

Tragedy A Breeze Away

Charlestown Threatened By Somerville Tank Car Accident

Thursday, April 3rd dawned clear with blue skies, a little wind—the kind of morning that made a person turn aside the dark, drab woollens of winter and search through the closet for something lighter to wear something to capture the long-awaited sounds and smells of Spring.

But the sweet smell of Spring turned into a cloud of acid vapor shortly after 9:00 a.m. when firemen, arriving on the scene of an accident involving an engine and a tank car in the railroad yard in Somerville, just a few hundred feet from the Charlestown/Somerville line, reportedly attempted to contain the contents that spewed forth by dousing them with water. The contents of that tank car, combined with the water, created a toxic acid that sent over 100 persons to the hospital and led to a day of fear, confusion, inconvenience, and uncertainty for thousands in the area. This was the day in which phosphorus trichloride began the day in a tank car in the Boston & Maine Railroad Yards in Somerville and ended up being a household word.

Residents of Charlestown stayed by their radios and TV's waiting for a word on how this cloud of vapor, visible from many sections of the town, would affect our community. With the major arteries, I-93, the Mystic River Bridge, the Gilmore Bridge as well as the Cambridge Street/Washington Street area closed off, Charlestown was isolated on and off for a good part of the day. The streets of the town were almost deserted as residents were cautioned to stay inside and to close all windows.

Bunker Hill Community College and Hood Milk, both on Rutherford Avenue, were evacuated as a precautionary measure during the afternoon. For most in the town, it was just "wait and see".

During the course of this emergency situation, Senator Fran Doris kept the Patriot posted on the events taking place in Somerville which enabled it to quell the fears of numerous callers to the newspaper. He was in close contact with the Department of Environmental Affairs as well as the State Civil Defense, keeping watch on changes in the situation as it might affect our community. As the day dragged on and evening fell, Doris assured worried constituents that our area was not in danger.

Marilyn Rogers, a resident of Parker Street, was not at all sure that there was no danger from the spread of these toxic fumes. She watched and waited as Somerville businesses and residences within the sight of her Charlestown home were

Parade Committee To Meet Monday

There will be an important meeting of the Bunker Hill Parade Committee on Monday evening, April 14, 1980 at 7:30 p.m. in the lower hall of Bunker Hill Post 26, American Legion 27, Chestnut Street. All are invited to attend.

At the conclusion of this brief but important meeting, Bud

Whelan, and the special committee for fund raising for the 1980 - Bunker Hill Day Parade - (which will be held on Sunday afternoon June 15th) will plan the door-to-door booster campaign.

Volunteers are needed to help in the door-to-door solicitation. If you are interested in a bigger and better parade please attend the April 14, 1980 parade meeting. Remember even if you could only donate an hour or two - in your own neighborhood - to sell boosters this would be a tremendous help to the committee.

This is your parade - don't stand on the sidelines and gripe that it isn't long enough. Come on down and help us - the parade committee - raise the necessary monies to make it the best parade in years.

It is up to you.

John D. Fitzpatrick Memorial Fund

In an outpouring of generosity, the concerned citizens of Charlestown have overwhelmingly responded to the proposed establishment of the John D. Fitzpatrick Memorial Scholarship Fund, a project which not only will serve to perpetuate the memory of a fine young man whose life was senselessly wasted in a horrible tragedy, but will also serve as a community's outrageous reaction against violence.

It has been but two short weeks since a group of friends and neighbors of the Fitzpatrick family first met in Bishop Lawton Hall at St. Francis de Sales in an effort to establish the Memorial Fund, but in that brief span of time more than fifty individuals and organizations have made generous voluntary contributions.

Last week, as the group met for the second time, Reverend Isaiah Sears expressed his feelings to the gathering:

"You don't know the wonderful feeling I have sitting here among people who really care, people who are showing concern and love for fellow human beings. I feel privileged and proud to be part of it."

Reverend Daniel Mahoney, Pastor of Saint Francis de Sales, and Father Gilbert, Principal of Christopher Columbus High School expressed similar sentiments at the group's initial meeting a week earlier.

Those who know the Fitzpatrick family can reach into their hearts and donate in an effort to give life to this Memorial Fund in the name of John, but even those who did not know this young man personally can voice their outrage and speak against violence by giving.

