Improvements For Charlestown "On Hold"

by Maria Girvin

Charlestown is slated for numerous street improvements and structural changes, however, the probability that all these improvements will take place is dubious.

During a recent interview with Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) Charlestown Project Director Arthur Riley, plans for Charlestown improvements were discussed. Many of these plans were made prior to Mayor Kevin H. White's announcement that he would not seek reelection, and since that time, much has been put on the "back burner."

Definite plans concern repaving of Main Street and several streets off of Main, near Sullivan Square. They are Albion Place, Baldwin, Auburn and Oak Streets. The city has re-negotiated its contract with the Mahoney Construction Company and re-paving of the smaller streets should begin soon, if not already underway at the time of this reading.

The reconstruction of Main Street is dependent on a $3 million Urban System Grant which if approved by the Massachusetts Public Works Department will also include work on Warren, Pleasant, Winthrop Streets and Monument Avenue.

Riley is confident that the grant will be approved. According to him, work on Main Street could begin this fall, however, if the contract is awarded late, work will definitely begin in the spring of next year.

Charlestown residents could begin seeing a change in City Square as developers seek new parking alternatives to that lost in the construction of the Chelsea-Water Street Connector. Thus far, one of these alternatives has been the temporary awarding of BRA property located at Chelsea and Joiner Streets to the Charlestown Board of Trade who maintain and charge for parking in the lot, and pay a percentage of their revenues to the city.

The Hoffman building, located in city square at the corner of Chelsea Street and Washington Street, will soon be coming down as part of the North Terminal Project. In its place is schedule a small park, probably similar to the one built at the other end of Washington Street at the corner of Commercial Street in the North End.

As a part of "cleaning up City Square," Mayor White had wanted the small rotary area where District Court employees and visitors park, landscaped. The plan was to do a simple landscaping, of wood chips and inexpensive shrubbery, and a skim coating of the streets. This whole area will be completely re-landscaped once the Central Artery is finished in about ten years.

"We were suppose to begin this in July," said Riley, "but nothing happened."

Another plan scheduled for July, but which "never happened," was the locating of a police sub-station adjacent to Store 24 in Thompson Square.

Word is slow in coming out of Assistant to the Mayor Steve Dunleavy's office however, according to District 1 Deputy Superintendent Joseph Saia, the sub-station will still be opened, although he could not be specific on a date. According to one spokesman for the police department, the sub-station has also been "put on hold."

It is not clear when Charlestown will receive the needed face-life it has long been promised. Perhaps after the present mayor leaves office and the new mayor steps in will city plans for Charlestown be implemented. Then again, they could continue "on hold."

Boston Public Schools To Open

Wins K. of C. Scholarship

After careful consideration by the Bunker Hill Council's Scholarship Committee, Miss Kathleen Whalen of 348 Medford Street has been selected as recipient of the organization's one thousand dollar annual award.

Miss Whalen is a recent graduate of Matignon High School. Her accomplishments, both scholastically and academically, could only be considered as remarkable. In a graduating class of one hundred eighty-seven, Kathleen ranked number six. Her College Board scores of 670 in English and 540 in Math place her in the top percentiles in the country.

In grade nine, Miss Whalen received a "B" in Algebra I. Not a single one of her grades for the next four years fell below the "A" level.

In the area of extra curricular activities, Kathleen's accomplishments nearly rival her achievements in the scholarship field. She was member and president of the Art Club in grades 10, 11, and 12. A member of the Science club and Greenpeace during her junior and senior years, a member of the Matignon Mirror Staff, and a contributor to Writer's Showcase during her senior year.

In addition, she was named to the National Honor and French Honor Societies in grades 10, 11, and 12. She placed third in the Voice of Democracy Essay Contest and second in the Archdiocesan Art Fair. With all of this, Kathleen was still able to find time to compete with the Cross Country Track team.

Kathleen is the daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Whalen.

The Bunker Hill Council is pleased to be able to honor a student of such high academic achievement.

Kathleen will attend George Washington University, Washington, D.C. to further her scholastic career.

Comments Invited On Area Plan For Elderly

The Boston Commission on Affairs of the Elderly/Area Agency on Aging announces the completion of a three year Area Plan for elderly service delivery in Boston for FY 1984 - 86. The proposed Area Plan is the product of planning and deliberation during the past year by task forces reflecting the views of elders and service providers from all areas of the city. The Plan conforms to the mandates and requirements of the Older Americans Act and the procedures established by the State Department of Elder Affairs.

In a continuing effort to establish a comprehensive continuum of service and care for older Bostonians, the plan reviews the status of services and related issues in the areas of information and referral, transportation, legal services, nutrition, senior centers, advocacy, housing, and health/long term care. It sets goals for continued system development for the coming three years, taking into account the loss in Title III B and C funds from $3,100,000 in FY 1981 to an estimated figure of $2,700,000 for FY 1984 as a result of budget cuts by the Reagan Administration and redistribution of Older Americans Act funds within the state.

Elders, provider agency representatives, public officials and other interested parties are encouraged to review and comment on the updated plan at public hearings to be held in Room 801, City Hall:

Wednesday, September 7, 1983, 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.: Task Force Hearings on Legal Services, Advocacy, Health/Long Term Care and Housing.

Wednesday, September 14, 1983, 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.: Task Force Hearings on Nutrition, Senior Centers and Transportation.

Wednesday, September 21, 1983, 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., Final Area Plan Hearing.

Copies of the full plan containing an overview of Area Agency activities and task force reports are available for review at all Boston Home Care Corporations, Nutrition Service Agencies, Neighborhood Senior Service Worker locations and at the Boston Commission.

Comments On Recent School Report

John A. Nucci, Candidate for the Boston School Committee from District One (East Boston, North End, Charlestown) commented on the work of the members of Boston's Educational Planning Group for their recent report, to better the Boston Public Schools. Nucci stated "The report, though understandably not perfect in several areas, seems to be a well-intended, professional document which can serve as an excellent starting point for mapping a blueprint for the future of our schools. Any plan which moves toward stability and predictability of student school assignments, quality education and updated curriculum, and grasps the initiative to potentially release the schools from the court's control, is most certainly a welcome and significant effort on the part of those involved."

Nucci, who has been strongly advocating parental input during his energetic and highly visible district campaign, added that "The plan must now go through a series of public hearings and I strongly feel that is incumbent on parents, pupils, and taxpayers in general, to

Neighborhood Concerns To Be Top Priority In Artery/Tunnel Plans

The concerns of Boston's neighborhoods will continue to be given top priority in the State's plans for widening and depressing the Central Artery and building a third harbor tunnel, Transportation Secretary Frederick P. Salvucci said today.

