Two Townies Named To Park League Hall Of Fame

by Walter Mortimer

The Boston Park League, the oldest amateur baseball league in the country, will induct Phil Kelly and Chuck Chevalier, along with nine other former star ballplayers at its Third Annual Alumni Reunion - Hall of Fame Dinner on Friday evening, November 2nd at Lombardo's in Randolph. It's a fine tribute to the two Charlestown residents, that after all these years, the league still remembers them as two of the best to ever play during its 55 year history.

Phil and Chuck played when the league was in it's hay-day. Can you imagine 6,000 people down at Sullivan Square back in 1961, when the Charlestown Hawks swept the Dorchester Royals in four straight to capture the league championship. Chuck and Phil were teammates on that club, as Chuck singled to center with the bases loaded to win the fourth and deciding game. Or back a little further to the late 40's when Phil Kelly was playing for the mighty Dick Casey Club, who's team won 11 Park League titles. The play-offs would draw 10,000 fans to Dorchester Town Field. There were so many people there, the players would have to walk behind the first base stands and come in from right field, Phil would say.

Phil Kelly is now 62 years old, and looks back with fond memories to the 20 years he played Park League baseball. He met and played with a lot of fine people, and had a lot of enjoyment along the way. Take it from those who saw Phil play in his prime; Dick Casey went after the best he could find, and Kelly was his third baseman. Kelly, a big broad-shouldered Irishman, consistently hit the long ball, and possessed a rifle arm. One of the truly nice guys in athletics, Kelly continued to be involved with youth programs, as a Little League and Babe Ruth coach. You might also find Phil umpiring baseball, softball, or refereeing a basketball game.

Chuck Chevalier, now 44, was one of the best all round athletes to come out of Charlestown High School. The Bob Cousy of

Engine Company 50 To Be Assigned New Equipment

Fire Captain John S. Varner, Jr. of Engine Company 50 at 34 Winthrop Street Charlestown, has been notified by Leo D. Stapleton, Fire Commissioner of the City of Boston that the Company will receive a new engine, which will be in service in approximately three weeks.

The new engine, which is a 1250 gallons per minute pump, has been purchased by the City for a cost of over $99,000.

Stapleton, in his announcement to the Company, stated that it has been many years since a new piece of apparatus has been assigned to Engine Company 50 and this would allow the officers and members to have better equipment with which to perform their assigned duties. Stapleton went on to say that "the community that you serve is entitled to the best fire protection available and the new unit should help to accomplish this goal."

Engine Company 50, under the command of Fire Captain John S. Varner, Jr., has a complement of four officers and 17 firefighters.

The Engine Company

received national attention in 1981 when the community rallied to retain Engine 50 when the station was slated to be closed and Engine 50 removed under the cutbacks of Proposition 2 1/2. Residents conducted a 24 hour a day sit-in at the station house and held numerous marches and rallies to retain this piece of fire apparatus, which residents considered vital to the safety of the community.

City, the process used in issuing the permit, how to stop illegal construction, how to determine the legality of a building permit. Rogers will relate specific problems in the Charlestown community with regard to building permits and will have on hand a list of legal permits issued in Charlestown.

This topic was suggested at a recent CCRD meeting and should prove to be an interesting discussion. All are welcome to attend.

The final lecture in the series will be held on November 1, 1984. The Future City will examine the question what is a good city? Quality and issues in the future of Boston and other cities. Michael Southworth will be the lecturer.

Vandalism - A "Game" With No Winners

by Marianne Martin

Vandalism is a senseless crime which exists for no other apparent reason than, as one victim states, "for kicks."

While vandalism is a crime not restricted to Charlestown, the acts committed in this area range from rocks being thrown at cabs, slashed car tires, cars stolen and demolished, broken windows, graffiti, and litter.

To the victim, there is nothing amusing about vandalism. In fact, most victims interviewed were angry about their own particular situations.

For one business woman, the damage done to her car required extensive repair which not only cost her money but one month without a car.

