Schrafft Candy Company Closes Doors

by Marianne Martin
The Schrafft Candy Company of Charlestown closed its doors Thursday, May 31, 1984 leaving more than 800 workers jobless. This is the second Charlestown plant to close in the past month. The Revere Sugar Company closed its doors in early May. According to company officials, the chocolate producing plant was forced to close due to the decline in candy sales. One official was quoted as saying that health fads have led to limited sugar intakes. The Revere Sugar Company also closed as a result of declining sugar use, especially by the beverage industry, who in the past were major consumers of sugar.

The Schrafft Candy Company began producing chocolate and other candies in Charlestown in 1928 and has since that time undergone several management changes. In 1850, William F. Schrafft founded the company in New Bedford and moved shortly thereafter to

Board Of Appeal Acts On Three Charlestown Proposals

by Marianne Martin
"Everyone wants a piece of Charlestown," stated Boston City Councillor Albert "Dapper" O'Neil. Well, anyone who wanted a "piece" of Charlestown or wanted to preserve a "piece" of Charlestown had their day in City Hall at the Board of Appeal hearing, including both residents and elected officials.

Three Charlestown development proposals went before the Board of Appeal on Tuesday, June 1 including the Asphalt plant at 100 Front Street proposed by the Simeone Corporation; the one-to-five unit conversion of St. John's Rectory at 41 Monument Square; and the construction of three units of housing at 3 Monument Square.

The Simeone Corporation proposal to build an asphalt plant on Front Street, due to matters left unanswered, was dismissed without prejudice by the Board. Attorney for the corporation, Phil Murray, requested that the Board grant a further continuance of the case, which

The winners were introduced to members at a regular union meeting by Vice President William Lyden, scholarship chairman of the union.

President William J. McCarthy congratulated the winners and their parents. He said, "All the officers and members wish the winners well. We hope the grant can ease some of the financial burden that the students and their parents will have to bear in their college years."

Selling Your Home? MORTGAGE RATES ARE UP AGAIN

How Will That Affect The Sale of Your Home?

In 1982 when mortgage rates hit 17%-18% home sales ground to a halt. Currently rates are in the 14% range and rising. For the next few weeks rising mortgage rates will help you sell your home as buyers hurry to find a home before rates get too high. (As rates go higher sales will slow and price increases will moderate)

Receives Awards

JOHN DUNBAR

John Dunbar of 73 School Street, Charlestown was honored at an Athletic Awards Dinner held at Boston College High School on May 20th.

Dunbar was the recipient of several athletic awards, including the Thomas Murphy Trophy, given to the senior athlete who participated in more than one sport.

Dunbar was also the recipient of the John Farrycy Scholarship, which is given annually. Monies for this award were provided by a generous gift from Mr. Farrycy, a teacher for 38 years at Boston College High School, and this gift was matched by the school's teachers' association.

In presenting the award to Dunbar, Norman Swain, Chairman of the Scholarship Committee told the gathering that the recipient, Dunbar, "is a young man who has had to work very hard to achieve academically. He is an excellent athlete, leader and is described by teachers and coaches as one who is mature, sensitive, and able to relate to adults and young people alike. He is a person without flamboyance or external exuberance. He commands respect, but that respect is mutual. He is a terrific leader on and off the field and is described by one coach as the 'rock' of the team and by another as the best leader he has had in 25 years. But most of all, this young man has a tough gentleness about him; he is a solid, honest person who never exploited his leadership for personal glory. He was captain for two varsity sports and is an outstanding Christian gentleman."

Mr. Farrycy, for whom the scholarship is named, presented the scholarship award to John Dunbar at these ceremonies.

Representative Voke Secures Monitoring For Charlestown

Representative Richard A. Voke is pleased to announce that an air quality monitor will be installed in Charlestown, and maintained by the state's air pollution control agency. The Department of Environmental Quality Engineering. After a series of discussions with the state agency, the Charlestown legislator was able to convince the DEQE Commissioner of the need to undergo monitoring in the community.

Representative Voke reported that the state would put in place what is commonly referred as a particulate monitoring system. The system will be located in a spot to be chosen by residents, with approval of DEQE monitoring specialists. Furthermore, students from the Bunker Hill Community College will be recruited to assist the experts with the samples taken from the monitoring apparatus.

Representative Voke's initial involvement, and questioning of Charlestown's air quality came about when the deleading of the Charlestown end of the Tobin Bridge took place over three years ago. The procedures employed at the time were perceived by the Representative as being of great risk to the neighborhood. Particulate matter caused by the method of deleading was being released into the community in tremendous quantities. Action by the Charlestown legislator forced corrective measures to be taken, thus minimizing the impact on the community. In the Spring of 1983, when the Boston Edison Company presented a proposal to convert from oil burning to coal burning, the Representative along with many residents of the community doubted the air quality figures shown for Charlestown. The prevailing feeling was the monitoring systems used to determine the quality of Charlestown's air were not in appropriate locations. Negotiations had begun but later were abandoned by Edison when they put their whole conversion project on "hold". The most recent intrusion by an outsider hoping to impact the air quality in Charlestown, through the construction of an asphalt plant, was leverage enough to secure a commitment from the DEQE.

