Bunker Hill Day Parade Committee Seeks Community Support

The Charlestown Veterans/Bunker Hill Day Commemorative Committee is seeking the support of the residents of Charlestown for the 1987 Bunker Hill Day Celebration. This year the celebration is dedicated in honor of the Bicentennial of the Constitution of the United States. It is hoped that the events will serve as a significant and meaningful tribute to our patriot forefathers on this the 212th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill, as well as a means to bring about more public awareness of the celebration of the Bicentennial of the Constitution of the United States of America.

The Bunker Hill Day

Parade, the highlight of the celebration, scheduled for Sunday, June 14, commencing at 12:30 p.m. from the Hayes Square area of the town, should be one of the largest and most outstanding parades in the Greater Boston area.

Some of the top musical units already committed to the parade are: The Fralinger String Band Association of Philadelphia, winner of the First Prize in the 1987 New Year's Day Mummer's Parade in Philadelphia; Dot Slamin Hill's Waltham Post 156, American Legion Band; 18th U.S. Army Band; Northeast U.S. Navy Band; Paris Island U.S. Marine Corps Band; New York

North Mead Street Mud Slide Forces Evacuation Of Charlestown Family

by Chris Nicastro

Massive erosion on a hill behind North Mead Street, triggered in part by excavation during the preliminary construction of condominiums, has prompted one Charlestown family to evacuate their home.

The erosion may also have endangered another North Mead Street home, as well as the Saint Francis de Sales Cemetery.

John Murray, his wife

Mary Beth and children Kathleen, Meghan and Ryan evacuated their 21 North Mead Street home on April 5 at the urging of Edward Doherty, a part-owner of the Cobblestone Landing Condominiums. According to Patrick Murphy, Murray's attorney, Doherty was concerned over the damage the heavy rains had caused to the recently excavated hill behind the Murrays' house, and told him to have the Murrays leave the house immediately.

The Murrays spent the next two nights with a relative before moving to the Royal Sonesta, courtesy of the Cobblestone Landing development team. On April 13, the Murrays returned to their home.

According to Jack French, the Cobblestone's architect and part-owner, the Murrays' home is currently in no danger. He said the erosion that occurred on April 5 and 6 appears to be much worse than it actually is. French said, "We had an unusual rain and it did saturate the natural fill but in terms of structural damage, there isn't any."

According to Murray, however, the danger posed to his house and his family was very real and still exists. Murray said that over a two day period, 17 yards of his property had slid down the hill. Any further excavation on the hill, he believes could endanger his house and possibly his family.

"My clients were scared to death that Sunday night," said Murphy. "John told me that there were people all over his backyard and trees were going down everywhere. The children were wide awake throughout most of

Charlestown Resident Named Arts And Cultural Volunteer Of The Year

James W. Conway of Belmont Street, Charlestown will be honored by the United Way of Massachusetts Bay as the community's outstanding volunteer in arts and culture.

Conway was chosen by a volunteer panel of judges from the United Way of Massachusetts Bay's Voluntary Action Center for outstanding contributions to his community. The award will be presented to Conway at a luncheon being held at Boston's Park Plaza Hotel on April 21. In addition to the arts and culture award, there are nine other awards to be presented for excellence in voluntarism within specific categories. The awards ceremony is a celebration of the centennial year of the United Ways in America.

Chief probation officer for the Charlestown District Court, Conway for over twenty years has been organizing the annual Bunker Hill Day Parade and Commemorative Exercises. He also coordinates fund-raising efforts for the parade. He serves as president of the Bunker Hill Monument Association and in charge of their books, prints, and artifacts.

A member of the Charlestown Historical Society's Board of Directors, he is a past five-term president.

During last year's Bunker Hill Day celebration, he ran a prayer service for the POW/MIA's, a "Nite Before" banquet, and a band concert featuring a string band from Philadelphia in addition to the Parade and Commemorative Exercises.

Active in the American Legion, Conway is serving a fourth term as commander of the Bunker Hill Post, having first held the office in 1965. He has also served as county commander, department commander, and national historian, and is currently serving as state chairman of the American Legion High School Oratorical Contest, which gives young people the opportunity to compete for scholarship monies through their forensic skills and knowledge of the United States Constitution. His interest in veterans' organizations also prompted him to work to preserve both the local posts of the Disabled American Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Conway also served 15 years as a member of the Board of Directors of the Boys and Girls Club of Boston (a United Way agency) and for four years served as its chairman.