It might be wise to remember that no one on this earth has immunity from tragedy. Guarantees of this nature are not written. Only through the grace of God are many spared this sorrowful burden.

Donations may be made either in person or by mail through Frank Perreault at the Youth Activities Commission Office, 259 Bunker Hill Street, Charlestown, Mass. 02129. All checks should be made payable to the "John D. Fitzpatrick Memorial Fund." Contributions will be accepted through the month of April.

The six important questions to ask before listing your house.

When you're ready to sell, you want to make sure you list with someone who has all the tools to help you best sell your house. The most important thing is this: Don't just list with anybody.

To compare, ask these six questions:

1. Do you have a referral network so you can send me potential buyers from all across the country?
2. Do you have a display of photos in your office so people can preview my house?
3. Are all your salespeople professionally trained?
4. Do you advertise extensively in newspapers and on the radio?
5. Will you put into writing exactly what you will do for me or else I can cancel the listing?

6. Do you spend over $20,000,000 to advertise on television so effectively that more than 9 out of 10 potential buyers recognize your sign in front of my house?

There is only one real estate sales organization that can answer yes to all these questions. CENTURY 21® evacuated and closed up. Mrs. Rogers stated that she spent Thursday seeking help and information for her and her neighbors. Angrily she spoke of calling the Mayor's Office of Public Service only to get a casual "you've got nothing to worry about" from a man that she felt could care less. Her calls continued to public agencies and officials with no satisfaction as her concern for the safety of the residents and especially for her husband, who has a respiratory problem, mounted. Mrs. Rogers feels that the residential area beyond Sullivan Square is "not on the map of Boston at all." She watched with anger as Somerville officials were "out of line" taking care of their own going street by street with a bullhorn reassuring the Somerville residents as they sat "helpless." Mrs. Rogers said that Boston has let them down once again she said "we are the forgotten people."

It seems as though the Safety

Parents' Discussion Group

"How Smoking Affects You" is the topic of the Parent's Discussion Group at the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main Street at 10:00 a.m. on Friday, April 11, 1980. The speaker will be Ms. Cindy Ferguson, Health Educator with the American Lung Association.

On Friday, April 18, the topic will be "Choosing Pets For Your Children" with Miss Marilyn Fitzgerald, an instructor with the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals as the speaker.

Children who are at least three years old are welcome to register for the Pre-School Story Hour held at the same time. Child care will be provided at the Charlestown Community Center, 14 Green Street for children too young to join the Story Hour.

of the entire community of Charlestown may be, if not forgotten, at least ignored by those firms storing and transporting dangerous materials in the surrounding communities and even through our streets. The imminent danger of last Thursday's chemical cloud in the nearby railroad yards of Somerville, while an LNG tanker unloaded at the Everett storage area, gave rise to some serious questions as to the danger these facilities and the storage of hazardous materials pose to this community.

Representative Richard Voke in a statement issued this week deplored the serious chemical accident which occurred last week in Somerville and he endorsed the establishment of a special gubernatorial task force to investigate the cause of the mishap and to make recommendations to avoid similar accidents in the future.

In a letter to the Monsanto Chemical Company, the owner of the railroad car which leaked the poisonous gas, Representative Voke denounced the inadequate safety precautions practiced by the company and accused the company of flagrantly disregarding the safety of the people of Charlestown and Somerville. When he was asked why a special investigatory commission was necessary, Voke responded, "now is the time to act before anyone else is injured. We must challenge the federal government's authority to regulate the transportation of hazardous chemicals and propose stricter standards for the protection of us all."

Representative Voke pledged to work along with the Governor's special task force and he promised to support any necessary legislative and regulatory changes to deal with the problem. The Governor's task force will submit its report by June 30th.

The health and safety of Charlestown's residents was balanced on the movement of the breeze last Thursday. For most, it was too close for comfort. It can only be hoped that this accident in Somerville and near-tragedy here in Charlestown will serve as the stimulus for some stronger and more effective rules and regulations governing the transportation and storage of hazardous materials, to protect the lives and property of our residents.

We have the 100 percent support of both of our state legislators — Senator Fran Doris and Representative Richard Voke. Let's hope that Kevin H. White, Mayor of Boston, will put his tremendous political clout behind such a drive to minimize the possibility of future accidents in the transportation and storage of hazardous materials.

