under Division

The Cape Codders captured the 13-and-under title on Sunday with a 75-65 win over Everett, which had managed to place two teams in the Hurwitz finals but came up short in both contests. The Cape Codders were led by Settino with 27 points. Johnson led the way for Everett with 20 points. This represented the first Hurwitz title for the Cape Codders, surprising many in last year's tournament by advancing a team to the 16-and-under finals only to lose to Talisman. In the semifinals the Everett Rats defeated Gate of Heaven 51-48, and Cape Codders defeated the Crusaders 52-35.

Girls 16-And-Under Division

The final game of this year's tournament was played on Sunday as Easton won in the only blow-out final of the tournament, defeating the Waltham Boys and Girls Club 73-39. Easton showed balanced scoring with five players scoring in double figures. In the semifinals North Easton defeated South Boston 51-23, and Waltham defeated Charlestown 29-19.

REPRESENTATIVE Mary Jeannette Murray presented the Fred Sullivan Award to Greg Jackson.

STEVE HEALEY from Dean Witter presented the MVP Trophy to Brian Holden.

Representative Mary Jeannette Murray (R-Cohasset) presented the Fred Sullivan Award for the outstanding Charlestown tournament performer to Greg Jackson. Jackson played on the Young Guns, which made it to the 19-and-under semifinals before losing to the Buddies. Jackson was also helpful throughout the tournament refereeing and keeping the book on many games. Murray is the daughter of the late Nate Hurwitz and continues to be a real tournament fan.

Steve Healey from Dean Witter, Hurwitz Tournament sponsor, presented the MVP Trophy to Brian Holden of the Buddies. Holden, a junior at Archbishop Williams High School, played on both the Buddies' 16-and-under and 19-and-under teams. He impressed everyone with his team play and attitude toward the game. Holden scored 20 points in the Buddies' victory over Roxbury in the 19-and-under finals.

The camp runs from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is open for children ages 10 to 14. The cost for this camp is $70 per session.

Computer Camp — The Computer Camp will provide campers with an opportunity to both learn about computers in our own Computer Center in the clubhouse as well as enjoy other activities such as arts and crafts, sailing, swimming and going on field trips. Courses to be emphasized include: LOGO, animation, adventure and games that challenge and teach. The camp runs from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is open for children ages 6 to 13. Deputy Superintendent Ronald X. Conway
Area A, Boston Police Department

Tuesday, April 18

An automobile parked near 170 Main St. was broken into during the early morning hours, and the radio was stolen.

At 2:55 a.m., an 18-year-old Charlestown man was arrested at Concord and Bunker Hill streets for operating a motor vehicle without a license. The suspect was operating a pick-up truck and smashed into some parked cars on Concord Street.

At 6 a.m., Officer Feeney responded to Mass. General Hospital where a Somerville resident was being treated for pellet wounds he received at the Sullivan Square rotary. Two drivers got out of their cars to argue, when the driver of the other vehicle pulled out a pellet gun, shot it and fled the scene in a maroon Buick.

An automobile parked on High Street was vandalized during the daytime by an individual who smashed the rear window.

A new resident was moving items into her apartment on Sullivan Street when someone stole a Green Mountain bicycle from the roof rack of the car.

A stolen automobile was recovered in the rear of the Edwards School lot at 6 p.m. by Officer Traynor.

A building at 92 Main St. was vandalized by someone who smashed three windows.

An automobile parked near 226 Main St. was broken into during the evening, and an attempt was made to steal it.

At 10:15 a.m., Officers Whiffen and Brown, assigned to Team Police, arrested a 37-year-old Somerville man after a chase and after the suspect attempted to run the police officers down with a Chevrolet station wagon. The suspect was charged with assault by means of a dangerous weapon, a motor vehicle.

A stolen automobile was recovered at Tibbetts Town Way at 11 p.m. by Officer Traynor.

Wednesday, April 19

Sometime during the night of April 18, an unknown person smashed the rear window of 95 Dunstable St. in the Mishawum Park Development office and trashed the premises. Nothing was observed to be taken at this time.