To this woman whose business is sales, lack of transportation translates into loss of business, loss of sales, and loss of income as well as additional expenses.

Other victims who have had their car tires slashed discover that insurance does not cover damage to tires.

A Bunker Hill Project resident reports that in the nine years he has lived in Charlestown, an average of 50 panes of glass are broken each year in his apartment. Each pane of glass costs him $75.00 to replace.

"I am not being treated fairly," the resident stated. "Not by those breaking the glass and not by those who are supposed to protect me."

While no one has a simple answer to why vandalism occurs, both area businesses and residents agree that the situation must end. Unfortunately, the solution is as difficult to define as the reason why the problem exists.

Some victims blame the lack of adequate police patrol. Others blame the parents of the vandals. Yet still others blame society as a whole for tolerating the activity.

Several victims state that vandalism is the result of lack of respect for others. One woman stated she has seen youth between the ages of 12 and 14 years old vandalizing cars in her area and while the crimes committed anger her, the attitude of the vandals scares her.

"These kids know they can get away with it," she stated. "They don't care. I'd like to know where are their parents."

Another woman called the situation "pretty frightening. We've reached the point of no return. The problem has gone from the cover of the night to mid-day right on Main Street."

"I can't believe our neighborhood has come to this," stated one resident.

Mishawum Park tenants have repeatedly informed the police department officials of the problems affecting their area, namely drug trafficking, public drinking and vandalism.

While arrests have been made and police patrols more visible, the attitude of those loitering has not changed.

Mishawum Park tenants with area abutters have formed the Mishawum Area Tenants Association, similar to the Bunker Hill Housing Tenants Association to form a unified voice to fight the problems.

Police department officials who have met with the association have stated that the problem is difficult to eliminate but can be "moved" from the area.

However, while tenants would be more than appreciative to see the problems removed from their front doors, they would rather see the problems eliminated.

"Isn't there any way we can put fear into these kids?" one woman asked.

"Lack of human respect" is the term used to describe the situation by many interviewed. Vandalism has become a "game," only in this game there are no winners.

A recent "game" affecting many residents is rock throwing at cabs servicing those wishing to visit Charlestown as well as residents.

One area business woman cited an example of one afternoon, after attending a meeting downtown, she was unable to get a cab back to Charlestown.

"I tried ten cabs. One driver actually threw me out of his cab when I told him I was going to Charlestown. Another one told me he'd only take me as far as Thompson Square."

In an article in the August 23, 1984 edition of the Patriot, cab driver Joseph W. Omogrosso outlined the situation which he called "a blatant case of idiocy."

Omogrosso stated that rocks and other debris are "hurled" at the cabs. This dangerous problem which once resulted in an elderly woman have glass lodged in her eye, is one which cab drivers "don't encounter... anywhere else not even in the worst of ghetto neighborhoods."

The article stated that while most people "are genuinely appalled" there are still others who "sit along the streets and watch as if it were a sporting event."

Omogrosso stated he could not understand why throwing rocks at cab occurs since the passengers are Charlestown residents.

Michael Griffin, Director of the Kent Community School, stated that there may be several reasons for vandalism, a major reason may be too much time on the hands of the youth.

According to Griffin, 23 windows were broken at the Charlestown High School gym and the Kent School was graffitied with white paint this summer.

"I call out back 'death valley' (behind the high school gym). It's so dark and isolated," stated Griffin. "People can go back there and do whatever they want."

The Kent School, on the other hand, was vandalized "in full view of everything," stated Griffin. "Hayes Square is much better lit. If you drive by, you can't miss it."

Griffin stated, "One has to ask where are the patrols? You don't knock out 23 windows in five minutes nor can the front of the Kent School be vandalized" without witnesses.

Griffin cited two means of preventing future problems, namely, better lighting and increased police patrol. However, neither is the solution to the problem stated Griffin.

Increased police patrols, arresting offenders and increased fines are only short term solutions. The long term solution suggested Griffin is "to provide jobs, increase activities to satisfy people's needs, teach responsibility, respect for neighbors and neighbor's property, and redevelop the work ethic."