Boys' Club News

by Charlie McGonagle

The fifty-seventh renewal of the Nate Hurwitz Amateur Basketball Tournament came to a successful conclusion last Saturday afternoon in the Boys' Club Gymnasium as champions in four separate divisions were crowned.

In the day's first encounter, the Midget Division Pistols, coached by Dennis Burke of Charlestown and led by Ed Wright's game high twenty one points, topped the Beverly Ninth Graders.

The Junior Division Pacers stopped a determined, but out-manned South Boston Boys' Club unit in a hard fought contest.

The Hayes Club of Somerville, a perennial Hurwitz Tournament powerhouse, added another jewel to its crown by defeating the Intermediate Pacers.

A bit of the lustre was removed from the Senior Division final when a couple of the Back Bay Movers' better performers were unable to make it to the final game. In spite of it all though, the Movers gave Joseph's Catering all it could handle in an extremely well played contest.

The Tourney's Individual Honors went to Dave Thomas of the Brighton Pacers, who was selected Tournament M.V.P., and to John Sheehan of the Midget Division's Pacers, who received the Fred Sullivan Trophy as the Charlestown boy who best exemplified the traits most admired in a young man by the late Fred Sullivan, a long time employee of the Charlestown Boys' Club.

The South Boston Boys' Club's Junior Division Team was awarded the Team Sport-smanship Trophy. As a team's conduct on the court most often reflects the attitude of its coach toward the game, Paul Shuman, a fine young man who directs the South Boston hoopsters, deserves a pat on the back for his squad's selection for this prestigious honor.

Not to be forgotten is the fact that Bob Gould, in his first year as Director of the Hurwitz Tournament, did a masterful job.

A note of thanks is also extended to Paul and David Mahoney, Keven Kelley, Billy Wilkins, Tom McGoff, Dennis Burke, Mickey Godding, Danny Burns, Paul Junta, and all the other Boys' Club members who assisted in scoring, timing, setting up, breaking down, etc. without their help, things would have been a lot more difficult.

To Talk Of Many Things

The Family Feud?

by Sal Giarratani

In the beginning there was Mom, Apple Pie and the White House Conference on Families. The only one that isn't working out well is the one created by Jimmy Carter.

Back four years ago, Carter proposed this conference to "examine the strengths of American families...and the ways in which family life is affected by public policies."

The objective of this conference was, and remains, to figure out how present public policy helps or hurts the American Family. However, it has turned into a national Family Feud game show with conservatives pitted against liberals. The winners won't win cash prizes announced by Richard Dawson but will determine the future of our nation, if there is to be one.

I believe that parents, not the state, have a right to bring up their children in a way which supports their values and morals. There has been a continuing effort by government at almost every level to interfere with the well-being of families.

From the beginning of time, the family has been the basic unit of civilization. The family is the bellwether for the future, encouraging good morality, establishing economic self-sufficiency and sustaining physical health.

In a free society, the family ought to determine what is best for the family and deserves protection from immoral or incompetent governmental policies. Today, there are a number of ways by which the State (federal, state and local) through acts of omission and commission threaten the family.

Recently, a day-long conference in Gardner Auditorium in the State House was held to take oral and written testimony and choose delegates to the national conference in June.

At this time, Rev. John H. Flynn presented written testimony concerning a recent U.S. Court of Appeals decision which knocked parental rights reeling when it ruled that state agencies need not notify parents when providing birth control counseling to under-age females.

Fr. Flynn, Vice President of the Boston chapter, Catholic League for Religious and Civil Rights, quoted Robert Destro, the League's general counsel who has asserted, "If this decision is upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court, parents will no longer have any rights as parents, and the American family, which is already endangered, will be further weakened. If the state assumes the right to direct the education of children in such sensitive areas as sexual morality...then Big Brother is no longer a threat, he is a reality."

In summary, "Family" is not a dirty word but it should never be taken for granted. Think about it!

of Bunker Hill Council 62 will leave Saturday morning for their annual Golf Week at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, and this year even the married guys are bringing their clubs.

The trip has really gained in prestige over the past few years, and the mode of transportation has changed considerably.