At 12:30 a.m., a 1986 Ford van was broken into while it was parked at 50 Brighton St. A CB radio, radar detector and tape recorder, with a total value of about $700, were removed through the broken passenger window.

At 6 a.m., a 26-year-old Reading man was operating his 1977 Chevrolet Impala in the area of Sullivan Square when he struck a 55-year-old Roxbury man who was crossing the street. The operator told police that he was unable to stop his car because of adverse road conditions. The victim was transported to Mass. General Hospital where he was treated for multiple trauma. The incident is being investigated by Area Auto Investigators.

A 1983 Toyota Tercel was found in the rear of 59 Tibbetts Town Way. The engine was running and the ignition was popped, although at the time of the report it was not reported stolen.

At 9 a.m., a 19-year-old Somerville woman was operating her motor vehicle in City Square when she was struck by a 1989 Ford Escort. The driver of the Ford fled the scene but not before the license-plate number was taken. Complaints will be sought in the Charlestown District Court.

While a 1984 Chevrolet was parked at 51 Dunstable St., an unknown vehicle struck it, causing damage to the entire left side. The operator of the unknown vehicle fled the scene.

At 10:50 a.m., a 10-year-old Charlestown girl was chased into the Boys and Girls Club on Green Street by a white male described as 30-35 years old, 5 feet 9 inches, 150 pounds, with a medium build and reddish-blond hair. The suspect was wearing blue jeans and a blue cotton jacket. The girl was first approached at Elm and High Streets. This incident will be further investigated by the detectives. Anyone observing the suspect in the area is advised to call the police.

At 11:30 a.m., a 23-year-old Stoneham man was arrested at 83 Cambridge St. for operating a motor vehicle with a suspended license.

At 5:40 p.m., a Charlestown woman went to pick up her daughter from a day-care center at 15 Green St. When she returned to her car she observed a 40-year-old Charlestown man sitting in the back seat of her car going through her purse. The suspect fled the scene on foot but is known to the victim.

At 7:30 p.m., a 20-year-old Charlestown woman entered the police station at Area A and reported that she gave a man $234 for which he was supposed to deliver a 1979 Olds Cutlass. The car was discovered to be stolen.

At 11:50 p.m., officers responded to a radio call for a breaking and entering at Phipps Management, 320 Main St. When the officers arrived, they observed that the rear window had been smashed and the screen removed. A search was made to no avail, and the manager secured the property.

Thursday, April 20

At 2 a.m., a 30-year-old Charlestown woman observed a 17-year-old, 6-foot-2-inch, white male attempting to remove the stereo from her 1989 Volvo. The suspect broke the right front window and damaged the dash.

At 2:25 a.m., Officer Ridlon responded to a radio call for a car operating in the field at Terminal and Medford streets. When officers arrived, they observed the motor vehicle in the field. Three Charlestown youths were placed under arrest for larceny of a motor vehicle. A fourth suspect fled the scene.

A stolen 1987 Pontiac was recovered at 25 Corey St. Sometime between 1:30 and 9:30 p.m. a 1988 VW parked at Bunker Hill and Elm streets was broken into through the passenger window. A Mitsubishi stereo was stolen, along with books and cassette tapes.

A 1976 Ford Elite, reported stolen earlier in the day, was recovered by the owner's sister at 74 Walford Way. The car had front-end damage, and the ignition was popped.

Another stolen vehicle was recovered in the rear of 288 Main St. The 1977 Olds had four tires missing, broken windows and body damage.

Friday, April 21

The driver's side and trunk of a 1987 BMW were scraped with an unknown object when the car was parked at 1 Monument Square.

At 4:30 p.m., a white male, described as 40 years old, 5 feet 6 inches and 160 pounds, operating a 1987 Chrysler, was observed stealing items from the CVS store in the Bunker Hill Mall. When the suspect was approached in the parking lot, an argument ensued. At this point four youths assisted the suspect in escaping from the security guard.

A 1987 Olds Cutlass, reported stolen on April 19, was recovered on West School and Lawrence streets. The ignition was popped, the radio was missing, the windows were broken, and the car had four flat tires. There was extensive damage inside and out.

