

Minecraft To Get Portals Between Servers, Eventually

Minecraft maestro Markus Persson not too long ago updated his blog with a progress report on his new studio, Mojang Specs, and news concerning the upcoming Halloween update for the sport. He notes that Mojang has found a constructing and now includes six staff: three programmers, a pixel artist, a CEO and a business developer. Minecraft servers

As for the Halloween update, Persson says it should include six new block types, 5 of which have "unique skills." There will also be a new monster, "a brand new dimension" and portals. Persson defined later in a tweet that these portals will finally be able to hyperlink between totally different Minecraft servers, although this functionality will not be carried out anytime quickly.

So, can monsters use portals? If that's the case, we totally would not build a transdimensional monster funnel main directly inside of another player's meticulously crafted fortress. So, feel free to invite us to a recreation and leave us alone within the again room for a few minutes ... okay?