Representative Voke has been assured by Commissioner Cortese of the DEQE that the system would be in operation within the month. The residue samples taken from the monitor will be analyzed regularly at the state laboratories in Tewksbury.

Voke's following comments reflect his opinion on the quality of air in Charlestown. "It has become increasingly clear to me and many in the community that the quality of air in Charlestown is suspect. With the introduction of Simeone's Asphalt Plant proposal we have yet another potential air polluter. It has been documented that among Boston neighborhoods, Charlestown ranks among highest in the incidence of respiratory illness. This concerns me greatly. I felt that the time was ideal for an air quality study to be undertaken. The Department of Public Health and the DEQE have made commitments to me in this regard."

Representative Voke will be working closely with the DEQE and the DPH in the next few weeks and coming months. He encourages persons interested in the monitoring to submit their comments on appropriate site locations in Charlestown. He can be reached at 722-2130 or at the State House, Room 130, Boston, Massachusetts 02133.

Charlestown Veterans Honor Anthony Parrino At Square Dedication

The Charlestown Veterans Committee honored a native son of Charlestown at a Square Dedication on Sunday, May 27, 1984. Gunners Mate Second Class Anthony J. Parrino made the supreme sacrifice - the laying down of his life for his country - when the submarine he was assigned to, the U.S.S. Grayling, went down in Japanese waters in September 1943 with 65 men on board.

Relatives and friends were present at these ceremonies on Rutherford Avenue to pay tribute to Tony Parrino.

Tony Parrino was a "Townie" in the true sense of the word. He loved Charlestown, grew up here, boxed, and he chummed with other "Townies" who called themselves the Lawrence Street Arrows. Following graduation from Charlestown High School in 1940, he joined the U. S. Navy. He was first assigned to the destroyer Mahan and later the Perkins. While enroute to Guam from Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, they were attacked. They later fought in the Coral Sea Battle. In 1942, he volunteered for submarine duty and trained in New London, Connecticut. His first mission was in Japanese waters on the U.S.S. Grayling. Parrino was declared missing in action in September 1943 and three years later was listed as killed in action.

borg, sister; and Lisa Sirani, granddaughter of Richard Parrino; MAYOR Raymond L. Flynn; SENATOR Francis Doris. Also present was Commander William R. Wilkins of the U.S. Coast Guard and Harman Hart, brother-in-law of Parrino.

Thinking Out Loud ....

by Sal Giarratani

Racial bigotry and religious hatred have played an ugly part in the American national picture since the days of Colonial America. At different times over the course of American life, certain people were the victims of vile campaigns of hatred. Either, these victims spoke the wrong language, looked funny, were the wrong color, or belonged to the wrong religion.

Some of these incidents were individual in nature while others were part of a much larger organized hatred such as the Klan, the Know-Nothing Party and the Nativist Movement.

Today, much of this ugly picture has been wiped clean and a new dawn of acceptance and/or tolerance has taken over. Everyone is allowed to be who they are and everyone has the right to their full natural, human and civil rights under the protection of the law.

There is no room in America today for an acceptable level of racial or religious intolerance. The "No Irish Need Apply" signs are gone. So too are the "colored" bathrooms and back-of-the-bus mentality.

However, while much is changed in attitudes over race, there has come a new wave of sectarian intolerance toward Americans who happen to be Catholic. Anti-

Catholicism has become an acceptable form of bigotry and prejudice and the scum pushing it are so outrageous in their flamable attacks, you would swear a time tunnel pushed these characters into the 1980s from the 19th Century when this intolerance was a part of our national scene, a period most would wish to forget.

Anti-Catholicism is unacceptable and should be condemned by all who call themselves Christians. Bible-toting hate mongers preach Christ on one hand, quote chapter and verse from the Bible and then attack the Pope as the devil and the Church as the Anti-Christ. They are not Christians because Christians don't preach hatred.

American Catholics need not be ashamed of their religious affiliation. They should be proud and take no baloney from the scum trying to separate Christians from one another. We Christians are supposed to be known by our love for one another.

No acceptable levels of Anti-Catholicism are acceptable. Not from bible-pushing haters wearing collars or from the likes of the New York Times, who couldn't wait to go after New York Archbishop John O'Connor.

Anti-Catholicism has become the new antisemitism of the 80s. Catholics also have a right to religious freedom.

Councillor Travaglini Calls For Restoral Of Public Work Cuts

As Chairman of the Boston City Council's Urban Resources Committee, Councillor Robert Travaglini recently held his first round of hearings on the proposed 1985 city budget. Travaglini, the first term Councillor who represents East Boston, Charlestown, and the North End, is responsible for review and oversight of a number of city departments, including Public Works. In examining the budget recommendations made by Mayor Ray Flynn's new management team, Councillor Travaglini is pointing towards a potentially serious problem within the Public Works Department, one which Travaglini feels may have a detrimental effect upon all the neighborhoods of the city.