"In all our work thus far, we have tried very hard to understand the problems that regional traffic and possible facilities to accommodate that traffic might cause for the people who live in Boston," Salvucci said today. "That effort is reflected in the new tunnel and artery plans we have developed. We will continue to solicit and listen to neighborhood input as these projects move forward."

"Depression of the Central Artery was devised to minimize impacts on residents and businesses adjacent to the roadway," Salvucci explained. "Any other method of widening the artery would have meant taking many residential and commercial buildings. By building underground, we are able to expand the artery up to eight, or in some places ten lanes without taking one person's home."

"Also, a study by Boston's Traffic and Parking Commissioner shows that the construction of the depressed artery creates fewer traffic and parking problems in the North End than the alternative, which would be the redecking of the existing roadway," Salvucci added.

"There is no question that some residents and business owners still have legitimate questions and concerns about these projects. We held a series of meetings in East Boston, South Boston, the Waterfront, the South End and the North End to listen to citizens' comments. We also held two days of public hearings at Faneuil Hall and heard testimony from scores of area residents. All this becomes part of the record. We are required by law to address these concerns and will revise our plans to conform with genuine problems where necessary.

"The problems associated with construction disruption, lost parking spaces, and other issues are being addressed," Salvucci said. "The people of the neighborhoods are major players in this...and their concerns will continue to be a top priority."

Salvucci said testimony and comments from the Faneuil Hall hearings, as well as the draft Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) on the artery and tunnel proposals, are currently being studied by Governor Dukakis.

The final EIS, along with a decision regarding which option the Governor chooses, must be sent to the federal government by September 30th. Once approved in Washington, there will be further public hearings regarding the actual design of the roadways, Salvucci said.

Cappucci Urges Voters To Register

Robert (Meaney) Cappucci candidate for District 1 City Council would like to extend an invitation to all those eligible voters who are not registered to do so before the September 7th deadline. Cappucci said those who would like to register to vote can go to room 224 at City Hall between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Local registration for Charlestown residents will be held at the Charlestown Fire Station, corner of Bunker Hill and Main Street. Registration will be held from now through September 7th (excluding Sundays & Labor Day) from 6-9 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 12-8 p.m. on Saturdays. Identification verifying present address will be required to register. Any further information can be had by calling the Election Department at 725-4634.

The Council Candidate said the right to vote is a privilege and honor that should not be neglected or abused. There are so many places in the world today where the right to vote is denied those who would give their lives for such freedom. Cappucci continued by saying that registration is higher this election than in the past and those who have registered deserve praise for realizing their privilege and making the effort to change their status. Cappucci concluded that he hoped all those who are able to vote will make the effort and register.

City Gardens

City Trees

by Barbara Maheigan

City trees add much to a street. They reflect the changing seasons from the delicate emerging buds to bright seasonal flowers and lush green foliage to vibrant autumn colors and finally to the bare snowy branches. Trees help reduce pollution and act as natural filters. They take carbon dioxide from the air and trap airborne dust and pollen. Trees also act as sound barriers and screen traffic. In the summer, one tree has the cooling effect of several air conditioners. Because trees provide all these benefits, they deserve a little care to ensure their healthy growth.

Trees need clean air, water, and a fertile soil. None of these requirements are in abundance in Charlestown. The empty spaces on the streets attest to the difficulties of growing trees in the city. But there are things you can do to compensate for the poor environment.

Pavements and sewers carry off much of the natural rainfall, causing artificial droughts around trees planted in small amounts of soil, like those on our streets. Water must soak into the ground slowly and deeply; light waterings can be harmful as only shallow roots will develop. Shallow roots do not anchor a tree firmly, and are more susceptible to damage. During dry weather like this summer, a thorough soaking once a week can make a big difference. If a hose is used, it should be laid at the base of the tree, and the water pressure kept low for at least a half an hour, until the ground has absorbed as much as it can. A pail can also be used. Established trees need at least 10 gallons of water a week, but newly-planted trees require even more. Adequate water helps a tree maintain steady growth, heal its wounds, and make food to store in its roots for the coming year. Remember to spray the leaves occasionally with a hose. A light spray will help remove dust and soot.

Mulch around the tree can help conserve water. In the forest the autumn leaves fall around the base of the tree, and function as a mulch and soil-improver. In the city, the leaves are collected and carried away, or blow in the street and clog gutters. Mulch for city trees must be heavy enough to resist being blown away. Shredded bark mulch or wood chips are both effective and attractive. Mulch should be spread to a depth of three inches.

Trees planted on city streets often need additional protection from dogs and children. Dog's urine contains high concentrations of salts which can burn bark and roots. Dog droppings are unhealthy, unattractive, and harmful as they decompose into the soil. Metal or wire tree guards can protect the tree bark. Cobblestones or bricks set in sand are functional but must be spaced to allow water to seep into the ground. Another solution is to build up a stone or brick edging around the tree pit, and plant small bulbs or annuals like marigolds about the tree.

Real Estate

ETHEL MAC REALTY, INC.

INTEREST DOWN - COST UP

Are you waiting until interest rates drop before you buy a home? Do you think that this will save you money? The home you have your eye on will cost you more in monthly payments two years from now - even if the interest rate drops one percent.

For example, take a home that costs $80,000. With a 20% down-payment and financed with a 25 year, 14% mortgage, the monthly payment would be $770.56. But two years from now, if the price rose at 8% per year, the now $80,000 home would likely cost $93,312. If the interest rate decreased to 13%, not only would the down payment be $2,662 more, but the monthly payment would increase to $842.05. If the interest rate stayed at 14% the payment would come to $898.79.

So, it's obvious that the overall value of the home - not the interest rate - makes the biggest impact on your monthly payment. Since there is no indication of property values decreasing, the moral of the story is - Buy now or pay more later.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ETHEL MAC REALTY, INC., 10-Allston Street - Phone: 242-2006. Professional Service you can trust!

The Ducklings

by Charlie McGonagle

It was late May, perhaps early June, when the family, one mother and five tiny ducklings, first swam noiselessly and in perfect cadence over the smooth surface of the quiet country pond.

Soon the daily sojourn became predictable, and groups of small children began to gather at the sandy shore in anticipation of the family's arrival. They would sprinkle crumbs of bread in the watery path of their new found friends. By early July, a silent, but certain bond had been established between the children and the family of ducks.

As the youngsters had been meeting with their small feathered friends on a daily basis, the rapid growth of the ducklings had gone almost unnoticed. Where in May they were hardly bigger than the eggs from whence they came, they now were nearly half the size of mother.

A long, narrow redwood dock reached to the pond from the sandy shore. The first children to the water each day found it most advantageous to bring their crumbs to the dock's very end, for it was here where first the ducks would stop.