The irony of the Kent Community School vandalism is the fact that this school program offers activities to keep kids off the streets.

According to Deputy Joseph Saia, Area A, Boston Police Department, vandalism "is an on-going problem" which has always existed "in the city as a whole not just Charlestown."

Saia agreed with Griffin that better lighting would, in fact, deter the acts of vandalism, but added that residents must also take additional measures to better protect their own property such as checking property, better security, and parking in a well lit area.

The Deputy also suggested a neighborhood crime watch where residents look out for each other and each other's property.

Saia stated that many are quick to criticize the police department for delayed response to crime situations. What residents fail to realize, continued Saia, is that calls are prioritized according to severity of the crime, with life threatening situations being given first priority.

According to Saia, there are two types of patrol units responsible for answering calls: Rapid response and service units. Rapid response units answer calls labeled "priority one," calls which are crimes in progress such as murder, manslaughter, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, breaking and entering, larceny, and auto theft.

Service units respond to calls referring to a crime which has been committed. The duties of the service unit is one of report taking, but not strictly limited to this.

Using computer print outs which record the time of call to the station, the time which a dispatcher assigns a unit to a call, and the time of unit arrival at the scene, Saia stated that "the average time for a unit to arrive for a crime in progress call from the dispatcher is three to four minutes."

"Charlestown has the fastest response time of any area of the city," stated the Deputy. "No other area even comes close." close."

Saia stated, "If you call (911) and report a crime in progress, you will get rapid response immediately. If you call to report a crime (which already happened), you can wait longer."

While Saia stated he can verify response time by means of the computer printout and also listening to a tape recording to see how the call was reported, he can sympathize with victims. "People think it takes longer when it happens to them."

According to Saia, serious crime is down in Charlestown.

"Attendance at the Police community meeting is also low," stated Saia, "which reflects the low crime rate. When things are going good, few people show up. But when things are bad, a lot of people show up."

The meetings which are held every second Tuesday of the month at the Kent School at 7:00 p.m., allow for community residents to complain about services or seek advice, stated Saia.

Residents with opinions about vandalism or any other crime or police related problems are encouraged to attend.

The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, November 13, 1984 at 7:00 p.m. at the Kent School, 50 Bunker Hill Street.

Voke Supports Ban On Mandatory Retirement

With the support of Representative Richard A. Voke, Governor Michael S. Dukakis recently signed into law legislation which bans the mandatory retirement of workers at any age.

The law, which has been hailed as "the most important piece of civil rights legislation in some time," has been given strong praise by Representative Voke as a law that "will make it clear that no one in Massachusetts can be forced to retire or be denied a job because of age. Now, older workers can decide for themselves when they will retire from their jobs."

Because the bill was signed with an emergency attachment, the law takes effect immediately instead of the usual 90 day period faced by most new pieces of legislation. The emergency measure is seen as a protection to older workers, who otherwise might have been forced out of work by their employers before the legislation took effect.

The law also bans any discrimination in working conditions because of age, including salary, promotions or work schedules. According to Voke, this means that "from now on, people will be judged for a job based on their ability and not on how old they are."

Similar to the Federal Retirement Law, three categories of employment are not covered. Public safety workers, like police and fire personnel; policymaking executives who would receive pension benefits of $27,000 or more annually; and tenured faculty members at private educational institutions do not fall under the scope of the measure.

"This law is very important," concluded Voke "because it will allow older workers the chance to look forward to continuing their jobs for as long as possible."

Massachusetts now joins seven other states in banning mandatory retirement.

A Joyful Jubilee Marks 125th Ann St. Francis de Sales

On Friday evening, October 12th, St. Francis de Sales Parish celebrated their 125th Jubilee Year with a dinner dance at Caruso's Diplomat in Saugus. It was truly a joyful celebration for all in attendance and one that will never be forgotten. A delicious dinner of prime rib with all the fixings was served and music was provided by Dick McManus and the Irish Revolution, who did a remarkable job playing 'til the early hours.

