🔗 amino acids (the building blocks of protein) are available in plant sources and are important for our immune system, the health of our skin and nails, brain health, and the list goes on. We couldn't survive without protein. If your main source of protein is coming from plants, it's recommended to combine different plant based sources in your meals so you are getting a variety of amino acids in your diet. This could include adding some pumpkin seeds to your tofu stir fry, using cashews in your sauces (works great in pasta sauce) or having a bowl of oatmeal with peanut butter in your morning breakfast.
