

B.R.A. Approves Plans For Elderly Housing

by Marianne Martin

The Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) Board, meeting Thursday, July 12, 1984, approved plans to redevelop the former St. Mary's school and adjacent garage into 120 units of elderly housing.

The City Square Elderly, Inc., a subsidiary of the Boston Catholic Archdiocese, in joint venture with Co-Operative Services, Inc. of Detroit, Michigan, plan to redevelop the former grammar school and BRA parcel, which houses the adjacent Cataldo's Garage.

The plan calls for renovating the school into 31 units of housing and building an L shaped extension onto the building, which will be seven stories high on Warren Street and five stories on Park Street.

The reason for the differences in building height, according to developers, is an attempt to blend with the character of the neighborhood.

The plan also allows for eight of the required 24 parking spaces by law. In order to meet the insufficient number, representatives Fr. Michael Grogen, of the Archdiocese, and architects Joe Kelly and Ed Goddard, from Co-Operative Services, state that a neighbor has agreed to supply the additional 16 spaces. The representatives also stated the Board of Appeal is working to get space on Park Street.

One Charlestown resident, Jim Bradley, stated that while he was not opposed to the development of the parcel or elderly housing, he did feel the project was "overscaled."

"This is a seven story building in a three story neighborhood," Bradley told the Board.

The issue of inadequate parking also concerned Bradley, since tenants, employees, and visitors will require parking.

Another Charlestown resident, Ken Roach, on the other hand, was "delighted" with the plan.

Roach stated subsidized elderly housing is an "exercise in legal good justice" because "many of the elderly are faced with the facts of higher rents."

According to Fr. Grogen, the project will "fill a need in Charlestown" which "is the second most needy community for elderly housing."

Grogen called St. Mary's "a linch pin" since it is located between City Square and "fine residential sections. What happens to this property is a real anchor for the redevelopment of this part of Charlestown."

Cataldo's Garage which is housed on the BRA parcel adjacent to St. Mary's, according to Grogen, "is a real eye sore."

Grogen called the immediate area "frightening for those who live there. The development across the street has had many fires."

By redeveloping the school and garage, Grogen stated that this housing is filling both the need to clean up the area as well as provide housing for the elderly.

The Board approved a tax agreement which will allow the Archdiocese to make payments to the city rather than pay taxes.

Presently, Grogen stated a special arrangement has been made for the funding and management of the project with Co-Operative Services, Inc. of Detroit, Michigan.

Pre-Kindergarteners Wanted In Charlestown

School officials in Boston are looking for four-year-olds to attend the newly reconstituted pre-kindergarten program of the public school system during the coming school year.

Kindergarten enrollment for children born before September 1, 1980 is taking place now. A parent can visit any of the nine district offices across the city or also school headquarters at 26 Court Street downtown Boston. A copy of the child's birth certificate and two proofs of address must be bought by the parent enrolling her or his child.

The pre-kindergarten program is available at the Harvard/Kent Schools on Bunker Hill Street and the Warren-PreScott School on School Street, Charlestown.

The pre-kindergarten program, known as K-I, will be offered on a half-day basis only. Funding is not available for Extended Day Kindergartens at the Kindergarten-I level this school year.

Children also can apply for the citywide magnet schools such as the Curley School in Jamaica Plain, the Trotter School in Roxbury, the Haley School on American Legion Highway, the Ohrenberger School in Georgetown and the Jackson-Mann School in Allston.

For assistance call the School Information Center at 726-6555 or any district office. District office phone numbers can be found on page 6 of the blue-pages section of the Boston Telephone Directory. Registration for five year-olds also continues. The program for five-year old children, known as K-II, is available on both the half-day and extended-day basis.

Voke To Sponsor Hypertension Clinic

Representative Richard A. Voke, in cooperation with the Boston Visiting Nurse Association (VNA), will hold a free hypertension clinic on Wednesday, July 25, from noon until 3:00 p.m. at the VNA Office, Bunker Hill Mall, 5 Austin Street, Charlestown.