Among the early visitors was a trio consisting of two small girls and a young mother. Each day they walked quietly through the sand, barefooted, and out to the dock's very end. There they awaited the arrival of their friends.

"Here they come Mommy," the same girl would say each day as though rehearsed, and quickly the three would begin to break the bread into tiny pieces.

On calm days, when the breezes were silent, huge maples and oaks would be magically mirrored upon the surface of the pond, and only the quiet wake created by mother duck and her children would make them quiver.

It was on these days that the young mother and the children most enjoyed their visits.

Now, it was August, the summer days were becoming shorter, the nights cooler, and the growth of the ducklings could no longer go unnoticed.

"Mommy," said one of the little girls, startled by her discovery. "The babies are nearly as big as their mother!"

With more than a hint of understanding, she placed an arm around each of their shoulders.

"I know," she whispered, "I know."

It was now the last week of August, and as usual, the children had gathered at their favorite spots, anxiously awaiting the return of their friends. Breezeless, the day was one of those most cherished by the youngmother, and when the ducks did not appear at their expected time, the children's apprehension could be felt by the mother.

But soon a tiny voice from another group on the beach could be heard shouting.

"Here they come! Here they come!"

Tiny waves rippled silently through the painting of maples and oaks on the pond's surface as the brown feathered mother led her flock in an effortless swim across the water.

It was the young mother who first noticed that which seemed peculiar. On other visits, the lead duck, the mother, swam with her bill held slightly upward. It was a proud gesture one which seemed to say, "These are my children!"

Today, though her bill dipped toward the water. Not until one of the girls noticed that only four ducklings followed, did the young mother know why.

"Where is he Mommy. Where is the other duckling?"

"It was time for him to leave." It was all she could think to say.

The mother and her children were, as the ducks, summer visitors to the pond. Soon ice would blanket the water, and the snows of winter white would camouflage the colors of summer.

Now it was the first Monday of September, Labor Day. That very afternoon the children and their mother would return to the city, leaving memories of this vacation locked safely within the aura of the pond.

They went to the dock for the final time, one of the girls dropping a piece of bread along the way. The other summer residents had already departed, and today the dock was theirs alone.

Shoeless, their tiny feet dangled to the water. They could feel how, as it drifted toward winter, the pond had begun to cool.

Again it was a breezeless day, and the early colors of autumn dressed the mirrored picture of maples and oaks.

In the distance the now familiar wake gently shuffled the colors, creating an effect July and August would find impossible to duplicate.

She swam toward the young mother and the children. She swam as though she knew they would be there, but today she swam alone.

The children looked to their mothers, but, strangely, said nothing. The little girls dropped a few crumbs to the water, but the duck swam by as though they were not there. She swam to the edge of the dock and stopped.

The water around her became silent as she lifted her head toward the young mother. For a moment she stared, then turning only her head, looked back to where the ducklings had for so long followed.

As her head turned back toward the mother, her bill dipped toward the water. Alone, she swam away.

To the mother, the message was as clear as it was silent.

The children rose from their sitting positions, and with an abundance of youthful wisdom, remained unspoken.

The four walked silently from the dock, the mother's arms in familiar position over the shoulders of her daughters.

Today, though, she held them closer.

Charlestown Working Theater Plans For Birthday Year

Next year is the one hundredth birthday of the old firebarn in Sullivan Square, now the Charlestown Working Theater. The Theater members are gearing up for a year long celebration.

At the August board meeting, members approved a full calendar of activities as well as a major fundraising drive.

The CWT Youth Group will be on hand September 10th to paint faces at the Mystic Street Block Party.

CLASSES

The children's dance classes, under the direction of Bobbie DeCarlo, begin on Saturday, October 1. Registration will be held on September 17th and 24th at the Theater (442 Bunker Hill Street) from noon to 4:00 p.m. Last year was the first year for these classes. The year culminated with a major production with choreography showing off the talents of over 80 boys and girls who had studied tap and ballet. Due to a number of requests, this year there will be tap dancing classes for adults as well.

The Theater received a serious blow from the federal government again this year. The Children's Theater is almost totally dependent on an "Expansion Arts" grant from the National Endowment for the Arts. Although CWT appears to meet the criteria for this funding source perfectly — a small, community-based arts organization, this is the second year in a row the N.E.A. has denied funding for the Children's Theater. Last year, this program was dormant. Many of the children said it was a big loss in their lives, so this year a theater member has volunteered to run the program for 12 to 17 years olds. Registration for this acting class will be on Saturday, September 24th.

Mary Curtain Stevenson, an actress living in Charlestown, is planning a course in Scene Study. A painting course for adults has been postponed until spring.

PRODUCTIONS

The CWT season will open with a play entitled "The Dancing Dame's Lost Shoe," directed by Linda Lacey. The play has two casts, with about 17 children in each cast. The first cast features Charlestown children ages 9 through 15. Their show will be produced on Sunday, October 2 and Sunday, October 16 at 2:00 p.m. The younger troupe, ages 5 to 9 years, will be on stage Sunday, October 9 and Sunday, October 23 at 2:00 p.m. Tickets must be purchased in advance — none will be sold at the door.

A major production is being planned for the late fall. The Theater members are very excited about bringing a play by the contemporary Italian playwright, Dario Fo, to Charlestown. It will be the first time the play "We Won't Pay" is translated and produced in Boston. Downing Cless, a local director, is producing and directing the play.

SPECIAL EVENT

The Theater is planning a Halloween Party on October 29th. Costumes are required. The party is for adults only. There will be music and dancing. Tickets are limited and will be sold in advance only.

MEETINGS

Meetings of the CWT are held at the Theater every Tuesday night. Anyone interested in seeing the theater and getting involved in activities, is invited to drop by.

For further information, please call the theater at 242-3534.

teaching the boys and girls proper skating techniques.

Little League News

There will be a Little League meeting on Monday, September 12, 1983 at 8:00 p.m. at Memorial Hall on 14 Green Street. It is important that all managers, coaches and officers attend.

There were some problems last year which should be ironed out. There also were suggestions concerning early tryouts and early registrations.

It is also quite obvious that a set of Charlestown Little League rules must be drawn up, agreed upon and then obeyed. This would eliminate such problems as All Star selection, etc.

Managers: get your uniforms back as quickly as possible. It is too late to get replacement uniforms once the season has started.

Please Note: On this night, September 12th, officers will be elected for the coming season.

Thank You,
John Curtin

Boys And Girls Clubs Reap $5900

As the New England Patriots officially kick-off the 1983 season against the Baltimore Colts on Sunday, they have already garnered $5,900 for The Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston.

In four pre-season exhibition games this year the Patriots scored 59 points against rivals. Every time the Patriots score a point it means $100 for The Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston, a non-profit organization of more than 5,000 youngsters.