A 1976 Cadillac, reported stolen in Somerville, was recovered at 65 O'Reilly Way. The steering column was damaged.

Saturday, April 22

At approximately 2 a.m., a group of young vandals went on a destructive spree. With rocks in hands, they broke the windows of several automobiles from Main Street to Pearl Street and on School Street. They also threw a rock at an apartment living-room window on Bunker Hill Street. The group then fled into the Bunker Hill Housing Development.

A power boat docked in the Shipyard Quarters Marina was broken into during the evening.

A truck was broken into on Mt. Vernon Street during the evening hours, and various tools were taken.

Sunday, April 23

Again early on Sunday morning the vandals struck, breaking windows of 19 automobiles on Warren, High, Pearl and Bunker Hill streets.

At 12:25 a.m., Officers Nolan and Tierney responded to a radio call on a group breaking car windows at 206 Bunker Hill St. A second call came in for a group breaking windows on Salem Street. The officers responded to Salem Street and observed several smashed windshields. No suspects could be found.

Upon further investigation of the damaged vehicles, the officers were able to see footprints on the hoods of these vehicles. The officers proceeded to search the area and observed a suspect on Main at Dunstable Street who fled on foot. After a brief foot chase, the suspect was apprehended. While struggling with the officers on the ground, the suspect reached into his pants with his left hand. When the suspect was handcuffed and helped from the ground, the officers observed a plastic bag with nine packets containing a white powder believed to be cocaine. The suspect, an 18-year-old Charlestown resident, was placed under arrest for possession with intent to sell and willful and malicious destruction of property, and transported to Area A by Officers Turner and Agnew.

Officers Tierney and Nolan removed the suspect's sneakers, a pair of size-11 white Nike Cross Trainers with a blue stripe. The suspect's sneakers were positively matched up with prints on the hoods of 13 damaged vehicles on Salem, Pearl, Bartlett, Elm, Bunker Hill and Green streets.

At 1 p.m., Officer Bollen arrested a 25-year-old Saugus resident on Cambridge Street for operating without a license.

At 5:55 p.m. Officer Brown responded to 49 Walford Way, where a group had gathered on numerous occasions and had been asked to go elsewhere. A 16-year-old resident was placed under arrest for trespassing.

At 8:20 p.m. Officer O'Malley responded to a call at the Bunker Hill Monument on a report that a group was throwing rocks. As the officer approached the area in the cruiser, the group could be seen. One of the members threw a rock, striking Officer O'Malley in the side of the face causing lacerations. The group then fled into the back yards on Monument Avenue.

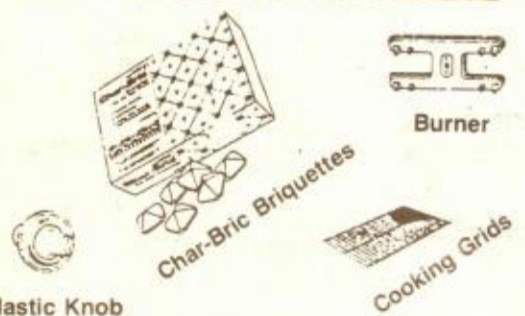

These incidents are under investigation by the Detectives of Area A.

Not For Nothin' . . .
But Have You Heard . . .

• C-T on TV . . . Mike Barnicle and crew from Channel 5's "Chronicle" program were seen filming throughout town yesterday (Wednesday) for an upcoming show on Charlestown. Some new faces and viewpoints will be heard, as well as those who have been seen and heard before! Should be interesting! Word has it that the show will broadcast some night next week! Those who want to be in the know should tune in!!!!

• Also on TV Next Week . . . on Wednesday, May 3, will be the "Unsolved Mysteries" episode including a feature on the 1970 bank heist that resulted in the murder of Boston Patrolman Walter Schroeder. As far as we've been able to find out, Charlestown's Joe Smith hasn't hit the editor's cutting room floor yet! Joe, as you know, is a detective in the ballistics division of BPD and will have a cameo spot in the piece. VCRs are in the ready, Joe, to capture the moment!

