Neighborhood Council Begins Review Of MWRA Mitigation Proposal

by Lynn Peters

Some questions and concerns still exist on the city's Memorandum Of Understanding (MOU) in the ongoing mitigation process between the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) and the town. Members of the Charlestown Neighborhood Council met Jan. 17 to review more than half of the nine-page draft's content and wording.

MWRA has leased space from Massport and is planning a transportation site off the piers of the former Revere Sugar property on Medford Street. Construction materials will come in to the Charlestown site to be transported to the MWRA's new wastewater treatment facility on Deer Island.

The city's MOU, designed to minimize the impact that the transportation site will have on Charlestown, reflects two years of mitigation discussions with council committees and residents. But former committee chairman Moe Gillen repeatedly advised his fellow members Tuesday night that this draft reads "almost verbatim" to the Aug. 24 document, and a few items the community wanted changed or added were still missing.

"There are certain areas that the community put in that the city chose to leave out," Gillen said. "(Committee) members should

by Kathy Giordano

More than 30 parents of Boston Latin School students attended a Jan. 18 meeting at the Knights of Columbus Hall to discuss the problems that their children are confronted with everyday traveling to and from school. Students have been harassed, robbed and assaulted by other students and by a "T" worker and riders while using public transportation to the school in the Fenway area.

Until last fall a bus had been provided for Charlestown, East Boston and North End students attending Boston Latin. The bus picked them up at Haymarket Station and took them to the front door of the school. However, cutbacks in the School Department budget eliminated all transportation for high school students and this bus stopped servicing them. Since September the students, especially those in the seventh and eighth grades, have been the victims of random attacks.

Parents from Charlestown, East Boston and the North End gathered at the meeting, not only to explain to members of the Charlestown Neighborhood Council's Basic Services Committee, but to representatives from the Mayor's Office, Councillor Travaglini's office and School Committee members John Nucci and Robert Cappucci, the dilemma their children are forced to live with on a daily basis. The parents asked, "Do we have to wait until one of the students is seriously hurt before action can be taken?"

The parents' main demand was to reinstate a bus for the students. To this end they will attend the next scheduled School Committee meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 24 at 5:30 p.m. at the committee's headquarters on 26 Court Street, Boston and urge all parents of Latin School students to attend as well. Parents also request letters of support from all concerned individuals. These letters will be brought to the meeting and presented to the committee.

Charlestown's Basic Services Committee will request support from the council. A representative from the North End Neighborhood Council, who was in attendance, stated that his council will also support the parents' demand. Coun-

9 Lawnwood Place Occupancy Change Receives BOA Approval

The City of Boston Board of Appeal heard testimony Jan. 17 to change the legal occupancy of 9 Lawnwood Place from a one-family to a three-family dwelling.

Property owner Michael Mansfield was represented by attorney Allen Jarasitis, who petitioned the board for the change. Abutters Lucille Calabrese of 15 Lawnwood Place and Kevin Kelly of 7 Lawnwood Place spoke in support of their neighbor's request. Judy Evers, Charlestown liaison for the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services, informed the board that she had received no complaints and that her office requested approval.

The board approved the request with design review by the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

Just Say 'Samoa' Cookies, Please! To Annual Girl Scout Sale

by Lynn Peters

Last week Charlestown Girl Scout troops began planning strategy for their biggest event of the year: the cookie drive. This is the time when 55-65 Charlestown girls get geared up to make a killing in the cookie market for their troops. Until Jan. 29 the girls will be looking for the hungry customers who wait every year for those classic Thin Mints and shortbread Trefoils, along with five other tasty treats not sold in any store.

"Cookies bring out the devil in them," says Phyllis Hickey, Brownie troop leader. Nearly two million Girl Scouts nationwide sell nearly 150 million boxes of cookies every year, and these sales are primarily what keep the program afloat.

In the first hours of the sale late last Thursday afternoon, the troops brought in permission slips, learned pitches and polite sales techniques, studied order forms and memorized the must-knows of Girl Scout order taking. Being prepared is serious business.

"I tell them to sell at least one box," Hickey says of her first-, second- and third-grade Brownies. "I tell them to do the best they can and be polite."

While the girls will say they do it for the fun of it, Janet Shea, Junior Girl Scout leader and service unit coordinator for Charlestown, says that 90 percent of the troops' financing for the year is wrapped up in cookie sales. Charlestown troops have set their sights on a weekend camping trip in February with the proceeds. There are also skating parties, dinners out, museums and local activities the girls enjoy. Shea, a woman with many hats, is this year's Charlestown cookie chairman and says the drive is also a vehicle for learning.

"The main difference but will not sell. Registered parents can do the selling for the girls, but this does not mean that the fledgling scouts are not just as involved with the preparation.

New leader for Charlestown's 2-year-old Daisy troop Linda Morceau works with her assistant Rosemarie Keane preparing the young girls for scouting and their future cookie sales. Morceau says she was a "wannabe" Girl Scout who volunteered to lead the troop that includes her daughter Katherine.

Shea, who has been leading Charlestown scouts for four years, says local suc-

JUNIOR GIRL SCOUT Troop Leader Janet Shea helps Charlestown 9- to 11-year-olds prepare for the annual cookie sale, which started officially Jan. 12 at 3 p.m.

between our programs and others is that the girls plan activities, and set up their goals and achievements," Shea says. "We're internally focused and help them develop skills, and build independence and self-esteem."

Through the cookie drive, the Brownies and Juniors work toward a marketing program patch for their uniforms. The Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council in Boston provides incentives for the number of boxes sold, recognizing individual achievement and rewarding the troop for high sales. Every girl receives a participation patch for her sash when she sells a box.