The first year saw the men travel by camel, covered wagon, and horseback, or so it seemed, as they squeezed four into a Volkswagen and six into a Pinto for the more than seven hundred mile trip. The money they expected to save by driving was forfeited to Highway Patrols in several states from Massachusetts to South Carolina. Tolls, gasoline, and meals enroute further dipped into their greens fees, and year number two saw them opt for flying. They sought out, of course, the most economical airline they could find. Success was theirs, as they made reservations with a brand new airline company promoting its first public flight to the south. 'Trydagethathere Airlines' did prove to be economical, but what the group did not realize when they bought their tickets was the fact that certain hidden costs were written in fine print in the sales agreement. For example, when they boarded the twin prop, 1947 wooden aircraft with baloney skin tires and took all fifteen of the planes seats, they heard over the static filled inter-com system.

"Good Morning this is Captain Foster Brooks, your Pilot speaking. In the next few minutes your hostess will be taking up a collection for fuel. Please be generous enough to get us to your destination. After all, we do not want to run out over the Poconos, now, do we?"

"Please note that the 'No Smoking' light on this plane refers to the engines. Please pray that it stays on throughout the flight.

"As part of our trip takes us over water, I hope you all can swim. Once we are in the air, complimentary cocktails will be served. I strongly advise you have at least six.

"I am sorry to inform you that the promised gourmet, in-flight meal will not be served. The stewardess forgot the can opener.

"If we encounter turbulence during our flight, do not worry, pray instead. It helps a great deal more than worrying.

"When approaching the Airport we must bank sharply to the left. On a given signal, all of you on the right side of the plane will get up and sit on the laps of those on the left. When we level off, please return to your assigned seats."

After that experience the boys decided to modernize their transportation plans, and on Saturday morning they will leave Logan Airport on a real jet plane.

Good luck boys, and bring back some stories for those who stayed home!

Charlestown's Own Eye In The Sky

"Officer Bill" - His Beat Is The Skies Over Boston

by Jane Seidl

What "Townie" is customarily bedecked in a uniform of royal blue and logs more air time than many of Boston's favorite disc jockies?

If it's between the hours of 6:30 to 9:30 a.m., or 3 to 6 p.m., glance up at the springtime skies for an answer. You may catch sight of a helicopter whirling along at ninety miles per hour, about four hundred feet over your head. This could be the chopper, piloted by Bruce MacLeod, from which Charlestown's "Officer Bill" Connell broadcasts about thirty traffic reports daily.

Bill Connell has been a police officer for about nine years; for the past five, he's also been delivering traffic reports for WHDH-AM radio. A corporate decision was made three years ago to include HDH's sister station, COZ-FM, as another recipient of the traffic news broadcasts. Although the reports are carried on HDH's airwaves, Bill is employed solely by the Metropolitan Police; Boston Air Taxi of Beverly supplies primary and backup helicopters.

the armed services, his command of the spoken language and ease of articulation simplified the decision process.

Being in the unique position of serving primarily as a police officer, with secondary emphasis on traffic reporting, means that Bill can use the helicopter in either manner. The value of this dual capacity, combined with the maintenance of two-way communication with headquarters, was dramatically demonstrated on March 4. At about 5 p.m., while flying above the expressway, Bill and pilot Bruce MacLeod learned that two youngsters had fallen through the ice at Mother's Brook, a section of the Neponset River. The helicopter departed from its usual flying pattern of repeatedly circling over Boston, and landed near the accident site. At that point, one child had been rescued and another was still missing. Four persons, including Boston Health and Hospitals emergency technicians, had jumped into the water in unsuccessful attempts to locate the boy. The Skyway helicopter, equipped with ponfrom WHDH's mobile units, the trucks of the CVS Samaritans, and AM and FM newsroom and engineering departments.

This ability to deal with numerous sources of input is carried over to Bill's quickly-paced traffic reports. "There's lots of information coming in; one must be a motormouth to get it all out," Bill laughed. "And I am!"

The speedy manner of delivery, characteristically that of "Officer Bill's", is packed with valuable information for the dismayed motorist traveling on Boston-area roadways during both morning and evening rush hours. Bill believes that by compressing what he says and leaving a short space between reports of the major arteries, drivers can easily zero in on mentions of targeted roads. He prides himself on being clear and concise, and sometimes finds he must consciously slow his speaking rate when addressing groups in public.