It is Mayor Flynn's recommendation to Councillor Travaglini that the budget for the Public Works Department be reduced by nearly five percent, a cut of over $1.7 million. Within that proposed reduction, according to Travaglini, is a slightly smaller work force. The real problem, says the East Boston native, is the fact that the reduced budget must also absorb a five percent cost of living increase in personnel costs along with a greater percentage of the budget having to support the hidden "indirect" costs such as utility payments, unemployment compensation, and such.

Councillor Travaglini stated, "Mayor Flynn has made numerous mentions of Boston's new spirit. As one of the city's new district City Councillors, I'm also quite proud to be a part of that spirit. So far, Mayor Flynn has done everything possible to help those of us here on the Council be responsive and helpful to the voters we serve. But on these budget cuts for the Public Works Department, I'm afraid that I have a basic disagreement with the Mayor and I intend to apply all the pressure that I can to insure an adequate level of service for the neighborhoods."

Travaglini pointed out that by City Charter, the Councillors cannot add funds to a departmental budget; this remains solely within the power of the Mayor. "What is so unsettling, however, is that Public Works provides basic, everyday services to Boston neighborhoods," says Travaglini. "There can be no debate about the fact that we're facing a budget deficit. Yet, with the exception of the police and fire departments, Public Works provides the most frequent and necessary contact that the city makes with its citizens. The budget problems we're discussing in my hearings translate directly into the crew that fills the potholes and the guy that sweeps the streets. It's simple: You can't feel good about the neighborhoods until you have clean neighborhoods. We all want to work with Mayor Flynn on this one, so I'm asking all of the people in the district to contact me and help us convey your feelings."

Councillor Travaglini stated that he and his staff will be available to answer residents' concerns on this or any other matter, and says that those in Charlestown may reach him at 725-3200.

Board Of Appeal Acts On Three Charlestown Proposals

first went before the Board on May 1, 1984.

Murray stated there were new developments since the corporation last went before the Board, including a possible early acquisition of the land parcel by the Central Artery Right of Way Committee, State Department of Public Works.

Murray also stated that traffic consultant, Stanley Siegel of Diversified Engineering Services, had been retained by the Department of Public Works as their consultant, thus causing a conflict in interest for Mr. Siegel. Murray also stated that he received "information and documentation from the people of Charlestown" at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday morning just prior to the 10:00 a.m. hearing which did not allow adequate time for review, and to speak without review could "embarrass" his client.

According to Don Jackson, co-chairman of the Charlestown North Area Task Force, both Murray and Simeone Engineer, Joe Hanbury, were presented 42 pages of legal briefs and 200 pages of appendix material which addressed issues of pollution and also Department of Environmental Quality Engineering documentation which support the opposition.

The Board denied postponement but instead voted in favor of dismissal without prejudice allowing the Simeone Corporation the opportunity to begin the process again, should they so choose.

The vacant parcel of land sited for the proposed asphalt plant is zoned for industrial use, but in order to build the plant, Simeone needed to obtain a conditional use permit from the Zoning Board of Appeal.

Area residents have opposed the proposal since the May 1st Board of Appeal hearing.

On May 22, 1984, Simeone held a public meeting at Bunker Hill Community College where area residents as well as several elected officials including James Rowan of the Speaker of the House Thomas "Tip" O'Neill's office. Representative Richard Voke, Senator Fran Doris and City Councillor Robert Travaglini voiced strong opposition.

Senator Doris at that time informed the Simeone Corporation representatives that the DPW was in fact planning an early acquisition of the property for the planned North Area roadway construction.

The second case to go before the Board from Charlestown was the proposal for the conversion of St. John's Rectory at 41 Monument Square from a one unit to a five unit structure.

After some discussion on the density of the area and average units per building, the Board voted in favor of four unit construction rather than the five originally requested.

Attorney Bill Gavin, representative of the St. John's Church, told the Board that the average number of units per building in the area was 4.3 units. The opposition stated a figure closer to 4.0 units per dwelling.

Galvin continued stating that the average square foot per dwelling unit is 720 square feet and the St. John's proposal calls for 857 square feet which "certainly is keeping within the character of the neighborhood."

Peter McClure of 20 Monument Square spoke in opposition to the "degree of change" of the proposal.

According to Galvin, the difference between four and five units effects the price of the Rectory and St.

John's will receive "$20,000 to 30,000 less for the building," with the four units.

Board member, Paul Parks, stated that a four unit construction "justifies itself."

Richard Dennis, Secretary of the Board of Appeal, agreed with the four units rather than the five because it would "keep in character with the neighborhood."

The Board voted in favor of the four unit construction.