This celebration was a time for all friends, relatives, neighbors and former "Townies" and parishioners to get together and exchange stories and recount memorable times of years gone by.

William "Bill" Connell was the Toastmaster for the evening and did a fine job in introducing the head table guests among whom was Most Reverend Thomas V. Daley, who at this time is on his way to Florida where he will be the new Archbishop in the Palm Beach area. Bishop Daley congratulated St. Francis de Sales on their Jubilee and offered his prayers for happiness for many more years to come.

Reverend Daniel Mahoney, Pastor of St. Francis de Sales and Overseer of Jubilee 125, also spoke and stated that this celebration will never be forgotten and that happiness filled the ballroom along with the music and dancing. "But more than that," he continued, "happiness filled the hearts of everyone present." He went on to thank the Jubilee Committees who have served since May of 1983 in preparation for the celebrations, which were huge successes. Father Mahoney stated that he was also grateful to the Priests and Sisters, both those from the parish and those formerly missioned here for their presence among the guests in attendance during the Jubilee celebrations. He also thanked the many good friends, relatives, guests, parishioners and former parishioners who came home to attend the dinner and assured them that their presence helped make the celebration a real Parish Jubilee!

At the conclusion of the formal program, Father Mahoney was presented with a few gifts from his Jubilee 125 Committees. Bobbie Delaney presented him with a beautiful bouquet of green carnations mixed with an assortment of Irish bills from the Banquet Committee. Gus Charbonnier, Co-Chairman of Jubilee 125, gave Father Mahoney a poster of the publicity of Jubilee 125 with a card of thanks on the back signed by all the committee members. Essie Martin then presented him with his favorite Kelly-green sweatshirt of St. Francis de Sales with the lettering of "I Survived Jubilee 125" on the back. Mike Walsh presented Father Mahoney with a beautiful plaque with the logo of the Church, the Jubilee 125 insignia, and also an inscription honoring him as the Overseer and Chairman of the Jubilee 125.

As each and every person in attendance entered the ballroom, a Jubilee 125 Souvenir Program Book was presented to them. This Program Book, and all the work within, was provided by members of the various committees: Program and Ad Book Committee—Co-Chairpersons, William Marsden and Mike Venezia. Members - Helen Gillen, Marilyn Greatorex, Margaret Kozlowski and Peggy Lynch. This committee did a beautiful job in matters such as soliciting advertisements, distributing books and making this Book a huge success, which it very well was. Also to be recommended for a job well done are Linda Kilmartin and Mary Ellen McGrath who comprise the History Committee. These two young ladies took the past 125 years of the history of St. Francis de Sales and compiled an updated history of not only the Church itself, but also of the Priests who have served at St. Francis de Sales since its beginning, in 1859.

Also, part of the Jubilee 125 Committees related to this celebration and not to be overlooked by no means, is the Ticket Committee which had the job of making sure that tickets were distributed to those who had placed calls over the past six months and also worked with the Banquet Committee in arranging seating. This committee also deserves a lot of praise for doing a fine job and include Co-Chairpersons Mary Campbell, Sue McKeon and Barbara Swales. Members were Ellen Burke, Patricia Dewey, Kathleen Devlin, Ann Martin, Peggy McCabe, Renee Monteith, Peg Pigott and Kathleen Puliafico.