• Happy Birthday Wishes . . . go out this week to Maureen Marx on Saturday, April 29th . . . Sal Giarratani on Monday, May 1st and last, but certainly never least . . . Mary MacInnes on Wednesday, May 3rd. Have a great year, folks!

• New Arrivals . . . Chelsea Meaghan born on April 22nd to Mary (of the Charlestown Post Office) and Dave Tanous, and welcomed home by her sister Stephanie . . . and . . . Rebecca Marie born on April 24th to Jerry (Charlestown Boys and Girls Club Director) and Theresa Steimel, and welcomed home by sister Katie. Warmest congrats to both families!

• Welcome Home Newlyweds . . . Mr. and Mrs. James Lynch of Constitution Co-op Apartments are just back from their honeymoon in Las Vegas. Many happy years of wedded bliss to you both!

• An Insult From A Neighbor Is One Thing . . . but when it comes from an outsider, it's a real slap in the face! . . . So states Neighborhood Council members referring to last week's piece in another paper (that will remain nameless), which referred to them as "FishCom" instead of as a "committee-of-the-whole." Council members have contacted the Patriot to voice displeasure at the reference. The name might be a "tongue twister," but if anyone came to the meetings — or perhaps stayed to the end of one — one would understand the meaning of the phrase!

• Motorists Take Note . . . with traffic problems mounting, maybe it's time for some motorists to go back to the driver's manual! Case in point . . . man crossing Main Street . . . ON THE CROSSWALK . . . was (by inches) nearly run over by a maroon van this week. Folks, PEDESTRIANS — not vehicles — have the right of way!!!! The license plate number was taken and police were notified. Hopefully some action will be taken.

• Talk About A Small World . . . Publisher Gloria and daughter Dorothy, while taking in the sites of Montreal during a recent getaway trip, were spotted by fellow residents Anne Marie and Michael Ferry shopping at Mont Royal! The Patriot hierarchy spares no expense to find out the goings on of fellow residents!

• Look Out Myrtle Beach . . . They're on their way back! That's right, folks, the men of the K. of C. are headed down for their annual (?) Golf Tourney! Stay tuned to see who will claim a hole in one!?! . . . We only print the FACTS, fellas . . . Have a great time!

• Once Again . . . In the continuing saga of Charlestown vs. Boston . . . the latest culprit is radio station WEEI who recently announced its move to the historic Schraffts Center in Charlestown, BUT lists its address as Boston 02129!!!! We're keeping a list, folks, and continue to check it! . . . Word from the Charlestown Working Theater is that Nancy has been kept busy with a bottle of white-out correcting all outgoing mail with a Boston address.

• Visiting Ship . . . Canadian submarine HMS OJIBWA will arrive at Pier 1 in the Charlestown Navy Yard tomorrow (April 28th) for a three day visit. Hours for visitation will be 2-4 p.m. on Saturday. Departure will take place on Monday at 10 a.m.

• Word From The Cape . . . Thanks to Monument Avenue resident Donna O'Brien, an article from the Cape Cod Times regarding development issues in Boston, and references to Charlestown such as "Gritty Charlestown, home of historic Bunker Hill and witness to racial violence when busing forced the integration of schools 15 years ago, is attracting affluent professionals. Working class natives are less than comfortable with the gentrified air these newcomers bring . . ." Be real . . . Pretty happy to see our "gritty" money down there, aren't they!? . . . It also quoted resident Tom Cunha . . . and even gave his age! Thank you, Donna! We really do appreciate your sending us the article!

• Just When You Thought There Was Nothing Left To Celebrate . . . Tomorrow is ARBOR DAY! Plant a tree . . . make a bird happy!

WHAT ABOUT THE HEATHEN?

Many people put off or refuse to trust Christ as Savior from sin because they find fault with God's plan of salvation, that requires all men to trust Jesus in order to be saved and go to heaven. They feel that a loving God would not send people in far off countries, that have never even heard the name of "Jesus Christ," to hell. But the Bible teaches that all men are witnessed to by God. God witnesses first through His Creation (Rom. 1:20-25). Then, Jesus "lighteth every man that cometh into the world" (John 1:9), but sinful man rejects that light (John 1:4,5). The Holy Spirit also is in the whole world to "reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment" (John 16:8), but men refuse to be convicted of their sin, that they knowingly commit (Rom. 2:14,15). If a heathen responds to God's witness, somehow God will see that he hears of Jesus (Acts 8:26-40). If you have put off salvation remember, the same God who is convicting the teaming millions in China and Africa, is also trying to convict you of your need to repent of sin and trust Jesus as your Savior. Why not be saved and become a Christian today. Come to Church.

