The Film Program for Children will be presented at the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main Street, on Tuesday, April 29th at 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

The features will be "Myra", in which Myra's imagination changes her into a frog and a donkey; poetry, music, and singing teach us about "Trees"; and Pooh saves Piglet after a storm in "Winnie the Pooh and the Blustery Day".

The suggested reading, in conjunction with these films, is: Patrick's Dinosaurs by Carol Carrick, Maple Tree by Millicent Selsam, and Winnie The Pooh by A.A. Milne.

In addition to these films, "Lisa Makes The Headlines" will be shown during the afternoon program. In this feature, trouble starts when Lisa doesn't get her facts straight for her newspaper, "The DeGrassi Street Journal".

The suggested reading, in conjunction with this film, is Getting Something on Maggie Marmelstein by Marjorie Sharmat.

Upper-class children are like all others; they rarely turn out just as their parents had hoped. In A.R. Gurney, Jr.'s play, "Children," now at the Charlestown Working Theater, daughter Barbara has upset her family by divorcing, and is now shocking them by dating their former handyman.

Son Randy is a sports fiend who teaches at a prep school. His wife and even his mother feel he should question his life a bit more and grow up. Son Pokey has questioned everything and has moved away almost to-

Rear Admiral Grace Hopper To Be Guest of Honor At Navy Night At Pops

The USS Constitution Museum in Charlestown, will host the 15th Annual Navy Night at the Pops concert on Wednesday, June 18th. Rear Admiral Grace M. Hopper, the oldest commissioned officer in the U.S. Navy will be the guest of honor.

Born in 1906, Hopper was commissioned a lieutenant junior grade in 1943 at Smith College. She later became the third person in the world to program the first scale digital computer, the Mark I. She also designed the first compiler, the A-O system for the UNIVAC I.

In 1958, Hopper began to work with the second generation computers made possible with a discovery called transistor. Her appointment as a staff scientist at Sperry Rand in 1964 just preceded the third generation of computer hardware made possible by the silicon chip. Although then computers were state of the art, they still depended on compilers developed by Hopper and her staff.

Admiral Hopper's navy career has spanned over 40 years. When asked why she joined the navy she replied, "My eyes are blue and I look good in that color!"

For additional information on Navy Night at the Pops, please contact the USS Constitution Museum at 426-1812.

World War II Destroyer Second Home For Veterans

by Journalist 2nd Class
Estelle R. Noah

A World War II destroyer berthed adjacent to the historic USS Constitution in Boston Harbor has become a second home for a group of former "tin can" sailors who regularly give up their weekends to maintain the ship and exchange memories.

The USS Cassin Young joined the Constitution in 1979 as part of a permanent naval exhibit at the Boston National Historic Park.

"The Cassin Young is the one love affair I have had except for my wife," says a member of the Cassin Young Association, a group incorporated in 1980 to maintain the aging ship and improve public understanding of its role in Naval history.

Named for a Naval officer who received the Congressional Medal of Honor for his heroism during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, the Cassin Young was the last U.S. Navy ship to suffer a Kamikaze attack during the final days of World War II. The destroyer went on to serve in the Korean War prior to decommissioning some 30 years ago, when it was put into "mothballs" at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

The ship was moved to its current home because Boston area residents wanted a ship that was an example of those built at Boston's Charlestown Navy Yard during World War II for display near the Constitution.

The Cassin Young needed special attention when it first arrived in Charlestown.

"It really made you feel bad for the ship," said National Park Service representative Al Phelps, the retired Navy chief gunner's mate who selected the destroyer from the collection of mothballed Navy ships in Philadelphia.

"It look so bad, all rust and peeling paint."

Despite its condition, Phelps judged the destroyer to be the best of the lot and arrangements were made for the U.S. Navy to loan the ship to the Park Service.

Thanks to the Cassin Young Association and the National Park Service, the ship underwent major refurb-bishing and has been well maintained since its move. A visiting Navy Admiral recently observed that the Cassin Young looked good enough to sail.

The Cassin Young Association got its start when former crew member Sumner Wheeler of Newton, read about the ship's arrival in Boston. Although Wheeler's request to "come aboard" was rejected because the Park Service estimated it would take one to three years to make the destroyer sufficiently shipshape for visitors, his enthusiasm about the ship was undeterred. He and former crew member Dave O'Connell of Winthrop met with the Park Service, formed the Association and while she was still in dry dock, decided to hold a reunion, using names obtained from the Navy as well as children and relatives of former crew members.

This research continued while the National Park Service reactivated electrical and ventilation systems and collected and installed missing items ranging from bunk frames and mattresses to 40mm gun mounts, torpedoes, depth charges, life rafts and a wooden 26-foot motor whaleboat.

The Association has played an important role in maintaining the ship ever since. Other organizations also have volunteered their help. The Sea Cadets, Reserve Naval Mobile Construction Battalion "Seabees", the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve, the Navy League of the United States - and even Army reservists - have all pitched in to keep the Cassin Young looking good for thousands of people who tour the ship each year.

The Association is not restricted to former crew members. Tom Hayes, a heating specialist from Newton joined because of his hobby as a boater. At 36, he is far too young to have served in either World War II or Korea, but he has an interest in Naval history and a personal interest in the Cassin Young because his father once served on a Navy destroyer.

The Association, which has $5 annual dues and is open to anyone with an interest in the ship, presently includes 120 former crew members now living throughout the country. Boston area members give tours and maintain the destroyer.

The biggest problem faced by the Association is raising enough money for equipment, paint and wiring. The members pay for painting and equipment when they can and, as a non-profit organization, welcome contributions.

Some of the former crew members brought together by the Association had not seen each other since the end of World War II. Others had stayed in contact through the years. But it was the "rebirth" of their ship that really brought the sailors together.

