

Minecraft now August Wants you to Choose Your Favorite Boss

Minecraft Now August goes live in the coming hours and will give players a chance to see more of the people working on the sandbox game, along with the chance to choose their favourite boss. There's going to be a showdown between guests and either the Ender Dragon or The Wither, and it's up to the players to decide which.

In the past, we've seen brand-new Minecraft mobs, and we also got to meet the Allay through voting. Although today's version is not as robust, it's still an enjoyable way to pass the time and have fun.

How do I watch Minecraft Now August from anywhere and everywhere

You can watch Minecraft Now August 2022 on YouTube when it is live at 5 pm BST, but if you're hoping to get a glimpse into what the episode might contain you can get the full description on the Minecraft website. One of the most interesting things about today's episode is that the players can vote on which boss the characters on the show will be fighting, and you can try it out using the Minecraft Preview system.

Minecraft Preview is a new version of the Bedrock Beta program. It is not limited to specific platforms, but it will eventually expand to other areas. This will allow more players to participate in future previews and events. It's great to see a little more inclusivity and this kind of cross-platform integration in light of the numerous versions of Minecraft available.