Last season, the Patriots tallied 245 points against opponents which meant $32,500 for The Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston from Frito-Lay, maker of Lay's and Ruffles brand potato chips and Fritos brand corn chips, and who donated $1,000 for each cancelled game during the strike. This is the eighth year that Frito-Lay has teamed with the Patriots in this worthy community project, according to Phil Thomas, Frito-Lay Division Sales Manager. Over the past seven seasons Frito-Lay has contributed $300,500 to The Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston for the total points scored by the Patriots.

Your Child's Health

Summer Allergies

Many children are bothered by summer allergies. These allergies rarely cause serious problems, but they can be very annoying. The usual symptoms are runny nose; watery, itchy eyes; sneezing; coughing and fatigue. In contrast to the runny noses of the common cold in which the mucus is often yellow or green, allergic runny noses usually run clear mucus. Similarly, allergic coughs usually don't result in much phlegm, but when they do, it is clear.

Allergic symptoms that occur in the spring and summer are most often caused by reactions to plant life: grasses, trees, and pollens. Symptoms go away when the particular plants are drying out or no longer giving off pollen into the air. The weather can also influence the severity of their symptoms on any given day. The "pollen counts" that you hear about on the radio not only reflect how much pollen is in the air, but also what the air flow conditions are.

These kinds of allergies are quite unusual in infants and toddlers. Symptoms most often appear in school-aged children and may persist throughout life. Some people seem to "outgrow" the allergies, or the symptoms may become less severe over time.

What to do about these allergies depends on how much they bother the sufferer. If symptoms are not terribly bothersome, lots of tissues is the treatment of choice. The next step would be allergy medicines. The over-the-counter allergy medicines can be helpful. They all contain anti-histamines and some contain anti-histamines and decongestants. It is difficult to predict which, if any, will help. Sometimes it is worth trying more than one preparation (not at the same time!). The main side effect of anti-histamines is tiredness, and for the decongestants, jumpiness and raising of blood pressure. For itchy eyes, the over-the-counter eye drops can be helpful.

If the child is still miserable, a trip to the doctor may be worthwhile. There are some prescription allergy medicines and eye drops that may help. In severe cases, evaluation by an allergist may be necessary. This often involves skin testing to determine the nature of the allergy. Sometimes allergy shots are recommended. These shots, given over a long period of time, make the person immune by giving very small doses of the substance to which he/she is allergic.

Multi-Ethnic Food Fair

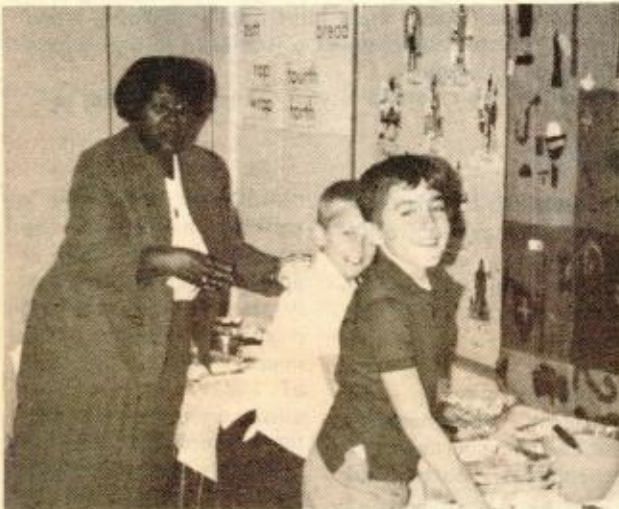

by Harold G. Robinson

Under the direction of Mrs. Helen Devone of grade 4, the annual Multi-Ethnic Food Fair was held at the Warren Prescott School on Tuesday, May 24th, and, again, it was a huge success. The children's enthusiasm was unmatched and it was through their efforts and interest that the fair went off so well. The food was in great abundance and the bountiful harvest of all types of food was fit for a king and there was enough food in the Warren-Prescott School on that day to feed Charlestown.

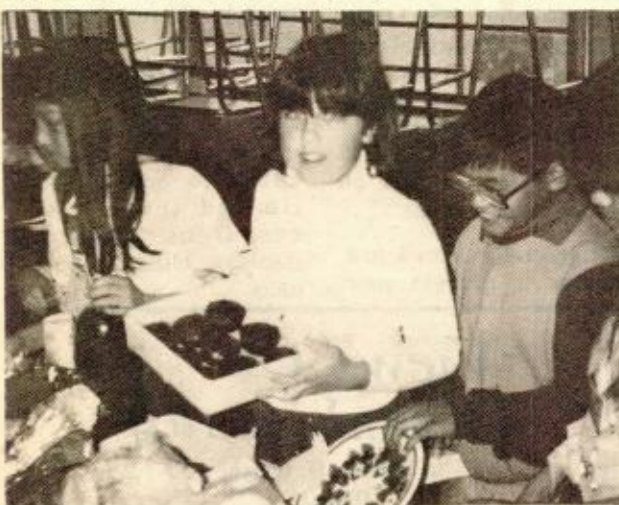

MRS. DEVONE'S 4th Grade class display some of their culinary delights.

The classes involved this year included the second grade class of Mrs. Tibbetts, the third grade classes of Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Santosusso, the fourth grade classes of Mrs. Devone and Mrs. Kinsella and the fifth grade classes of Miss Lee and Mr. Robinson.

ASSISTED BY Gerry Sullivan and Frank Gochakowski of Grade 4, Mrs. Devone prepares food festival display.

The anticipation prior to the big day was great and the children took great pride and delight in bringing in a sampling of food appropriate to their background. If anyone went home hungry on the day of the fair, it was their own fault and, indeed, no one did. Some of the culinary jewels consumed at the food fair included, chili, all kinds of rice, chow mein, chicken wings, shrimp chips, soups, salads, macaroni, meat loaf, rolls, Irish bread cakes, cupcakes, cookies, ribs, sweet potato pie, rice pudding, cheese cake and the list goes on. Without doubt, nobody had supper that night, and if they did, I can't imagine where they put it.

LISA QUINN proudly displays the cup cakes she served at the Food Fair.

Again, congratulations to the teachers and students for such a magnificent food fair and thanks to Mrs. Devone for coordinating this great annual event at the Warren-Prescott School. It was a fun day and a filling one. Nice work. Kids.

Kindergarteners Must Be Screened

All children entering Kindergarten in the Boston Public Schools for the first time, must, by law, have a screening to assess their vision, hearing, language, and motor development.

Please contact your child's assigned school to make a screening appointment between September 6 and 16, 1983. This is very important for your child's future success in school.