"The ship was an extension of ourselves," remembered Paul M. Jones, who served as the Cassin Young's Executive Officer during World War II.

"It was a family."

Although the National Park Service has responsibility for the ship, Park rangers gladly allow former crew members to lead tours and relate firsthand experiences aboard the ship to visitors.

In turn, the crew members donate their time and talents to maintenance and repairs the Park Service could not itself afford.

The work is clearly a labor of love.

Moored alongside the historic "Old Ironsides," the three masted frigate built in 1797, the Cassin Young stands as a tribute to its heroic namesake, its dedicated crew and its valuable service in time of war.

"In appearances, the two ships are totally different," according to a booklet written about the Cassin Young.

"But they share a heritage of mission and duty that goes further across time than the century and a half that elapsed between their building dates."

New Public Hospitals Stamp

Charlestown resident and U.S. Postal Services Public Affairs Officer, Jean M. Babcock, presented a framed replica of this new stamp to Dr. George A. Lamb of the Boston Health and Hospitals Department, representing Boston City Hospital, as Dr. Lamb jogged by the USS Constitution during recent World Health Day ceremonies at the Navy Yard. The stamp was designed by Uldis Purins of Newton, who also designed the Public Education stamp which was issued last year in Boston. The Public Hospitals stamp was issued in New York City in conjunction with the 250th anniversary celebration of Bellevue Hospital Center, the oldest remaining public hospital in the U.S. Public hospitals can be traced back to the public almshouses of 16th century England.

Plaque At Swan Boat Landing Honors Lieutenant Michael Quinn

Cross College. He enlisted in the United States Marine Corps and was serving as a Lieutenant in Vietnam when he lost his life in 1969, shortly before his tour of duty was to have ended.

During his school vacations, Michael worked as a Swan Boat driver in the Public Gardens. He was remembered during the ceremonies by his employer at the Swan Boats, Paul Paget, as "a kid who always had a smile", one who was kind and considerate to the children and elderly, alike.

The concept of a memorial to Mike in the area that meant so much to him as a youth, peddling the Swan Boats under the warm, sunny skies, came about last summer when Patrick J. Murphy, a former Marine Infantry Platoon Commander who served with Mike in Vietnam, was walking through the Public Gardens and thought that it would be a fitting tribute to Mike to have a memorial located near the Swan Boat landing. Assistance in securing a memorial was sought and a resolution was introduced in the Boston City Council by Councillor Albert L. O'Neil and in September 1985 the resolution passed and was approved by Mayor Raymond L. Flynn, that such a marker would be provided as an appropriate tribute to Michael Quinn.

Councillor O'Neil and Mrs. Raymond Flynn took part in the Patriots Day ceremonies, which saw the idea of a memorial become a reality.

The warmth, friendship, and caring for Mike Quinn was apparent during the brief but touching ceremony. A USMC Color Guard stood at attention and beneath the waving colors, childhood friends, including Ronan FitzPatrick and Steve Driscoll, shared their remembrances of Mike Quinn, as his mother, Mary, stood by with her own private memories.

These friends have kept the memory of Mike Quinn in the forefront by raising funds annually for the past 16 years to provide a graduating high school senior financial aid to begin his or her college studies, with the awarding of the Lieutenant Michael P. Quinn Scholarship.

Now visitors to the Public Gardens will share in the knowledge that Mike Quinn was a special person, loved by his family and friends and respected by his community and the City of Boston as they view this plaque, dedicated to this modern day patriot.

MARY QUINN, mother of Michael Quinn, and by Channel 7's Joe Day at the dedication ceremonies. Ginger Doherty, his sister, were interviewed.

MAY IS BETTER SPEECH AND HEARING MONTH

The month of May has been designated as Better Speech and Hearing Month by the American Speech-Language and Hearing Association. This is a good time to think about the ability to communicate, which we daily take for granted.

Communication plays a vital role in all aspects of everyday life — in our job, with our families, and our recreation. Speaking, hearing and understanding are essential for human communication, and a disorder in one or more of these skills can interfere with a person's capacity to communicate effectively with others. Statistics show that one out of every ten people has a speech, language or hearing problem.

Most people with communication problems can be helped through medical or surgical intervention and/or through speech-language treatment. Speech-language Pathologists are professionals trained to work with speech, voice, language, stuttering and hearing impairments.

OPEN HOUSE — On Thursday, May 8th, between 11:00 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. the Speech-Language Pathology Unit will be having an Open House at the Bunker Hill Health Center, in the second floor conference room. During this time, we will be happy to answer any questions that you may have; show you our diagnostic and treatment materials and equipment; and offer you handouts and reading material.

If you would like further information regarding Speech, Language and Hearing Disorders or the Open House, please call us at 242-5748.

Students Guaranteed Placement At Community District High

Dear Editor:

All parents of high school age children must be made aware of an important change in the application procedure for the Boston Public Schools. On page 7 of the assignment booklet is the statement "Students will be guaranteed placement in their Community District High School, if it is their first choice, during the specified application process period. This applies to both Boston Public School students and non-Boston Public School students who would register as 'new to Boston.'"

The application period ends on May 2, 1986. Prospective students must register before that date. This can be done at the Community District Office, at the district high school, or at 26 Court Street — 9th Floor. I urge all students and parents who might be considering this as an option to immediately register for their Community High School as their first choice before May 2nd, as after that date a seat can not be guaranteed.

The Community District Office for this area is the District "D" Offices at the Quincy School (426-5552) and East Boston High (569-2959) for admission to Charlestown High and East Boston High.