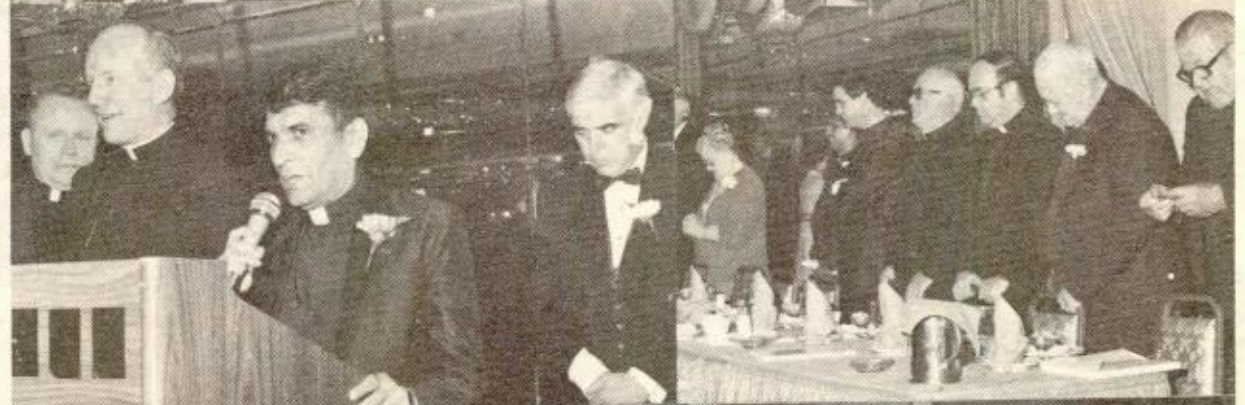

The Transportation Committee was responsible for hiring the buses for the event, assuring the arrival and departure of the celebrants in a most comfortable ride. Co-Chairpersons were Margaret Canney and Helen Reilly and members were Bernie Boylan and Mary Ducey.

The Photography Committee also played an important feature in this Jubilee 125 History Book. Co-Chairpersons were Roberta DiCarlo and Charlene Flaherty, who took pictures, and there were many, and picked through them to assure just the right ones to coincide with the history of the parish. Also to be commended for their photography are Bill Connors and John Dillon. These two gentlemen took hundreds of pictures of both the Jubilee Mass and the dinner, many of which were printed in the Program Book, and the Patriot. Another committee which also did a truly remarkable job was the Invitation Committee which handled the invitations for the Jubilee Mass as well as assisting in the Social Celebration. Co-Chairpersons were Helena Loud and Ruth McLaughlin with members Joan Dyer, Beverly Gibbons, Carol Giordano, Eleanor McCabe, Gail O'Brien, Mary Ann Remy, Sister Ann Rita, Sister Assumpta Maria, Sister Deidre, Sister Winifred, Adeline Tkachuck, Florence Tognarelli and Karen Weafer.

This banquet was a magnificent success due to these committees, but not to be left unnoticed is the Banquet Committee which had the task of setting prices, planning for a Toastmaster for the event, the meal, the music and flowers, the head table and all the seating arrangements, the date of the function and all the details of the banquet, and our hats go off to them. Co-Chairpersons were Bobbie Delaney and Frank McInnis who were assisted by Phil Carr, Kathy D'Urbano, Marty O'Brien, Eleanor Sawyer, Winnie Walsh and Bud Whelan.

Well, that just leaves one committee unaccounted for, which is "yours truly" the Publicity Committee. We have been keeping you informed and will continue to do so until Jubilee 125 is over. We hope we have you folks updated on all the news from the "top of the hill." We feel that this milestone reached at St. Francis de Sales will hopefully keep us friendly and respectful of our fellow neighbors in the future. Until the next story, we thank you for listening to us.

Gratefully yours,

A Touching Tribute

God has taken her away from the 20 months of pain she endured. The two year old red head is now a saint. Although her stay was brief, she will long be remembered.

Many knew her, many more did not. The town, which is well known, (usually publicized on a negative slant), came together to show support. All that people needed to know was that there was a family in need and they responded and what an overwhelming response it was! Within 24 hours of the start of the idea, a plan of action was taken and committees were made. The time was a great success, with many, many people to thank.

Countless thanks have to go to the friends, neighbors, merchants, political leaders, clergy, civic leaders and other townspeople who open their hearts so freely. No other community could match the sincerity that was the main ingredient in this success.

With Gratitude,
Patricia MacInnes
and the Pamela Dacey

Honesty Alive And Well In Charlestown

Honesty is, indeed, alive and well in the Charlestown community and this fact was clearly in evidence last Wednesday morning when Timothy O'Brien and Mark Quinn happened upon a handbag lying in the street. Enroute to school at the Warren-Prescott, coming up Salem Street, there it was, a pocketbook which they retrieved and promptly placed in a closet and secured while the party who lost the bag was notified.