"This is a great fund raiser," Shea says, "because the cookies sell themselves."

The council's newest addition is the 5- and 6-year-old Daisies, who meet weekly as the older girls do

BROWNIES AND DAISIES (and a tiny consultant) learn how to complete cookie order forms, be polite and to sell their goods during the 17-day sale, which ends Jan. 29.

THE PAPERWORK

If you're selling a home, the most important part of the transaction occurs after you've found a buyer. If your property is being professionally marketed, the selling agent puts together the purchase offer, then gets together with the lister to present it to you. If you're trying to sell your home on your own, using a form purchased from a local stationary store, you could run into problems.

Each local Board of Realtors has its attorneys draft up standard forms that reflect the legal requirements of the jurisdiction in which you live. These contract forms include the sales price, who pays which closing costs, termite clauses, financing contingencies, structural inspections, settlement deadlines and other terms that are included to meet local government requirements. These forms are complicated, and a slight variation in language can often cost or save you thousands of dollars. If you're planning to sell and are thinking about doing it on your own to save the brokerage fee, you might find that it's a false economy. Many of our listings come from people who thought their homes were sold, only to lose the would-be buyers at the last minute on a technicality.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Silva Realty Associates. Call us at 242-7470 or stop by our offices at 142 Main Street in Charlestown.

Thomas Stanton, Secretary to the City of Boston Licensing Board, informed us that the board will meet Friday, Jan. 20 to examine the conditions proposed by Todd and Olivia English, and their chief opponents, the Deacon Larkin Condominium Association through attorney John Tobin.

"The board is wrestling with these conditions to see if they can be reconciled," Stanton said.

The Englishes are asking for a beer and wine license to complement meals at Olives, their hoped-for bistro on 67 Main St.

The Clubhouse had its first in a series of trips to various MDC skating rinks throughout the city this past Saturday. Club members went to Cleveland Circle and checked out the ice and their newest moves. On Saturday, Jan. 28, they will make their second trip and it will be to a rink in Southie. Anyone who wants to join in, and you don't have to have your own skates, see Eileen at the front desk.

• BOYS' CLUB REUNION

Our first, and what we hope will be "Annual," Boys' Club Reunion was held this past Saturday and it was a great success. Over 200 past members came to share memories and to honor someone very special to everyone who's ever met him, Charlie McGonagle. With a little riffing and lots of affection, Charlie was presented with a "Lifetime Membership" in the Charlestown Clubhouse as well as a giant Ping-Pong paddle in hopes that it will improve his game. Charlie's family also presented him with a plaque honoring him as a son and brother. Thanks to everyone who came and made this such a wonderful night, but especially, thanks to Charlie McGonagle who has done so much for the young people of Charlestown. It's so typical that Charlie was right back up at the club on Sunday afternoon running the Knights of Columbus free-throw contest in the gym. The man just never stops giving.

• BEACH PARTY DANCE

The next dance for 6- to 12-year-olds will be held this Friday, Jan. 20 at 6 p.m. Our dances are open to non-club members. Bring your shorts, play volleyball and much more. Our Torch Club will be lifeguard hosts at this mid-winter Beach Party Dance. The cost of admission is $2.

Life Behind The Wall

by Ronan FitzPatrick

The Barkan Companies Anchorage complex has generated a record breaking energy surge. Normally you would assume the demand was for heating at the Ninth Street location. Another scenario has unfolded. After receiving a Dec. 29 letter from Donna Brescia, CPM, a senior property manager with the Chestnut Hill-based company, individual body temperatures began to rise. The four paragraph correspondence advised of a rent increase effective Feb. 1. While the increase and its implementation is detailed in each occupant's lease document, the upset was due to the size of the increase. Studio units will increase by 6.52 percent, one-bedroom units will increase by 6.25 percent, and a couple of one-bedroom residents will view a whopping 12.26 percent increase in their monthly housing cost and a reciprocal decrease in their revenue. As the heat intensified, retired teamster and resident Les Frost sought clarification from the Barkan Companies and advice from the appropriate federal, state and municipal agencies. Frosty (a Sobriquet) demonstrated his egregious organizational skills that resulted in professional guidance from the Boston Commission of Elderly Affairs and the Boston Rent Equity Commission. His strength was maintained at a formidable level as his worthy buddy Al did the transporting. The jury is out on the final action by the aforementioned city agencies as well as Barkan's final position. Meetings are being scheduled with a satisfactory resolve for the principals. Independent involvement on this and other issues at the Anchorage allow for the betterment of the whole development. The genuine and eager efforts of Frosty and Al are appreciated by the residents.

Constitution resident Richie McCarthy couldn't believe his eyes. Building 197 at the southern end of Eighth Street was getting besieged with building materials. After the fleet of construction vehicles departed, L. Antonelli Ironworks arrived with a substantial supply to gradually bring the harborfront condominium closer to the 10 percent construction timetable that developer and future owners anticipated. When completed, Richie will have a vista that will be challenged by few. His proximity to the water will allow for the berthing of his pleasure craft at the adjacent Pier 6 slips. Although Richie will have a longer walk to his liquor store operation at Moulton Street in the Hayes Square section, the location of his new home will make amends for the additional journey. From rent payer to mortgage holder, Richie will continue to monitor construction at Flagship Wharf until his dream unit is completed. We are looking forward to the Tattinger toast at the open house; this will be one blast that won't be short on one's favorite beverage.