Sincerely,
Rita Walsh-Tomasini

A MOMENT IN HISTORY The Battle of Bunker Hill

On June 17th at the base of the hill, Stood General Howe, a man of strong will,
The British were marching one more try,
They would take the hill or they would die
Twice repulsed they suffered so dear,
But still they marched showing no fear,
Redcoats were lying all over the slope
The Colonials were waiting still full of hope,
They thought they had beaten His Majesty's Troops
The Battle till now was a large turkey shoot,
Brave were they who held the Hill
But they underestimated the British troops will,
British discipline saved the day
The Colonial troops had to run away
Ammunition was gone, they could not stand,
The British had the Battle well in hand,
They took the Hill, they won the ground
But in counting their losses they soon found,
Victory's as this were not very sound,
Half of their troops were wounded or dead
Not nearly as much blood did the Colonials shed,
They retreated to safety and cowards were called,
By the British troops whom they'd so badly mauled,
Farmers and merchants and hunters alike,
They were not cowards, but knew when not to fight.
It has often been wondered why a monument stands,
To a Battle that was lost in this great land,
Let history show that Bunker Hill
Inspired the people and bonded their will,
They knew they would win, they'd have their day,
The men of Bunker Hill had shown them the way.

ON REACHING TWENTY - ONE

by Charlie McGonagle

Your twenty-first birthday is a personal milestone. It means you have succeeded in surviving the difficulties of your teen years, and you now stand on the threshold of adulthood. You are no longer a child. You have become a woman.

It is strange, I suppose, that you recognize this more readily than we, your parents, do. It is one of those facts of life that parents unconsciously try to avoid, and that children see immediately.

You see, dear, a parent puts an enormous effort into the task of raising a child. There is more care, concern, and hard work involved in parenting than there is in any other single endeavor a person may undertake. All things between parents and children are magnified, but none more than emotions.

A parent's love for a child is greater than a love of any other kind. It can only be defined through experience. And too, the feelings of a child are mirrored through the parent. When the child laughs, the parent laughs. When the child cries, the parent cries.

With time, the child moves from a state of complete dependency toward independency. The journey begins with the first step, the first word, and never takes a step backward. But because the parent shares each of these "firsts" with the child, it is recognized as achievement only, and not as achievement AND another step toward independence. It is this journey that is most difficult for a parent to recognize as a natural one.

After all, when a person has something of which he is proud, he puts great time and effort into its keeping. A child, however, is not a possession. A child is on loan to us. It is a parent's job to prepare that child for adulthood, but the proof of his efforts can only be found in independence. It is oftentimes reluctantly granted by parents who have made this Herculean effort . . .

Yes, you are now twenty-one, and the years have flown by much too quickly, but you have given us all we have asked for and more. You have never given us a moment not to be proud to call you our daughter. Even the best pressed pair of trousers have a wrinkle or two, but we have been fortunate in that the wrinkles in our trousers have been few and far between. We are grateful to you for this.

In your first twenty-one years, you have been the author of a volume of happy memories, many of which may be considered insignificant to you, but will forever be valued by your parents. How easy it is to remember a special Christmas, a vacation trip, or a high school prom, and we do, but a certain smile or a kiss on the cheek that said "Thanks, Dad" carries much, much more meaning.

We wish you now a happy twenty-first birthday, and thank you for all you have meant to us. May you have one hundred and twenty-one more.

O'Connell Announces Candidacy For Eighth Congressional Seat

Robert O'Connell has announced his candidacy as a Democrat for the Eighth Congressional District Seat being vacated by Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill.

ROBERT O'CONNELL

O'Connell was born in the Eighth Congressional District and graduated from Watertown High School in 1962. He began working as a paperboy at age 11 and by age 13 was working at Stand-By Shoe Rebuilders in Watertown. With money he earned working summers during college for the Watertown Highway Department and evenings at Bradlees, he paid for his education, graduating from Worcester State College in 1966. O'Connell served in India from 1966 to 1968 as a Peace Corps volunteer.

When he returned from India, he taught science in the Hartford, Connecticut public schools. O'Connell was a building representative for two unions, Retail Clerks Local 1445 and The American Federation of Teachers Local 1018. He is also a former district manager for General Electric. In recent years, he has been employed as a residential real estate broker and an adult education teacher. He is a homeowner in Allston-Brighton.

O'Connell has been a community leader for 20 years, working with such groups as Massachusetts Fair Share; Question 1 Campaign in 1978 to stop 100% valuation; Senior Citizens Garden Club; Allston-Brighton Separation Committee; Boston Charter Reform Campaign; Boston-Kiev Sister City Association; Massachusetts Freeze Voter; Eighth Congressional District Freeze Committee; Allston-Brighton Nuclear Weapons Freeze Committee; and Fernald School Activity Center. He has been involved in a wide range of issues - property tax reform, zoning violations, upgrading public schools, Senior services and the mentally retarded.

O'Connell said, "Ending the arms race is the number one challenge facing this nation." He quoted Douglas MacArthur's comment about nuclear war, "It contains the seeds of a double suicide." O'Connell went on to say that, "We are spending billions of dollars on needless weapons systems that are causing a massive federal deficit, endangering our lives and diverting funds from the needs of our middle and low income people. This allocation of funds is undermining our nation's economic, educational, social, emotional, physical and political health."

CARD OF THANKS

Perhaps you sent a lovely card,
Or sat quietly in a chair;
Perhaps you sent a floral piece,
If so we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words,
As any friend could say;
Perhaps you were not there at all,
Just thought of us that day.
Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank you so much whatever the part.

Designs For Hayes and Thompson Square To Be Submitted To Browne Fund

Approximately 50 residents gathered at the Charlestown Branch Library on Thursday evening, April 17th to view the schematic drawings and model of proposed designs for Hayes and Thompson Squares. Two alternative designs were presented to the gathering for each square.

