1. 2.The averages are evaluated alone and the Speed Test Results obtained in heikin ashi bars on IF:

* NOTE : Intermediate form (IF) : I created it a few months ago at the level I acquired when creating relativity and recorded it comparatively.

> It was a form with two layers of common methods and a beautiful document reflecting the power of both systems.

The only purpose of the speed test is to show customers the difference from the standard period scientifically.
It has nothing to do with success .
You can see this in my open source public scripts, even though I use the same periods, but they have fast results from standard methods:

https://www.tradingview.com/script/NMpXw3Z8-ANN-Forecast-MACD-Noldo/

.Because test script uses Heikin-Ashi bars in the speed test and performs every operation with all of the balance.
This has nothing to do with real trade.
The reason for being useful in real trade is that it will have a big impact on the cumulative success of users who are able to provide accurate signals, technical analysis and interpretation capability by avoiding volatility and horizontal (stagnant) markets as much as possible.