The third and most heated discussion before the Board from Charlestown was the 3A-B-C Monument Square proposal by Bonnie Widdoes.

The Board denied the proposal citing reasons of "hardship to abutters."

The proposal called for the construction of three single family units to be built on the parcel of land behind 3 Monument Square which abuts Wallace Court and Chestnut Street.

The Board requested information concerning the fireplaces to be installed and the land area per unit from Widdoes at the last hearing on the case.

Richard Dray, attorney for Widdoes, stated that the fireplaces would be standard wood burning fireplaces and the land area was 1,167 square feet per unit in all nine units proposed. This includes the six present units at 4 Monument Square as well as the proposed three to be built.

Despite the total provisions made by Widdoes in order to gain favorable support of the neighbors, the abutters and area residents were still not convinced that the proposal was beneficial.

Many residents expressed their opposition claiming that Ms. Widdoes was acting out of "greed."

Representative Richard Voke, along with City

Councillors Albert O'Neil and Robert Travaglini spoke in opposition to this proposal, as well as the St. John's Rectory proposal.

Voke stated that the 3A-B-C Monument Square proposal evoked the "serious question of density in Charlestown." He continued stating that "it is one thing if you talk about an existing building, but never have I seen something that so offends a neighborhood as much as this proposal before the Board."

Inspector Robert Brine of the Boston Fire Department called the proposal a "firetrap."

Board of Appeal Chairman John W. Priestley called for a closed meeting of the Board to discuss the proposal but members James Farmer and Paul Parks voted to deny the proposal based on "hardship of the abutters."

Warren-Prescott Fourth Graders To Hang Neighborhood Mural At City Hall

The public is invited to join the fourth grade students of the Warren-Prescott School of Charlestown to celebrate the conclusion of a new Historic Neighborhood Foundation (HNF) neighborhood program. "That's My Neighborhood!" when they will hang their neighborhood mural at Boston City Hall on Tuesday, June 12, 1984 at 10:00 a.m.

This spring HNF has been piloting this imaginative new neighborhood awareness program with two fourth grade classes. In it, they read a book called Maria's House, which is about a girl who is ashamed to draw her city house for an art class. During the program children learned many reasons why they could feel proud to draw their own city house and their city neighborhood, and they explored

Charlestown architecture and its waterfront heritage. Designed by HNF Director, Nina R. Meyer, and School Program Director, Joyce Stevens, the program was conducted at the Prescott School by two Programs Aides, Wanda McSmith, of Boston University, and Tom Whelan, a graduate student in urban affairs at Tufts University. Tom, who is a competent draughtsman, worked with students to help them create their house and neighborhood mural of Charlestown.

Assistant Principal, Jack Halloran and Principal, Marilyn R. Kiely, as well as the two fourth grade teachers, Ms. Devone and Ms. Consella, recognized immediately the many and profound positive effects this program could have on city youngsters. Their support and involvement made it an exciting experience.

Graduates From Laboure

Marilyn Anne Doherty of Charlestown was among the 187 graduates at the Eleventh Commencement of Laboure Junior College on Saturday, May 19, 1984 at the John Hancock Hall in Boston.

Laboure President, Sister Maureen St. Charles, D.C., presented Ms. Doherty with an Associates Degree in Nursing (R.N.) as Laboure graduated the state's largest class of associate degree nursing students.

Commencement speaker was Sister Rose McGready, D.C., Visitatrix of the Northeast Province of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul.

Charlestown. The company remained a family operation for over 100 years before the Gulf and Western Company purchased the financially troubled company.

Gulf and Western sold the plant to American Safety Razor, who presently operate the plant, in 1981.

Last Thursday, marks the second time in four years that the Schrafft Candy Company has announced closing.

In March 1981, the then-parent company, Gulf and Western, claimed that a decline in sales forced a decision to close the facility. But rather than close, Gulf and Western sold the plant to American Safety Razor.

Leo Carey, Executive Director of the Kennedy Center, stated that the past two attempts to manage the plant have failed because the owners did not know the candy business.

Schrafft began laying off workers in December, as an attempt to salvage the plant.

Since the layoffs, Carey stated that between 65-70 Charlestown residents have lost their jobs.

The most important issue, according to Carey is the impact of the plant's closing on the many women employed by Schrafft.

According to Carey, Schrafft employed a number of women with single family incomes. He stated, "A vast majority of them are older women without any skills expect those of a factory worker." Carey states that there is limited work of this nature in Boston.

Despite attempts to find a new owner for the plant, efforts have been made for placement of those who lost their jobs due to the closing of both the Revere Sugar and Schrafft Company plants.

Mayor Ray Flynn has stated that the approximately 350 year-round and 500 seasonal workers at the factory will be given job training and placement help at Bunker Hill Community College in an employment program which has established after the Revere Sugar closing.

Flynn stated that he was confident that a future buyer for the plant will be found who will provide jobs who those left unemployed, but presently there is no such party.