The United Way of Massachusetts Bay, the area's largest human service organization, supports nearly 200 agencies, providing a variety of health and human services to 1.5 people in 81 cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts.

Kennedy Center Community Relations Meeting

The newly formed Community Relations Committee of the Kennedy Center Board of Directors will hold a public meeting on Monday, April 27 at 6:30 p.m. at the Senior Lounge,

DON'T FORGET THE CLOSING COSTS

When you're deciding how much you can pay for a new home, you'll know to budget for your down-payment, but you'll also need funds for closing costs. These include lender's charges, state or local transfer or recording taxes, attorney's fees, title insurance premiums, and money put aside to pay taxes, insurance, and your first month's mortgage payment.

In each area, closing costs vary, and sometimes a move across county lines can make a difference. Your Realtor can sit down with you to get an estimate of the charges in your city. In some cases, these costs are shared by buyer and seller, and closing cost shares can be an important part of the contract negotiations. Once you have a ratified purchase agreement, your lender can give you more specific information, based on the price of the home you buy and the amount of the loan. Closing costs can add up to a significant amount of money, and it is important to include them in your calculations.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Century 21, Silva Realty Associates. Call us at 242-7470 or stop by our offices at 142 Main Street, Charlestown.

Each office is independently owned and operated.

Police Department's Emerald Society Bagpipe Band; Crossman Drum and Bugle Corps of Westchester, Pennsylvania; Connecticut Hurricanes Senior Drum and Bugle Corps; Rhode Island Matadors Senior Drum and Bugle Corps; Boston Crusaders Drum and Bugle Corp; Clan MacPherson Bagpipe Band; Spartan Drum and Bugle Corps of Nashua, New Hampshire; Kevin Barry Irish Bagpipe Band; North Reading High School Band; and Winthrop High School Band.

As you are most likely aware, due to the fiscal constraints imposed on the City of Boston under Proposition 2½, the funds available from the City to underwrite parades are very limited. Thus, financial assistance must once again be sought from the community — from you, the residents, local businessmen and community organizations, in order to make this 212th Commemoration of the Battle of Bunker Hill a success.

The fundraising for the parade and the commemorative celebration is being carried out by a small but dedicated group of residents. These people are giving many hours of their time to make this a truly memorable celebration for the community and they need the support of EVERY resident, whether he or she be a life-long "Townie" or a newer resident of the town.

Monies must be raised in order to pay the fee of each band, drum corps, color guard, or other unit that takes part in the parade. Units charge from $500 to $1500 to participate in the parade if they are from Massachusetts and much more for those units that are being brought in from distant states — none of them come for free.

There are several ways you, the resident, local businessman or community organization can help.

1. Send in a donation to the Parade Committee using the coupon on the bottom of this page. Once again this year, the Monument will be featured weekly in the Patriot so the community can see the results of the fundraising efforts. Contributions of $25 or more will be acknowledged under the monument.
  2. Drop your change (or more if possible) in the canisters that will be located in the local stores.
  3. Buy a 1987 Bunker Hill Day Parade Booster for a minimum donation of $1.00.
  4. Chance books will also be available shortly — prize to be announced in a future edition by the Chief Marshal.
- Organizations or businesses that are interested in sponsoring a unit for the parade should contact the Parade General Chairman, James W. Conway at 241-9511 or evenings at 242-6187.

Chief Marshal of the June 14, Bunker Hill Day Parade is Commander Robert L. Gillen, U.S.N. (Retired). He is a veteran of both the Korean and Vietnam Conflicts whose last command was that of Commanding Officer of the USS Constitution. Gillen, a "Townie," was a member of the Commissioning Committee for the USS Bunker Hill and Chairman of the "Townie Welcoming Committee" that sponsored a supper and party for the crew of the Bunker Hill.

He has been active for several years on the Parade Committee as the Military Coordinator.

Both Chief Marshal Gillen and the Parade Committee welcome the assistance of anyone interested in helping to make this community celebration a success, whether it be on the various fundraising committees or in the organization of the parade or commemorative exercises.

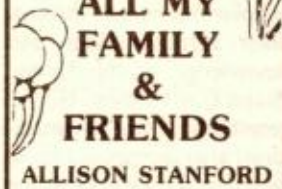

The next Parade Committee meeting will be held on Monday evening, April 20, at 7:00 p.m. at One Thompson Square, Charlestown. All interested persons are welcome to attend.