Flag Day And Bunker Hill Day Assembly At Warren-Prescott School

by Harold G. Robinson

Tuesday, June 14th Flag Day, was the occasion of the final assembly of the school year at the Warren Prescott School, observing Flag Day and Bunker Hill Day. A magnificent production was presented. After weeks of diligent preparation, the show was ready to go on, and indeed, it did. The second grade class marched into the hall and lead the audience in the pledge to the flag and the singing of "America," accompanied by Mrs. Smith on the piano, the school's music specialist.

FLAG DAY CEREMONY participants included Jones Leung, Charisse Coley, Matthew Mehigan, Shondell Stoner, and Nancy Kwan.

An introduction was made and an explanation was delivered on Flag Day and its meaning to teach of us. The Flag Day explanation was well done by Marchella Ming, William Simpson, Hedy Jarras and Nakia Young. Next, the song, "Our Pledge" was sung by the ensemble on stage. Then, the fitting poem "Stars in a Blue Sky" was recited by Shams Smith, Lisa Tam, Justin Raymond, and Wesley Blackstone. The song, "Drum Goes Boom" was presented and this was followed by the poem "There Are Many Flags", recited by lovely Tamara McCoy and Samantha Aguiar. Fittingly, there was also a song by the same name, "There Are Many Flags." A delightful poem, "Flags of Every Size," was recited by Jones Leung, Charisse Coley, Matthew Mahigan, Ann Marie Puleio, Shondell Stoner and Nancy Kwan. The next bit of poetry was entitled, "Patriotism" by the same group of first graders and included speakers made up of William Bobick, Amy Wilder, Agnes Man and Terry Liu.

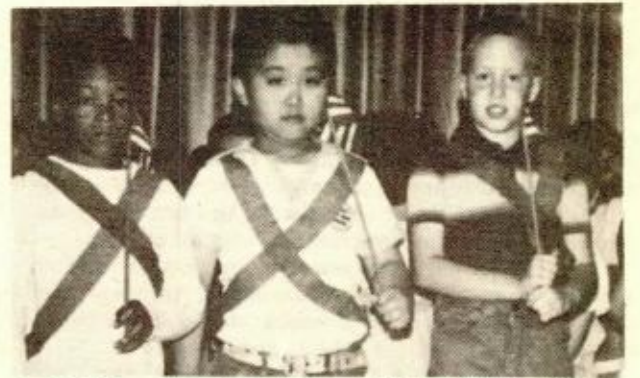

STUDENTS perform the "Lollipop Song."

A little music appeared in the program at this point with the singing of "Marching, Marching Proudly." The poem "Our Flag's Birthday" was next on the program and the fine speakers included Mark Mansfield, Roger Lee, Ricky Cheng, and Jamie Smith. Then, complete with marchers, was the song, "Flags Are Marching" which added a bit of zip and toetapping to the program.

Children then performed "How Old Is A Patriot?" and the eloquent speakers were Jane Li, Karen Estrada, Matiliate Williams, Francis Wong, Fanny Cheng, Jimmy Mui, Bunni Oke and Michael Duncan. Another poem was "For My Country" and Mrs. O'Rourke's second graders came through in grand style and this was admirably presented by Kristen Duffy, Eleanor Hong, and David Levy.

The chorus then graced the audience with "Little Red Drum" and another bit of poetry was presented, entitled "Our Country is America." The speakers here included

A POEM on the flay was recited by Donald Holmes, Eugene Wong and Maurice Foley.

Russel Corl, Thomas Whelan and Ann Tse.

A holiday very close and dear to the children of Charlestown was now part of the program and this was, of course, Bunker Hill Day and Mrs. Whelan's children told the story of the Battle of Bunker Hill. The children responsible for the history of this great battle were Paul Myers, Tony Hernandez, David Ma and Johnson Tang. How interesting to hear the background of this famous piece of history, the battleground just a few minutes walk from our own school.

Most fitting for Flag Day was the song, famous and popular, "Grand Old Flag" and this was sprightly sung by the entire group on stage. After this, the second grade class presented the poem, "Flag Poem" including speakers in the personages of Donald Holmes, Eugene Wong and Maurice Foley. A very interesting story was told by way of this poetry.

An introduction was made to the final part of the program and this was the song "Lollipop Tree." The chorus for this liltng number was Diana Moses, David Levy, Hedy Jarras, Rida Chin, Lorraine Lai, Samantha Aguiar, Kristen Duffy, Tamara McCoy, Curtis Perkins, and Nahia Young.

Thus, came to an end, a very fine program saluting Flag Day and Bunker Hill Day. Mrs. Kiely lauded the efforts of students and teachers. Once again, the goodwill ambassadors of Mr. Robinson's fifth grade class, served as ushers and usherettes for the assembly and they performed in the usual fine tradition seating and greeting the parents and being helpful in so many ways. These participants included Benny Lee, Kevin Tse, Helen Chan, Jantina Mui, Barbara Grandmont, Steven Slekis, Jacki Jones, Bernice Leong, Dickson Fong.

The annual awards ceremony took place immediately following the assembly. Awards were made to children for Honor Roll, Reading, Perfect Attendance and the Alice Casey Awards. The entire assembly was a tribute to an outstanding year at the Warren-Prescott School.

See you in the fall.

AMERICAN—EDUCATION—COALITION

Our efforts, enjoined with the So. Boston Information Center, the National Association of Neighborhood Schools, and a host of other organizations (in and out of state) working assiduously to S.T.O.P. Forced Busing, have often brought us in contact with the creme de la creme of academia, per se, and now a coalition of same has been brought to our attention by N.A.N.S. This D.C.-based group has recently published a set of principles they believe to be critical in the reform of education in America. See if you don't find yourself in agreement ... with all of them!

1. PARENTS have the primary, inalienable right to educate their own children according to their own religious, moral and cultural values; they delegate but do not abdicate that right to schools and teachers.

2. CHILDREN should receive a quality education. Parents and teachers should be mutually committed to provide that quality education.

3. TEACHERS are entrusted with the awesome responsibility of teaching future generations of Americans. Teachers need the support and cooperation of parents. A safe school environment is essential to the dignity and effectiveness of teachers. Superior teachers should be rewarded; incompetent teachers should be removed (emphasis ours). The measure of a teacher's ability is not whether the teacher has paper credentials, but whether children are learning. Because teacher strikes cause irreparable harm to children, and because public school teachers are public employees, teacher disputes should be resolved by other means.

4. LOCAL CONTROL is the backbone of American public education. Large schools and large school districts are not conducive to education, community values, or parental influence, and, therefore, should be decentralized. Authority should be retained at the local level where schools as diversified as the needs of children in the community can be encouraged.

5. JUDICIAL ACTIVISM interferes with sound educational policy. Courts must not substitute their judgement for others in educational matters that are primarily the concern and responsibility of parents, teachers, and school administrators.

