A Green Card is a Permanent Residence Visa of the U.S.A.. A Green Card will give you legal right to work and live permanently in the United States. Green Card holders receive health, education and several other benefits. If you win a Green Card, you can apply for U.S. Citizenship at a later time.

Every year in the US Department of States annual Green Card Lottery (Diversity Visa Program) between 100,000 and 125,000 applications are selected as winners and up to 55,000 Green Cards (Permanent Residency Visas) are issued to new immigrants from all over the world.

The US Green Card Office is the original Green Card lottery service, providing all of the information needed to enter the DIVERSITY VISA LOTTERY. The organization has recently announced the deadline for the 2015 Green Card Lottery is 3 of November 2015 and is encouraging all potential applicants to sign up now.

For most people, winning a Green Card would be a dream come true. The Green Card Lottery is officially called the Diversity Immigrant Visa Lottery, popularly known as the Green Card Lottery. Each year, up to 55,000 Green Cards will be issued to people from all over the world. Unfortunately, each year, over 60% of the 8-11 million applicants are disqualified because of errors. The reason for this disqualification is that applicants fill out the online application incorrectly or submit a photo that cannot be approved. That is why well over 160,000 people from all over the world have chosen to use the US Green Card Office to submit their application 100% error free.

“Our company was the first in the market to offer these services, going back to 1998,” said Michael Silverstone, spokesman for the US Green Card Office. “We have served over 160,000 customers, who saw first-hand how important it was to use a professional service to submit the Green Card Application. If someone were really serious about maximizing his or her chances of winning the Green Card Lottery, we would love to help. Just be sure you meet the deadline of Nov. 3, 2015.”

The Green Card Lottery, according to the organization, is officially called the Diversity Immigrant Visa Lottery. While it is free to apply for the lottery through the US Government website, there are many advantages to using the valued-added services of the US Green Card Office. Just a few of the advantages of using the affordable service, not available through the free US government website, include: a step-by-step guide, easy registration, advice and guidance in 20 languages, photo verification before submission, and much, much more.

The response to the US Green Card Office services has been very positive over the years. Redona Mema, originally from Albania, recently said, “I am happy to have used the US Green Card Office to submit my application in 2014, and I will again this year. My friend applied a few years ago without using this service and was rejected. At least I know my chances are really the best they can be, all other things considered. I’m confident that I will be a lucky Green Card winner this year, so I can start a new life in United States. Five stars for the US Green Card Office.”

Applying for the Green Card lottery is FREE. However the US Green Card Office Organization charges for the expertise and professional service that we provide to you, and our fee is only €77.00.

You can enter the U.S. Diversity Visa Lottery for free at www.state.gov in between their open registration dates which typically is early October to November. Our value added service guarantees that your application is not disqualified due to errors and that your photo is only submitted once it's 100% correct and can be approved by the US Government.

Using our value added service you can take advantage of not being disqualified because of uploading an incorrect photo, and we will advise you until your photo is 100% correct. This service is only done by us. Using the free government service this service would not be an option and your application would be disqualified without you even knowing you had made a mistake and you would therefore not be eligible to win a Green Card. Immigration

USA immigration is an important component of the country. To live in the United States of America is a dream of many ambitious people who wish to accelerate their professional lives. USA immigration presents the right to become a permanent resident of the state by following the law of USA immigration. Every year, many people travel from different parts of the world and apply for USA immigration in order to settle down permanently for work or some personal devotions.

USA immigration has certain laws that every immigrant must abide to. The set of laws indicates the policies to control the process of immigration by the government. There are laws closely associated with the nationality of a person concerning the legal status of any immigrant in the USA. The USA immigration laws are based on the nation's political policies concerned by the government.