Dover, Del. is the proud port of the Texaco Montana which visited with its oil delivery over the past week. A repeat port Limasol is the home of the first-time observed Athenian Charm. This was power and finesse on the harbor that was not to be outdone on the shore. The management of Constitution Quarters had its lucky charm out when it retained the professional services of Sally Bouton. Over the busy holiday season, Sally guided many a delivery person from her focal position as receptionist. Her duties expand beyond what is written. Sally exudes a sterling character that brings charm and satisfaction to all who come in contact with her answering the main door, dispensing of commuter tickets and just being friendly to many a resident and visitor attempting to become more familiar with our community. Sally does it impeccably. It is difficult to envision Constitution Quarters without the God Mother bearing of "Townie" Sally Bouton. As 1989 unfolds, Sally, many happy returns from wanderers and residents.

Boston Public School Principal Joseph Ippolito was arranging spring field trips to the yard recently when I spotted him. Directing the performance of the James Otis Elementary School in East Boston, Joe was astonished at the changes within our area. He was even more appreciative of his "Townie" secretary, Peggy Carroll Considine. Her organizational skills and beaming personality made Joe's selection process go smoothly. "Joe," I said, "what do you expect, she's another superlative product from the Town." We are indeed blessed with Peggy, and by the way, Joe, her husband Ed Considine works for the Mass Water Resources Authority with headquarters on First Avenue. This young and vibrant couple have much to be thankful for, and their family tradition reflects in their job performances. Before I could say goodbye, Joe was off to Blossom's to bring Peggy a treat.

CANA Giveth And CANA Taketh Away

by Kathy Giordano

The Massachusetts Department of Public Works (MDPW) in conjunction with the Central Artery/North Area (CANA) project has begun construction of a facility that will house an ambulance to service the community until the project is completed, estimated to be in 1992.

The one-story structure will include space for one vehicle and quarters for its crew. Located across from the Sullivan Square fire station at the corner of Mishawum Street, the building will be utilized by two three-person shifts each day. Landscaping and black topping will take place in the spring, but opening ceremonies are scheduled for mid-February.

Community concern over the possibility of not being able to receive the needed ambulance coverage during peak hours if a gridlock in traffic occurred was alleviated by a commitment from the MDPW to place this facility within Charlestown.

AMBULANCE SHELTER under construction in Sullivan Square is due to open in mid-February.

Police details assigned to the busiest intersections of Charlestown were also a result of mitigation with the MDPW and have proven most helpful in getting commuters and residents through the community.

However, a decision was made this week to cut back on the police coverage at Sullivan Square.

Two officers had been stationed at this point during the rush hours resulting in an easy, less timely commute for vehicles entering Charlestown from Route 93, Mystic Avenue and Broadway, Somerville and from Everett by way of Alford Street. According to MDPW Planning Coordinator Terry Murray, both the traffic and project engineers for the CANA Project determined that police coverage was no longer needed in the area around Sullivan Square.

Those who travel through this busy intersection do not agree with the engineers and are left wondering what coverage will be dropped next, in this, the early stages of construction.

According to Murray, the MDPW "will continue to move traffic to the best of our ability at any given time." Drivers comment that they "will continue to wait in traffic in a rational manner to the best of their ability at any given time."

review the earlier draft." Among examples he cited was a section excluding aggregate from coming through Charlestown, a prohibition written into the earlier draft but missing from the latest Jan. 10 document. Bulk materials will not be transported into or out of the site, and aggregate, a compound for concrete, is disputable because it becomes a bulk when mixed.

Residents Arthur Crotty and John "Buster" Woods continued their earlier argument for unions and spoke out on behalf of the International Longshoremen's Association. They asked that rights to certain pier jobs be included somewhere in the MOU. Massport's Dorothy Connolly, community liaison, said the ILA's jurisdictional rights are already written into the lease between her agency and MWRA. The committee decided to ask MWRA to make good on lease promises and negotiate with "bargaining units" that have such rights.

For more than two hours committee members moved point by point through the draft, argued issues and polished language to prepare for its later presentation to the full council. Mitigation talks to date have been designed to lessen traffic, noise, safety and other potential environmental risks caused by the transportation site. Based on information gathered during last year's community and committee meetings and using the Winthrop mitigation plan as a model, the committee has also been seeking benefits for Charlestown, which may prove a tougher bridge to cross than what may have been believed earlier.

James Mansfield, spoke on behalf of Boston Transportation Department Commissioner Richard Dimino, liaison with the city and the MWRA on mitigation measures for Charlestown. Mansfield told committee members that direct environmental impacts on the town come first.

"This is Charlestown, and we don't have as much of an impact as Quincy, Winthrop have," Mansfield said. "As far as MWRA is concerned, this is not a major impact. The city's legal role and responsibility is to environmental concerns before any benefit money."

Another mitigation committee meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 26 at 7 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 75 W. School St. Committee members and residents will continue to discuss the rest of the city's MOU.

bestseller list in 1987. American-born Aline worked for the OSS in Spain during World War II and recounts her life as a spy.

On March 14 the group will discuss Beloved, by Toni Morrison, which appeared on the 1988 New York Times bestseller list. An ex-slave mother struggles with her memories of war and violence in this haunting novel, set in post-Civil War Ohio.

New Zoning Proposed For Charlestown

by Kathy Giordano

The Planning and Zoning Committee of the Charlestown Neighborhood Council has started the tedious task of developing an Interim Planning Overlay District (IPOD) for the town, which will replace the Boston Zoning Code of 1956. The new IPOD plan gives Charlestown residents an opportunity to redefine more appropriate zoning requirements for the neighborhood.

Many of the zoning ordinances in effect have become outdated, especially in Charlestown, where, for example, an area of 5,000 square feet is required to build a house with a 20-foot setback. These unreasonable zoning laws in a community with very few homes set back from the sidewalk on lot sizes that average 1,500 square feet cause more than 2,500 petitions for variance requests from Charlestown before the City of Boston Board of Appeal each year.

