Dread

March 27, 2008 by CH

There are two ways to guarantee a healthy relationship. By healthy, I mean the girl is in love with you and there is no threat of her leaving; you have all the leverage you need to assure yourself peace of mind and a steady sexual outlet.

Meet your soulmate

If you are extremely lucky enough to cross paths with your soulmate this is the easiest way to live the kind of romantic bliss that Hollywood movies exalt. A soulmate connection is the Golden Ticket to happiness and a dreamlike existence. But it is rare. Don't live as if it will happen to you. I estimate 1% of all men and 2% of all women meet their soulmates. The reason for the discrepancy is that male soulmates are in shorter supply than female soulmates. Male soulmates are shared amongst the women like a community hookah.

Instill dread

Women respond viscerally in their vagina area to unpredictability, mixed signals, danger, and drama in spite of their best efforts to convince themselves otherwise. Managing your relationship in such a way that she is left with a constant, gnawing feeling of impending doom will do more for your cause than all the Valentine's Day cards and expertly performed tongue love in the world. Like it or not, the threat of a looming breakup, whether the facts justify it or not, will spin her into a paranoid estrogen-fueled tizzy, and she'll spend every waking second thinking about you, thinking about the relationship, thinking about how to fix it. Her love for you will blossom under these conditions. Result: she works harder to please you.

The key for the man is to adopt a posture of blase emotional distance alternated with loving tenderness. Too much of either and she'll run off.

Examples of effective doom inducement:

Turn off your cell phone twice a week. Alternate days. Don't do this on a Friday or Saturday night unless the relationship is shaky and needs a high voltage jolt of dread.

Make a blatant but plausibly deniable move on one of her friends when she's not around. The news will get back to her. Milk it.

Call her from a very busy place so that she can hear women's voices laughing and shrieking in the background. Don't tell her where you are when she asks. Just say you'll see her soon.

Mention how skilled your Russian ex was at giving head. Bring it up again a few days later, pretending not to remember the first time you mentioned it. Bonus: Russians are very good at giving head, so this will have the ring of truth.

Be seen by your girlfriend flirting with other women in a social venue. Extra points if the women are attractive. Double extra points if you flirt without looking back at your girlfriend once to check her reaction.

Cook her a romantic candlelight dinner at home. Make it a memorable experience, complete with jazz, chocolate, and rose petals. Then, do not talk with her for four days afterwards.

Ignore her calls for a week. When you eventually answer and she reads you the riot act, act as if nothing was wrong and accuse her of sabotaging a perfectly good relationship, "just like all the other women in this stupid city. I thought you were different". Hang up on her angrily.

When her best friend tells you how cute you and your girlfriend look together, shrug, put your hand to the back of your neck as if to scratch an itch there, look down slightly and with a mildly annoyed expression blandly sigh "Yeeeah...". Triple bonus points if your girlfriend is standing right there.

Follow

When she attempts the jealousy maneuver by flirting with another guy, act unfazed. Give her pickup tips.

Gaze longingly into her eyes, say how hot she looks, then immediately glance sidelong at the bosom of any strange woman in the vicinity.

Have a threesome. Spend an inordinate amount of time admiring the labia of the other woman. Be sure to moan louder with her. WARNING: If you cum on the other woman you will have to spend weeks consoling your girlfriend.

Say things like "I really value my independence and freedom" relevant to nothing in particular. It's just a thought that popped in your head.

Thermonuclear Option:

Have an affair and make sure she finds out about it. Arrange the confrontation so that it does not happen at your place. When she confronts you, don't get defensive. Don't speak at all. Let her vent. Let her punch you in the chest and scream obscenities. When she takes a breather, tell her she's never looked more beautiful and you will never stop loving her. Then without waiting for her response calmly walk out the door and break off all contact for two weeks. When she comes back to you... and she will... you will have a love slave for life.

ugg this sounds miserable. I have dated several guys like this— they were never fully invested in the relationship and constantly played games. Each time I put up with it for a while, but grew so tired of it that I broke things off with each of them. I don't think any of them saw it coming, and in each case, the guy came crawling back.