My Thanks

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the O'Neil family and the members of the Matty O'Neil Scholarship Committee for selecting me as this year's recipient. With the help of this scholarship, the cost of my college education will be somewhat easier.

With sincere thanks,

Our Thanks

Charlestown Patriot
Gloria Conway, Editor

Dear Mrs. Conway:

On behalf of myself and my family, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the officers and members of the Bunker Hill Council 62 Knights of Columbus, the Charlestown Lions Club, the Charlestown Old Schoolboys' Association and the Daughters of Isabella No. 1 for their kind expression of sympathy shown to our family during the recent loss of my brother James P. Carr.

I also wish to express a special thanks to Gladys Gauthier and the Daughters of Isabella No. 1 for donating an American flag to the Knights of Columbus in his memory.

We wish to extend a special thanks to his many friends for the outpouring of sympathy shown to myself and my family at the time of our loss.

Sincerely,
Mary L. Cushman

Is This Town Pride?

When I moved to Charlestown two years ago, I felt very "proud" to live here. My grandmother was born and brought up in Charlestown. Although I am not a Townie, I felt like I was part of a community, and I cared and I felt safe here. I don't anymore.

Last Sunday morning I went out to my car, which was parked on a street in Charlestown, to find my windshield smashed. As I looked around I realized that I was not the only unfortunate victim on Saturday night. Cars with smashed windshields lined the street. What a disgrace to this community!

To the person or persons responsible, I realize, this is probably no big deal to you. But it is to me! Not only did my day get ruined in trying to resolve the problem, but I also lost a sense of community spirit and "town pride."

How can you be "proud" of where you live when at least 12 cars with smashed windshields face you on an otherwise beautiful day?

I hope the person or persons responsible are still "proud" of their town.

As for me — you wrecked my day!

A Charlestown Resident

Open Letter

Ms. Tricia Booker,

We are writing to you on behalf of your recent article published in last week's Patriot. We are offended and angry about what was said about our mother, who "was an alcoholic." First of all, Alcoholics Anonymous, Alateen, and Alanon are all anonymous organizations, which means just that — anonymous. Second of all, we would like to state that our mother is alive and well and doing just fine. What our mother is, was, or what she may become, is none of anybody's business, especially not the whole town's. If anything should appear in the Patriot about our mother, it should be that she is a decent elderly woman who worked hard all her life, brought up six girls by herself and did a great job of it — if we should say so ourselves. To be put off as "was an alcoholic" is not fair. So, Ms. Booker we do hope you make an apology to our dear mother, who did not deserve such a broad statement about her.

From her very proud daughters

The Reverend Richard H. Martin of the EMPOWER Counseling Center at 238 Bunker Hill St., Charlestown, has announced a Charlestown Creative Stress Management Workshop. The workshop will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on six Thursday nights during May and June at St. John's Parish House, 27 Devens St.

Starting on May 4, Dr. Martin invites residents to join with neighbors, friends and spouses to "beat the symptoms of stress and make the most of your life." During the six-week program participants will learn the symptoms and types of stress, track a stress-response to its source, sort out the stressors in marriage and family life, alter a stressful environment, discover life-planning to mobilize your resources — to name just a few of the areas to be addressed. In addition, participants will receive attention on their own particular over stresses.

Dr. Martin has developed a vision of supporting and assisting clergy and laity, having edited the Massachusetts Episcopal Clergy Association newsletter for eight years and serving for several years on the staff of the national Making a Difference Workshop — a course for those who minister.

An Episcopal priest, retreat and workshop leader, he has served four parishes for a total of 21 years. He has completed a Doctor of Ministry in Pastoral Counseling at Andover Newton Theological School in Newton Centre and works with his wife, the Reverend G. Jean Wright, in counseling individuals and couples and as co-therapists with families and groups.