Last August the council approved the committee's IPOD parking scheme. That plan provided the following ratio of required deeded parking spaces for newly developed housing units: one space per unit for one to two units; 1.5 spaces per unit for three to six units; 1.75 spaces per unit for seven to nine units; and two spaces per unit for 10 or more units.

Zoning issues that still have to be addressed are:

- Land use - parcels suitable for market-rate and affordable housing and commercial space;

Consumer Credit

The Charlestown Merchants Association will meet Thursday, Jan. 26 at noon at Barrett's-On-The-Harbour Restaurant.

Mel Stiller, president of Consumer Credit Counseling Services of Greater Boston, will address the group and speak on the work of his company, the reasons that people find themselves with credit problems, and how businessmen and women can deal with their customers' credit difficulties.

A buffet luncheon will be served from noon to 12:45, at which time Stiller will speak.

For reservations, call Frani Gilardi at 242-4672.

- Building heights - maximum heights for structures that might exclude roof deck additions in some cases;
- Traffic - existing traffic flow study in the community, including trucks, and possible change of direction for side streets or one-way main streets;
- Major business districts - whether to expand or limit space;
- Light Manufacturing Zone - areas of the community that might be set aside;
- Maritime Economic Reserve Zone - not existing along Medford Street;
- Open space - whether these areas are underutilized or vacant land;
- Historic preservation - landmarks and homes that might be considered; and
- Urban design - recommendations on style, materials, etc. that would determine the character of future construction.

These topics, and others that have yet to be determined, will be discussed.

After the committee has had the opportunity to look over the various zoning changes that might be approved, public meetings will be held within specific areas affected to allow for community input and suggestions. The committee will then submit a report to the full council, which will review the plan and work toward approving the IPOD.

Once approved by the council, the Charlestown IPOD plan will be presented to the Boston Redevelopment Authority Board of Directors for its approval. If approved at this level, the IPOD will then face the scrutiny of the City of Boston Zoning Commission. The process ends on the desk of the mayor, who must approve the new zoning ordinances before they are given a two-year interim period to allow time for the city or the neighborhood to work out any difficulties.

A long and tedious process that has just begun, drafting a new zoning plan is an important task that requires much thought and consideration. What is finally decided will affect Charlestown residents for many years to come. Future development of City Square, the Little Mystic, Rutherford Avenue, among others, will be guided by these zoning laws.

The next scheduled IPOD meeting will be Tuesday, Jan. 24 at 7 p.m. in the BRA offices, Parris Building, 2nd floor, First Avenue in the Charlestown Navy Yard.

The Harborpark IPOD, which is separate from Charlestown's, will be discussed at a meeting on Monday, Jan. 23 at 7 p.m. in the BRA offices in the Navy Yard. The Harborpark IPOD will be presented as a "report in progress" before the council at its Feb. 7 monthly meeting. A final report will be presented to the council at its March 7 monthly meeting.

Memories Of Good Times And Renewal Of Old Friendships Highlight The First Boys' Club Alumni Reunion

institution for almost a century.

Saturday, Jan. 14 was another milestone in the history of the club when almost 300 men returned to the High Street facility — some never having stepped back into the club since they hung up their sneakers more years ago than they care to remember. Others are on the staff of the present Boys and Girls Club, contribute through their membership on the local board or otherwise have stayed involved on a volunteer basis helping the present generation of Charlestown youth.

The event, which was billed as the First Annual Alumni Reunion of the Boys' Club, was some 18 months in planning. Board president Pat Sweeney related that a brainstorming session by a group of past members brought about the idea that a networking system should be established to inform alums of the happenings at the club and to possibly secure their support for today's programming, either financially and/or volunteering their time.

Sweeney said that the club has no membership records prior to 1979, so the development of an alumni roster was started at ground zero. With the input of a dozen or so interested men, a list of alumni was begun and through letters and publicity that list has grown to reach 1,000.

Encouraged by the turnout at this first attempt to reunite alumni — some of whom traveled considerable distances to attend — Sweeney said that plans are to make this event an annual tradition. Rave reviews from attendees support that view.

The decorations consisted of old photographs, some dating back to 1935, many of which had been enlarged to poster size. A hard membership card-making machine had been brought in for the occasion and sign-in was in an old Roster of Champions book. According to Sweeney, the book's era is not known, but the loose-leaf pages will be utilized each year to record the names of the returning alumni.

Eight alums took advantage of the offer of free admission by producing their original hard membership cards. Sweeney reports that the earliest card was dated 1953 and one even had its gimp attached.

The evening featured a buffet by Bob Scalli Caterers and music was provided by DJ Eric Johnson. Steve Kenneally, chairman of the Alumni Committee, served as master of ceremonies for the program, honoring a Boys' Club alum and a favorite son of Charlestown — Charlie McGonagle.

McGonagle, who served as a member of the Reunion Committee, had told the planners of the event early on when he saw his name on a list of alumni to be considered as an honored guest at the reunion, not to even think about recommending him. The committee decided that there was no one more deserving of recognition at this first reunion than McGonagle and went on with their plans, keeping it a secret from him until Saturday night.

The announcement of McGonagle as the guest of honor was met with an emotional response and a rousing standing ovation.

Many who knew McGonagle well took turns relating stories. Jim Connors told how bad McGonagle was at Ping-Pong and how he always blamed the paddle. Connors then presented him with a gigantic Ping-Pong paddle so he could never use that excuse again.

John Brennan told how bad McGonagle was at basketball and Joe McGonagle related some stories of his years at the club with the guest of honor.