The distinctiveness of Officer Bill's style of delivery has contributed to the establishment of a definitive radio personality. Several years ago on Labor Day, a Jerry Lewis telethon was being held at Copley Square. An animated eight year old asked to be shown where "Officer Bill" was; after Bill was pointed out, the boy's gaze narrowed. "No, that's not him," the boy repeatedly stated. "It's not. . . What d'ya mean? Officer Bill has a short, fat voice."

Bill's notoriety is an inevitable by-product of his position as one of about eighty well-known broadcasters in the Boston area. "I found notoriety very hard to year old Bill Junior told his father he "... sounded nervous, but sounded good!" Five years ago, the Connells had clustered around the radio, listening to Bill's reports; today, his wife and four children have accepted his newscasting as a normal, everyday part of his police duties.

Bill moved from his hometown of Malden to Charlestown after ing the morning broadcasts, he travels from Beverly Airport to headquarters, where he works out of the public information office. Before returning to the airport to cover the afternoon rush hour, Bill may return home, fulfill speaking engagements, attend career days at local schools, or visit hospitals. He also devotes a great amount of time to fundraising activities, including the solicitation of endowments for Channel 2, and is on the Board of Directors of United Cerebral Palsy of the Metropolitan Area. Bill also found time to earn an associate degree in law enforcement at Northeastern University, by attending night classes for two years.

If you're in the metropolitan area during the peak rush hours, you might be able to discern "Officer Bill's" helicopter, scanning the area for both traffic congestion and police patrol purposes. It's this very duality that permeates Bill Connell's life, a duality that has led to the uniqueness of WHDH's Skyway Patrol.

Science Awards

Five students from the Clarence R. Edwards School won awards at the regional science fair held on Friday, March 28 at Boston Latin School.

Joanne Hughes received a third place medal for her exhibit, "The Butterfly." Julio Chow, Annette Gonsalves, Eric Hines, and Thuy Le were awarded Honorable Mention.

To Take Part In Hospital Day

A meeting of the Veterans and Ladies Auxiliary of W.W. I throughout the state will meet at the G.A.R. Building in Worcester on April 13. Plans will be completed for presentation of gifts to seven Veteran Hospitals in Massachusetts on Sunday, April 20. A luncheon will be served after the meeting.

Charlestown residents Marie McDonald, President of Auxiliary 261, and Edith Healy, Legislative Director, will attend the meeting and Hospital Day.

SKYWAY PATROL HELICOPTER lands at pad near North Station following final report at 6:00 p.m. Museum of Science is in the background.

Bill's position as a police officer takes precedence both when he's on the ground and in the air. The "Skyway" helicopter is, for the M.D.C., a unique and highly visible vehicle used to augment other patrol methods. For WHDH, Skyway represents one part of the daily broadcasting format, designed to aid motorists during peak travel hours.

The development of the "police officer/traffic reporter" concept began in the early '70s, when the M.D.C. gave a two-way police radio to traffic reporters flying over the city. These reporters, employed by HDH, had no commitment to keep in contact with police headquarters. WHDH, divested of its television and newspaper divisions, was bought by Blair Advertising in 1975, and a period of programming evaluation began. Meanwhile, the Metropolitan District Commission had decided that the police radio should be put to complete departmental use, as it was an expensive piece of equipment which was positively utilized only several times a year.

Bill Connell, a junior patrolman in 1975 was chosen to pick up the radio at HDH. There he met David Croninger, then general manager and now president, who asked if the police department would consider putting an officer in an airplane. The idea received approval from the Commissioner and Superintendent of Police, and Bill was chosen to represent M.D.C. in the skies over Boston. Although his broadcasting experience had been limited to occasional weekend radio fill-ins while in toons, touched down on the ice in an attempt to stir the water and crack the ice for the scuba team. This pressure from above caused the formation of a counter-pressure in the water, and the child floated up.

The WHDH radio traffic helicopter has also functioned as an aerial extension of M.D.C.'s services in the detection of fires and stolen vehicles buried in woods and sunken in reservoirs. Another danger point which Officer Bill closely monitors is the Charles River, which is one of the swiftest-moving rivers in the country and never completely freezes. The helicopter may also fly ahead of cruisers escorting ambulances and fire engines, radioing to the vehicle which roadways have the least amount of traffic.