6. DISCRIMINATION on the basis of race is wrong. Minorities have been most victimized by poor education and would benefit most from an improved educational system.

7. DISCIPLINE is essential to quality education. School administrators must take appropriate disciplinary action, including suspension or expulsion of disruptive students, in order to maintain an educational environment free of drugs, alcohol, violence or other harmful influences. Disruptive students must not be allowed to deprive their peers of a quality education. Parents, who are primarily responsible for instilling discipline in their children, should cooperate with school administrators and teachers in maintaining firm discipline.

8. READING, writing, science, and mathematics are basic to a quality education. Students should be taught the traditions of Western culture as well as principles of self-government and patriotism. Students should be promoted only when they have mastered the basic requirements for promotion. "Social promotion" leads to functional illiteracy and otherwise harms the child.

9. CONTROVERSIAL ISSUES such as school prayer, sex education, values clarification, creation science, busing, and textbook selection can be resolved only when parents are directly involved in the decisions on these issues.

10. PARENTAL CHOICE of public or private education should be available to all, not just the wealthy. To mitigate the unfair financial burden that parents are required to bear if they send their child to private schools, tax deductions, credits, or vouchers should be provided."

STOUGHTON KNOWS HOW TO WIN, AND DID....

We were delighted to be on hand for Stoughton's impromptu celebration of the closing of the infamous Times Square Bookstore, as the invited guest of Paul Tibernian, President of S.O.S. (Save Our Stoughton), and it was a stirring experience to make the vigil march in company with local clergy, politicians and the townspeople who made this triumph for common sense possible. It took a year, but picketeer Bud Taylor and a host of others were prepared to address this blight upon their community legally and responsibly for as long as necessary.

Pornography visited itself upon Stoughton when U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity (the name sounds familiar!) ordered the town's building inspector to issue the owners an occupancy permit. This set the stage for mass meetings, picketing, and lawsuits which culminated in the storeowner's decision to leave downtown Stoughton by August 8th. They also made an agreement with Norfolk County District Attorney William D. Delahunt not to open another such store in Norfolk County.

The citizens of Stoughton have proven that we need not be helpless against indecency, and for those who can't yet put the problem in perspective we offer the following few words by J. Edgar Hoover, former legendary Director of the FBI, who said: "Sex-mad magazines are creating criminals faster than jails can be built. The spread of obscene literature across our land through the means of films, decks of playing cards, photographs, 'comic books', salacious magazines, paperbacked books and other pornographic products indeed threaten the morality of our Nation and its richest treasure - our young people. This truly shocking and shameful state of affairs is made even more deplorable by the knowledge that sex crimes and obscene literature often go hand in hand. It is a grievous fact that drugstores and sweetshops, pleasant meeting places for past generations, now display publications which a few years ago would have a place in only the bawdiest of gathering places."

At the national level, a recent meeting between President Reagan and several anti-pornography leaders (including Supreme Knight Virgil Dechant of the Knights of Columbus, and Fr. Morton A. Hill, President of Morality in Media) brought a pledge of support in fighting pornographic materials - a six billion dollar business - and hope for stricter enforcement of the laws in this regard already on the books.

Stoughton, we're proud of you ... keep on keeping on!

Social Security Helps The Disabled Worker

by Herbert Silverman
Social Security District
Manager, Boston

We don't like to think about it but it happens: An accident at work or on the way home. Or a prolonged illness that drains family savings.

For over a quarter of a century, Social Security has provided basic protection against severe disability for millions of Americans. It works when people can't be replacing part of the family's lost income.

Eligible for monthly payments are disabled workers and dependents, disabled widows and widowers, and unmarried children 18 or over who become severely disabled before 22. Disabled beneficiaries also have Medicare coverage after receiving benefits for 24 months.

A disabled worker first must have worked long enough under Social Security—1½ to 8 years in 1983, depending on age—to be insured. And except for blind workers, some credits must have been earned in recent years.

Applicants should be aware that Social Security's medical requirements are stricter than for most other disability programs, and only about one-third of initial claims are allowed. A person generally must be unable to do not only his or her usual job but also any "Substantial gainful work" for at least a year.

If you think you may be eligible, contact any Social Security office. You can speed up your claim by having the following when you apply: Social Security numbers for you and your dependents; dates and places of medical treatment; claim numbers for any other benefits you may be receiving; work history; and your W-2 forms (or tax returns if self-employed) for the past 2 years.

The Social Security office will send your claim to the Disability Determination Services (DDS) office in your State where a decision will be made as to whether you are disabled. The DDS office will get medical reports from sources you listed and, if more information is needed, may ask you to take a special examination or test at Government expense.

It generally takes 2 to 3 months to process your claim and send you a written notice of the decision. If your claim is approved, payments usually start with the 6th full month of disability. The average benefit at the end of 1982 was $442 for disabled workers and $851 for workers with families.

Monthly checks continue only if you remain disabled. Your case will be reviewed once every 3 years unless a shorter or longer review period is justified.

If your claim is not approved, the notice explains why. You have the right to appeal the decision but must do so within 60 days.

For more information about disability benefits, ask at any Social Security office for a free copy of the booklet, if you become disabled. *Views On

by Jeffrey D. Cohen,
D.M.D.

WHY ARE CHECK-UPS NECESSARY?

Most dental problems seem to develop without any noticeable warning. Cavities will sometimes cause no discomfort or sensitivity until they are close to the nerve, while gum disease can quietly progress to an irreversible stage without the slightest indication of a problem.

A check-up every six months is recommended. Because cavities seem to develop and spread much more rapidly in children, it becomes even more important.

Teeth were meant to last a lifetime. Regular check-ups can help assure this.

Resident Beware!

Dear Editor:

This letter is to let the people of Charlestown know how Cablevision sales representatives are not telling the true story when they are taking money from people, especially in Mishawum.

The problem that I had has happened to many other families in the area. I was given three different installation dates for Cable T.V., last Tuesday and Wednesday being the latest two, for which I stayed at home both days waiting for them. They finally arrived around 4:00 p.m. on Wednesday, and after drilling a hole in the wall they discovered that they were hitting a steel beam. At this point another one of the workers came in and said to forget it anyway because the area was not wired for Cable T.V. The supervisor came in and said that he wasn't sure when, or if, we would be able to have the cable and that all sales in this area would have to stop.

I called Cablevision Company, got connected with four different people, having to tell the story to each one. They offered to repair the wall, but I told them to forget it and just refund my money. I was then told that it would take two to three weeks before they could send my refund. It only took them about a half hour to get it, so why so long to send it back?

After this happened, I saw the same salesman selling to elderly people in this same area. He told me that he didn't know that the sales had been stopped. I find that hard to believe.

The sales representatives are so anxious to get their commission that they are misleading people.