Carey stated that there was an attempt by internal workers at the Schrafft plant to purchase the facility, but lack of revenue has made that impossible.

Charlestown To Charlestown

Aim High Roses — You Were Great!

by John McLaughlin

After a dreary, rainy week, the sun came out on Friday evening at the K. of C. Hall where 350 relatives and friends of the thirteen Charlestown Irish Roses gathered for the selection of the young lady to represent Charlestown in the Western Irish Rose Festival at Charlestown County Mayo, Ireland, on August 5, 1984. The most difficult part of the evening, choosing a winner, belonged to Noreen Courtney, representing Aer Lingus Air Lines, Geraldine McGill, Irish Consulate, and Owen Mahon, Celtic Cultural Club.

Kathy Browne, 1983 Rose, opened her envelope and announced Kerry Campbell as the first runner up, Charlestown "Mayor" Marty O'Brien, Sr. had the honor of announcing Janet Flynn as the 1984 Charlestown Rose. After being crowned as the Rose, Janet performed an Irish step dance that brought the 350 guests to their feet. You could hear a pin drop as she went through her most delicate routine.

Charlestown has much to be proud of. The judges and officials were very much impressed by the Roses and guests. Special guest of the evening Cathie Buckley, Irish Market Coordinator for August A. Busch Co., was so impressed by the Roses and the event, she is going to write about it in her monthly news letter.

To Kathy Browne and the 1983 Roses, the best of luck. You have set the standards high and the 1984 Roses didn't let you down. So many have contributed to the success of this event, it would be impossible to name them at this time. But a special thanks to Gloria Conway, editor of the Charlestown Patriot for her assistance in presenting the 1984 Rose Festival for us to you.

Pictures of the Festival will be published in an upcoming edition of the Patriot.

Massport Commits $5000 To Kennedy Center Summer Program

Massport Executive Director David W. Davis recently announced that the Authority has committed $5,000 to the Kennedy Center Summer Program.

Davis said, "Massport is pleased to assist the Kennedy Center's Summer Program." He also pointed out the "fine job" the Center does all year round in providing programs and activities for Charlestown residents.

The summer program includes social, recreational and educational programming for pre-schoolers, children 8 to 13, adolescents 14 to 21, families and seniors. Some of the programs offered by the Center include Pre-School Day Camp, Children's Day

Camp, Family Day Trips, Elderly Programs, Boston Urban Partners Program, Summer Employment Program and Family Day Activities.

Assisting agencies like the Kennedy Center is a small part of Massport's overall commitment to work closely with residents to help make Charlestown a better place in which to live

Winthrop Square Project Receives Initial Approval

City Councillor Robert Travaglini has announced that an application submitted by a group of concerned Charlestown citizens in the amount of $23,000 dollars to the Edward Ingersoll Browne Fund has been tentatively approved by the Neighborhood Services Committee.

As Vice Chairman of this committee, Councillor Travaglini questioned members of the Browne Fund Commission and received assurance that the monies necessary to complete the rehabilitation of Winthrop Square, (Training Field) halted by the implementation of Prop 2 1/2, are currently available.

In his remarks, Councillor Travaglini stressed the importance of completing the project which includes installing 12 new benches, replacing the stone urn and installing 14 pedestrian ramps in the Square to provide access to the handicapped when visiting this historic site.

Councillor Travaglini stated to members of the Commission that the application was in order and meet all the necessary criteria for consideration. He urged the Commission to proceed accordingly and take the appropriate steps necessary to ensure the earliest date possible to commence construction.

Diabetes

Diabetes Mellitus (sugar diabetes) is a very common disease, affecting about one percent of adults. The adult form of diabetes is especially common in those who are overweight and have a family history of the disorder, and in older people.

Diabetes is a condition in which the body is unable to properly handle sugars and starches because of a relative deficiency of the hormone insulin. The symptoms of diabetes include excessive thirst and frequent urination. Diagnosis of diabetes is best made by blood tests, usually with one sample drawn on an empty stomach, and one sample taken two hours after a meal.

Treatment of diabetes in adults is primarily dietary. In the overweight diabetic, the goals are caloric restriction and weight loss. However, in some cases, pills or injections are also necessary.

The complications of diabetes include heart attacks, kidney failure, blindness, and infections. The best strategy to prevent these problems is to keep the level of sugar in the blood near normal. Since the complications may occur before the individual is even aware that he or she has diabetes, it is useful to screen for diabetes in anyone who has a family history of the disorder, is overweight, or has symptoms suggestive of diabetes.

The Bunker Hill Health Center will conduct a free screening for diabetes in anyone 65 or over on Friday, June 22, between 9:00 a.m., and 12 noon.

