OneLink Regional Project Office has earned a nomination as one of the best PMOs of the year, in the 2021 edition of the prestigious PMO Global Awards, founded in 2017 and which quickly spread throughout the world, becoming the largest and most relevant global community in Project Management Office and PMO professionals, bringing together active members in more than one hundred countries.

"Enablers of business success and drivers of the strategy, always putting people first" is the philosophy that characterizes the word of this team of Salvadorans, who show that there is world-class talent in the country.

“Our main responsibility is to be a link between the strategy and reality, under a One Stop Shop service model,” says Luis Guardado, Regional Director of the PMO and Business Development of OneLink.

The One Stop Shop concept comes to life through multiple centralized services and products through the PMO, which aims to generate organizational efficiency as a result of the correct management of Portfolios, Programs and Projects within the organization.

OneLink in the big leagues

In Guardado’s words, the possibility of competing with world-class companies such as Nestlé, Virgin Atlantic, Embraer, Millicom, Bosch, Telefónica and Claro, means that the performance of OneLink’s PMO is up to the best world standards in this area of knowledge.

“For us, carrying out our best practices focusing on the well-being of people is a milestone that fills us with pride, and that is the reason why the members of the PMO are carefully selected, each of them is an impeccable combination of talent, knowledge and experience in Project Management, complemented by strong leadership and communication skills, ”says Guardado.

The Higher School of Economics and Business (ESEN) has played an important role in this process, which has seen 90% of the OneLink PMO members go through its classrooms, along with many other talents positioned in the most prestigious companies that operate in the world.