Bill and Bruce have also been forced to cope with personal danger while flying over the city and suburban areas. Wind gusts of sixty miles per hour have caused the blades on the helicopter to pop, and on a separate occasion, partial engine failure occurred. Bill once suffered a slight concussion after the aircraft almost inverted while flying across the channel.

Thus, Skyway serves as an aerial platform for the Metropolitan Police, and its existence is functionally beneficial for both the radio station and the police. Bill wears a split headset while airborne; with his left ear, he's constantly monitoring police reports from headquarters, while AM or FM airwaves are transmitted through the right side of the headpiece. Additionally, the rightside earpiece receives input accept - and I still do," he explained. "Ninety per cent of the things I do, I do in uniform. Skyway is a beautiful vehicle for realizing what M.D.C. is - and hopefully it's making the entire department more visible. I'm proud of every single member of the department - the Mets are one of the finest and most diversified groups in Massachusetts."

Bill considers himself luckier than other traffic reporters because of the multiple aspects involved in his job. He's first and foremost a police officer, but he enjoys flying and the broadcasting aspects of his involvement with WHDH. This multiplicity means Bill never gets bored on the job. "We're up there for something besides just traffic reporting," he explained. "All the information I put in, I'm seeing the benefits of - others are just doing their jobs. It's obvious I enjoy what I'm doing - only missed 2 1/2 hours in two years!"

Officer Bill's first broadcast was on May 5, 1975. He had hurried home, eager to hear the reactions of his family. Eight marrying the former Barbara Hughes. He enjoys living in the town, and strongly disagrees with the media's portrayal of Charlestown. "The negative concept of the 'Townie' is wrong. Ninety-nine percent of the residents of Charlestown are the most kind and open-hearted people. Like everywhere else, however, we have the other one per cent; the problem is that ours are more notorious. The wrongdoings of Charlestown residents are taken out of context, more so than in communities with a veneer of affluence. Money and affluence don't negate the existence of evil, but only serve to cover it. What is important is respect for authority, and that begins at home."

There are four children in the Connell home: William Jr., Lisa, Michael, and Stephen. The time Bill spends with his family is a highlight of his hectic day, which begins at 4:45 a.m. The Commonwealth has split Bill's shift to accommodate his flying schedule and rush hour coverage. Follow-

Your Dental Health

by Jeffrey D. Cohen, D.M.D.

It is difficult to estimate in which area dentistry has advanced most over the past few years. Certainly, in the area of prevention, detection and treatment of cavities, great strides have been made. Cavities can be revealed by x-rays that in previous years would be hidden from view. Once the cavity is detected, treatment is much less painful and more effective than ever before. Many dentists generally use local anesthetics in the area of treatment and will do so on request. High speed drills, new chair design and various new style lights all enable the dentist to do a quicker, more accurate job.

Choose a family dentist that takes a sincere interest in your general health as well as oral health. At the office of DR. JEFFREY D. COHEN, D.M.D., 338 Main, 242-3550 we take medical histories and evaluate them before procedure is started. I'm prepared to give you routine dental work, teach you good home care habits and offer you expert referrals when specialized work is necessary. Choose a family dentist you can have confidence in before an emergency arises.

"CREATIVE FINANCING"

During the next several weeks we'll be exploring various creative methods to finance home sales

Wrap Around Mortgage

EXAMPLE: An owner wanted to sell a property on which he was paying off a 25 year loan. The unpaid balance was $30,000 at 9-1/2 percent interest. He found a would-be buyer, and the two of them agreed on a price of $60,000 with the buyer to put up $10,000 in cash leaving $50,000 to be financed somehow.

The Buyer and Seller agreed upon a wrap around mortgage. Buyer gave Seller a promissory note in the amount of $50,000, with interest at 12-1/2 percent. The note contained a clause to the effect that its face amount included the unpaid balance of the first mortgage and that Seller would still be responsible for making payments on that underlying obligation as it stood.

