

HONORABLE JOHANNA BENDER

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON

IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF KING

IN RE: The Petition for Recall of Bellevue City Councilmember Jennifer
Robertson

No. 21-2-02038-7 SEA

DECLARATION OF JENNIFER
ROBERTSON

I, Jennifer Robertson, declare as follows:

1. I am a Bellevue City Councilmember and the subject of the instant recall petition.

I am over the age of eighteen, competent to make this declaration, and have personal knowledge of the facts stated herein.

My Official and Personal Capacities

2. In my political life, I am a Bellevue City Councilmember, which is a nonpartisan position. I was first elected to the City Council in 2009 and re-elected in 2011, 2015, and 2019. My fellow Councilmembers also elected me Deputy Mayor for 2012-14. During my time on the Council, I have led efforts to expand light rail, fund public projects and safety services, and increase funding for human services and affordable housing, while also promoting efficiency and cost-effectiveness to get the most out of public resources while keeping taxes low.

3. In my personal life, I am a mother of three children, a wife, a municipal attorney for a number of Washington municipalities, and from time to time an electoral candidate. I take great personal interest in Washington State and King County public policy issues, community

1 events and life in Bellevue, aesthetics, and connecting positively with others. I also enjoy
2 outdoor activities such as skiing, and am actively engaged in community service and mentorship,
3 including long serving as a local Girl Scout Leader.

4 How Twitter Works

6 4. This case is about my use of Twitter. Twitter is a social media platform that 7 allows anyone to create an account and post short messages of 140 characters each (and in some 8 cases, a link to another tweet or webpage at the end), called “tweets.” Each account has a home
9 page with a description and a published “timeline” of that user’s tweets, starting with the most
10 recent. For each tweet that a user posts, other users who have chosen to “follow” the poster or 11 who are “mentioned” (by their Twitter account) in the tweet will be notified. Once a tweet has 12 been posted, other users can “reply,” which notifies the original poster (along with followers of 13 the replying user) and creates a “thread” of connected tweets. A user can also “retweet”
14 someone else’s tweet, which is then posted on the user’s own timeline with a link to the 15 underlying tweet. For reference, a true and correct copy of Twitter’s explanation of these 16 different types of messages is attached as Exhibit A.

18 5. Twitter also includes tools to manage one’s own interactions with other accounts.
19 One such tool is the “block” feature, which prevents someone from following you, replying to 20 your tweets, sending you direct messages, or viewing your timeline. The timeline remains 21 viewable to other users, and the blocked user remains free to tweet on their own timeline and to 22 reply to and otherwise interact with other users. A blocked user can view an account they have 23 been blocked from, so long as it is a public account, by viewing Twitter when not signed into 24 their own account. For reference, a true and correct copy of Twitter’s explanation of blocking is 25 attached as Exhibit B.

7. Not only is my Twitter account not an official account, but I have actively maintained the account as a personal one and avoided any appearance that it is a governmental account or an extension of my office. As seen in the following screenshot, the account description on the home page lists my role as Councilmember only as the last of my positions, expressly states it is a “Personal account NOT official city account,” includes a personal photo that I own, and links only to my campaign website and not to the City’s website or my website as Councilmember:

8. My use of the account since I created it has reflected its personal nature. I am the only person who ever accesses or manages the account, and only with my personal devices. I use the account predominantly to tweet about my general interests or observations and, to a lesser extent, general news or events related to the Bellevue community. A true and correct copy of my account timeline spanning November 11, 2020 to December 5, 2020 (the period leading up to my blocking of Petitioner Dorsett at issue in this case), is attached as Exhibit C. This is a representative sample of how I have used my account since I created it. (Note that a couple of my tweets from this period are not on the printout because they are embedded in a conversation thread.) As in the following examples, my tweets are mostly about photos I find striking, celebrating the holidays, retweeting articles about Washington State and King County policies, and sharing everyday discoveries such as a useful shortcut button for Microsoft Teams meetings:

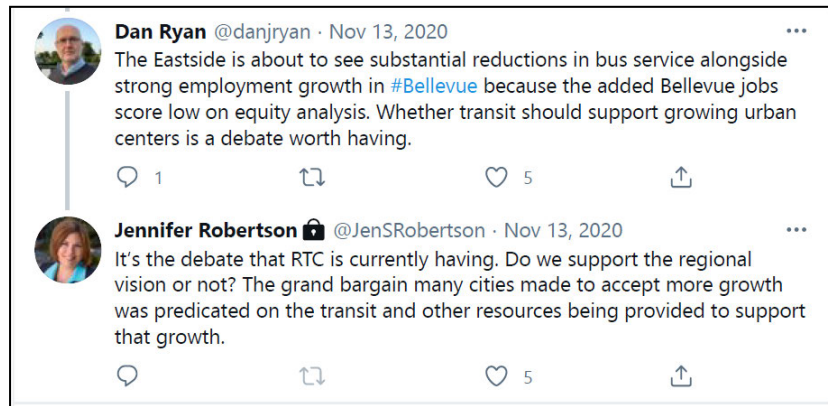

9. During election years, I have also sporadically posted campaign-related messages on the account. These messages have been mostly expressions of gratitude or informational announcements, related to campaign activities or my candidacy in general. The following is a representative example from shortly before my election in 2019:

Notwithstanding the occasional campaign-related tweet, even during election years my Twitter postings have remained predominantly about my personal interests, not about my campaign.

10. Given my regular candidacy and ongoing involvement with the City Council, some of my postings have occasionally referenced the City Council's business or actions, or issues the Council is facing. But these postings are sporadic, only provide general information or reference, and include no indication they are official acts or statements. This is a representative example:

11. In managing my account over time, I have also taken action to ensure that my interactions with other users remain civil, including by blocking other users when necessary. I have blocked my account from other users on only a handful of occasions, due to conduct I found inappropriate. In particular, I have blocked persons who used profanities; who incessantly posted repetitive and off-topic messages directed at me; and in one instance who posted pornographic material. These blocks were not based on the views these persons expressed but rather the improper manner in which they expressed them. In at least one of these instances, the person I blocked seemed to be expressing views that I agreed with, but that was not the point.

12. In addition, I generally do not block people who disagree with me, so long as they are civil. For example, one of my followers disagrees with my perspectives frequently, including criticizing my viewpoint in his own account, but I have never blocked him.

13. The Bellevue City Attorney's Office has confirmed that my Twitter account is a personal one not subject to First Amendment scrutiny and that I am within my legal rights to block other users from the account. One of the persons I previously blocked—before the events giving rise to this case—was the Petitioner himself, Christian Dorsett. At that time, Mr. Dorsett complained to the City Attorney's Office about his account @BPDMMisconduct being blocked from my account. Attached as Exhibit D is an email that the City Attorney's Office sent to Mr.

1 Dorsett and me on November 9, 2018, explaining that my Twitter account is personal and
2 concluding that the First Amendment does not limit my ability to block other users from the 3 account. I have continued to manage the account based in part on this analysis from the City
4 Attorney's Office. My use of the account has not changed since that time.

6 14. In sum, my Twitter account has always been and continues to be a personal one. I
7 am the only one who manages the account, have made clear it is personal, and use it consistent
8 with that designation. I use it predominantly to tweet about personal interests and observations,
9 and to a limited extent to post campaign-related messages; only rarely do I post about issues
10 directly related to my work as a Councilmember, and even then, I do not suggest the messaging
11 is official government conduct or that the account is an extension of my public office.

12
13 Christian Dorsett's Burdensome Communications Directed at Me

14 15. In 2018, I blocked Mr. Dorsett's account at that time, called "@BPDMisconduct," 15 for behavior similar to that described below that I considered uncivil and aggressive. In July of 16 2020, Mr. Dorsett began interacting with my account again, this time from a different account
17 called "@Chris425WA." I recently checked the status of Mr. Dorsett's prior account and 18 discovered it was suspended for violating Twitter's rules, as reflected in the current account page
19 attached as Exhibit E.