On Thursday morning, the young lady who lost the bag arrived at school to claim the same and publicly, before the entire class of grade 5, room 209, thanked both youngsters for their honesty. Their honesty prevented a great deal of inconvenience for the lady who lost the bag. This act of honesty was also referred to the school principal, Mrs. Kiely, who applauded and commended both boys for their truthfulness. An excellent lesson of character was the result of this action and you can be sure that both of these youngsters were responsible for an outstanding example of character, integrity and Congratulations, Gentlemen, and may this experience remain with you through your life. You are an outstanding credit to your families, community and school. God bless you.

Named State Board Chairman

Philip X. Carr of Charlestown has been elected chairman of the Massachusetts State Board of Funeral Directing and Embalming. The State Board, consisting of four Funeral Directors and one Consumer Representative, elected their unanimous choice at a recent meeting at the Saltonstall Building, Boston.

Now serving his fifth year as Board member, Mr. Carr has been instrumental in the implementation of current Federal price disclosure regulations in the Commonwealth through his involvement with the Federal Trade Commission. While acting as Legislative Liaison for the State Board, he has been responsible for several House Bills effecting the ongoing professional development within the Archdiocese of Boston for its administrative and professional staff. The principal speaker will be Sister Mary Angela Shaughnessy, SCN, Principal of Our Lady of Nazareth Academy, Wakefield, who recently completed doctoral studies at Boston College, with emphasis on School Law as applied to private schools. ## Pop Warner Corner

The Charlestown Pop Warner organization wishes to remind the players that the chance books are due back. Chance books were distributed to all the players, even those who have since quit, and the organization needs the $10.00 or the unsold chance book.

The organization would like to have a banquet this year, but this may not be possible.

There is a chance, and a very good chance, that there will not be Pop Warner Football next year. The organization may have to close its doors.

Some 90 percent of the help running the League and the fundraising, no longer have kids in the League. If parents will not help sell chances or attend fundraisers, then why should those with no kids in the program spend a great deal of their spare time caring about your kids?

Many outstanding kids have come out of the Charlestown Pop Warner Football Program. It is a pleasure to attend the "Townies" games and see many of the Pop Warner graduates doing so well.

At least 75 percent of the Pop Warner graduates that play sports or cheerlead in high school, have been good players and good students and have exemplified good sportsmanship in their lives.

The Pop Warner organization is "down to the wire" and without an outpouring of assistance and support from the parents of the players and cheerleaders, this might be the final season for youth football here in Charlestown.

In football action this past weekend, the D team lost by a score of 18 to 0. In the C Team game,

$26,500 For Boys And Girls Clubs

Although the New England Patriots failed to edge the Miami Dolphins, they are managing to win dollars for the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston.

With the season at the mid-way mark, the Patriots have garnered $26,500 for the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston. Every time the Patriots score a point it means $100 for the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston, a non-profit organization of more than 5,000 youngsters.

The Patriots have been

Charlestown won its second game of the year, two more than they won all of last year, by the score of 7 to 0.

The B Team won its first game of the year, 12 to 7. This team played "one heck of a game". You win as a team and you lost as a team. Congratulations!!!

Charlestown went in to the A Team game with only 13 players and two of them got hurt, leaving the team with only 11 players. Charlestown was losing 25 to 0 at the end of the first half. The coach decided, for the safety of the players, and with the President of the Board's full support, not to play the second half. The A Team players who are not hurt are asked to get to practice so that the A Team will be able to play the next two games and complete the season.

The Board

averaging 22 points per game in their four pre-season and eight season clashes so far this year.

Last year, the Patriots tallied 333 points for the entire season against opponents which meant $33,300 for the Boys and Girls Club of Boston from Frito-Lay, maker of Lay's and Ruffles brand potato chips and Fritos brand corn chips. This is the ninth year that Frito-Lay has teamed with the Patriots in this worthy community project, according to Phil Thomas, Frito-Lay Division Sales Manager. Over the past eight seasons Frito-Lay has contributed $334,600 to the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston for the total points scored by the Patriots.

