oral Turinabol was widely used in the past century by doctors not only for male adults but also for women and children. Historically, Turinabol was administered in two different forms, being 1 mg + 5mg tablets. The 1 mg type was used for individuals who were more sensitive to anabolic steroid therapies (like women and children).

□ The half-life time of Turinabol is between 6.9 and 7.2 hours The logical consequence for the expert therefore is that the daily amount of tablets should not be taken all at once but divided equally into 3-4 daily doses so that a constant substance concentration in the blood is guaranteed. It is best when the tablets are taken during meals.