Flanagan — Charlestown's Man At City Square

by Chris Nicastro

There is a certain look of intensity that comes over David Flanagan, the community liaison for the Central Artery North Area (CANA) project, when he talks about Charlestown — "that square mile of heaven," as he describes it.

After spending his entire life in Charlestown, growing up in the housing project where his parents still live, Flanagan's passion for the community is just as alive as ever.

"There is no place I'd rather live," raves Flanagan. "People here know one another and are always willing to help each other out. I love being able to go into a coffee shop in the morning, know some of the familiar faces and be a part of the joking and camaraderie that goes on."

Now, as a community liaison for the Massachusetts Department of Public Works (DPW), these close personal relationships, this network of "Townies" that Flanagan has cultivated over the years suddenly takes on an added, professional dimension. As the community liaison, Flanagan will act as the primary go-between for the DPW and Charlestown residents, relaying new information, handling complaints, and answering questions throughout the five year construction period.

"I'll be working with engineers and construction personnel to observe what's happening on a day to day basis," explained Flanagan. "We'll be getting the word out to people via newsletters, meetings, the press, literature drops, flyers. I think people are less likely to be skeptical or apprehensive if they know what's happening."

Flanagan can be reached at his office in the Transportation Building, 10 Park Plaza, or by telephone at 973-7500. Once construction begins in earnest, the DPW will be setting up a temporary building on site behind the YMCA.

"My role is basically to serve as a person in the community who people can call. If they have a suggestion, an idea, or a complaint, they can talk to me — just so people know there is somebody there for them."

Flanagan believes strongly in the CANA project. While he acknowledges that there will be traffic headaches for Charlestown residents and commuters over the next five years, he is confident that a new revitalized City Square will make it all worthwhile.

"We'll be restoring Charlestown's neighborhood center," said Flanagan. "If you talk to thirty different people, they would remember thirty different City Squares. They would remember when the Hollywood Theatre was down there, the Globe Discount Store, Dot's Dinner, The Stork Club. It's always been a very busy area and it will be once again."

Flanagan graduated from Charlestown High School in 1972. He attended Boston State College and received a Master's Degree in Public Administration from Suffolk University. He has worked at the Charles Street Jail and as a legislative aide for the City Council. In 1984, he worked as a project coordinator for the Mayor's Office of Community Participation.

Flanagan and his wife Linda live on Marshall Block.

• Remember when . . . you would gather up all your nickels and dimes, grab your passbook and walk down to Thompson Square to deposit your hard earned money into the Charlestown Five Cents Savings Bank? Times have indeed changed. The bank is now located in the Bunker Hill Mall and since 1982 has gone by the name of Newworld Bank. However, the president's office at the old bank is now the home of the Charlestown Patriot and reminders of years past remain intact, such as the mahogany paneling, the green marble fireplace and the ornate plaster ceiling. The president's intercom system remains on the wall, still bearing the names of key personnel — Baxter, Wilkinson, Seely, Mahoney, Shumaker, Meikle, Bertwell and others. Time moves on and this week it was announced that the Newworld Bank for Savings and the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank will merge and be called Boston Five Bancorp with assets of $3.1 billion! And to think it started right here in 1854 in the shadow of Bunker Hill . . .

• Encore . . . encore . . . the Saint Mary's Players have once again outdone themselves in the ninth annual production of their "Triumph and Tragedy" passion play held last evening in the Church to a capacity crowd. Professional performances by local talent, exquisite costuming and memorable original music are better with each passing year. Applause goes out to the splendid cast and to Dick and Mary Wilkins who wrote, produced and directed the play! Well done!

• Not to be outdone . . . Jim Barker has heard so much praise about Bob Rooney's performance in "Triumph and Tragedy" that the local post office where they both work (?) is abuzz with anticipation of Jim's upcoming performance in "Follies," a musical presented by the Saint Francis Players of Saint Francis of Assisi Parish in Cambridge. Jim, of course, is talent personified and will start singing and dancing at the first request, while Bob modestly accepts his applause and awaits next year's performance as the Centurian in Saint Mary's Passion Play.