In his moment of rebuttal, McGonagle wondered how someone so bad at everything could receive the honor.

During the presentations, McGonagle received a gold-plated club membership card, number 001, which will be mounted on a plaque to be hung in a

About Charlie . . .

The response to last Saturday night's tribute to Charlie McGonagle was unanimously "long overdue and well deserved" and this is echoed by Charlie's myriad of friends both inside the clubhouse and throughout the town.

Charlie is a gentleman — kind, caring and devoted to the youth of this town in his roles as a member, part-time and full-time employee of the Boys' Club, teacher and as a mentor and friend.

Readers of the Patriot have shared personal recollections from Charlie's pen for over 25 years. Factual happenings at the Boys' Club came alive in a weekly column, highlighted by the story behind the story in "Cruising The Corridors." No one was sacred, from the man in charge to the newest member — each took his turn and fell under the scrutiny of Charlie with no tale left untold. Everyone who has known and read Charlie's remembrances has a favorite, from his holiday stories to glimpses of his family, from tributes to special persons to his commentary on some of the controversial issues of a particular time — his prose and

CHARLIE MCGONAGLE was honored at the First Annual Alumni Reunion of the Charlestown Boys' Club held on Jan. 14 at the clubhouse. Charlie, who has been a member since 1947, was a part-time and full-time employee at the club for over 20 years. His concern for and dedication to the youth of Charlestown was recognized by his peers at Saturday's event. At the left, Charlie acknowledges the tributes accorded him and on the right, he answers the question "How high was it?" (photos by Marty Fabiano)

ADDING TO THE SURPRISES of the evening at the Boys' Club Alumni Reunion was a special presentation by the McGonagle family to the guest of honor for the evening, Charlie McGonagle. The gift was a clock and plaque inscribed "As a son or as a brother, the good Lord hath made no other" and it was signed by his mother, his dad Mac, sister Helen and brothers Leo and Paul. Shown (l. to r.) are Paul, Leo, Charlie and dad Charlie (Mac).

MATT O'NEIL SENIOR HOCKEY LEAGUE

by Bernie "Re-Scoop-er" Kelly

The late crowd of season ticket holders and hockey buffs who dropped by the MDC Rink this past Monday night were witness to the Black & Tans first-time thrashing of the Baron's Bullies. Before anyone knew what was happening, the last-place Tanners rose in conquest from the least defensive, high-scoring contest that seesawed back and forth until the scoreboard finally favored the Black & Tans with a 12-9 victory!

The Black & Tans were hitting on all cylinders as they wore down the highly favored Baron's Bullies. The Bullies were shy a key defenseman plus a few key players who perhaps viewed the Tanners as easy prey.

The only time the Bullies took the lead was at 10:56 of the second period when the co-captain, Paul "Amos" Anthony, soloed through the entire Tanner team, sending a wrist shot from center ice through the ailing "Bubba's" booboo for a 6-5 edge.

Meanwhile, amid the constant pressure on the Bullies' goalie, it wasn't long before the secret weapon was put into action once more. Again, "Bumpy Rumpy" Bryson turned his back toward the game, exposing his best defense, and literally was pummeled with slap shots that were absorbed in the more tender aspects of his frame, but not enough to cut the score and win.

INVESTIGATION OF COUP D'ETAT MYSTERY

The CYHA In-House Committee findings released today by the CYHA Co-President Anne "Sparky" Considine neither confirmed nor denied that a coup d'etat did occur recently in an attempt to overthrow the present Commissioner and/or Czar, Eddie "LeBaron" Johnson, by a certain director, known in hockey circles as the Colonel. During a recent impromptu meeting at the rink, spokeswoman Considine was somewhat reluctant and evasive about the concerns and allegations marking the Colonel as ambitious and available should the certain aging Czar weaken.

Asked to comment on the surprise events, Commissioner "Czar" Johnson rehashed his many years as a protege to the "master," Matt O'Neil, who taught him the ropes about national hockey while riding the buses to rinks in hockey towns long forgotten in time.

Recently, through international connections, the Czar has built a friendship through European Hockey Associates that led to an invitational request to enter his select youth team, ages 14 to 17, to compete against some of Europe's finest National teams. That began a friendship that has grown in leaps and bounds.

The Czar knew that one day a young leader would pursue his role from within the ranks. The recent alleged coup presents that challenge which seems more real now.

The mystery continues . . .

"ACE" LALLY UNSEATED BY "YANK" ANTHONY

Whenever ambitious athletes compete for the "gold" or top honors, the man at the top is the man to beat. And when you attain the top position, it demands your best all the time or else you topple.

Well, the colorful, high-scoring, quick-shooting, fleet-footed speedster Mark "Ace" Lally, who held the Senior League's top scorer position since opening game, was unseated by the equally talented University of Connecticut (1984-1985) graduate and Irish Rebel co-captain Mike "Yank" Anthony. Anthony diligently picked away at Lally's comfortable lead until the gap closed enough to overtake him and become the new leader and holder of the cursed title "Top Scorer." This will demand his constant performance in order to maintain his reign at the top of the list. What a price to pay to be crowned "King!"

Well, "Yank," now that you are King, guess who's pressing you for the crown? Yep, the Preacher, Paul "Amos" Anthony, your younger brother. And he would like the crown as would "Ace."

Finally, what about the "Flash" who won it last year? That's right, Matt "Flash" Mahoney is coming on strong, making him the dark horse. He needs watching as he would like to be King again.

