Another way to play powerball would be to play via the powerplay option. Here is the more popular choice. Once you choose to play powerplay, you select your own draw numbers. You don't have to stick with the numbers the website offers; you can choose your own. This option gives you probably the most control over your Powerball payouts.

The powerball lotto system is dependant on two factors - probability and payout. Probability refers to how likely lots is picked. For each draw, there is a ninety-five percent chance of a certain number being picked. That means you may expect about one out of every six draws to get rid of in a payout. The payout, however, isn't dependant on the number of balls drawn; instead, it's based on how much money was placed into the pot. The payout and probability of winning increase because the size of the pot increases.