I hope that anyone who is thinking about getting Cablevision of Boston, will think twice.

Planning 40th Reunion

A 40th reunion is being planned by the men stationed in Newport, Rhode Island, on the Island, in Company 469 of April, 1943. Mostly all these men were from this area, namely Charlestown, South Boston and Dorchester.

The reunion will be held during the winter or spring of 1984 in New Orleans.

Company 469 is still looking for Charles Belengar who lived in Charlestown at that time. If anyone has any information about Mr. Belengar, please contact: Mr. William Cassell, 1410 Columbia Road, South Boston, Mass. 02127.

Applauds McDermott's Commitment

To the Editor:

As people who are deeply involved in their community's interests, we attended and one of us testified at the recent City Council hearing dealing with re-creating new district lines after a federal court ruled the original plan unconstitutional.

The people of Charlestown didn't endorse or vote for District Representation because they felt it was not direct representation because many say it as a costly process, new salaries, of-ice furniture and City Hall renovations at tax payer expense.

A group of concerned Charlestown citizens spent many nights and hours drawing up a district map and presented it to the City Council to assist them in a very difficult undertaking. The final map and new districts were drawn up, voted on and we felt frustrated that our small community was once again politically discriminated against.

Councillor Terry McDermott was then given the Chairmanship of this task in his first term and year in office.

He sat with Townies at a later date surrounded by maps and explained, in detail, how they arrived at the final district plan.

Although, we do not agree with Councillor McDermott on all points, we do applaud him for taking on a hard job. He stood by his principles and those of his fellow councillors and assured us and any Charlestown resident access to his office at any time. With personal commitment, we thank him.

And we believe it is time the media in this city give credit to Councillor McDermott for doing his stand up job and not bending from pressures applied from many sources including us.

McDermott is an asset to the City of Boston, we need more strong and unbending politicians like him.

Very truly yours,

Rep. Voke Opposes Closing Of D.S.S. Office

The following text is a letter sent to the Commissioner of the Department of Social Services:

Marie A. Matava, Commissioner
Department of Social Services
150 Causeway Street
Boston, MA 02114
Dear Commissioner Matava,

As the State Representative of the people of Charlestown I would like you to know that I strongly oppose all efforts on the part of D.S.S. regional administrators to close Charlestown's satellite office and compound its operations with those of the East Boston office.

The Charlestown office, ideally located in the center of the community, has been providing a critical service to a great many Charlestown residents. Since the opening of the office in October of 1980 some 350 individuals have been assisted on a daily basis.

If the current services the office is providing are discontinued approximately 90 families and those 350 individuals could lose full access to social services. The very same inadequacies which prevailed while Charlestown was being serviced by the East Boston office will most certainly recur if the move takes place. Trust in the system is certain to be damaged. I find it contradictory that the department would attempt a move such as this and still consciously be able to abide their mandate of providing accessible social services to individuals and families in a decent realized manner.

I feel that it is unfair, and therefore inequitable that Charlestown residents be asked to absorb D.S.S. administrative costs by taking from them a social service which a great many find essential to their existence in the community. The satellite office has contributed greatly to the quality of life in Charlestown. If removed stability in the community will most certainly be distrusted.

I am an enthusiastic proponent of the huge efforts the satellite office staff has made in Charlestown. Its impact on the community has been tremendous. It is one of my objectives as their elected official to the Massachusetts General Court to ensure that state social services are adequate and accessible.

At this point I would like to reiterate my opposition to the removal of Charlestown's D.S.S. office. I sincerely hope that you will reevaluate your needs and realize that Charlestown residents vitally need the same service they have been receiving for over three years.

Thank you for your time and consideration. I look forward to hearing from you in the near future.

Sincerely yours,
Richard A. Voke

LoPresti And Flaherty Must Protect Rights Of Homeowners

Currently before the Massachusetts Legislative Judiciary Committee, co-chaired by Michael LoPresti of East Boston and Michael Flaherty of South Boston, is House Bill H6557, better known as the Boston Fair Housing Commission Home Rule Petition. LoPresti and Flaherty have until September 12th to report the bill out of judiciary either favorable or unfavorable.

This bill, if enacted into law by the legislature, and there is no reason to suspect that it wouldn't be since it only applies to Boston, would be the most devastating blow to the city since the infamous desegregation order of Judge Garrity in 1974.

The advocates of this bill, namely the Boston Committee, the NAACP, et al, claim that to be effective, the Fair Housing Commission must have the power to levy fines and to award compensatory damages.

To apply fair housing laws to large apartment dwellings and complexes is one thing, but to extend the law to include owner-occupied two and three family homes is quite another contention. And this is exactly what this bill is geared to do. The bill, as written, would give awesome power to the Commission to issue "cease and desist" orders and to levy fines of up to $10,000 and to make homeowners liable for legal fees of the plaintiffs.

The Commission is trying to sell the public that this would only come about after a so called "fair hearing."

I wonder if any homeowner has taken advantage of their "right" to a "fair hearing" before any commission or monopolistic utility.

I can vouch for the fact that you lose before you are seated at one of these hearings.

I recently took to task the Boston Water and Sewer Commission, and was granted a hearing before an "independent" examiner with the meeting held at the offices of the Commission.

After my testimony, and that of the Commission representatives, the Commission moved to have my case dismissed. The examiner refused this request, and informed me that I would hear from him within two weeks.

When I received the verdict, it was not on the stationery of the special examiner, but that of the Water and Sewer Commission. Naturally, I lost.

I draw this analogy to indicate that to acquiesce to the demands of the Fair Housing Commission would result in homeowners having to abdicate their constitutional right guaranteed under the fourth amendment which I quote in part. "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects shall not be violated."

I would remind all concerned that our life savings are invested in our homes and that a person's home is sacred and this applies whether it is a two or three family home in Dorchester, South Boston or Charlestown, or a single family home in Wellesley or some other lily white suburb.

In order to preserve the last vestiges of freedom that still exist in the neighborhoods, it is absolutely imperative that this bill receive unfavorable status from House Judiciary.

As we all know, Boston lost some 87,000 residents since the inception of forced busing. Should this bill become law, we would see an exodus of equal proportion and the city would lose what is left of its middle class population, and what would that do to the tax base?

The fate of Boston is in the hands of LoPresti and Flaherty. It is hoped these learned gentlemen will realize that to grant to the Fair Housing Commission the awesome powers they are seeking would be to abrogate the right of the homeowner to choose those people they wish to share the sanctity of their home.

I submit, there is only one way to report on this bill, and that is unfavorable.

