

When the need is strong, It's Possible to Always Locate right Equipment online for Virtually Any task

Hello and glad to be back. Today I would love to tell you very fast story about my attempts at greatness. I must say, don't try to create something that others have many times over perfected and created.

Always work to strive for yourself, even if it's a very popular and beaten up concept - to triumph with this, you always have to integrate your own, introduce some(item ) special that's you and the thing. . click here It is hard and creative process sometimes forgets that imagination comes from within, that ally'all projects will sooner or later start copying parts of one another, integrating, inter-looping and inter-connecting to eventually become one true good organism of your conscious attempts at greatness. .

Did I try? I truly gave it my best!

Cause video should circulate the Earth, you understand? It needs to instantly cross platforms without boundaries flow into all the net connected entities and libraries, platforms and storage archives... It has to be preserved for its future generations. .

Whatever the case, my attempts... Well... I had to lose them... There's too much work inside, too much support required. I did look to it, I must be honest. . And besides big variety of servers and proxies involved, this will have to be profitable, so after couple of months trying and dropping several tens of thousands of dollars on infrastructure, this section of my life is finished.

Of course "their own" in this case means "someone else, not ours". . I don't understand them, they do not know me. My favorite these days is Youtube downloader - it's super fast, it works good with Youtube and also 100s of different sites, and it is simply the nicest strangest portal to download online videos. There is no API, so my private job of movie exchange between platforms is delayed until I see a good enough support platform. Nothing in the works right now, and after seeing how it turned out, I understood better leave this to people who know what they are doing. . Here is how their website looks like: youtube downloader front page with search suggestions

It's pretty cool, I love the shadow. . Try enter some search words - it offers popular localized search tags, so pops out distinct hints so you do not have to keep typing...

Conclusion

From today I just try to stick to my own strengths, which will be many things but making these sites... Making one is half the job - the key is the support day in, day out...