Michael Jordan, president of Frito-Lay, declared, "We began this program in 1976 in response to a need that the Greater Boston community had to face. It proved to be such a gratifying program that we have over the course of years expanded the program to include nine NFL teams and one major league baseball team - all benefiting local charities."

Facilities For the Handicapped

Secretary of Consumer Affairs and Business Regulation Paula W. Gold has released guidelines to parents and guardians concerning safe Halloween trick-or-treating.

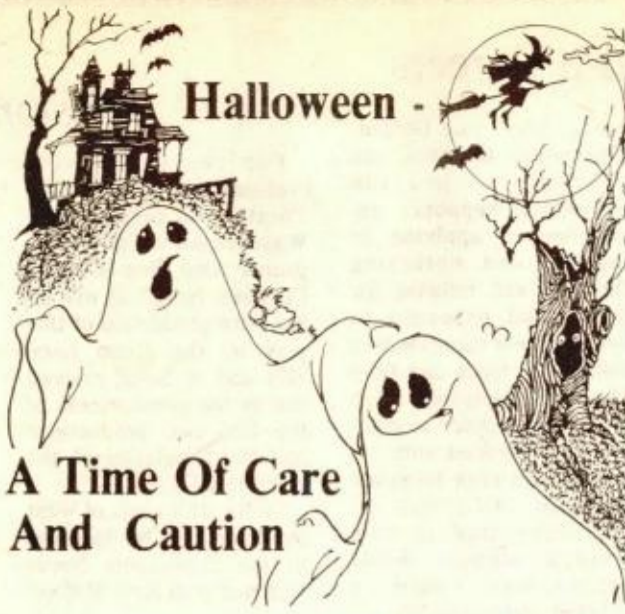

Secretary Gold pointed out the importance of carefully examining treats, and using fire-resistant costumes. She further emphasized that all children should be informed of potential trick-or-treating dangers.

"Children should be warned not to eat treats along the way, and to visit only those homes with a welcoming outdoor light on," Secretary Gold said. "Flashlights should be used after dark so that your child can see - and be seen clearly."

Secretary Gold advises parents to empty their child's bag on a table and carefully examine each item. Treats which are partially unwrapped, discolored, or of any questionable appearance should be discarded. If you have any doubts about any item a child receives, contact the 24-hour Massachusetts Poison Information Center in Boston at 232-2120 or 1-800-682-9211.

Secretary Gold also recommended the following safety tips, compiled by the Consumer Products Safety Commission, as a guideline for both parents and children:

*Costumes, masks, beards and wigs should be labeled "Flame Resistant." Although this does not mean they won't catch fire, such labeling indicates that they will resist burning and should extinguish quickly once removed from the ignition source. Flimsy materials and outfits with big, baggy sleeves or billowing skirts should be avoided to minimize the risk of contact with candles or other sources of ignition.

*Costumes should be light and bright enough to be clearly visible to motorists. For greater visibility in dusk or darkness, costumes should be decorated or trimmed with reflective tape which will "glow" in the beam of a car's headlights.

*Bags or sacks should also be light colored and decorated with reflective tape. Reflective tape is usually available in hardware, bicycle and sporting goods stores.

*Costumes should be short enough to prevent children from tripping and falling. Children should also wear safe sturdy shoes.

*Hats should be tied securely to prevent them from slipping over the children's eyes.

*Apply a natural mask of cosmetics rather than have a child wear a loose fitting mask which might restrict breathing or obscure vision. If a mask is used, make sure eyeholes are large enough to allow full vision and make sure the mask fits securely.

*If swords, knives or similar accessories are carried, they should be of soft of flexible material.

*Smaller children should always be accompanied by an older responsible child or an adult. All children should use the sidewalk rather than walk in the street, and they should be cautioned against running out between parked cars or across yards and lawns.

*Children should be warned not to enter homes or apartments unless they are accompanied by an adult.