Seller was in the comfortable position of receiving interest at an annual rate of $6,250 (12-1/2 percent of $50,000) while paying out interest at an annual rate of $2,850 (9-1/2 percent of $30,000) thereby netting $3,400 or 17 percent on the $20,000 difference between the two notes.

Buyer ended up paying 4 percentage point less than he would have paid on a new mortgage at 16-1/2 percent ($7,920 annual interest) saving him $1,670 a year or $139 a month.

Unfortunately, the option to sue a wraparound mortgage note is limited to cases where there is no acceleration or other alienation clause in any of the notes or mortgages against the property, or, if there is such a clause, the lender agrees to waive it, he will seldom waive it unless he has little to lose by doing so. In that case, the borrower may also have little to gain from the lender's willingness to allow the loan to stand intact.

Thank You

Please accept my sincere thanks for such a successful Flea Market that was held on Sunday, March 30, at the American Legion Hall for the Exceptional Children.

Everyone worked together and this success is the result of teamwork.

It is impossible for me to mention names because I would surely leave out someone.

Thanks so much for the hall, the people who worked with me, those who contributed in any way at all by coming down, giving donations, prizes, and being so generous in their purchases.

Everything was wonderful and the results amounted to hundreds of dollars.

Everyone worked hard and the cooperation was marvelous.

Very gratefully,

Seeks Clarification Of Membership On Kennedy Center And EDC Boards

April 4, 1980

Michael Donovan, President
Charlestown EDC

Dear Mike,

During the EDC (Economic Development Corporation) meeting on April 3, 1980, at the Old Bank Building (One Thompson Square) the issue of conflict of interest was brought up. A board member suggested that my membership on the board may be a conflict because I am a tenant at the Old Savings Bank Building. It was suggested by Trustee Joseph Owens that a letter be sent to the Secretary of State to determine whether I am in conflict of interest. As a board member who was elected by the people of Precinct 4 to the Kennedy Center Board (APAC) and, in turn, elected by the elected members of the Kennedy Center Board to the EDC Board of Trustees, I owe it to the people who elected me to clear up this matter.

Therefore, while this matter is under consideration, I wish to take a leave of absence from the three EDC Boards until such time as the issue is clarified. I feel that the whole issue of the make up of the Board of Trustees of the Charlestown EDC, the Charlestown EDC/One Thompson Square and Charlestown EDC/John Harvard School, Inc. should be straightened out. The conflict of interest issue with regard to myself has been brought up twice in meetings. On both occasions, the issue was brought up by an appointed member. I believe my membership is questioned

Thank You

I want to thank all the people of St. Catherine's Parish for remembering me in their prayers and for sending the beautiful Easter plant.

Mrs. Rose Francis, daughter of

because I have simply questioned the legality of the board, the operation of the corporations and the way things are managed. I have questioned these things prudently and responsibly as a representative of the people who have elected me.

As my co-representation from Precinct 4 implied in his recent resignation, appointed members of the corporation do not appear to be acting in good faith. The process of selection of appointed members is questionable, as is their interest in the purposes of the corporation. It is clear to me that the elected members have little, if any, real influence over what happens in any of the corporations, which means that the people of Charlestown do not influence what happens with their money. The EDC belongs to the people of Charlestown. I am a retired licensed contractor, a retired fireman, a businessman in Charlestown, a lifelong resident of Charlestown, and a tenant in an EDC building. I have as much, or more, emotional and financial interest in the success of the EDC's as any other trustee. These corporations are supposed to represent the people of Charlestown. While my membership is questioned, there are members on the board who do not, and have never lived in Charlestown, have no above-board business interests in Charlestown and are appointed in a method that does not represent the majority of elected board members. Other members are selected to the board despite the fact that they have lost elections for the board and have been voted out by the people of Charlestown; and, members who never ran for an election and no one seems to know why they were appointed as they don't represent any agencies or groups in Charlestown.

I feel it is my duty to find out if any member of the board of trustees, including myself is in conflict of interest, or sits illegally on these boards. Therefore, I request an investigation by the Secretary of the State of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts because they are corporations chartered within the Commonwealth; U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, because they are funding the Harvard School Project; the Community Service Administration because they may govern Community Economic Development Corporations; and the U.S. Office of Federal Contract Compliance, a group I have had contact with before. I will ask each of these groups to investigate the legality of the boards, the election-appointment process and how much control a Board of Trustees should have over the operation and policy-making of the EDC's.