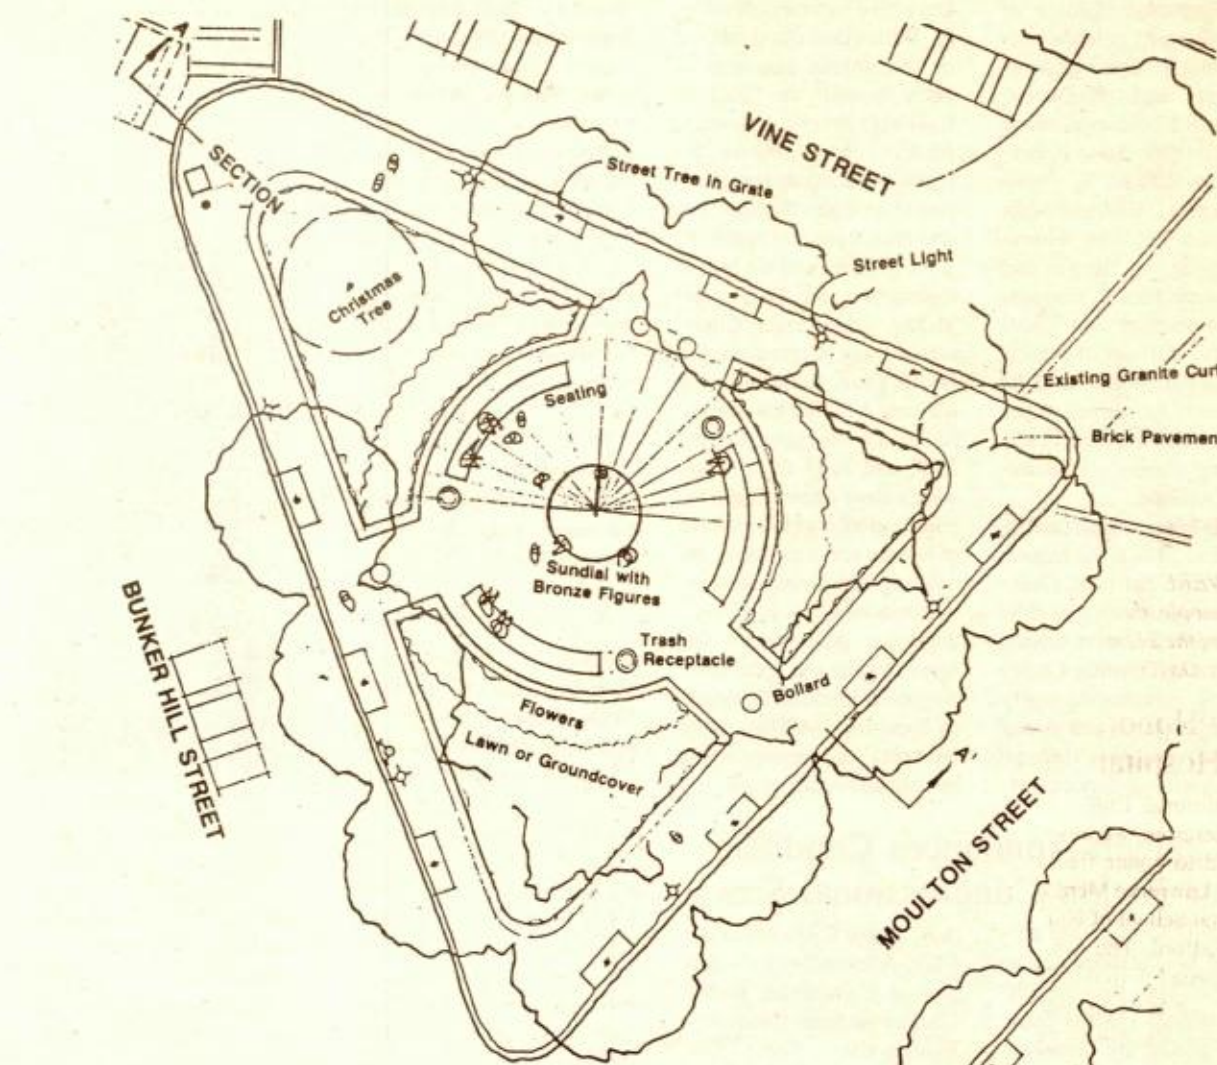

Subsequently, from both verbal comments expressed at the meeting and written comments received from the residents at the conclusion of the meeting, one design for each square has been selected by members of the Charlestown Preservation Society (CPS) and Bunker Hill Tenants Task Force (BHTTF) committees, in conjunction with Nicholas Reed and Rebecca Krinke of the architectural firm of Childs, Bertman, Tseckares & Casendino Inc. (CBT). These designs will be submitted to the Edward Ingersoll Browne Fund at their May 1st meeting.

The submission of the designs for the two squares is the culmination of 16 months of planning by the two community groups, with resident input solicited through questionnaires and community meetings. The Browne Fund must approve the design and the funding for each square. Following approval by the Browne Fund, additional design development and working drawings will be prepared.

Nicholas Reed, architect from CBT, presented the plans for Hayes Square. He stated that the objective of the design was to provide an area with a central focus, which he termed an "activity node". Incorporated in the design will be green space, flowers, benches, trash receptacles, and maybe some play area. He stated the existing granite curb will not only be retained, but cleaned and raised. The plan allows for low plantings in the corners, with trees along the streets, and new lighting. He continued, stating that the object is to keep the maintenance of the area simple, as the upkeep will be a community effort.

Lu Stubbs was the artist selected to design the center focus for the Hayes Square area. She stated that she visited the area on several occasions and met with the CBT architects. Her aim was to create a design that would be specific to the site and take into consideration the residences and schools in the area. She wanted "people to feel that the area was theirs."