Games like this may work for a while with women who have low self esteem, but if she has a healthy dose of confidence and has been in other, more healthy relationships, she will quickly tire of the constant games and give you your walking papers.

The key for the man is to adopt a posture of blase emotional distance alternated with loving tenderness.

Most men do this naturally because they can't emote. They will shut off completely 90% of the time, only to open up like little girls during and after sex. This isn't something that needs to be faked.

This will get the morality police on your back. It's all 100% true of course. Send mixed signals, appear to be an object of desire, insinuate, stir anxiety and discontent, keep them in suspense, confuse desire and reality, mix pleasure with pain, give them space to fall. Elementary stuff. And still the naysayers will emote down the depths of this thread.

This will have to go back under the previous post "Hardest Challenges: Getting a girl to committ suicide over you." However, the raw emotional state she's left to stew in with such tactics would likely result in her killing you instead of herself. check women's prisons.

Well, there's that or the other scenario where she cuts your cock off in your sleep and dances around the bedroom bathing in your blood while she sips the remaining blood from your corpora cavernosa gurgling, "you are mine! all mine!!"

This backfired for George Costanza. Anyone remember the Seinfeld episode where he couldn't get rid of that woman, so he arranged for her to see him with another woman and pretended to get hysterical? She was non plussed.

When a girl falls in love, it's hard for her to act uninterested and distant, too. When a guy and a girl are falling in love with each other, the things previous posters talked about — "anxiety and discontent," being "in suspense," "pleasure" mixed with "pain" — already happen in nuclear proportions.

The key is to pull away upon realizing that the other party doesn't love you in return, but that's often the hardest part. Though something seems really creepy and sociopathic about artificially recreating the dramatic scenarios those who are madly in love experience, while not actually feeling love.

In college. Gangbanged by the black fraternity whose secret entry requirement was a minimum 10" erect penis. Three different men took turns penetrating her ass while you can't even lick her taint.

What they were supposed to do is break off all contact and not reach out to you. So in your case you actually didn't encounter the type of game he's talking about since the guys didn't follow it through to completion. The problem wasn't your self-esteem, it was their's.

So you managed to keep this woman because you convinced her you don't want her? So what?

1) You are hanging on, desperately, to someone you can play. What's the point? I don't want some guy I can control. Because if I can find his buttons, so can anyone else. He's not in control of himself. So, with this girl you can trick, you have control-freaked yourself right into finding someone who is constitutionally incapable of being a reliable, dependable partner.

2) You guys are paranoid about being cheated on. You have so many posts about lying bitches who stick it to the poor guy... And you seriously think the answer is, "Find some woman who is completely unable to resist a vagina-area visceral response to predictable stimuli?" You're kidding, right?

Clio and company:

When he wrote "Women respond viscerally in their vagina area..." what he meant was that women get "excited" (or wet) from certain things despite their better judgement.

Meaning — they may say they prefer Mr. Nerd, but getting roughed up by the bad boy gets them lubricated.

Men get this way too — turned on by things they sometimes don't want to get turned on by. Like teen girls. The body doesn't lie — to put the expression in a more polite way!

acting distant, if you must play it that way, only works when you and the lady have been together for a while. if you use it early on, when youre still proving yourself, that shit might backfire. sure, you dont want to be "weak," but being too cool can fuck you up too. you can combine the best of both and still get the pussy.

It's not you who are so special, talented, in-the-know, unique, debonaire, super stud, #1 alpha chest pounding male God. You'd be just another pusher with a wretched junkie on your hands. I should know, but never again. Some have accused me of being frigid, but it seems I just don't have the obsessive need for sex in and of itself any longer. I draw the line when it comes to talking about other lovers and their prowess First, it's bad manners. Second, it can backfire.

I once mentioned something like the Russian BJ technique to a g/f. Since we were "sharing," as she liked to say, she then proceeded to tell me about a "guy so huge it tore her apart" and how "she had to sit in the bathtub afterwards cause she ached so bad after they had sex." Then she told me about the night she "came 13 times" and she's never orgasmed from intercourse before or since Mr. Big.