*Those receiving trick-or-treaters should remove anything that could be an obstacle from steps, lawns and porches. Candlelit jack-o-lanterns should be kept away from landings and doorsteps where costumes could brush against the flame. Indoor jack-o-lanterns should be kept away from curtains, decorations or other furnishings that could be ignited.

*Feed children just before taking them trick-or-treating so they won't be tempted to snack, or furnish them with treats from home to eat en route.

*Attach a label to the costumes of younger children, providing their name, address and telephone number, in case they become separated from the group.

*Make a trick-or-treat map for your children, outlining exactly where they may go.

*Instruct your children not to accept unwrapped, homemade or unfamiliar treats and to NEVER accept anything from strangers.

*Give your children small trick-or-treat bags that will fill up quickly. This will speed their return home.

*In lieu of candy, many parents may be handing out small toys or coins this year. Examine these carefully.

ABCD Helps Youth With Health Careers

Attention high school seniors and recent graduates! If you are interested in a career as a health professional, the ABCD Health Career Opportunity Program (HCOP) can start you on your way.

The HCOP program, operated by Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD) in collaboration with Northeastern University's College of Pharmacy and Allied Health Professions, offers year-round tutoring and career assistance in a variety of health-related fields including medicine, pharmacy, medical technology, dentistry, and many others

The main purpose of HCOP is to prepare college bound students to enter a health-related college curriculum. According to Susan Golden, Program Coordinator for HCOP, students are provided with a direct link to a college education. "The linkage with Northeastern is very beneficial for HCOP participants - they are introduced to university programs, staff, and students, and, should they decide to attend Northeastern, participants receive support services that enable them to make a successful transition to college life," said Golden.

Qualified teachers and counselors provide academic support, assistance in applying to college and obtaining financial aid, tutoring for SATs, and exposure to health career opportunities through lectures and field trips. Participants also receive assistance in gaining health-related work experience in area hospitals and health institutions.

If interested in this program, students should contact Susan Golden at 357-6000, extension 552.

Grassroots Program Offers Funds For Reuse Of Vacant Lots

Have you noticed that vacant lot down the street? Is it covered with weeds, broken glass and litter? Have you thought of clearing it up and transforming the site into a park or playground? Well now you can! Through the City's "Grassroots" program, neighborhood groups will be able to obtain funds for reuse of publicly owned vacant lots. Options for the lots include but are not limited to: community gardens, sitting areas, playing fields, tot lots, passive recreation areas, parking lots and basketball courts. Neighborhood groups interested in undertaking the redevelopment of vacant lots can obtain a Request for Proposals (RFP) from the City's Neighborhood Development and Employment Agency (NDEA). Technical assistance is available from NDEA both for preparing the RFP and for preparing your project (budget, clearing the site, grading, ordering equipment etc.) The RFP is competitive, and if selected for funding, the group will sign a lease with the city for use of the lot and will agree to maintain the property for two years.

Mayor Flynn commented, "Grassroots is a particularly appropriate name for this program. With NDEA support, community groups will be able to initiate, plan, construct and maintain these now-vacant lots. Transforming an eyesore into an attractive area is not only gratifying to those involved, but helps improve the entire neighborhood." It is hoped that community groups seeking to redevelop these vacant lots will leverage commitments from both the private sector and other public financing sources. The "Grassroots" grants to each community group will range from under $10,000 to a maximum of $40,000.

Community groups interested in applying for the Grassroots Program may pick up copies of the RFP from Bill Marotta, Grassroots Administrator, 6th floor, NDEA, 15 Beacon Street, Boston. A Bidders' Conference for applicants will be held on Monday, November 5, 1984 at 2:00 p.m. at the Conference Room, 2nd floor, NDEA, 15 Beacon Street, Boston. Proposals are due no later than Wednesday, December 12, 1984. Awards will be announced in January, 1985. The grant awards will be conditioned upon the grantee meeting NDEA/ HUD program requirements. The "Grassroots" Program is funded through NDEA by a Community Development Block Grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.