The concept of a sundial "grabbed" her and she felt that this would reflect the desires of the residents and would allow for plantings and benches. The design includes a circular granite veneer sundial with two bronze figures of children at the side and one figure on the dial itself. Her design for the numerals on the sundial reflects the historical aspect of Charlestown crafts, as each numeral would be etched with a different Charlestown craftsman and his respective craft.

There is also a location designated for a Christmas Tree in the Square.

Nicholas Reed stated, in response to questions concerning visibility in the area, that the simple design, with only a slight elevation, and the fact that the plantings would be low, would allow "good visibility inside and out and nowhere to hide".

Reed mentioned although the design of the lights for Hayes Square has not been finalized, some discussion had been given to a lantern-type light which is more vandal resistant than those previously installed on Main Street, but he added, no light can be guaranteed.

In presenting the design concepts for Thompson Square, Reed stated that the two triangles in that area may be expressed differently in design, but should tie together.

The plan for the triangle at Austin and Main Streets calls for a raised planter, creating a green island, but allowing pedestrians to move through the area. The area would include flowers, trees and granite steps for seating on the Main Street side. The suggested paving material is brick.

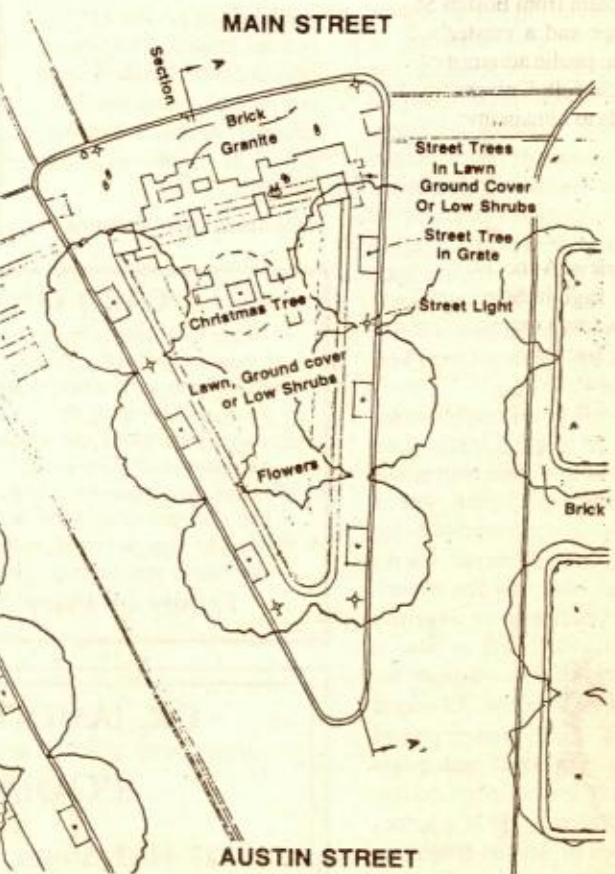

To expand the greenery to the surrounding area, street trees were suggested for the Newworld Bank side of Austin Street and low planters for flowers on the Store 24 side of the triangle. There was also included a provision for a granite container for the community Christmas Tree.

Reed stated that the same pavements, granite seating, lighting and plants will afford a connection to the second triangle, at Thompson Square.

Jeffrey Schiff, the artist selected for the Thompson Square design, told the gathering that he had visited the site on weekdays and weekends and saw how people gathered in the Thompson Square area. He said that this appeared to be a meeting place — similar to a town or

Brophy Honored At Lawrence Memorial Hospital School of Nursing

The traditional Blue and White Exercises were recently held to honor freshmen at the Lawrence Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in Medford. The ceremony has been referred to as "capping" in the long history of the school; with more male students entering the field, the name has been changed to the Blue and White Exercises in which female students are awarded caps, and male students receive blue stripes for their uniforms. Renee L. Brophy of Charlestown was among the members of the class so honored.

The inspiring ceremony began with addresses by Director Marie McCarthy and Class President Karen Haumann; introduction of faculty by Sandra Cooper, R.N., Level I Coordinator. The highlight of the evening, witnessed by family, friends and upperclassmen who filled the Little Theater at Medford High School on April 11th, was the actual conferring of caps and lighting of each student's Florence Nightingale lamp by Pamela Gurka, Student Organization President.

Named Director Of Visitor Information

Dave Flanagan of Marshall Block in Charlestown, is the new director of Visitor Information at Northeastern University.

Before coming to Northeastern, Flanagan worked for Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn as staff assistant and project coordinator in the office of neighborhood services.

Flanagan has a bachelor of science degree in law enforcement from Boston State College and a master's degree in public administration from Suffolk University. He intends to remain involved in local politics and community activity in his spare time.

Northeastern University is the world leader in cooperative education. After the freshman year, Northeastern undergraduates alternate quarters of full-time study with quarters of paid work in fields relevant to their majors. Northeastern offers full- and part-time programs in arts and sciences, business, computer science, criminal justice, engineering, teaching and counseling, law, nursing, and pharmacy and allied health professions.

Patricia Anne Bowler of 3522 Eighth Street, Charlestown was recently awarded a Bachelor of Science Degree from Suffolk University. President Daniel H. Perlman announced.

city center. Schiff said he watched people criss-cross this square, pausing to talk with acquaintances.

While the Austin Street triangle was the entry into the town, Schiff noted that there was very little pedestrian traffic and the design should be less "physical", where the Thompson Square triangle should be open, with plantings and paving connecting the triangle with the surrounding square, highlighting the buildings. While Schiff commented that the area should be largely open, he felt there should be an object of strong visual interest and another area of shade and seating.