Representative Voke and the VNA nurses will be on hand to greet the public, take blood pressure readings, and give all participants information on the importance of maintaining proper blood pressure levels.

More than 35 million adults have high blood pressure. Many have the disease without knowing it.

"Taking preventive measures to stay healthy is important for everyone," said Voke, "which is why we hope that the residents of Charlestown will stop by to say 'hello,' and to have this important test conducted."

Kennedy Board To Meet

There will be a meeting of the Kennedy Center's Board of Directors on Monday evening, July 23, 1984 at 7:00 p.m. at the Mary Colbert Apartments, 20 Deven Street, Charlestown.

All members are urged to attend and the public is welcome.

Graduates From Culinary Arts Program

Wendie Gerber of Charlestown, recently graduated from Newbury Junior College with an Associate in Applied Science Degree in Culinary Arts. She was one of twenty-seven students to graduate during a majestic ceremony featuring a speech given by Julia Child. This inaugural ceremony marked the graduation of the first students to complete Newbury's Culinary Arts Program, established on the College's Brookline Campus in September, 1981.

In a special tribute to Newbury's budding reputation in the field of culinary arts, Mrs. Child noted that she had "high hopes that Newbury would be the best school of its kind in the country." Referring to Boston as a mecca for Culinary Arts professionals and students, she warned the Newbury graduates that they were in pursuit of a career that would "demand their full strength, creativity, and energy."

Newbury's Culinary Arts Program currently has more than 200 students enrolled, and the college expects the program to reach its capacity of 450 students next year.

"SEX BEFORE EIGHT, OR IT'S TOO LATE"

Decent people will be repulsed by our headline, which is the motto of a West Coast group calling itself the Rene Guyon Society, and few of our readers know (or know anybody that knows) members of the infamous Northern American Man-Boy Association (NAMBLA), "men who pray on young boys" and who "fight for their 'right' to molest children" ... but they're there, along with child-porn magazines, "creeps" extolling the "beauty of father-daughter sex," ad infinitum, ad nauseum, however, something is finally being done about the rampant pornography abounding everywhere; of which the proceeding are an outgrowth.

We feel too little has been said of the recent Anti-Porn measure signed into law by President Reagan. On that occasion, he stated that "there's no one lower or more vicious than a pornographer exploiting children," and he capped it off by placing a new commission to study pornography into effect.

The new law gives prosecutors more clout, and * Extends coverage to children protected under the act from 16 to 18. * Allows prosecutors, with court permission, to wiretap the telephones of suspected pornographers using children. * Permits the government to seize the profits, pictures and equipment of such pornographers. * Make reproduction, not just distribution, of pornographic materials involving children a crime. * Increases the fine for first-time offenders from $10,000 to $100,000, and * Eliminates the need for prosecutors to prove that pornography involving children obscene.

Among those leading the attack in a positive, constructive way is the Reverend Jerry Kirk, pastor of College Hill Presbyterian Church in Cincinnati. He has launched an all-out ecumenical campaign to combat pornography, and has been joined in this effort thus far by John Cardinal Krol of Philadelphia, the Knights of Columbus and those Morality in Media who are tackling this serious problem in coordination with the National Consultation on Pornography and Obscenity, Inc.

Much has already been accomplished, of course, by such groups as Charles Keating's Citizens for Decency through Law, Reverend Donald E. Wildmon's National Federation for Decency and those of Valley Christian University at Clovis, California, but the bottom line here is ME and YOU. In truth, haven't we indulged this industry by allowing the likes of Playboy, Playgirl, Hustler, Penthouse, and too many more, to exist unchecked? Didn't we shrink under charges of "censorship" and "consenting adults should be able to read whatever they want?" We all stuck our heads in the sand while it went from and under-the-counter trade to a now flagrant on-the-stand, blatantly exposed, smut business putting on airs of respectability by featuring well-known persons (to their discredit) along with the centerfolds! Through our laxity, we have allowed it to filter down to the detriment of our young. For shame!