Howie Long Honored By Kiwanis At Testimonial Banquet

by Andrea Morin

Howie Long is 24 years old. He has brown hair, feathered back and parted in the middle and very broad shoulders. He stands 6 feet 5 inches and weighs 265 pounds. He sports a California tan and a Super Bowl ring. He is a defensive linesman for the Los Angeles Raiders of the National Football League and he grew up in Charlestown.

Long was back in Charlestown on May 18th, honored at a testimonial dinner sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Charlestown and held at the Knights of Columbus Hall on West School Street. Long wasn't in attendance just to be roasted and take home assorted memorabilia; he was there to donate $1500 to be split between two Kiwanis Club projects: the New England Regional Trauma Center and the Kiwanis Scholarship Fund. The amount of the donation was based on the number of sacks (13) that Long had during the past NFL season. Long had pledged to contribute $100 for each sack he made and he rounded that total up to $1500.

Long received a standing ovation from the crowd of 220 when he rose to speak at the end of the meal. He spoke at length of the New England Regional Trauma Center, a pediatric care facility located at the New England Medical Center and funded by New England Kiwanis Clubs. The Trauma Center serves all New England states and has a helicopter available for emergency transport. Long also announced that one of the Charlestown Kiwanis Club scholarships will be renamed in memory of his maternal grandfather, Michael Mullan. The Kiwanis gives an average of five scholarships a year to Charlestown residents.

After the showing of a Los Angeles Raider's highlight film, during which the audience cheered every time Long, number 77, appeared on the screen, he fielded questions and talked with the audience.

On football: "The most physical demanding sport on a day to day basis."

On speed and football: "I'm living proof that you don't have to be fast."

Pro football in one word: "Intimidating."

On teammate Lyle Alzado: "The question I'm asked most," Long said.

Is Lyle crazy and is he going to retire? Yes, to the first and no to the second," Long answered and added that Alzado "works" a country like a comedian works a room.

On John Hannah, offensive linesman with the New England Patriots: "He's a tremendous dry blocker. The way to beat him is with speed."

On boxing: "I boxed in college (Villanova University). I was thinking about turning pro, but fell back on my intelligence."

On San Francisco: "A culture shock."

What's next for Howie Long? Long recently made a movie called "In and Out" with Timothy Bottoms. This statement brought jeers from the crowd and Long responded, "This town has a dirty mind."

Long continued by noting that the movie also stars Robin Matteson of General Hospital fame. The movie is due to be released next year.

What will Howie Long do when he retires? Long says he will probably go into the communications field - broadcasting, or - "I can fall back on my wife, Diane, she's in (University of Southern California) Law School," Long said. The audience laughed.

"It's nice that he's a star," said Kevin Roche, a friend of the family of Long. "But he really is just a solid kid who has made the most of his talents."

All Scholastic Candidates

Theresa King and Nora Hartigan, two of the tri-captains of the softball squad at Pope John High in Everett, are definite All-Scholastic candidates.

King has hurled 246 of the team's 250 innings over the past two years, winning 23 of the squad's 24 games and saving the other. In that time she has allowed just 33 walks, approximately one per game. This year she has pitched all 133 innings, and has a 13-4 record. Five of her nine losses over the two years have been to Eastern Mass. Powerhouse, Bishop Fenwick. At bat, the senior from Charlestown has a 2-year .350 average; this season, she is at .340 with seven doubles, three homers and 21 RBI's. A nearly flawless fielder, she has made only four errors all year.

Hartigan, a senior from Revere, has a .450 mark over two seasons, averaging 10 doubles and 25 RBI's. A catcher last year and a shortstop this one, she has been outstanding in the field, committing only five errors all year and making some incredible throws. Nora is a three-sport captain and three-sport all-star; in her career at P.J. she has garnered 10 letters. She was recently named the school's top female student-athlete.

PJ has a 24-9 overall mark over two years, qualifying for both the CYO and Eastern Mass. Tourney both times; they have twice made the finals of the CYO. Their League record over that time is 19-6.

Long Refutes Statements In Boston Papers

by Andrea Morin

Los Angeles Raider's defensive linesman Howie Long sought to clear up statements made by himself at a press conference last year. Long claims he was misquoted by reporters when questioned about his native Charlestown.

Long says he was asked if Charlestown was the bank robbery capital of the world. He replied, "Yes, But," and was interrupted when he tried to explain.

There was also a statement made concerning a new Saab Turbo owned by Long, that he drove to Charlestown last year. While the car was parked in Charlestown the stereo was stolen from it.

Long claims that this story was also misinterpreted by the press. "Charlestown is that type of town," Long said, "but I got (the stereo) back two days later."

Long says that some people, especially those out West, who are not familiar with the type of environment he grew up in, can't understand it. "A lot of people don't understand the close knit environment," Long said. "Charlestown has changed for the better. The good outweighs the bad."

Long claims he was the victim of a bad story, and that his family in Charlestown took some flack over the misquotes, some of which were aired on the television programs 60 Minutes and 20/20.