Deputy Superintendent Joseph V. Saia Jr.
Commanding Officer District A
Charlestown, East Boston, Downtown

A&B WITH A DANGEROUS WEAPON

Officer responded to Monument Street on a report of family trouble. Arriving at the scene, they found the suspect's wife lying on the couch. The suspect grabbed one of the officers and pushed him backwards. The suspect tried to strike the officers with the bat. The officers placed the suspect under arrest and he was charged with two counts of A&B D/W on a police officer.

On August 24, 1983, a Somerville man reported that while he was at Medford and Chelsea Streets, a Charlestown youth hit him with a tire iron. The victim suffered numerous fractures and facial injuries.

LARCENY

On August 25, 1983 officers responded to a call at the firehouse on Winthrop Street. Upon arrival, they found that a Revere man had entered the firehouse and tried to remove a number of papers from a desk. A firefighter observed the suspect fleeing the scene and held him until the police arrived.

On August 17, 1983 an Eighth Street resident reported that someone had broken into her auto. Both door locks were damaged and the radio was removed. The car was parked in the garage.

On August 21, 1983, a Park Street resident reported that some one had broken the right side window vent and removed the stereo from his car.

M/V ACCIDENT

On August 22, 1983, an Eighth Street resident reported that her car was involved in a motor vehicle accident at Sullivan Square with an unknown truck. Her M/V was struck on the driver's side door. Since the accident happened in the middle of traffic they agreed to pull around the corner to exchange papers. The truck pulled around the corner and kept going.

On August 21, 1983, a Walford Way resident reported that his motor vehicle was struck by an unknown silver Cadillac.

On August 24, 1983 a Corey Street resident struck a small girl in front of her house. The motor vehicle was traveling at a slow rate of speed. The victim was taken to the Mass. General Hospital where she was treated.

ABANDONED AUTO

On August 20, 1983, officers recovered a burned car at the playground on Terminal Street.

Crime Prevention Council Suggests Ways To Work With Foot Patrol Officers

The Boston Police Reorganization Plan has been a reality now for several months, and offers an exciting opportunity for neighborhood people and crime prevention groups to substantially increase the safety and security of their neighborhoods by working with their foot patrol officers.

The following suggestions may be helpful to you as you build a productive relationship with your foot patrol officer.

Make sure the officer becomes completely familiar with your neighborhood—people, places, businesses, potential trouble or danger spots, chronic problems.

Possible ways of doing this are:

-Take the time to walk with him and introduce him to people and places. Take him down the side streets.

-Set up block meetings where the officer can stop in at a house at a pre-arranged time and date and meet the people who live on each street.

-Invite the officer to major neighborhood meetings. If he can't attend, assign a liaison to give the officer a re-cap of any pertinent information that surfaced at the meeting.

-Keep written logs of suspicious activities, people, and locales. Include as much information as possible—descriptions, times, dates, license plate numbers, etc. Give the officer a copy of this log.

Remember, he is your police officer. Make sure you provide him with the information he needs to do the best job possible for you.

Work in conjunction with your patrol officer. Possible ways of doing this are:

-Set up block watch activities that citizens can take part in to extend the officer's ability to watch the neighborhood.

(If you need help with this, please call the Neighborhood Crime Prevention Network—423-1262.)

-If you have an organized citizen street patrol, maintain communication with your foot patrol officer while patrolling. At least, let him know when your patrols are scheduled and the area they cover.

-Be committed, as a neighborhood, to come to your patrol officer's aid if he is in trouble. This could mean a number of things: At least, call 911 and report "an officer in distress," or, via a phone tree, call all neighbors out onto the street. En masse, you will most likely scare the perpetrator away. Accompany the officer to court to show support for a good arrest.

Make your foot patrol officer feel a commitment to your neighborhood. If you show you care about him, he will reciprocate. Possible ways of doing this are:

-Make him feel welcome. Be friendly. Take turns with your neighbors to bring him a cup of coffee every once in a while.

-Extend an open offer for use of a bathroom on your street. (This will also help keep him in your neighborhood and not in the business district.)

-Extend an open offer for refuge from bad weather. (This will also help keep him in your neighborhood and not in the business district.)

Remember, you have a voice. Let your Police District Deputy Superintendent know how you feel about your foot patrolman—good or bad. Write a letter to the Deputy Superintendent and send a copy to: Commissioner Jordan, Boston Police Department, Police Headquarters, 154 Berkeley Street, Boston, MA 02116.

City Seeks Election Day Polling Place Officials

William F. Arrigal, Jr., Commissioner of the City of Boston's Board of Election Commissioners today announced that the Election Department is seeking individuals to serve as polling place officials for the October 11, 1983 Preliminary Election. Those individuals hired by the Election Department will work at one of the City's two hundred and fifty two polling places, with the hours being from 7:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. The Election Department will hire people to work as wardens, inspectors, and clerks, with pay scales ranging from $75.00 to $60.00 to $50.00 respectively, for the day.

In order to be eligible to work as an election officer it is necessary to be at least eighteen years of age, a resident of Boston, and a registered voter in the City. Assignments will be made according to both existing vacancies and need, and will be decided upon by the Commissioner. Commissioner Arrigal stated, "Obviously, we will try to place people as close to their own homes as possible. Remember, though these people will be filling existing vacancies, so, it will become necessary to send people to where the need is greatest. We won't be bumping long time election day officials just so someone can work closer to home."

Mr. Arrigal went on to say "Those individuals hired by this department will have to go through on half day training session prior to receiving their assignments. For those whose work is up to department standards, I would expect that they would be re-hired by the department to work on subsequent elections, including the November 15 final and the Massachusetts Presidential Primary in March, 1984."

Those wishing to be considered for hiring as an election day official should contact Mrs. Estrella White at 725-4635 during regular business hours.

WHY RAY FLYNN FOR MAYOR?

“He is the Lech Walesa of Boston politics the workingman’s politician...”

“Flynn, the son of a South Boston longshoreman... is your basic bread and butter candidate for mayor, nothing fancy, and what you see is what you get, as he stresses housing, jobs, crime, and the delivery of city services.

“He is the Lech Walesa of Boston politics, the workingman’s politician who, like his counterpart in Gdansk, marches against social and political injustice.”

The Boston Herald, Sunday, May 1, 1983

On September 5, we celebrate Labor Day.

It’s a day that’s been set aside for ninety years to pay tribute to you, the working men and women of America.

In those ninety years, you and your parents and their parents have dedicated your lives to making Boston a better place to live.

More than anyone, men and women who earn their own way know that we need people in government who have done the same.

Ray Flynn is that kind of person.

Ray Flynn is one of us. He knows that good sense and good faith are the qualities that working men and women bring to the life of our city.

Ray has listened to us. And for twelve years, he has been there when we needed him. As Mayor, he will never let us down.

On Primary Day, join us, the working men and women of Boston in a show of good sense and good faith... for Ray Flynn.