Citizens in Abrams, Wisconsin; Bellview, Ohio, No. Highlands; California; Goldsboro, No. Carolina and Stoughton, Mass. have successfully closed down smut shops in their areas, and such major organizations as Marriott and American Motors have taken big steps in the right direction in making decisions to no longer advertise in porno magazines.

It can be done, so let's do it. Let's clean up America -

THE ARCHBISHOP RESPONDS

In a letter of March 23rd, we asked Archbishop Law "whether a Roman Catholic could endorse, support and/or vote for a political candidate who favors abortion?" Bishop Law has graciously replied, but limited space precludes sharing same with you in the column. And please let us know whether you think we have the "yes" or "no" answer we sought.

Married Recently

MRS. STEPHEN AZIZ

On May 20, 1984 Deborah Glynele Lee, daughter of Mr. Bruce Lee of Charlestown and the late Josephine (Lee) Systema, was married to Stephen George Aziz, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Aziz of Leominster. The couple exchanged vows during a double-ring nuptial Mass celebrated by Reverend John Doran at Our Lady Help of Christians in West Concord.

Attending the bride was Cynthia A. Aziz, sister of the groom. The groom had his cousin Michael J. Aziz, as his best man. Thomas D. Prieto and Thomas H. Soszynski shared the ushering duties. Fathers of the bride and groom were lecturers. Paul R. Aziz, cousin of the groom, was the server.

The bride was fashioned in a crepe de chine gown, embellished with appliques of chantilly lace and seeded pearls. The frock had a Queen Anne neckline, long sleeves, a fitted bodice and a cathedral train. She donned a matching satin picture hat with bustled tulle veil.

A small band of the Charlestown Colonial Militia heralded the couple's reunion as the newlyweds lead their guest in a horse drawn carriage to the Nashawtuc Country Club in Concord. At the close of the reception the couple bid farewell to their friends and family as they floated away in a hot air balloon.

The bride graduated from Rich South High School, Rich Park, Illinois in 1976. She received her bachelor of science in park administration and business, summa cum laude, from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst in 1980. Currently, Deborah is a supervisor with the Massachusetts Department of Forests and Parks.

The groom graduated from Notre Dame High School, Fitchburg, in 1973 receiving his bachelor of arts from St. Anselm's College in 1977. At present he is a Captain with the U. S. Army and is now assigned to the 187th BDE at Fort Devens.

Following a sixteen day honeymoon in Hawaii, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Aziz are residing in Concord.

With the wide range of mortgage plans and interest rates available, it's not surprising that a lot of prospective homeowners are confused. And while many banks are more than willing to give you a mortgage, it takes Newworld Bank to give you the right one.

To begin with, we won't fool you with negative amortization or attractive "teaser" rates that can increase as much as 5% after the first year. We offer competitive variable interest rates that cannot increase nor decrease by more than 2% per year.

And unlike many of our competitors, we offer a construction/permanent financing plan. A convenient plan that automatically rolls your construction financing into a permanent mortgage at the end of six months.

We'll guarantee to conduct your entire mortgage procedure (application, rate commitment and closing) within 30 days. Which is an assurance that most other banks can't provide.

For more information about our Newworld mortgages, drop by any of our convenient Newworld Bank locations. Because whether you're building or buying, no one knows more about the new world of banking than Newworld.

Facts About Drugs — F.A.D.

by Mimi White

What are the symptoms of marijuana use that every person should recognize?

The smell of marijuana is a sweet odor like burning rope. This may be smelled in clothes or a room, or a car. The roach (butt) from a marijuana joint may appear around, as well as roach clips which are holders for the joint. Seeds or leaves are often in coat linings or pockets. The other paraphernalia around might be rolling papers, "pipes" or "bongs" as they are called. Visine is often used to cover up red eyes; and, of course, incense, room deodorizers, or breath fresheners to mask the smell.

The behavior of the pot user often changes. There is a lack of ambition, and a drop in the quality of school work. The attention span is shorter and strongly inappropriate over-reaction to mild criticism. If you notice a new secretiveness about money or a disappearance of valuables, there might be a need to be suspicious. And, of course, pot smokers often neglect their appearance, and seem to care less for the feelings of others.