TANNERS TAME THE BULLYS

It was unbelievable watching the sometime fill-in, substitute, nearsighted referee explode with two goals and five assists, capping a single high scoring for the Black & Tans who were coming off three losses. This victory was so sweet as the Tanners could do no wrong thanks to the efforts of Scottie "Shifty" Sheehan who hit for a hat trick and one assist. Pat "Hawkeye" Considine increased his point totals with one goal and two assists, despite some defensive plays he had better curb, or else!

Billy "Rabbit" Ryan added one goal and two assists, along with great defensive playmaking. Jimmy "Crusher" Connors also added one goal and two assists; new kid on the block Mark "Mucho" Marino recorded one goal and one assist; Dennis "Whizzer" White added two goals; and Joe "Gung Ho" Wilkins contributed three assists to the sweet victory.

Co-captain Paul "Amos" Anthony led the Baron's Bullies with four goals and one assist followed by the captain, Eddie "Biff" Considine who had a hat trick plus one assist. Mike "Moses" Moloney added two goals and one assist in the losing effort.

Girls' Ball Hockey Playoffs

Underdogs Threaten Upsets, But Favorites Prevail In First Round Action

Game 1 — Charlestown Chiefs 6, N.B.B. 3

In the opening game of the playoffs, the heavily favored Charlestown Chiefs were given a scare by N.B.B. before pulling out a 6-3 victory.

The Chiefs had the pressure on early, but N.B.B. goalie Barbara McCabe and defenseman Michelle Macomber kept them from scoring, and Maureen Thompson shocked the Chiefs and the crowd by putting N.B.B. ahead, 1-0.

Shannon McLaughlin answered with two goals for a 2-1 Chiefs lead, but Thompson scored again to knot the score at 2-2. Allison Kane scored for the Chiefs, but Ronnie Sue Deardon tied it for N.B.B., sending the game into the second half tied at 3-3.

In the second half, the Chiefs kept pressing, and McLaughlin netted her third and fourth goals of the game for a 5-3 lead. McCabe and Macomber hustled to keep N.B.B. in the game, but Patty Riley scored the final goal for the Chiefs with one second left to give them the 6-3 win.

Game 2 — Barbies 7, Parkies 5

The second game of the night also came close to being an upset as the Parkies took the Barbies right down to the wire before the Barbies came away with a 7-5 win.

Mary Kay Tkachuk opened the scoring for the Parkies, putting them up 1-0 as goalie Melanie Marsden kept the Barbies at bay. Joanne Wallace then scored twice for the Barbies, Leslie Borden added another for a 3-1 lead. But Tkachuk added her second and third goals, and Marsden continued her outstanding play in the net to keep the score tied at 3-3 until halftime.

In the second half, Marsden made more key stops, but Kim Krupcheck put the Barbies up 4-3 and Wallace finished off her hat-trick for a 5-3 Barbies lead. Tkachuk scored again to make it 5-4, and then added her fifth goal of the game with less than two minutes left for a 5-5 tie.

The game seemed headed for overtime, but the Barbies' Christine Sorentino broke the tie with 35 seconds left and scored again with 15 seconds left to clinch the victory for the Barbies.

Thank You

The men of Engine 32 and Ladder 9 of the Boston Fire Department extend a hearty "thank you" to Frank Dacey of Town Shade for donating a mammoth-size projection screen this week. In their off-duty time, locally stationed firefighters can relax and enjoy big-screen games in the Main Street firehouse.

My Sincere Appreciation

Dear Gloria,

As a representative of the Board of Directors of the Charlestown Boys and Girls Club, I would like to extend my sincere appreciation to you and the Patriot for your tireless efforts in helping to make the First Annual Boys Club Reunion the overwhelming success that it certainly turned out to be.

Your assistance in helping to promote the evening through the more than two months of publishing of old Boys' Club photos was certainly instrumental in helping us reach the near 300 men who attended the affair. These are the men who value their Boys' Club memories and realize the influence the organization had on them during their earlier years in the Charlestown community.

Though a good number of the men in attendance still reside in the community, there were dozens who traveled some distance to return to old and familiar territory. These are the people who now live elsewhere, but will forever be from Charlestown. Many of those who did travel from other areas to attend learned of the reunion through the pages of the Patriot.

The Board of Directors knows only too well of your continued support over these many years, and we are truly indebted to you for that support.

On a more personal note, Gloria, my association with you and your publication over the past three decades has convinced me and many others in the community that the Patriot is most definitely the real newspaper of Charlestown, and not just a newspaper in Charlestown.

Thank you, once again, for being such a true and valued friend to me and to the Charlestown Boys and Girls Club.

Sincerely,

Charlie McGonagle, Member
Board of Directors
Charlestown Boys and Girls Club

Live And Let Live

Dear Editor Conway,

It's too bad that the complaining "Townie" had to use the language she did about the people living in condos. The bitterness and name calling only degrades the writer and puts other people who are not "Townies" on the defensive.

Each person that lives here in Charlestown is not from here, but most of them, I am sure, want to live in peace and harmony with their neighbors.

There are always a few who are careless, but most people who buy homes want to improve the neighborhood. Personally, I think the town needs "new blood" as those who invest their money in a land want a nice neighborhood. The improvements in the Harvard Mall are all to their credit.

Live and let live and keep on trying . . .

Sincerely,

Anna Wilcox

My Heartfelt Appreciation

I would like to express my heartfelt appreciation to the doctors, nurses and staff of Baker 4 and Bigelow II at Massachusetts General Hospital for their efforts in caring for my son Billy Simensen. All their attention and comfort helped myself and my family through a very difficult time.

I would also like to give special thanks to our friend Fran-nie Campbell whose support was so important and who displayed unselfish sacrifice and devotion through Billy's long illness.