I sincerely hope that these investigations will result in the people of Charlestown having greater control over the groups that are supposed to belong to them and the results will be better for all concerned.

Sincerely yours,
Joseph Kent, Trustee of the Charlestown EDC

A Loving Lady Remembered

The following letter was sent to the Yandle family, and we would like all who knew her to read it, for it surely reflects the love and respect that you as her friends, and we as her family, felt for her.

The Yandle Family
Dear Family,

Your mother was the true embodiment of spirit and love of everything jovial and bright, so I want to say a few things she reminds me of that are always kept in my mind when such as Lou has passed away. So please accept it with my great respect and admiration for her. It is: "When we shall die — take her and cut her into little stars and she shall make the face of heaven so fine — that all the world will be in love with night — and pay no worship to the sun."

She will go to her reward for the dignity she placed in life, and the love and kindness she gave to all, which as a result she had every one's respect and admiration for her courage and devotion to her family and friends.

She had a full life and must of necessity reap the rewards with the Blessed Mother and her Son.

Simply,

ticed by your company and the entire chemical industry which led to last week's unforgivable accident in Somerville.

As the State Representative from the neighboring community of Charlestown, I am very concerned with preventing any similar accidents in the future. Consequently, I have asked the Governor to appoint a special commission to uncover the reasons why your company and the railroad were unable to prevent the accident and to recommend how we might better regulate the transportation of hazardous chemicals so as to guard against any future accidents.

The transportation of hazardous chemicals by rail poses a dangerous threat to public safety, and officials at the state and local level are unsatisfied with the results of federal regulation. Therefore you are forewarned that I intend to encourage my colleagues to scrutinize the transportation of hazardous materials much more closely in the future and I will propose any new regulations which are necessary to protect the lives of people I represent.

Sincerely,

SCHOOL SAFETY PATROL MONITOR, Lennie Hoey, conducts his "business" of safety at the Warren-Prescott School at dismissal time.

Students Helping Students

Warren Prescott School Safety Patrol

When the Warren-Prescott School opened its doors back in February of 1963, the late, retired principal emeritus, Thomas G. Dolan, felt the need for a school safety patrol and so was born the "Patrol Monitors." For a number of years the patrol functioned quite effectively, assisting in the all important safety programs of the school. More often than not, the safety patrol was staffed by children of the sixth grades, prior to the school becoming a K-5 school. This year, the safety patrol is made up of children of the fourth and fifth grade classes of Miss Magee, Mrs. Kinsella, Mrs. Devone and Miss Kelly. All of these youngsters have been of great assistance to the school insofar as the safety of the children are concerned.

Last fall, with the encouragement and support of Mrs. Kiely, Warren-Prescott School Prinicipal, and under the direction of Mr. Robinson, the safety patrol program was resurrected and has been going strong since school opening. The children involved in this school project do not take duty in the street but are stationed at the corners near the school building. The students engaged in the safety program are easily identified by their sparkling white safety patrol belt, an item of which each is very proud to wear.

The children serving as safety monitors this year are: Tami Oglesbee, Joy Paquette, Kathy Dunn, Johnathan Furman, all of grade four and Lenny Hoey, Melissa Brown, and Lisa Hansen, all of grade five.

A pat on the back is due each of these boys and girls and they deserve the thanks of all at the school for the fine school spirit displayed by their efforts in helping to maintain the safety of their fellow classmates.

Tribute To Mona and David Shute

Concert Of Sacred Music

On Sunday, April 27 at 4:00 p.m., a concert of sacred music will be given by the choir of Hancock United Church of Christ, Lexington, at First Church, Charlestown on Green Street. The thirty-five member choir, under the direction of Mr. Donald Maher, will present a program of choral works by American composers from the time of the Revolution to the present. Soloists will include Harriet Chemla and Audrey MacCarey.

This concert is being presented as a tribute to the memory of Mona and David Shute, dedicated members of First Church for many years. Their concern for Charlestown was shown by their participation in a wide variety of community endeavors.

The members of First Church invite the community at large to share with them the inspiration of music and hope that this concert will commemorate in a fitting and appropriate way their example of service to the people of Charlestown.