What can you do, if you notice these things? Talk to your kid about what you are noticing, and get information for yourself. The Charlestown Library has material on drugs. Take a chance and bring the subject up to the parents of your adolescent friends. Working with others is always helpful.

CITY GARDENS: Insects In The Summer Garden

by Barbara Mabeigan

Summer is here and with it comes certain insects to annoy the home gardener. Most insects in Boston are not a threat to gardens, but there are some for which we should be prepared. They arrive on schedule in the summer and threaten specific crops.

One such pest is the Spinach Leaf Miner. This insect causes a lot of problems for gardeners trying to grow spinach, beets and chard. They are usually seen on spinach in spring but are present throughout the summer infesting beets and chard. The leaves of these plants become riddled by the tunneling of small maggots. These maggots hatch from minute white eggs which are laid on the underside of the leaves by a small gray fly. Inspection of plants twice a week and the removal of infested portions of the leaf will provide control. During your inspections, rub the white eggs off the underside of leaves for added control.

A second summer pest is the Squash Vine Borer, which becomes a problem when squash vines begin to run along the ground. They usually attack squash but can also cause losses of cucumbers and melons. Inspection of plants which have suddenly wilted will reveal holes in the stem, with soggy material protruding. With a little luck, poking into the wound with a wire or knife will kill the borer. This has limited success because the plant may be too far gone, and because just one surviving borer can kill a plant. An easier approach to growing summer squash is to plant after the vine borer's egg-laying season. Plant after the first week in July and use varieties that require less than 60 days to mature.

Aphids or plant lice can be bothersome on most vegetables. However, they rarely cause enough problems to make control necessary. If control is needed, a hand spray from a hose will wash most aphids off the plants, and few will return. From mid-summer through fall, aphid problems may occur with the cabbage family.

Tomato hornworms can be bothersome, but seldom jeopardize the crop. Closely inspect the plants, and pick the well-camouflaged green caterpillars off the tomato plants. A commercial product containing the bacteria Bacillus thuringiensis can be used for safe control of the pest.

For more information and fact sheets on insect and disease control, contact the Suffolk County Cooperative Extension Service Urban Gardening Program at 227-8818, or drop by the office at 150 Causeway Street, Room 803, Boston.

Monies Allocated For Training Field Restorations

Mayor Raymond L. Flynn has announced that $884,020 will be spent from the Edward Ingersoll Browne fund to pay for 14 beautification and historic restoration projects in Boston's neighborhoods.

Included in the appropriation, is $23,000 for the purchase and installation of 12 benches to provide needed seating space in the Training Field (Winthrop Square); the replacement of a cast stone urn; and the installation of 14 pedestrian ramps at the park and on bordering streets, to provide handicap access.

The Mayor said, "When we think of historic Boston, we usually think of many famous sites in and around downtown. But each of our neighborhoods has its historic places.

"Every neighborhood has its contribution to make our long and proud history, and I'm glad that we have been able to use money from the Browne fund to restore them," concluded Mayor Flynn.

225 BUNKER HILL STREET, CHARLESTOWN

by Marianne Martin
Massachusetts Department of Public Works (DPW) officials state that the construction of the Chelsea/Water Street Connector is moving along schedule and should meet the November 30, 1984 completion date "barring any unforeseen problems." Traffic has already opened to Ramp 2 of the Tobin Bridge and according to John Taajes, DPW Engineer, Water Street should open for two-way traffic "by end of this week or first of next week." Al Romano, DPW Supervisor, added if there were a delay in the project which resulted in an extension of the completion date the road may be opened regardless, and the remaining work finished at a later date. The DPW is waiting for traffic signals which are to be placed on the road, but Romano says, "these take so long to get from the supplier." Once received, Romano stated that several City Hall channels must approve the traffic signals.

Among the "unforeseen problems" states Romano are such items as a strike, early winter, delay in equipment, or the like.

