

'Minecraft Legends' is a Brand new Action-strategy Game to be Released In 2022.

A new Minecraft game has been released for world premiere at the Xbox Summer Games Fest - one that allows you to construct structures and command your allies to fight off enemies. Xbox Games Studios has showcased a brief clip of Minecraft Legends at the event and has also announced that the action-strategy game will be coming sometime in 2023. It was developed in partnership with Blackbird Interactive. It will include an online campaign coop as well as a competitive multiplayer game mode. Dennis Ries, the executive producer of the game stated that the studio will reveal more details about the game later in the year.

Minecraft Legends will require you to defend the Overworld from an invading army piglins. You will need to forge alliances and take on strategic combat against the invaders. Fake it till you make it Ries has stated that the game will feature an exciting adventure that will provide many surprises to both new and experienced Minecraft players. The studio has only shared some details about the game's coming release for now but promises to reveal more details about it in the near future. You can also follow the official Minecraft Legends Twitter account to keep up to date with the latest news about the game.

Popular on Engadget

Engadget's 2022 Back To School Gift Guide!

FBI says investors should be cautious before investing money in decentralized finance platforms

France is working on a program that lets people lease EVs for EUR100 per month

Samsung Galaxy S22 Ultra on Sale - Up to $270 Off