21 16. From July 27 to November 10, 2020, Mr. Dorsett used his new account to post
22 dozens of messages either mentioning my account or as replies to my tweets. The volume of 23 these communications was far beyond anything else I have experienced on Twitter. In some 24 instances, Mr. Dorsett repeatedly tweeted the same message mentioning my account. Other
25 times, he would mention me repeatedly in a string of tweets or replies posted in succession. This 26 was all disruptive to me, especially given that I received notifications of each message. Further,
27

1 I considered the vast majority of his replies to my tweets to be off-topic and repetitive. No
2 matter the surrounding context, it seemed that most of his posts criticized Bellevue's Police
3 Chief, referenced Mr. Dorsett's blogs on that and other subjects, and tried to associate me with 4 Donald Trump, racism, and white supremacy. These are but a few examples:

17. From November 11 to December 5, 2020, Mr. Dorsett's Twitter activity directed at my account increased to even higher levels. As noted above, my Twitter timeline covering this period is attached as Exhibit C, including tweets, retweets, and replies. The timeline does not include a couple of my replies embedded in a conversation thread, nor does it show the replies of other users to my messages. Attached as Exhibit F is a true and correct copy of the replies to these messages that Mr. Dorsett tweeted in response. This does not include Mr. Dorsett's original tweets posted during this period. A comparison of these two exhibits shows that Mr. Dorsett replied to most of my messages, whatever the content, and consistently did so with what I considered to be an off-topic diatribe that consistently included some combination of an attack against me, criticism of Bellevue's Police Chief, reference to Donald Trump, and a link to his own blog.

18. On November 11, for example, I tweeted a message thanking our military veterans for their service in honor of Veterans Day, including my own father and brother. In response, Mr. Dorsett replied with multiple messages accusing me of disrespecting veterans "by protecting bad cops," repeatedly saying that I "like Trump," and providing a link to his own blog about wanting to have Bellevue's Police Chief fired. These replies can be reviewed at pages 1-2 of Exhibit F.

1 19. Also on November 11—before the events Mr. Dorsett has identified as the basis
2 for his recall petition occurred—Mr. Dorsett stated his intent to file a recall petition against me:
3 “[A]pparently Jen would have to . . . feel entitled to protect white supremacy with whatever it
4 takes. I’m going to make recall petitions for her and other public officials involved in this farce
5 of a city government, and will change state law if needed.” This tweet can be reviewed at page 4
6 of Exhibit F.

8 My Subsequent Characterization of Mr. Dorsett’s Tweet as “Trolling”

9 20. As explained above, I perceived Mr. Dorsett to be constantly replying to my 10 tweets with off-topic, repetitive, aggressive messages and mentioning my account in his own
11 similar tweets. As a general matter, I simply ignored these communications and did not respond.
12

13 21. On one occasion, however, another Twitter user responded to one of Mr.
14 Dorsett’s messages that asserted that a fellow Councilmember and I were “Trump supporters,”
15 and the other user appeared to believe that assertion, so I replied. My reply clarified that no
16 Bellevue City Councilmembers supported Trump and expressed to the other user that she had 17 “bit on a twitter troll,” and then sarcastically directed Mr. Dorsett to “keep on trolling.” A copy
18 of this string (without the third party’s tweet, which has since been deleted from Twitter) can be 19 reviewed at page 5 of Exhibit F.

21 22. I understand “trolling” to be a subjective, malleable term that someone can use to 22 describe online messaging that tends to be misleading, harassing, or otherwise burdensome. In 23 my opinion, Mr. Dorsett’s tweet in this instance asserting that I was a “Trump supporter”
24 qualified as trolling. The assertion was made in response to a tweet from another user about a
25 different city council (Seattle), so I believe it was off topic. I also believe it was false, given that 26 I had not supported former President Trump; I value my role as a nonpartisan official and 27

1 actively stay out of federal partisan politics in favor of pursuing balanced solutions to local
2 policy issues. In my opinion the tweet was also inflammatory, because it was made at a time of 3 great political sensitivity about former President Trump in the aftermath of the 2020 presidential 4 election.