John Taajes, Engineer for the Project, warned that neighbors in the immediate area may experience some "vibrations" for anywhere between three and seven days as a result of the driving of sheets and construction of an extension wall.

"There will be two days for sheeting and maybe five days of pounding, but this is not a continuous thing," informed Taajes. Fortunately, Taajes also stated that this is the end of "this type of noise."

Chelsea/Water Connector Update

Named To Board Of Trustees

Attorney Joseph T. Cefalo, Jr. of One Cordis Street, Charlestown, has been appointed to a three-year term as a member of the Board of Trustees of the prestigious Massachusetts Horticultural Society at the annual meeting of the association.

Cefalo, who is also a developer, stated that he felt "very honored" to have been invited to become a trustee of the 150-plus-year Society.

He said that his business and horticultural background, as a third generation florist, will assist his membership in the society.

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society is currently involved in a major renovation project at its headquarters at Massachusetts Avenue in Boston. Attorney Cefalo has been assigned to the Finance and Audit Committee of the Society and looks forward to becoming more involved with the business aspects of the Society.

In addition to his project developments and horticultural activities, Attorney Cefalo is chairman of the Board of Directors of the Charlestown Cooperative Bank.

$100 For Every Patriot Point

As the New England Patriots meet the N.Y. Giants in the first pre-season game on Friday, August 3, every point scored by the Patriots against rivals during the four pre-season and 16 regular games, will mean $100 for the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston.

Last year the Patriots scored 333 points and Frito-Lay, maker of Lay's and Ruffles brand potato chips and Fritos brand corn chips, donated $33,300 to the non-profit community organization of more than 5,000 youngsters.

This is the ninth year that Frito-Lay has teamed with the Patriots in this worthy community project, according to Philip Thomas, Frito-Lay Division Sales Manager. During this period, a total of $334,600 has been donated to the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston.

Attend Hockey Camp In Colorado Springs

Billy Nolan and John Dillon recently left for the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colorado. The all-expense paid trip was made possible by Eddie Johnson and the Charlestown Youth Hockey Association and Joe Flaherty and the Charlestown Board of Trade.

The boys were chosen along with 78 other boys from throughout the country, who are considered to be the best 16 and 17 year old hockey players in the nation and are being brought together so that the A.H.A.U.S. can evaluate the talent.

This year's camp is being directed by Frank Black of Pittsburg, PA. The counselor for the camp is Paul Kohout. The coaching directors are Charles Karulek from Dallas, Texas; Arnie MacDonald from Bedford, N.H.; John Mickler from North Tonawanda, N.Y.; and Bob O'Connor from Edina, MN. Jack Blackerwick, who assisted the 1984 U.S. Olympic Team in training and conditioning, will serve as an off-ice instructor for the camp.

Bill Nolan and John Dillon have been playing together for ten years and are products of Charlestown Youth Hockey. They started as Mites in 1974 and finished up this year as Midgets.

In an interview from Colorado, Billy said he had never seen so many Pro and College Scouts before. John said he has never seen so many talented boys on one sheet of ice. It's no wonder that 26 percent of all the American boys in the 1982-1983 N.H.L. draft, came out of the Midget Elite camp. A total of 46 former Midget Elite camp participants played on N.C.A.A. Division I hockey teams last year. Out of the nine boys picked in the state to attend the Elite Camp, two of them - Nolan and Dillon - came from Charlestown.

Coleman Speech Sets Tone For Campaign

The Campaign for State Representative in Charlestown and Chelsea intensified significantly last week when Candidate Phil Coleman offered a stinging criticism of State Representative Richard Voke's performance of the past two years and termed the legislator as "one who sits back to see who complains before he reacts to anything."

Coleman's criticism came during a "Summer Dance" sponsored by the candidate's Election Committee on Friday evening, July 13. The fundraising event drew some 425 Charlestown residents and a scattering of Chelsea residents to the Knights of Columbus on West School Street.