According to Schiff, his ed so that a person could get drinking water from the font. At the narrow end of the triangle would be granite walls at varying levels, providing seating under shade trees.

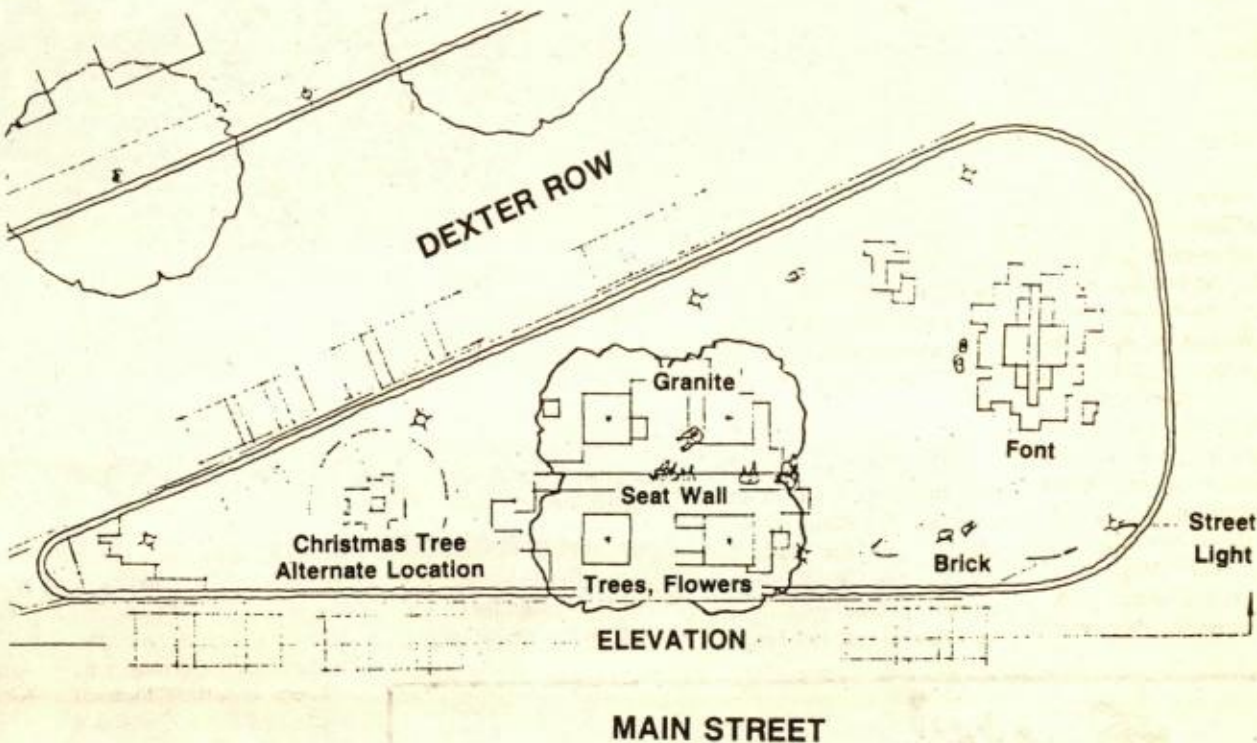

Nicholas Reed, in response to several queries from the audience, stated that the community will bear the responsibility of the maintenance of the squares after completion. He said that CBT will prepare a manual on how the areas should be maintained. Annette Tecce of the Charlestown Preservation Society stated that their organization has allotted funds for the maintenance of Thompson Square and will develop a committee to carry out the maintenance schedule. John Ballard of the Bunker Hill Tenants Task Force said that they are organizing a plan for maintenance of the Hayes Square site. Nicholas Reed noted that the plans call for quality, durable materials, for example brick paving and granite, as well as simple design concepts, which would make the areas relatively simple to maintain.

One question that arose from several persons at the meeting was how the areas would be protected from late night vandalism. Nicholas Reed stated that the areas would be low, lighted, and visible from the roadways. John Grotorex, who cares for the Eden Street Park on his own, related the story of his planting of three rose-bushes in the park, only to go out the other day to find them pulled up and thrown out in the street. He went on to say that unless the groups obtain the support of the Parks Department and the Police Department in patrolling these areas after dark, then "you are all wasting your time".

John Ballard stated that these designs for Hayes and Thompson Squares will be the first ventures by the Browne Fund into the neighborhoods. He stated that the two Charlestown groups, the CPS and BHTTF, have put almost a year and a half of effort into this project and they, as well as the Browne Fund, want to see it succeed.

THOMPSON SQUARE design includes granite coming out from the pavement, with a water fountain emanating from a double bronze urn. There is also planned a seating area with granite walls at varying heights under shade trees. Brick and granite are the materials planned for this heavily traveled area.

Senior Hockey League Starts Muster At First Annual Banquet

by Bernie "Scoop" Kelly

The Matt O'Neil First Annual Senior Hockey Banquet, held Friday evening, April 18, 1986 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, witnessed a clan revival atmosphere as many former C.Y.O. coaches showed up in reunion style to partake in this event. The ceremony was mixed with some good humor along with some serious achievement awards presented to certain players who showed a high degree of talent in certain categories of hockey skills and deserved our praise for their efforts.

A "Bouquet of Praise" goes first to the Chairlady, Mrs. Matt "Sis" O'Neil, and her dynamic ticket committee of Rita Kelly, Mary Johnson, Linda Fitzgerald and Mary Byrnes, for their tireless efforts in making this affair a success.

The Roast Beef Dinner was prepared by Bobby Scalli and his wife, Carol, and consumed by our hungry hockey gladiators as they envisioned what players would receive the trophies for outstanding achievement during the regular season that ended March 15, 1986.