KENNEDY CENTER DAY CAMP "OUR TOWN, OUR CITY"

The Kennedy Center is conducting a Day Camp for children ages 8 to 13 designed to make the youngsters aware of their own community. The camp will feature:

- Educational components
- Cultural Enrichment
- Recreational Activities (swimming, tennis, etc.)

The Camp will be conducted in two — three week sessions. The cost will be $30.00 for both two-week sessions. The camp will operate out of the Kent/Community School on Medford Street. For further information, contact:

Michael Ward at

tomatoes and peppers planted just before Memorial Day may not be rooting well, and seeds may not be sprouting in the cool, damp soil. The return of warm, sunny weather will help the plants recover, and you can help too by following a few growing tips.

Prolonged heavy rain washes much of the nitrogen out of the soil before plants can use it. Leaves turn yellowish rather than dark green. A good quick replacement can be provided by application of fish emulsion, manure tea, or a water-soluble commercial fertilizer like nitrate of soda, available in garden and hardware stores.

Long periods of wet weather are heaven for slugs. These shell-less snail-like pests can climb several feet up a plant and chew leaves down to a bare stub. During a severe infestation, plant twice what you need or use bait to attract the pests. Traditional methods of control which work are to place saucers of beer (fresh or stale) or baking yeast (one teaspoon to a quart of water) in the garden. One saucer should be placed in each square yard of garden space, and the solution replaced once a week. The slugs are attracted to the yeast smell, and crawl into the saucers then drown. It also helps if the slugs' hiding places are removed; keep the area free of weeds, old boards, and grass.

You may notice specks of foam on plants. The foam encloses a little green insect called a spittle bug. These bugs don't cause much damage and can be left alone unless they build up to several insects on each plant. The bugs can easily be washed off the plants with water from a garden hose. Like slugs, spittle bugs love wet weather.

Rainy periods promote fungus diseases, including early blight on tomatoes, mildew on roses, and clubroot on the cabbage family. For the first two problems, preventative spraying with a fungicide is recommended. By the time you can see the signs of the disease, it is probably too late for a spray to be effective.

Let's hope for a better balance of sun and rain!

For more information about your specific garden problems, contact the Plant Hotline, Monday through Thursday, from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. at 227-8818, sponsored by the Suffolk County Extension Service. They have a wealth of information about gardening and will mail fact sheets on a wide range of gardening issues.

Ashamed Of The Visitors' View Of Our Town

To the Editor:

As a resident of Charlestown, I am ashamed at what visitors to the Constitution see upon their arrival in our town:

1. Filth and garbage is strewn over Chelsea Street and the walkway to Water Street.
2. A junk yard that abuts the walkway is a disgrace. Question - What happened to this area? A few years ago people stopped to take pictures of the murals that decorated the walls of the auto graveyard. Today, they stop to stare at the filth and dirt.
3. Trying to cross Chelsea Street from the Monument Area is an impossibility. A need for a stop signal along there is imperative. The MBTA tells me it is the authority of the Traffic Commission to install this. I will contact them to see what can be done.

It is a shame that the first view of our town is of such negative things.

What can we do to improve these conditions, for our own sake as well as for the visitors?

A Concerned "Townie"

Thank You ...

Your Child's Health Immunizations

One of the most important jobs a pediatrician does is to try to prevent disease. Immunizations are a major part of prevention. Recently there has been concern about the safety of some of the shots given to children. In this article, I will discuss the immunizations we usually give.

Immunizations protect against certain serious diseases that strike children. All have been shown to be very effective in preventing these illnesses. Babies receive an initial series of immunizations, usually given at two, four, and six months of age. The shot, referred to as DPT, provides protection against diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), and tetanus. At two months and four months, a drink, the oral polio vaccine, is also given.

The next immunization is not given until fifteen months of age. This is the MMR - measles, mumps, and rubella (german measles). This single shot seems to give life-long immunity. At eighteen months, children receive a booster dose of DPT and oral polio vaccine. Another booster is given between the ages of four and six years old. Boosters of tetanus and diphtheria mixed together (Td), are recommended every ten years.

Small pox vaccination, which most adults had when they were children, is no longer recommended because the disease has been wiped out by world-wide use of the vaccine.

If you have questions about whether your child is up to date on his or her immunizations, check with your doctor. If your child is in school, the school nurse usually has the records as well.

Facts About Drugs — F.A.D.

What are the roles that children begin to play when they grow up in a home where one parent is chemically dependent? Roles are ways that kids learn to cope with a disease that is often denied and effects everyone in the home.

Often the sober parent is usually emotionally unavailable. This parent circles around the alcoholic as much as the alcoholic circles around the booze. Kids become confused, and in trying to connect with the parent, they learn to act certain ways. The children don't know what to expect from the alcoholic (whether Mom or Dad) when he/she drinks nor do they know what to expect from the non-alcoholic parent.