The cost of the stress management workshop is $100 a person or $160 a couple, which includes a workbook and study materials as well as eligibility for a follow-up support group.

For information on registration, call 241-5433.

WEEI Makes A Move To The Historic Schrafft Center

WEEI Newsradio 590 AM, Boston's all-news radio station, has moved its facility to new state-of-the-art studios and offices at the historic Schrafft Center in Charlestown.

WEEI relocated the station from its former Prudential Center site, where it has been broadcasting for the past 25 years. The new million-dollar facility, designed by Cooper, Carlson, Duy and Ritchie of Kansas City, Mo., includes the latest technology, with computer-controlled touch screens for on-air operations, digital audio routing and Newstar's electronic newsroom. In addition to upgrading every aspect of the 17,000-square-foot facility, a new Boston Celtics production studio was constructed, as WEEI serves as the flagship station for a 54-station network.

WEEI's Vice President and General Manager Michael Wheeler stated that, "WEEI is relocating to the Schrafft Center because of the need to increase the newsroom area and for the opportunity to employ the latest in broadcast equipment, enhancing our overall capability of bringing the latest local, national and international news to our listeners."

The building is also strategically located directly between the Boston Garden for Celtics broadcasts and WEEI's transmitter towers in Medford.

Robert J. Ciolek of Charlestown was named executive director of the Boston Water and Sewer Commission. Currently the city's budget director, Ciolek will join the commission on May 1. He replaces David L. Conlon, who resigned recently to take a position in the private sector. "Bob's strong background in financial management and extensive knowledge of water and wastewater issues will clearly benefit our ratepayers," said A. Raymond Tye, chairman of the agency's board of commissioners. Prior to his appointment as director of the office of budget and program evaluation in 1986, Ciolek had been the deputy director for fiscal affairs since 1984. He is also the administration and finance committee chairman and a Massachusetts Water Resources Authority board member.

Ciolek, a Massachusetts native, was the recipient of the Governor Francis S. Sargent Award in 1985 by Boston Harbor Associates for his efforts to cleanup Boston Harbor. He was presented a special award in 1987 by the Massachusetts Municipal Association for the quality of Boston's FY '88 budget.

A graduate of Boston University Law School and Rutgers University, Ciolek was a captain in the U.S. Army and served in Vietnam. He was awarded the Silver Star, Bronze Star and Army Commendation Medal.

"I am very happy that the commissioners have appointed me as the executive director. I look forward to working with them and the staff on a broad range of issues and concerns, the most noteworthy of which is the task of assisting in the cleanup of Boston Harbor at the lowest possible cost to the people of Boston," said Ciolek.

"I also want to thank Mayor Flynn for his confidence in this office. It has been a pleasure to work for

BOYS' BALL HOCKEY PLAYOFFS

Sunday, April 23

Game 1: Maulers 7, Newtowne 5

In the first semifinal game, the Maulers came from behind to fight off Newtowne and make it to the championship series.

The Maulers scored first, with Peter Enos getting the goal. Newtowne scored the next two on goals by Mike Flammioni and Brian Davis; but Jamsie Cotter scored for the Maulers, tying the game at 2-2. Mark Marino put Newtowne ahead 3-2, but Cotter tied it again. Davis then scored to give Newtowne a 4-3 halftime lead.

Tommy Carroll started the second half scoring, giving Newtowne a 5-3 lead. But Cotter finished off his hat trick to cut it to 5-4, and Danny Sullivan, Mike Moloney and Enos scored the last three goals for the 7-5 Maulers' victory.

Game 2: J.A.F.T. II, Main Street 7

Danny Hooley and Billy Kempton scored four goals each to lead J.A.F.T. to an 11-7 win over Main Street and a championship matchup with the Maulers.

Hooley scored the game's first goal for a 1-0 J.A.F.T. lead, but Danny Tucker and Seano Scales answered quickly for a 2-1 Main Street lead. Kempton tied it, but Stephen Smith put Main Street ahead 3-2. Albie Titcomb and Stephen Mahan scored to give J.A.F.T. a 4-3 halftime lead.