My thanks also to Reverend Daniel Mahoney of Saint Francis de Sales Parish, to Barbie Matson and her family and to all our friends for their help and thoughtfulness as well as for the floral pieces and spiritual bouquets.

Sincerely,

Mae L. Simensen and family

Who Does Travaglini Truly Represent?

Who does City Councilman Robert Travaglini truly represent? This is a serious question which arose following a recent hearing before the Licensing Board for the City of Boston regarding the application for a beer and wine license in Charlestown.

Many who are opposed to the granting of the license called Councilman Travaglini's office prior to the hearing to voice their concerns and opposition. Several of us were told when we called that the Councilman's office had been inundated with calls of opposition. However, at the hearing the Councilman's assistant stood before the chairwoman to announce that, indeed, his office had received an overwhelming number of calls opposing the license, but that he was giving his support for it, basing his decision on a one and one-half hour interview with the applicants whom he found to be very impressive.

Regardless of which side of the license issue we take, or any other issue for that matter, we all need to take careful notice. Clearly, the Councilman does not fully understand or take seriously the premise on which politicians are voted into office. They are elected to be servants of the people and to represent their constituency. So, Mr. Travaglini, who can we count on to hear our voices and represent us?

This is one scenario many of us will not forget the next time we go to the polls.

cess depends on parent involvement. All leaders are volunteers. There are camp outs, field trips, Christmas parties, Townie Santa and weekly meetings that require parents' guidance and support.

"Charlestown involvement is down but swinging back, and we have more girls than ever now," says Hickey, who adds that enrollment was still highest in the '60s when she was a scout. Now her daughter Lindsey is a Brownie, and Hickey says scouting in Charlestown has not changed that much. She laughs about still remembering the songs and Girl Scout promises from more than 20 years ago.

"But it's not just about meeting every week and doing the easy stuff," Hickey says, "It's a responsibility, and I love it."

The majority of Brownies and Juniors will sell the $2.50 boxes of cookies to relatives and friends in their own neighborhoods in Charlestown, as leaders do not encourage the door-to-door sales of the past. Hickey says, currently, there are no girls from the Navy Yard, and the troops have been thinking of ways to let their newest neighbors know that they have local scouts.

But if a Brownie or Girl Scout does not show up at the door in the next two weeks boasting great cookies with an irresistible pitch, don't fret. A lot of their best sales come in late March at Johnnies' Foodmaster when shoppers give the drive a boost.

For more information about ordering cookies, contact Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council at 482-1078.

Charlie McGonagle Honored

place of honor at the clubhouse. The name of each honoree in years to come will be added to the plaque.

McGonagle also received a plaque with the club seal and a similar gold-plated card for himself.

McGonagle was the recipient of a certificate for a brunch for four at Brandywines in the Sheraton Commander.

A plaque from the Weight Room participants was presented to McGonagle by Steve McLaughlin of the Weight Room staff, assisted by Joe Jackson of the Teen Center staff.

A touching tribute to McGonagle was made by members of his family. His brother Leo made the presentation of a clock and plaque inscribed "As a son or as a brother, the good Lord hath made no other." It was signed by his mother, his father Mac, his sister Helen and his brothers Leo and Paul.

It was then time for stories, recollections and a genuinely good time as former members renewed old friendships.

Compliments were accorded the Reunion Committee, under the chairmanship of Steve Kenneally, for the outstanding event. Committee members included Dennis Borden, Ed Callahan, Paul Collins, Charlie McGonagle, Dan McGoff, Kevin O'Halloran and Pat Sweeney.

Sweeney said, "The evening was a most gratifying experience and we look forward to welcoming more alumni to next year's gathering."

About Charlie . . .

poetry have touched the hearts or brought a smile to the lips of countless persons.

Saturday night was special for the tribute came from the Boys' Club, an organization which has been a part of his life for over 40 years.

Charlie joined the Boys' Club in 1947. In 1981, he set pen to paper, recalling his memories of the club.

He said: "It was February 1947 when Paul Tagg, an Elm Street neighbor a couple of years my senior, took me and Jack 'Cooka' Lynch to the club for the first time. I can remember being too small to stand before the long oak counter which served as a writing surface for new members filling out applications. Tagg lifted me to the countertop, and from a sitting position, I filled out the required form, paid my 50 cents, received a temporary cardboard ticket which doubled as a physical examination appointment, and became an official member of the Boys' Club of Boston."

"I can remember being awed by the length of the bowling alley in the Midget-Junior Games Room and amazed by the size of the club's swimming pool. I don't think I had ever seen an indoor pool before that day, and I am positive I had never seen such a gathering of naked young men before. Bathing suits were never a part of the Boys' Club swimming program."

Little did Charlie know on that day he first joined the club that it would become an integral part of his life to this day.

Charlie started working at the club part time in 1957 while he was still in high school. In the early '60s, he worked full time as physical education director before launching his career in the teaching profession. That was not the end of his Boys' Club involvement, as he continued on part time until 1982.

His career at the Boys' Club took many directions. Charlie's first job was assistant membership secretary for Jack McKettrick, handling the front desk. His salary was 50 cents an hour and when the minimum wage went to 75 cents, so did his salary. He also held this position under Harvey Brooks.

From there, Charlie went on to work in the physical education department and continued in this area.

Charlie recalls that it was Louis Zeramby who made him a member of the staff in 1957 and subsequently he worked under clubhouse directors Larry Santapaul, John Magistrelli, Keith Dion and Tom King.

He noted that on a Saturday afternoon in 1962, he approached Santapaul, questioning him as to why no one was writing about the club for the Patriot. Santapaul told him that if he wanted to write, to go ahead and that was the beginning of 20 years of news on the Boys' Club from Charlie.