A member of Coleman's Election Committee, Edward "Red" Evers of Pearl Street, says the decidedly negative appraisal of Representative Voke's incumbency will set the tone for the remaining weeks of the campaign. Evers believes Coleman's strategy of emphasizing needed changes, while continually addressing Voke's deficiencies, is the kind of focus that will allow all voters to make a more informed decision on Primary Day, September 18.

"We're definitely on the move now," adds Evers, who has been a vocal and active supporter of Coleman's effort since the Charlestown candidate announced his campaign last January.

Coleman began his prepared remarks by stressing his desire "to do a better job of giving the District better representation." He chastised Voke for the practice of spending more time in Charlestown and Chelsea during campaign months and described the Representative's sudden surge in visibility as "an old political trick."

Extending the criticism of Voke's campaigning tactics even further, Coleman said "the State Representative should be in both communities twelve months of the year and should devote full-time responses to constituent needs even when the Legislature adjourns for vacation and holiday recesses."

But the most effective and provocative part of Coleman's speech involved a symbolic reference to the Emmons-Horrigan and O'Neil Memorial Skating Rink on Union Street. There, he adds, "the recent renovation came only after years of protest by local residents and yearly refusals by the State to properly maintain the heavily used facility. Coleman says Voke's approach to representing Charlestown and Chelsea in the State House is identical to the way the State handled problems at the Rink; the response comes only after extended protest of documented, well-known community problems."

Drawing on his symbolism of the Skating Rink, Coleman also noted to the hushed audience that "the American flag flying from the flag pole aside of the rink's main entrance remains permanently at 'half-mast' because the rope and pulley have yet to be repaired in the last twelve months." He said the dis-repair of the flag pole "is where the people of this District are when it comes to representation at the State House.....at half-mast."

Voke drew additional criticism from the challenger Coleman for his responses to the City Square Asphalt Plant proposal, on-going environmental problems throughout both communities and, in particular, his response to the recent collision of an oil tanker and dump truck near the Beacon Street off-ramp of the Mystic-Tobin Bridge. Coleman cites the three issues as examples of the resiliency displayed by Charlestown and Chelsea residents in spite of what he called a 'politics as usual' attitude on the part of Voke."

Following Coleman's remarks, Evers commented that "the campaign for State Representative is now at the forefront of 'street-talk' in Charlestown." He describes Coleman's response among Chelsea voters as "positive and very encouraging" and senses a growing surge of support here in Charlestown for the challenger, particularly after Coleman's impressive appearance in the recent Bunker Hill Day Parade and publication of his $1,000 donation to the Parade Fund.

"I think more people on both sides of the Bridge are beginning to see that this can be a 'winnable' campaign for us," adds Evers, who notes the Coleman campaign organization is expanding for the big push in August. He notes plans for daily campaign appearances by the candidate which will be supplemented by an increase in advertising and weekly discussions of related issues in the Charlestown Patriot and Chelsea Weekly News.

Adds Coleman: "We're on target. We have a message that voters have begun to accept and the results on September 18 will show. I am confident, that our message is the right one for this District."

Two Graduates Honored By The R.T. French Company

Two area high school graduates, Cathy Boucher of 54 Old Ironside Way, and Susan E. Meena of 9 Elm Street, both of Charlestown, were each recently honored by the R.

T. French Co. of Rochester, NY as the 1984 recipients of the Home Economics Award for their respective schools. Boucher was selected as the winner from Madison Park High School and Meena from Charlestown High School.

Each student received a $50 United States Savings Bond and an engraved piece of jewelry from French's which each year recognizes outstanding achievement by high school seniors in locations where it maintains manufacturing facilities.

The recipients of the annual award are selected by the school faculty on the basis of interest and ability in home economics, overall scholastic ability and traits of character and citizenship.

Travaglini Responds To Sale Of Schrafft's

BOSTON CITY COUNCILLOR Robert Travaglini is shown responding to questions from members of the media regarding the six million dollar sale of the Schrafft's Candy Company in Charlestown to the Flatley Corporation of Braintree. Thomas Flatley, the president of the Flatley Corporation, said he hopes to spend fifteen million dollars to convert the 600,000 square foot structure into a center which would provide 800 - 1,000 new jobs for Boston.