6 23. The tweet at issue was also part of a broader pattern of what I considered to be 7 off-topic, repetitive, and antagonistic tweets Mr. Dorsett had been directing at my account as
8 discussed above and reflected in Exhibit F. It is my opinion that this broader pattern of conduct
9 also qualifies as “trolling.”

10 24. In reaction to my lone reply to his voluminous and repetitive tweeting, Mr.
11 Dorsett accused me of defaming him and submitted a damage claim to the City, which the City
12 denied. As reflected in Exhibit F, Mr. Dorsett proceeded to include this defamation issue as one
13 of the topics he covered in his replies to my tweets (in addition to the Police Chief, Donald 14 Trump, and white supremacy), repeatedly claiming I defamed him and that he intended to file a 15 lawsuit against me for damages.
16

17 My Blocking of Mr. Dorsett from My Twitter Account in December 2020

18 25. Mr. Dorsett’s pattern of behavior, which I considered to be vexatious, continued
19 until December 5, 2020. A few days prior, I had tweeted about the pandemic causing a rise in 20 unemployment for women and thus setting back progress on gender equality, linking to an 21 opinion article by Melinda Gates on the subject. On December 5, Mr. Dorsett replied with a 22 tweet I read as having nothing to do with the pandemic, unemployment, or gender equality, but 23 instead complaining once again about my allegedly “false & defamatory statement” against him.
24 A copy of this exchange can be reviewed at page 19 of Exhibit F.
25
26
27

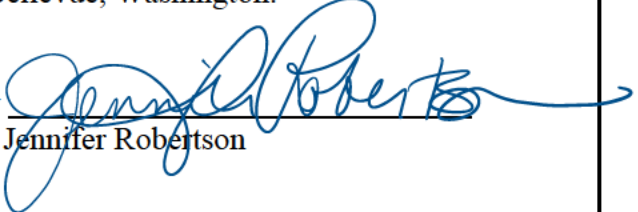

1 26. It was at this point that I decided to block Mr. Dorsett's Twitter account from my
2 own. The reason I did this was to mitigate what I considered the uniquely voluminous and 3 disruptive nature of his communications, specifically off-topic and repetitive tweeting directed at 4 me. Once I blocked Mr. Dorsett, he was no longer able to view or reply to my tweets, nor could
5 he send me direct messages, and I ceased receiving notifications when he mentioned me.

7 27. After being blocked, Mr. Dorsett could still view my tweets if he were logged out
8 of his account until such time I made my account private. He also could keep tweeting about me
9 and mentioning my account, which he has done. Mr. Dorsett could also still communicate with 10 me via email at my City Council email account and make public comments to the City Council.
11 He used both email and the Council's public comment period to communicate with me and my 12 fellow Councilmembers after I blocked him on Twitter.
13

14 28. My blocking of Mr. Dorsett was only temporary. To minimize any further 15 distraction and avoid similar burdens going forward, I opted earlier this year to turn my entire 16 Twitter account to private status. This means only users whom I have specifically approved to 17 follow me can view my tweets or timeline. While I would prefer to have a more broadly
18 viewable account, both to facilitate my connection to the community and because I regularly run
19 for election, at this point it does not seem worth it.

General Tweets

- Definition: A message posted to Twitter containing text, photos, a GIF, and/or video.
- Where it appears for the sender: On the sender's profile page and Home timeline.
- Where it appears for the recipient: In the Home timeline of anyone who is following the sender.

Mentions

- Definition: A Tweet containing another account's Twitter username, preceded by the "@" symbol. For example: "Hello @TwitterSupport!"
- Where it appears for the sender: On the sender's profile page of public Tweets.
- Where it appears for the recipient: In the recipient's Notifications tabs, which is accessible only by them. Additionally, mentions will appear in the recipient's Home timeline view (not on their profile) if they are following the sender.
- Who else sees it? Anyone on Twitter who is following the sender of a mention will see the Tweet in their Home timeline.
- Places it will never appear: On anyone's profile page, unless they wrote the message.