Why, Rain And, I think I make a reasonably competent school-marm. Yes, viscerally does have the metaphorical connotation you ascribe to it. And if he had said, "they feel it viscerally", I wouldn't have supposed that he meant they were suffering from a bellyache. But having used "viscerally" in connection with "vagina" that way, he inadvertently brought out the word's anatomical, literal meaning. Gotta be careful how you handle those metaphors.

Jewcano, that's a slander. I'm not yet posting as much as Candy...

The answer for finding a woman who will love you all your life is easy: find a teen girl between the age of 14-20. These are a woman's binding years. The younger she is, the better. You may even be her first man. Women develop strong bonds to thhe first men they have sex with, specially if they are virgins. Let's be realistic: if she is around 15, 16, you will be very special to her. She will listen to what you are telling to her. She will feel new experiences. Romancing a teen girl is the way to form a lifelong bond. That's the reason why men marrying 15 year old women was the standard.

Wow, there you go again with that nonsense. I think that's why you guys have to study Mystery method and all that nerd stuff to score: you actually think imagining a woman to be a sexual being is "bringing her down". Are you from a religious family or were you raised by man-hating lesbian feminists?

Really, I have this theory on why some guys have to study game and I'm collecting data to verify. Could some game guys answer a question? A simple one. Can you imagine – I mean, really picture yourself doing it – enjoying sex if you were a woman? If not, is it that you can't or won't do it?

Where I live, age of consent is 14, so it's underage, but not ilegal. I'm also pretty young (middtwenties).

I have had several gf's of around twenty a few years earlier (my age or 1-2) years younger. My current gf is 17, but we started dating when she was 15 (with her parents approval, btw). She did have a previous boyfriend when she was 12, but that wasn't serious at all. Being her first serious bf is very special. She just wasn't jaded or had to deal with baggage from previous relationships. everything feels fresh and new, and at that age she still giggles a lot and irradiates charm. In fact, I think when men are ready to marry in their middtwenties society should allow them to sate its 15 year old daughters, and then men would marry them a few years later. I know 15 is ilegal in the US, but at 16 and 17 girls are also still maleable and legal in a lot of US states. Teen girls and to a certian degree sub23 women form strong bonds to their gfs. Do you rally believe that dick number 17 is special to a 25 year old woman?

In other words, you can fill her head with weird ideas and control her without much effort. It's easy prey for you since women around your age seem to have more demands, higher standards, better filters, and independent thoughts.

In fact, I think when men are ready to marry in their midtwenties society should allow them to sate its 15 year old daughters, and then men would marry them a few years later Seriously, 15? A flat chested, A-cup girl with braces and acne dating a 23 year old guy? It's not just creepy and weird, but the entire concept is laughable.

Do you rally believe that dick number 17 is special to a 25 year old woman?

If she's interested in you because of your personality, then yes. In the context of a sex-fueled short-term relationship, then no, and probably better that way.

That sad thing about Gannon is that he appears to have much in common with a 15-year old girl.

Aside from the sheer weirdness of the sexual attraction, what normal 23-year old man has anything in common with a 15-year old girl? Gannon must be dumb as rocks, immature, and a case of pathological arrested development.

@Miik: I never said that society should condone rape. Your definition of rape is wrong. Rape is taking a woman against her will, or having sex with a girl that is too young to consent, below 13 or so according to natural law (natural law states that girls can consent when they start menstruating and have developed bodies and an interest in sex).

It's sad that you can't argue. Midget's statement is also very immature lacking of any reason or logic whatsoever.

@ Hope: I like you a lot because of your honesty. Men, I think, can handle much better sexual rejection and frustration than women. So a 25 year old man wouldn't be jaded. I also think that while the 15-16 year old girl should choose her suitor, her parents should assess the suitability, honesty and intentions of the gentleman caller. Mothers and fathers used to screen her daughter's boyfriends and help her choose the mate for life.

Gannon, my dear—perhaps the only sane man on this site—I wish you good luck in your endeavor. Alas; you're throwing pearls before swine. Is it true that pigs are the most intelligent of all animals?

PROS

Pigs are intelligent and have been placed fourth on the intelligence list (humans, primates, dolphins/whales, pigs).