HEADTABLE GUESTS included Reverend Isaiah Sears, Mrs. Matt "Sis" O'Neil, Matty O'Neil, Jr., and guest speaker, Bernie Michaels.

The head table guests included the Reverend Isaiah Sears, whose inspiring oratory about man's dedication to his fellow man, reminded all of us how important those words are today and so vital if our way of life is to survive and prosper; Mrs. Matt "Sis" O'Neil Jr.; the guest speaker Bernie Michaels Esquire; Eddie "Tuxedo" Johnson, League Director; Head Referee Eddie "The Enforcer" Lynch; former "Townies" Bob and Rosalie Hamilton; and finally yours truly, Master of Ceremonies Bernie "Scoop" Kelly.

To open the festivities, Head Referee Eddie Lynch, asked if he could make a "good humor" award to two players before the main program began, so he asked Terrier Captain Paul Wilkins and Bobby Chisholm to the head table and presented them both with ring jewelry boxes, but when they opened their boxes, to their dismay both received "Whistles" to express Eddie's retaliation for remarks made by the players during the regular season. Both players accepted the "awards" in good humor...

Helen Myers (Matt's sister) asked to make a presentation and invited Head Referee Eddie Lynch to the podium where she presented him with a "gold watch" for outstanding service to youth hockey.... which is what they give you just before they send you "out to pasture". Hey, Eddie, give it back quick or you'll have to start eating hay... or is it crow. Well it means early retirement anyway you look at it. He's just a kid on early retirement... Wow!

EDDIE JOHNSON presented Michael Anthony of the Crusaders the League's Most Valuable Player Award.

Finally, the main award presentations got underway with top honors, "The M.V.P. Award" going to Mike Anthony, which says it all about a hockey player possessed with unique talent and perfection who makes a tough play seem routine, and the impossible play look easy!! He's some "Connecticut Yankee" player.

The next presentation was "the Seventh Player Award" presented to Jimmy "Cobra" Greene, for the way he displayed confidence and leadership while maintaining discipline, when vengeance was called for!!! These qualities, along with his play making and scoring abilities, make Jimmy any team's All-Star candidate.

Any leagues' "Top Scorer" warrants respect, and that's what Darryl "Zip" Locke got as he received the league "Top Scorer Award", for his scoring prowess over the leagues' best scorers during the 1986 regular season! Wait till next year, right Darryl?

The "Runner-up" to the top scorer honors, went to Jackie Sullivan, whose margin of one goal separated him from tying BERNIE KELLY presented Jimmy "Cobra" Greene the Seventh Player Award.

DARRYL "ZIP" LOCKE received the Top Scoring Award from Bernie Kelly.

the leader makes him a strong candidate for next year's race for the top award. Jack's ability to score goals is on a par with the leader, making the challenge for the top award exhilarating yet solemn!

TOM BRYSON was presented the Most Outstanding Goalie Award by Bernie Kelly.

The league's "Outstanding Goalie Award" this year went to Huskie Goalie Tom Bryson, whose first place finish hinged on his goals against record that captured the Senior League first place crown! It was the hardest category to pick from, as all team goalies performed brilliantly!!

PAUL WILKINS, Captain of the Terriers, accepted the League Champion Award from Bernie Kelly.

The Terrier Captain, Paul Wilkins, was awarded a Captain's Trophy for his leadership role in bringing his team from last place to a play-off berth and finally to league "Champions".

Others receiving awards were:

- Co-Champions Award — Captain Eddie Kelly (Crusaders)
- League First Place Finisher — Captain Richie Hart (Huskies)
- Un-Sung Hero Award — D.J. "Comet" Harrington
- New Rising Star Award — Matt Mahoney
- Man-ly Award — Bobby Hardy
- The Lady Byng Award — Bob & Warren Fitzpatrick
- Best Performance Award — Chris Thornton

CAPTAIN EDDIE KELLY of the Crusaders accepted the League Co-Champion Award from his father, Bernie Kelly.

D.J. "COMET" HARRINGTON accepted the Unsung Hero Award from Bernie Kelly.

MATT MAHONEY received the Rising Star Award from Bernie Kelly.

THE MAN-LY AWARD was presented to Bob Hardy by Bernie Kelly.

THE BEST PERFORMANCE AWARD was presented to Chris Thornton by Bernie Kelly.

First Annual Awards Banquet

Immediately following the trophy awards, the Banquet Chairlady "Sis" O'Neil, by way of her two daughters Maureen and Cathy, presented "In Appreciation Plaques" to Head Referee Eddie Lynch, Director Eddie Johnson and Manager Bernie Kelly for all the work done in the tradition of her late husband for the benefit of those same young men who were taught some of their hockey skills by the same legendary Matt O'Neil, Sr.!!!

EDDIE LYNCH was presented a Recognition Award "in appreciation, from the O'Neil Family".

MAUREEN O'NEIL presented Eddie Johnson with a Recognition Award "in appreciation, from the O'Neil Family".

CATHY O'NEIL presented an appreciation award to Bernie Kelly.

That ended the awards presentation and brought on the A & A Combo, who entertained the Hockey Champions with their favorite music till closing time.

Note: All season long Eddie Greene worked hard as league photographer at all games without reward, including the Banquet, so Edward, I want to publicly thank you for all your kind efforts. Thanks!

Senator Doris Files Legislation For Anti-Theft Standards For Automobiles

Senator Francis D. Doris has filed legislation for 1986 to help decrease car theft in Massachusetts. The bill, Senate 1191, would establish a board of anti-theft standards for automobiles and would provide for publication of a list of anti-theft locks, alarms and devices. The bill has been assigned to the Committee on Public Safety.