Mayor Ray Flynn, hailed the sale at the press conference stating, "this is an exciting new venture. The project will provide jobs for the residents of Boston and bring more business into our neighborhoods." Councillor Travaglini commented that "all the essential ingredients for a successful business venture are existent. Mr. Flatley should be commended for his courage and foresight as an investor and for his sensitivity to the needs of our community."

The Graveyard A.C.

by Charlie McGonagle

The question as to the greatest team ever assembled, all sports included, has been long the local point of many parlor and barroom discussions and arguments. There are those who would favor the Yankees of Ruth and Gherig, or of DiMaggio, or even of Mantle, Maris and Berra. Others claim the title for the Celtics of Russell, Cousy and Sharman. The Green Bay Packers of Hornung and Taylor will receive votes from still others. But buried beneath these talented tandems and their accompanying tradition, lies a collection of athletes whose accomplishments may one day receive the recognition so long overdue them. They were the Graveyard A. C.

Now, they are probably remembered only by those who performed proudly beneath the maroon and gold colors of their time. The jerseys, financed by selling ten cent chances door to door, were purchased at Bucky Warren's and worn by the likes of Danny Flanagan, Jack "Cooka" Lynch, Dan Shea, Jimmy Kelly, Peter Sullivan, Jimmy Burke, and others of us from the Elm-Mystic Street area.

In our minds, there was never a question of our greatness, for in the autumn months, simply putting on that maroon and gold jersey completed a transformation of magnanimous proportions. We became the feared and talented. We became the Graveyard A. C.

Our "Field" was that expanse of land which reaches from Bunker Hill Street to what was then the upper level of the old Prescott School yard. That it was dotted by ancient headstones bothered us not. To the contrary, they provided excellent, though dangerous, sidelines markers. The distance between any two rows of the marble markers dictated the width of our field.

The thought that our actions might be considered sacrilegious never entered the ten and eleven year old minds we possessed in those days of 1949 and 1950. In an area where concrete was the predominant ground surface, the cemetery provided us with our only grassy footing.

Not once in our two years of existence did an inhabitant of our "Home Field" complain. Of two things we could always be certain. Our "Home Team" fans would always be with us, but they would never be noisy.

It was not long before we came to realize that home games would be few and far between. More than once we were told, "Yeah, we'll play ya' Saturday mornin' at ten, but we ain't playing 'ya' in no graveyard."

When we did get to play at home, we held a decided advantage on the opposition especially on pass plays. Although we had but three running plays, cross buck first man through, cross buck second man through and cross buck third man through, we had dozens of pass plays.

"Cooka," the quarterback, would step back, hands on hips, and look upfield. "Teamback" he'd shout. Tightly, we would huddle to hear his strategy.

"Fake cross buck first man through. Charlie down and in-Cochrane. Break."

The play would develop quickly. "Cooka" fakes to Danny, then throws, seemingly without looking, to a spot unoccupied by friend or foe. Just before falling incomplete, though, the ball is in my hands. First down! Next play!

"Fake cross buck second man through. Danny down and out - Gibson." Another pass, same results.

In the cemetery "Cooka" was flawless just so long as his receivers had the headstones memorized. If I could remember to cut as I reached Gibson's stone, "Cooka" would have the ball there.

We were a bit more vulnerable when playing away games. As a matter of fact, I cannot recall a victory on the road, even though we always made it a point to go to bed a bit earlier on the night before we had to "travel."

On those particular Saturdays, we always met in the graveyard at nine. Our cardboard helmets and shoulder pads were tucked in our maroon and gold jerseys with the sleeves tied in just a way to form a carrying bag.

With our equipment slung over our shoulders, we would "travel" proudly to Carney Court, or O'Meara Court or the "Trainny" to meet the opposition. Any place where a small patch of grass might be found.