CONS

Because of their high level of intelligence, pigs that are kept as FULL time house pets can become bored easily and are often destructive when finding ways to entertain themselves. It is not uncommon for them to root up carpeting or linoleum floors, eat drywall, overturn house plants and root through the dirt.

That's going straight to the fail bin. He was inadvertently being too distant, not as interested in sex, etc. It was nearly relationship-ending, and took a lot of convincing on his part to bring me back.

i ur relationship advice. pretty much whatever u say, i know the opposite is true.

This Christmas I'll have known my husband for 10 years. But no guy here cares a wit about my relationship advice. They prefer whatever he says for the short-term thing, which might well be correct with respect to the crowd of women who will put out for the short-term thing.

she then proceeded to tell me about a "guy so huge it tore her apart" and how "she had to sit in the bathtub afterwards cause she ached so bad after they had sex."

That is too funny. Men are so vulnerable to sizeism, and it's very cute. But truthfully, unless a girl is incredibly loose, the baseball bat monster guy and she will not last long because she physically can't put out frequently enough.

and then men would marry them a few years later

Yes, but how bonded is the older man to the 15 year old girl if he has had numerous relationships beforehand and the baggage that comes from those? In my case, my husband hadn't been truly in love with another woman before he met me, so we were each other's first love. That made a significant difference.

Do you rally believe that dick number 17 is special to a 25 year old woman?

If it's mine, I have absolute confidence that it is, especially since usually when I sleep with a woman it's a "first" to them: they never imagined that they might give it up so fast...

Of course, if you're a boring average person and you know it, then you're probably right... but some of us are not boring and some are not average. I bet Monica Lewinsky still keeps thinking of dick "number 17" more than she thinks of dicks number 1-3. Only average losers have no other option than hoping to become dick number 1.

"And you seriously think the answer is, "Find some woman who is completely unable to resist a vagina-area visceral response to predictable stimuli?" You're kidding, right?"

They're not kidding. I believe this falls into the category of "many a truth is spoken in jest". My friend said to me yesterday that she has finally come to the conclusion that men are by and large very shady characters. It's so true! I still believe in exceptions and good men, though.

But she is right...looking back I realize that the men I have been with didn't know what was good for them till it was gone, and I didn't know what was bad for me till it was gone. They always, always want me back. Did you hear that those accusing me of being frigid? LOL Yes, I am so frigid they can never find a woman as great in bed as I am and as good for their souls as I am. Sorry, it's true which why I don't give a rip what you say. Yawn.

May I add that virginity is a state of mind as much as a state of body?

Looking back, and only considering dick, emotional connection, love, depth of sexual experience, sexual satisfaction, commitment, etc., I would have been wise to NOT have broken up with my second love at the age of 17. It might have spared me a ton of heartache—this is all theoretical of course—but I've had none better than him since. Gannon's attitude is; why go through all the heartache...why choose a woman who has been through the mill when you can do it right the first, 2nd, or 3rd time and not have all the ex-baggage to contend with?

Oh Candy Cane, you do realize that not playing along with everything they want makes you a castrating frigid bitch who just can't handle mature sex, right? Because, um, a doll to do what I want is exactly what every adult wants in a sex partner.

The more I read of Gannon, the more frightened I get. I'm pretty sure his whole, "I am in a foreign country where everything is FINE and we have solved everything by shutting up the feminists..." is quite wrong. I'll bet he's in mom's basement in Queens with a stack of sticky covers ripped from old Sweet Valley High novels.

The more I read of Gannon, the more frightened I get.

What I've found interesting about Gannon is that he doesn't have any mental reflexes that prevent him from thinking about these teenage girls in such a fashion. The girls that he seems to fawn over are children in my eyes, and my most alpha male colleagues seem to agree with me.

Go and find a nice 40 year old man who is willing to form a family with you. I seriously mean this.

Maybe she doesn't want to marry an older guy. Maybe she doesn't want to get married and have kids. Her marriage to a 40 year old man to have a family isn't going to make her happy, and it's no different than forcing a woman to be a single childfree career woman when she wants to be a wife and mother.