Note: When you post a Tweet beginning with a username, only people who follow both you and the account you are mentioning will see the the Tweet in their Home timeline. If you'd like all of your followers to see the Tweet, the best way is to Retweet or Quote Tweet.

Replies

- Definition: A reply is when you respond to another person's Tweet.
- Where it appears for the sender: On the sender's profile page.

About Retweets

You'll find Retweets in your timeline, your profile, and other profile pages on Twitter. Learn more about where Retweets (<https://help.twitter.com/en/using-twitter/retweet-faqs>) (and your Tweets that have been Retweeted by others) appear on Twitter.

About Retweets with comment

The Quote Tweet (<https://help.twitter.com/en/using-twitter/how-to-retweet>) feature allows you to Tweet another person's Tweet with your own comment added.

About replies sent from accounts with protected Tweets

By protecting your Tweets (making them private), you're telling us that you don't want anyone to see any of your Tweets unless you've accepted their follow request. If your Tweets are protected and you send a reply or mention, only those you've approved to view your Tweets will ever be able to see them. If you want to send Tweets such as mentions or replies to people who are not following you, unprotect your Tweets to make them public.

Where replies between other people appear

If you're not the sender or recipient of a reply, you may still see a reply to someone else in your timeline.

You will see replies in your Home timeline if you are following both the sender and the recipient of the reply, or if we think the reply is relevant to you. Otherwise, you won't see the reply unless you visit the sender's profile page.

If you send a reply to someone, it does not show on their profile page. Only replies that person has sent will show on their profile.

EXHIBIT B

How to block accounts on Twitter

Block is a feature that helps you control how you interact with other accounts on Twitter. This feature helps users in restricting specific accounts from contacting them, seeing their Tweets, and following them.

Note: Learn about our advanced block options (<https://help.twitter.com/en/using-twitter/advanced-twitter-block-options>) for more detailed information on this feature.

Some important things to know about block:

- Accounts you have blocked cannot follow you, and you cannot follow an account you have blocked.
- Blocking an account you are currently following will cause you to unfollow that account (and them to unfollow you). If you decide to unblock that account, you will have to follow that account again.
- Blocked accounts do not receive a notification alerting them that their account has been blocked. However, if a blocked account visits the profile of an account that has blocked them, they will see they have been blocked (unlike mute (<https://help.twitter.com/en/using-twitter/twitter-mute>), which is invisible to muted accounts).

- If you block an account and they choose to report your account, any of your Tweets that directly mention them will be available for them to view and attach during the reporting process.
- You will not receive notifications from accounts you block, or accounts that you do not follow who mention you in conversations started by accounts that you block. You will, however, see notifications from accounts you follow when they mention you in a conversation started by an account you block. If you'd like to view all of your mentions, you can do so by searching <https://help.twitter.com/en/using-twitter/twitter-search> your username.

Important: Blocking only works if the account you've blocked is logged in on Twitter. For example, if the account you've blocked isn't logged in or is accessing Twitter content via a third party, they may be able to see your public Tweets. Please keep this in mind when you choose to share content on Twitter.

Blocked accounts cannot:

- Follow you
- View your Tweets when logged in on Twitter (unless they report you, and your Tweets mention them)
- Find your Tweets in search when logged in on Twitter
- Send Direct Messages to you
- View your following or followers lists, likes or lists when logged in on Twitter
- View a Moment you've created when logged in on Twitter
- Add your Twitter account to their lists
- Tag you in a photo

Tweets from blocked accounts will not appear in your timeline. However, please note that you may see Tweets or notifications in your timeline for the following:

1. Tweets from others you follow that mention accounts you have blocked.
2. Tweets that mention you, along with an account you have blocked.

