"We are expanding to this new location because of the vast demand and culture of the people. Our store is built to deliver the best customer service and shopping experience, as many prominent professionals such as doctors, lawyers, and school teachers are coming in feel happy about what we have to offer at Romantic Depot. We invite everyone to come over and see for themselves," said a representative of Romantic Depot Store.

Romantic Depot Manhattan the largest vibrator store in New York City is poised and focused on providing a clean, safe, comfortable shopping experience and has expanded its broad line of lingerie items for both men and women. Since the store arrived in May with a big splash, it has become mainstream, as they provide a much more friendly service in NYC by offering lingerie and non-adult items with non-adult packaging. The company's focus is on selling all brands, styles and sizes of women and men's lingerie and 80% of its stock and trade is of non-adult nature. The other 20% focuses on sexual wellness products like vibrators, lubricants and a triad of other adult novelties. Furthermore, all X-rated DVD, magazines, and books have been removed from its New York City store locations.

"It was an enjoyable experience at the store. The employees were accommodating and friendly. There were so many different categories to choose from so, Ana and James helped me pick out my products. They have a lot of beautiful lingerie and items for men, women, and couples. I will refer my friends, and I will be coming back" said Janelle Younger, a customer.

Romantic Depot Manhattan employs a seven-member merchandising team responsible for product sourcing, vendor negotiations and relationship management, purchasing, planning, and analysis, as well as visual merchandising. They utilize "trend-right" in-store displays, which are custom-made, feature tables designed to show elegant collections of seasonal merchandise. Their merchandising philosophy is on understanding customer's needs by offering a variety of lingerie, wellness, and sexual health-related products. All of the adult products are put to the back of the store so minors are not exposed to racy packaging.