• Street sweeper, where are you? . . . Residents of Belmont Street cleared their cars for the scheduled street cleaning on Tuesday but no sweeper showed up. However, it was seen on Monday, going down Bunker Hill Street — in the middle of the street — through the snow and rain!

• It's a boy . . . Congratulations to Jim and Maura English on the birth of their son, Christopher, on Wednesday, April 15 at Saint Margaret's Hospital. ## Life Behind The Wall

by Ronan FitzPatrick

Water, water, everywhere! As the Massachusetts monsoon continued its game of havoc, a bizarre and interesting phenomenon was sighted on the harbor. A pair of vessels were pumping water cascading throughout the harbor. At first this action registered that a dignitary was forthcoming. That was not the case. These two vessels, fire boats from the Boston Fire Department and from Massport saluted the opening of Boston's World Health Day in early morning ceremonies at the Charlestown Navy Yard.

On somewhat dryer land, Department of Public Work's staff member Tom Donahue was surveying the perimeter of the Yard. His work list in hand, his exemplary skills would be discharged with pride and determination.

I had the opportunity to sit in on a presentation by Boston Redevelopment Authority Director Stephen Coyle recently. This was an articulate and well presented overview of the subsequent remaining development in the Yard. Paramount in Mr. Coyle's delivery was the theme of balanced growth. Highlighting the major components as the Park, Piers, Housing and the Yard's End, he displayed great enthusiasm for open areas and to make the recreation work.

As always, the proverbial parking question was raised and responded to. Approximately 4,500 spaces will be available; but more will be needed when the Yard is at maximum capacity. An aggressive undertaking for grant assistance from the Commonwealth, another priority on the finalized master plan.

Home ownership was the resounding opinion echoed by a recent survey and specifically 67% favored the linkage method to accomplish same. If the variation plan is accepted, the affordable housing level would top off at 250 units. Solid, appropriate and existing Navy Yard area architecture was championed.

What more appropriate building for this welcoming meeting that the Parris Building on First Avenue. A dynamo of energy with a herculean grasp for the salient facts and figures, Mr. Coyle was informative and most interesting.

I was impressed with his Yard End concept for a signature edifice. Approaching 200 feet, it could possibly afford a lighthouse effect. Without taking away from the overall view, this focal building would be unique and interesting. For all in attendance, the time spent was beneficial. We look to additional input sessions.

Daily action increases at an increasing rate. On the tourist side, a dozen coaches were parked while their numerous visitors enjoyed the historical sights and sounds. Commercially, Dorchester Tire, Somerville Lumber, Interior Innovations and several moving vehicles kept busy on and off First and Second Avenues.

Most impressed with the Boston Redevelopment Authority's Staff Assistant, Peggy Griffin. Helping, concerned and exercising her duties professionally and pleasantly. A trinket or bauble on order from Van Cleef and Arpels should be just in time for Easter.

The perpetuation of the Michael P. Quinn Scholarship was the goal of the Eighteenth Annual Dinner Dance on April 4th. A more enjoyable setting than the Preble Room in Building Five in the Yard is hard to come by. Numerous nautical displays gave a nice military flair for the revenue enhancement program. Music, music, music — well we had it. Under the direction of the suave Allan LaBella and his DJ Connection, the crowd rocked, twisted and swayed all night long. The Honorable Mayor and Mrs. Raymond Flynn made a presentation to Mary V. Quinn that was met with rave reviews. Pain aside, Park Service did a fine job.

One question went unanswered. "Was Bob 'Pots' O'Neil doing the fast break or the Harlem Shuffle?" The answer will have to be supplied by his feminine troupe.

Water Leaks Dampen Tiny Tots Program

Children sat decorating Easter eggs and coloring holiday pictures amid an assortment of buckets of various shapes and sizes in their classroom this past Tuesday morning. Last week's torrential rains, with the additional downpour this past Monday, took its toll on the Community Room of the Harvard/Kent School — the home of the Tiny Tot Program, a pre-school education and recreation program under the auspices of the Charlestown Community Schools.

This week, parents expressed concern over the conditions in the classroom as seven ceiling tiles are missing, having deteriorated from the downpour of water into the room. Leakage has streaked the exterior wall of the room as white lines mark where the water passed through the ceiling forming rivulets down the wall.

Also, parents expressed concern over the composition of insulation visible around the pipes that are exposed through the openings in the ceiling tiles. They also pointed out that the room smells musty and the rugs are mildewed.