In the second half, Kempton put J.A.F.T. ahead 5-3, but Tucker closed it to 5-4. J.A.F.T. then scored three in a row on goals by Hooley, Titcomb and Kempton for an 8-4 lead. Sean Fitz closed it to 8-5, but Hooley made it 9-5. The teams continued to trade goals as Scales scored for Main Street, Kempton for J.A.F.T., Fitz again for Main Street to make it 10-7, and Hooley finished off the scoring for the 11-7 J.A.F.T. victory.

CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES (2-out-of-3)

Game 1: Monday, April 24

Maulers 8, J.A.F.T. 6

Jamsie Cotter had a hat trick to lead the Maulers to an 8-6 victory, avenging its only regular season loss and taking a 1-0 lead in the best-of-3 series.

Cotter had the game's first goal, but J.A.F.T. got the next three on goals by Billy Kempton, Danny Hooley and Kirk Titcomb for a 3-1 lead. The Maulers tied it on goals by Peter Enos and Cotter, but Albie Titcomb scored a power-play goal just before the half for a 4-3 J.A.F.T. lead.

Cotter tied the game at 4-4 to start the second half, but Kirk Titcomb's second goal made it 5-4 for J.A.F.T. Danny Sullivan and Mike Moloney gave the Maulers a 6-5 lead, and Kempton soon tied it up for J.A.F.T. Sullivan and Enos scored the final two goals for the 8-6 Maulers' win.

Despite the high score, goalies Todd Fisher (J.A.F.T.) and Billy McKillop (Maulers) repeatedly made big saves to keep the game close and keep their teams in it.

Game 2: Tuesday, April 25

Maulers 10, J.A.F.T. 1

In game two of the series, the undermanned J.A.F.T. team was overmatched by the Maulers, who posted a 10-1 victory for a sweep of the championship series.

J.A.F.T. played the entire game with only five players, and the Maulers slowly wore them down. J.A.F.T. goalie Todd Fisher faced many good shots, and thanks to some great saves the Maulers' lead was only 4-0 at the half. The Maulers' goals were scored by Brian Stillman, Mike Moloney, Danny Sullivan and Donald Doris.

Billy McKillop made some big saves early in the game to keep J.A.F.T. from scoring.

In the second half, new J.A.F.T. goalie Jamie McLaughlin was bombarded and the Maulers got the lead up to 7-0 on goals by Sullivan and two by Jamsie Cotter. Todd Fisher broke McKillop's shutout for a 7-1 score. Stillman sandwiched two goals around Moloney's second goal of the game for a 10-1 final score.

'The Three Spinners' Come To Charlestown

The Loon and Heron Repertory Co. will perform its original musical adaptation of the classic Grimm Brothers' tale, "The Three Spinners." Sponsored by the Charlestown Branch Library and H.P. Hood as part of the Reading Is Fundamental program, "The Three Spinners" will be presented free of charge at the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main St., on Thursday, May 11 at 3:30 p.m.

"The Three Spinners" is a delightful retelling of the Grimm Brothers' tale celebrating the determined, spirited "girl who would not spin." This exciting blend of music, action, costumes and sets has proved a sure-fire hit for the entire family.

The Loon and Heron Repertory Co. is generously supported in part by grants from the Boston Globe Foundation, Bank of Boston, the Eugene F. Fay Trust, administered by Boston Safe Deposit and Trust and the A.C. Ratskesky Foundation. St. Clement's School Parents To Meet

Parents of Charlestown students who attend St. Clement's School in Somerville are invited to attend an informal meeting on Thursday, April 27 at 7 p.m. at St. Mary's Parish Hall on Winthrop Street.

Refreshments will be served. All parents are requested to attend.

September 8, 1969 the award was for $500. A series of adjustments brought it up to $1,250 for the 1988 recipient, Kerrie Marie Fitzpatrick, who currently attends Skidmore College.

Henceforth the lucky youths of the town will be eligible for a Quinn scholarship package totalling $2,250.

All associated with the fund are appreciative of the