We had learned not to waste out time heading for the "Oily" or the "Neck." The "big kids," some of them as old as fourteen and fifteen, played there on Saturday. Even on the one occasion we scheduled a game at seven in the morning, they were there by nine to move us out before we were able to finish. It just wasn't worth the effort.

Those were the times of the corner teams. Every corner had a name, and every corner had a team. It was before the days of Little League and Pop Warner. It was a time when a kid could go to a park, be it any empty lot, a cemetery, or a real ball field and play all day long. It was a time when there was a place for everybody who might want to play. It was the day of the "Official Catcher" and of scrub, a game where you play every position before earning your time at bat.

It was a time when kids were playing for the sake of playing. Whether they won or lost was not important. Heck, in the game of scrub, probably the most popular baseball game of that time, a score was not even kept.

I have long been of the opinion that if only those who would win would compete, there would be one man in every race, and one team in every league.

Maybe the Graveyard A. C. wasn't the greatest team of all times, but in 1949 and 1950 you could not find anybody who might convince us of that.

Our Thanks

No words can ever express, no gesture can ever convey the gratitude we feel in our hearts to all who supported us, either by thought, word, deed or prayer, through these difficult past few weeks. Ours was a happy ending, but we never could have endured without that support.

Thank you,
Ralph, Elena and Ralphie Rizzo

Thank You, Michelle

Our thanks to Michelle Sodergren for alerting the community on the proposal to construct an Asphalt Plant in City Square and for the work that she did in gathering statistics and

A Warning To Dog Owners

To all Dog Owners in Charlestown;

As an animal lover and a pet owner for many years, I warn you, please do not allow your pet out unattended, not even outside your own house.

This is my second letter to the Patriot concerning the stealing of dogs in this town. As I said before, we have a man stealing dogs seven days a week (yes, even on Sunday). This person has been reported to the Police and the Law Enforcement Division of the MSPCA, who at one time came into town and checked him out, but took no action, even though they agreed that there was a suspicion on their part that he was stealing dogs and selling them to Labs.

I observed him yesterday (Sunday) on Phipps Street trying to steal two dogs, one of which was a beautiful Irish Setter. But for my intervention, he would have had them.

When I am told that he must be "caught in the act", I can't believe it. It would be a very simple matter to catch him. He is out there every day stealing somebody's beloved pet.

If there is any doubt as to the truth of this matter, just consider the number of ads for lost pets from Charlestown which have appeared in the Patriot and the Boston Globe.

Boys And Girls Club Talent Show

by Carole Marks, Social Recreation Director

SANDRA CASSIDY

The Charlestown Clubhouse of the Boys and Girls Club held their Fifth Annual Talent Show recently in the G.O. Building on High Street.

The youngsters had practiced for the past five months and really worked hard to make this year's Talent Show a success. Many of the dancers had received instruction, but some of the acts were from youngsters' own imaginations. Those who participated deserve a lot of credit and I hope that they will be back again next year.

I would also like to thank the mothers that were there to help out. I could not have done the show without their assistance.

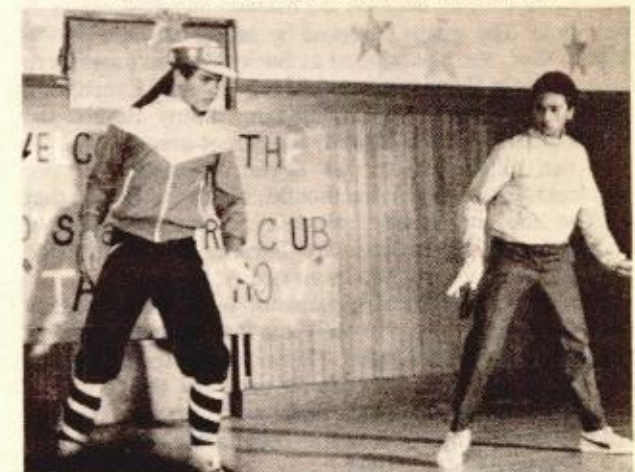

Also, I would like to give special thanks to Paul Newell and Charlie Clabaugh for taping our show for cable television.