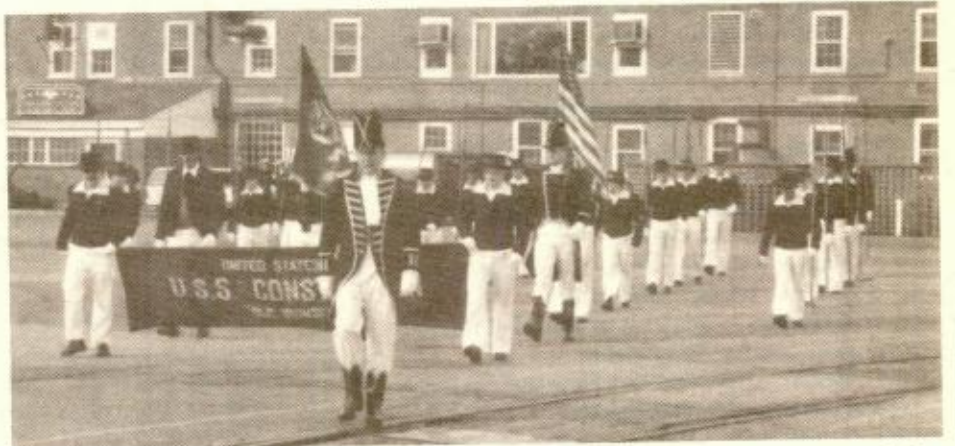

Charlie not only wrote about the events at the club, he was a part of them and he continues to share his expertise today as a member of the Charlestown Boys and Girls Club Board of Directors.

In Charlie's own words, he states, "What the Boys' Club gave to me over the years cannot be measured in tangibles alone. The things that can be seen and touched are important. The things that can only be felt — they are the more important."

Yes, Charlie, these things that can only be felt are the more important and the tribute paid to you this past weekend can only be a small token of appreciation for your work with the youth of the town and the manner in which your thoughts and your ideals have touched the hearts of residents over the years.

Thanks, Charlie, from your many friends at the reunion and from the countless friends you have in this community.

cillor Travaglini pledged his support in politicking for the bus at both the council and School Committee levels. Judy Evers, liaison for Charlestown from the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services, said she will present a full report to the mayor and request his support.

All letters are requested to be sent to Ruthellen Chardovoyne, 51 Chappie Street before Monday evening, Jan. 23. Chardovoyne will gather all the material, make a sufficient number of copies and present them as a package to every committee member at the Jan. 24 meeting.

Parents are also urged to contact their School Committee representative, the School Department Superintendent, the School Committee secretary and the newly elected School Committee President Tom O'Reilly at 726-6200 to urge them to reinstate the school bus as a safety measure for students of the three communities. Charlestown, East Boston and the North End are the only communities in the city that do not have any form of transportation to the school.

A two-story house with bath has been constructed on the sixth floor of Don Bosco Technical High School in Boston by students of the building technology department.

The structure also has an entry hall and stairs leading to the second-floor gable dormer.

Starting from scratch, the students leveled the sills, installed floor joists and the subfloor, framed walls and stairs, sheathed walls, and framed and sheathed the roof. They also applied the exterior finish, installed windows, clapboards and vinyl siding, applied cedar and roof shingles and hung doors.

All work on the house was a practical application of classroom lectures and afforded the students hands-on experience instead of just reading a textbook on how to do carpentry.

The project is an important phase of their first half of the year but is only a

The students have now moved on to masonry to finish off the year. The house will be dismantled and a new group of students will take over and build its own house.

Name That Show . . .

Charlestown has Bunker Hill and Nanny Goat Hill, Montego Bay and the Oilies, and Townies and Toonies; but one thing it lacks is a name for the new cable TV program scheduled to debut in February.

The set is under construction, the technicians and talent are undergoing rigorous rehearsals, but members of the Charlestown Community Cable Corporation have been so busy preparing for the premiere of Charlestown's new cable TV talk show that they've been unable to find the time to name the show. Francis Kirk, Nancy Keyes and Norita Lee were appointed to the name committee and challenged by the group to come up with a great name before the scheduled February air date. Many names were proposed and rejected and after failing miserably, the committee decided to take the creative approach and seek community input.

The new half-hour program will focus on issues and events impacting Charlestown and will offer a forum to present opposing views. While not the final word on controversial topics, the program is an opportunity to bring both sides of an issue before the community on cable TV, particularly to those unable to attend public meetings. The purpose of the program is not to resolve problems, but to open them to public discussion. Guests will have something to say that is provocative, entertaining, or informational, but always of interest to the community at large.

Chuck Shairs, director of Media Services at Bunker

Hill Community College (BHCC), will serve as executive consultant to the program, which will be taped at the BHCC studios.

All Charlestown residents are invited to submit names for the program. The name should be brief and reflect the character, history, topography, or residents of the community. Each entry must be submitted on a separate piece of paper, no smaller than 3 inches by 5 inches, and contain the proposed name for the show; the name, address and telephone number of the entrant; and mailed or delivered to Norita Lee, Room B338, Bunker Hill Community College, New Rutherford Avenue, Charlestown, MA 02129 no later than Tuesday, Jan. 31, to be eligible for consideration.

The winning entry will be selected by a panel of impartial judges, and the decision of the judges is final. All entries become the property of Charlestown Community Cable Corporation and the winner will be revealed when the first program is scheduled to air.

Judges to date include Piedad Robertson, president, BHCC; Gloria Conway, publisher, Charlestown Patriot; and Bruce Lee, anchor, WEEI Newsradio.

For contest information, call 241-8600, ext. 285.
