

Why Rent Email Lists?

Have you ever considered renting email lists so that you can grow your online business and make more money? Renting lists has become a very lucrative business model. Many internet marketers rent email lists because they use these lists on a regular basis to help market their websites, increase website traffic, build mailing lists and build their business. Here are some of the benefits of renting lists.

First, most people do not want to fill out or sign up for multiple sign ups. Many people simply do not have the time to do it. With email lists you can simply rent one, contact information and you have gone from nothing to something. You can then use this contact information to send out emails with products and/or services and track the results. Many times you can contact the members of the list to find out what they think about the product and/or service.

Second, you will save a lot of money through these lists. You will be able to buy qualified leads from these lists and then you will not have to pay for them at all. This can free up a lot of money in marketing. Not only will you be able to purchase qualified leads but you will also be able to send them emails with products and/or services so that they may actually buy.

mailing mexico of these lists is that you are not paying a list owner anything. The list owner already has all the emails that he or she wants to be sent out. You will not be buying any lists that the list owner does not want to send you anymore. You will also not be buying a list, where the list owner does not want to be in contact with you. These lists are usually held through a service where you pay a monthly fee to rent the list for a period of time and then you will be able to contact the email list owner at any time that you need to.

There is one other thing that you should know about these types of lists. They are usually much cheaper than purchasing email lists. This is because there is no live person handling your campaign. You do not have to wait for someone to answer your call or take the time to sit down and meet with someone at a coffee shop. When you are renting one, all you have to do is pay your monthly rental fee and you will get your list.

There is another reason that you should consider renting instead of purchasing when it comes to email lists. This is known as the bounce rate on the lists. Bounce rate is the percentage of emails that are opened and then immediately go back to the server. It means that half of the emails are going back to the server because the customer did not open them when they first went through your sales letter. This makes renting a far superior option than purchasing email lists.

These lists can also be called Facebook Marketing Emails Addresses. By now I know how difficult it can be to gain Facebook fans, and many people don't have even a clue how to make their Facebook pages successful. With the ever increasing amount of users on Facebook, you want to make sure that you are showing your information to these people. However, if you are sending direct messages to a person's wall they will probably block your business from seeing their information, and this is where the bounces come in. If you only show your information to people who have "like" you on Facebook, you will be limiting your business to only so many people, and that will hurt your overall success rate when marketing on Facebook. When you rent email lists from companies such as Mailchimp or Aweber, you are giving yourself permission to market your products to anyone on Facebook, and not just to the people that like you on Facebook.

Renting an email list is by far the best option when marketing online. You will have the ability to send direct messages to your list, set up your own page for your product, and you will be able to target everyone that has "liked" you on Facebook. There are also a lot of other things to worry about with renting email lists versus building your own list from scratch, so it is best to choose a third party service that will give you the best option for your needs. The great thing about having your own list is that you can continually add new contacts to your list without having to spend a lot of time doing it yourself.