Doris has long pushed for legislation to reduce the high number of auto thefts in Massachusetts, and offers to all Massachusetts residents, a publication by the American Automobile Association of Massachusetts, Car Theft Prevention Guide. The booklet offers advice to prevent car theft and has a full listing of all theft prevention devices and where they can be obtained.

For a free copy, the Senator suggests calling his office at 722-1650.

After being assaulted and robbed of almost $500 on a neighborhood street, Mary contacted the police. Mary felt angry, confused, helpless and unsure about what she had been through and what would happen next. In years past, Mary would have been left to fend for herself. Now however, because of programs financed by offenders, the concerns of victims like Mary are addressed.

Under Massachusetts law, the Massachusetts Probation Service is responsible for collecting any court ordered monies that the offender does not pay on the date of sentencing. During 1985, the Massachusetts Probation Service collected over $10 million in Victim related monies: $8,831,225 in Restitution monies, and $1,374,719 in Victim and Witness fees.

There are currently two types of programs in Massachusetts designed to assist victims of crime. Victim and Witness Assistance programs provide rights and services to victims and witnesses of crime. The programs are entirely funded through fees collected from Massachusetts defendants. Another aspect of victim compensation enforced in this state is Restitution. The underlying principles of Restitution demand that the offender be held financially responsible for damages incurred upon the victim. The amount of Restitution paid is determined by the judge as part of the offender's sentence.

Donald Cochran, Commissioner of Probation, views victim related collections as a high priority for probation. "A primary goal of the Criminal Justice System is to make the victim whole, and offenders must be made to participate in the process of making the victim whole. Restitution and Victim Witness fees are an important part of this process. Also, victims and witnesses are more likely to report crimes and follow through in the court proceedings if they feel that the Criminal Justice System is responding to their needs."

And what of Mary? On the day following the crime, Mary was contacted by an advocate from the Victim and Witness program in her local District Attorney's office. This advocate met with Mary, referred her to immediate counseling, assisted her in completing a Victim Impact Statement, accompanied her throughout the trial proceedings, and kept her informed of the status of her case. Mary's assailant was ordered to pay Mary $500 for her lost money and $200 to cover medical expenses resulting from the crime. Since the offender was unable to pay a lump sum on the day of sentencing, the judge set a payment schedule of $50 per week and made the Massachusetts Probation Service responsible for enforcement of the order and collection of the money.

Commissioner Cochran concluded by stating that "studies on victimization have revealed that the collection of restitution and victim/witness fees not only makes the victim whole, it also has a salutary effect on the offender and seems to reduce further criminal behavior."

Thirty-Five New Positions Available In The Suffolk County Sheriff's Department

Sheriff Dennis J. Kearney has announced that he is seeking applicants for thirty-five new positions in the Suffolk County Sheriff's Department. The new positions have been created as a result of a ruling by Judge Paul J. Liacos of the state's Supreme Judicial Court allowing the construction of fifty-two modular cells on the grounds of the Charles Street Jail to relieve overcrowding pending the construction of a new county jail on a site on Nashua Street. The number of new positions was determined by the established ratio of Officers to inmates projected over the period of a seven day week, consisting of three working shifts per day.

In making the announcement Sheriff Kearney said, "the position of Jail Officer is one of the most important in the county correctional system. It not only allows for continual personal and professional growth but often serves as a stepping stone to other careers in the law enforcement profession."

Applicants for the positions should be at least twenty-one years of age and a resident of Suffolk County (Boston, Chelsea, Revere, and Winthrop). They must be free of any felony convictions and must also be willing to undergo drug testing (urinalysis) as part of an extensive physical examination.

Applicants will undergo a background check, personal interview, and written examination. Upon selection, all applicants will be sent for training to the Massachusetts Criminal Justice Training Council and then will be required to successfully complete a one year probationary period upon graduation from the Council's course.

In addition to thirty-one positions for Jail Officer, there are also two openings for case workers and two openings for attorneys in the Legal Services Department. The current starting salary for Jail Officer is $17,108.

Further information and applications can be obtained from the Suffolk County Sheriff's Department Director of Personnel, John Zuccaro at 227-7640 or by writing him at 215 Charles Street, Boston, MA 02114. The deadline for filing all applications is Saturday, May 31, 1986.

Metropolitan Health Relay Launched In Charlestown

As part of World Health Day 1986 observances, a MetroPolice river patrol boat picked up Governor Michael Dukakis' World Health Day Proclamation from a crew member of the USS Constitution, and started it on a relay to Hopkinton by various means of transportation.

At the Navy Yard early on the morning of April 7th, Boston University R.O.T.C. Marines, ran along Storrow Drive, to deliver the Governor's World Health Day proclamation dock-side in the Navy Yard, where it was encased in a red, white and blue cannister, along with other documents including Mayor Raymond Flynn's proclamation which was delivered by a member of the Boston Bicycle Coalition, and President Ronald Reagan's proclamation which was delivered by the crew of a Coast Guard launch.

THE PROCLAMATION by President Ronald Reagan declaring World Health Day was brought in by Coast Guard motorlaunch to Charlestown Navy Yard Ceremonies.

The cannister was ferried through the Charles River locks near the Science Museum to the Esplanade, where an Olympic gold medal sculler rowed it upstream to the MIT boathouse.

There, reminiscent of Paul Revere's ride, a MetroPolice mounty took it along the banks of the Charles River to Harvard Stadium and transferred it to a MetroPolice motorcycle officer who carried it to the Chestnut Hill Reservoir where a contingent of fifteen MetroPolice officers relayed it the remaining leg of the 26 mile journey to Hopkinton, going down Heartbreak Hill on the way.

WORLD HEALTH DAY Proclamations from Governor Michael Dukakis and Mayor Raymond Flynn begin a journey up the Charles River to Hopkinton by various means of transportation, starting from the Charlestown Navy Yard.