Totally agree but if you follow the story behind the books, Diagon Alley is based on Victoria Street in Edinburgh which is a curved street of shops with store fronts in a variety of colors and really nothing like Pike Place Market. Similar in idea; very different aesthetic.

JenSRobertson.png;

Dear Mr. Dorsett:

I write in response to your November 2, 2019 email regarding Councilmember Jennifer Robertson's Twitter account @JenSRobertson.

As you know, you currently are not blocked from Twitter accounts belonging to the City of Bellevue. The @JenSRobertson account that is the subject of your latest communication is not a City account.

As stated in the tagline of the Twitter account at issue, the account is a personal/campaign account and not an official City account. The views expressed on @JenSRobertson are Ms. Robertson's. Ms. Robertson does not use the account to provide specific details about her work with Council or Council discussions, decisions, or actions. The City has not directed Ms. Robertson to prepare and/or use this account as a means of communicating in her capacity as a Councilmember. The fact that this is a personal account is also evident from the posts relating to Ms. Robertson's job as an attorney, her family and activities completely unrelated to the City of Bellevue or her role as a Councilmember. As such, this account does not constitute any type of public forum that limits Ms. Robertson's ability to block anyone from viewing and/or commenting on her posts. Similarly, she cannot be obliged by the City or any other individual to change her account settings, which are her personal choice.

Based on the foregoing, I respectfully deny your requests.

Best,
Nick

RE: @JenSRobertson Twitter must Cease and Desist Blocking @BPDmisconduct

Hello,

Recently the City acknowledged the current Court ruling regarding Twitter as a public forum and forced all City of Bellevue official accounts to unblock my account "@BPDmisconduct" and utilize the Ignore function.

Council member Jennifer Robertson, who clearly uses the Twitter account @JenSRobertson as a means to communicate with the public about issues of public interest and to promote the councilperson's political campaign, has now illegally placed me on block list for unfavorably responding to support of Chief Mylett. (<https://FireMylett.com>)

The assertion by councilperson Robertson that the account on Twitter is "personal" and not subject to the same rules as "Official" accounts is clearly erroneous.

The page is being used to discuss official City of Bellevue business and other matters of public interest and concern, including a campaign for City Council. As a attorney, it should be clear to the councilperson that this is qualifying as "official" communication with the public.

I demand councilperson Robertson follow the example of councilperson Jared Nieuwenhuis ("<https://twitter.com/BVUEjared>") and not block a citizen from a public forum.

For clarification, a "personal" account must be

- Set to Private
- Post nothing of the public interest in a public forum while the individual in question is serving in a public office.
- Use Twitter reporting procedures to enforce any site policies

I demand that:

- The official account of councilperson Robertson @JenSRobertson be set to "Private" or alternately,
- my account be unblocked by Friday, November 9th at 5:00PM PST.

Again, the Ignore function may be utilized.

Additionally, I must now demand that:

- The City officially inform all your elected officials to follow the law and issue a memorandum to that effect regarding Twitter, and post that memo publicly on your own social media feeds and websites.

If my demand is not met I will file a lawsuit for damages for violation of my constitutional rights. Any further violations may be considered willful conduct and I will seek legal remedy for this infliction of emotional distress.

The City has thus been duly informed.

I would now inform the City that the King County Sheriff's Office is also investigating my criminal allegations against the Bellevue police department. The City may need to review my claims, and place a few personnel on administrative leave given that is your policy whenever there are criminal allegations (except in my case, it seems? or is it only when you KNOW the allegation is false, not TRUE like mine?). <https://bellevue-wa-police-misconduct.blogspot.com>

I suggest you start with Captain Hoffman and Captain Ingram... we'll get to the Patrol officers soon enough, then the rest of the City government that covered this up.

You know who you are.

Sincerely,

/S/ Christian Dorsett

But I feel ur pain. Idk what's Bellevue's actual plans are for its low income residents. Push everyone out to rural Tacoma I guess, and continue selling houses, multiunit highrises, and office space to foreign investors.