Some children, usually the oldest, become the responsible ones in the family. These adult acting children make life easier for everyone because they take charge. They develop skills that get them elected class leaders and learn to take care of themselves. But they don't learn to relax, play, or be children. These adult acting children later become untrusting, lonely, and can't talk about feelings as adults. They develop into lonely, isolated, depressed, or anxious adults.

Another role is the adjuster. These children learn to adjust to whatever happens. They simply respond to whatever arises without trying to change things. The adjuster does not draw attention to themselves either positive or negative. As adults, they feel powerless, not taking responsibility for their lives and often marry someone who causes upsets.

The placater is another role. This child is busy taking care of everyone else's emotional needs. They are the warm, sensitive listening children. They never get or know what they want from life. Placaters develop depression as adults and are not in touch with their own needs.

The acting out child is the fourth role: they are the ones that are constantly in trouble. Their peer group has similar troubles and alcohol and drugs are abused at an early age. Lacking in education, youthful marriages, and uncontrollable anger causes trouble.

How do these children act as young adults? This is the subject we will discuss in next week's issue.

Let This Be My "Invictus"

"That cataracts shall dim my eyes"
My doctors all agree;
But quite a different picture
Is the one which I foresee.

For I have secret powers —
And lots of grit and gall;
And I've decreed that cataracts
Shan't bother me at all.

I'll "SEE it thru" upon this earth,
Then up to Heaven soar;
And take in all the sights en route —
And sights there'll be, galore!

And when I gain The Pearly Gates,
To old Saint Pete, I'll say
"I SEE that thou art looking great
On this most pleasant day."

Then old Saint Pete, He'll say to me
(Right there 'neath Heaven's Dome)
"Come straight on in, my bright-eyed friend,
And make yourself t' home."

The World's Best Part Time Job ...

With Full Time Benefits

The first Metropolitan Boston area "Naval Reserve Career Information Night" will be held Monday, June 11 at 6:30 p.m. at the M.J. Perkins American Legion Post, 863 East Fourth St., South Boston.

"The Naval Reserve is being expanded through the new SAM (Surface and Air Mariner) Program," Chief Radioman Michael E. Kelley, Recruiter-in-Charge at the Naval Reserve Center, 85 Sea Street, Quincy, announced.

The Quincy center serves the entire Metropolitan Boston area.

"SAM is for men and women aged 17 to 34," Kelley explained. "We offer a monthly salary, paid technical training, Navy Exchange shopping privileges, and in some cases up to $4,000 cash tuition assistance for vocational school or college."

The SAM program is geared to the needs of students who can attend a Navy technical school during their summer vacations and receive full pay and benefits. During the remainder of the year, they drill one weekend a month.

The program also benefits working people who can take advantage of Navy training to advance in their civilian careers - or gain a skill to make them more employable.

"Each individual's needs are different," Kelley said. "The Naval Reserve needs good people and our counselors will work closely with each person to ensure that both their needs and ours are met."

Kelley also stressed that the Naval Reserve needs veterans, both Navy and those of other services. In many cases, they can join the Naval Reserve at the pay grade held at discharge from the active forces.

Under still another program, men and women with certain civilian skills can enlist in the Naval Reserve and automatically become a petty officer.

Annual Doll Carriage Parade

The traditional Bunker Hill Day Doll Carriage Parade will be on Sunday, June 17, 1984 at 10:00 a.m. This long standing and beloved event is open to children from three to seven years of age.

St. Francis de Sales To Hold Special Raffle

On Friday evening, June 15, 1984, St. Francis de Sales will hold their Annual Bunker Hill Day Dinner Dance for the benefit of the school. Mark Donahue's Band will provide music for dancing and entertainment and a baked ham dinner will be served by Claire Doyle. Tickets are $12.00 and can be purchased from Peg Pigott, the General Chairperson, or at the Rectory.

So, before Charlestown becomes inundated with all the June 17th company, why not do yourself a favor - treat yourself to a night on the town and have someone wait on you. You know how hectic it will get on Sunday, the 17th, and no one will be waiting on you then! We'll dine you, dance you and clean up after you! So, treat yourself to your own 17th party and then be ready for your company.

The two special raffles, two "get-away" weekends, will be drawn at this dance. The first name drawn has a choice of a weekend of "Old Cape Cod" or a weekend at "Eastover" in Lenox, Mass., donated by our friends at Eastover and good until 1985.

All this weekend, the committee will be down at the Bunker Hill Mall selling chances. Look for us there and by your lucky ticket. (Our thanks to Paul Hickey for blowing up the chance book ticket to poster size. It sure does help advertise this fund raiser for our school.)

This is the last week for the fund raiser. If anyone else in town, such as former students or parishioners, could help sell a book of tickets, please call me at home any night after work at 242-1102 and I'll drop them off...

P.S. All you school families: Tip that school bag upside down! The chance books went home last week...Also, to our new first grade parents, the class of 1992, I'll be calling you.

Thank you,
Zeke Marsden, President
St. Francis de Sales Parents' Club