From a breeding standpoint, I got to side with Gannon.

A teenage woman is has the highest levels of immune response, fastest healing time, highest level of metabolism, and premium ova. (If within 5-6 or so years of menarche)

An average healthy woman who is 16 would have little if any complications, and could birth ten children by the age of 25. (provided this was outside of a third world hospital)

Any debate on the merits / demerits of such is off the topic of my post.

Although in polite post-modern society its not politically correct to date such a girl, or maintain a relationship.

but again, my comment is strictly from a biological frame of reference.

DoBA 47—

"I once mentioned something like the Russian BJ technique to a g/f. Since we were "sharing," as she liked to say, she then proceeded to tell me about a "guy so huge it tore her apart" and how "she had to sit in the bathtub afterwards cause she ached so bad after they had sex." Then she told me about the night she "came 13 times" and she's never orgasmed from intercourse before or since Mr. Big."

"Be careful of the stones you throw."

Actually I'd really want that info to the extent that it's true, mostly the "never orgasmed from intercourse before or since Mr. Big."

Lots of girls, maybe most, need to feel really overwhelmed to orgasm from intercourse. That's some of what being alpha's about in fact. That being overwhelmed might involve being in love or it might not, but in either case, they need for feel impelled to really and viscerally surrender.

A huge cock esp. if used well is one way of inducing that feeling but it's only one way – unless she's now imprinted to the contrary, or was e.g. in part (way was prepared) predisposed that way by watching lots of porn featuring one in 10,000 or more sized dicks. Now I'm not saying that a notably small dick isn't a problem or that a bigger one isn't an advantage, but the pure physical pleasure can and does come just as much from at least average on up. Very flexible and adjustable place, vaginas, with just about no nerve endings real deep, most in the clit and near the surface, and the rest in the g spot which isn't so deep either.

But what's in the head is another matter, and that matters big. Whatever's really there and stays there that is, and we're talking their monkey brain/limbic system brain here, more or less. Some combination.

So basically I'd make this girl prove her big time attraction to me, and her genuine "get offedness" with me or I'd but out of there. Endlessly asking directly or not if you've compensated for not being Mr. Big is so beta that I'd think it needs no explaining.

Marrying such a girl with such drives and imprinting is guaranteed divorce theft if that's the dynamic between you – and maybe/probably even if it isn't (because it will always threaten to return). Her imprinting might well be reverseable but I'm just saying I'm not about to put in endless time seeing if it is. Same thing goes with e.g. a black guy fixation for best sex, etc. Note: her willingness to compromise down below true sexual thrills and high level getting off to get other things in a relationship is death for you before very long, so don't go there. Chose wisely.

David Alexander has internalized a core tenet of misandry and I hate him for it. Candy Cane astutely observes that Gannon is perhaps the only sane man on this site. It never ceases to astonish me how men can actually internalize the idea that men are not supposed to be interested in women when they are most attractive by all accounts of biology, i.e. shortly after menarche.

Wow, I've done all this plus more to my ex-GF. She even used to send me 10+ page text messages of nightmares she would have, seeing me flirt with other chicks at the bar. I fucked up when I took vacation for a month and mostly ignored her. She hopped on some other dick and tried to tell me she couldn't handle a relationship with me while her dad is dying of cancer (FYI: He's been "dying" for 10 years now lol).

Sometimes, I feel like an ass for doing this shit as I'm always afraid the bitch might off herself but the flaming hot pussy that results makes me not give a fuck really in the end.

What you say here, sounds incredibly manipulating and doesn't address the real cause why a woman acts the way that she does.

Women need an emotional workout. They need to experience the good, the bad, the light, the dark. But there are ways in which you can do this, which really cultivate a fulfilling relationship and add value to it, rather than using manipulative techniques and controlling techniques which in the end dis empower the woman and yourself.

There is no such thing as an alpha female. My ex gf had the same delusion.

Any woman who exhibits "alpha" traits is not hot. She is a masculine, domineering, obnoxious boner killer.

Any woman who acts "alpha", or thinks of herself as such, and still attracts men, is just hot enough to overcome her sh*t personality. If that's you, live it up, because its almost over already.