The problem with water leakage is not new to the Harvard/Kent School having occurred almost constantly since the building was opened in the early 1970's. Repairs to the roof areas and skylights were done in 1973 and in 1986 but the source of the water problem has never fully been corrected, thus the leaks reoccur.

The fact that the Tiny Tot Program was forced to close last week and this past Monday due to the amount of water leaking into the classroom, disturbed the parents.

This fact also disturbed Elizabeth Starr, head teacher of the program which serves some 16 Charlestown youngsters. She stated that there have been many promises by the Boston School Department that repairs would be done to correct the leakage problem and to replace the ceiling tiles.

She said that even on a "normal" rainy day, there are leaks, but the heavy rain made remaining in the classroom an impossibility. Starr said that she is concerned that children with allergies might find the dampness hampering their breathing. She also noted that the forced closure was disrupting to the children's educational program.

Debbie Lent, teacher in the Tiny Tot Program said that dealing with the water was very difficult — as fast as it was cleaned up, it poured back in. She also noted that the hallway that connects the kindergarten classrooms smells musty as the carpeting in that area becomes soaked from leaks in the skylight.

Starr quoted a letter dated December 19, 1986 from Paul Mooney, Senior Structural Engineer of the Boston Public Schools, indicating that work would be done in the area "this spring" to clean and find out the exact source of the leakage and make the necessary repairs to the community room, cafeteria and the skylights in the kindergarten areas.

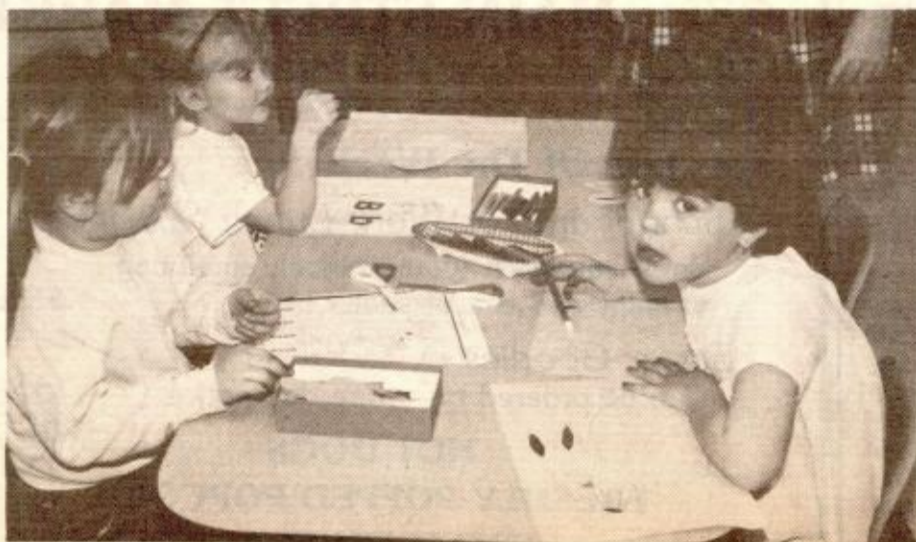

Anthony DiIeso, Director of Facilities Management, stated that the work orders are running behind. He said that this work, estimated to cost between $15,000 and $18,000 will be going out to bid "in a week to a week and a half." He said that the bid process would take six to eight weeks as it must be advertised in the City Record and then the bid would be awarded to the lowest competent bidder.

DiIeso stated that the work on the roof would be done this summer and the classrooms will be repaired and ready for fall. He said that he will make it a priority item and that monies will be made available under the maintenance budget to see that this work is completed. He noted that this project will straddle this and next year's budget and the money will be available.

In response to questions by parents as to the insulation visible around the pipes in the ceiling, DiIeso referred to a report by Hygeia, an asbestos testing firm. He stated that the report of a survey done in the Harvard/Kent building indicated that there was no asbestos throughout the school itself and none around the structural beams. He said there should be no fears of asbestos in the classroom.

Starr was encouraged by the commitment of DiIeso that the work would be completed during the summer. She said that it is unfair to the parents and to the youngsters to have to close down the program. Their plans are to continue the Tiny Tot Program through June 12th — and hope for dry, sunny weather.

Development Committee To Meet To Review Status Of Land Parcels

The Development Committee of the Charlestown Neighborhood Council will meet on Thursday evening, April 23, at 7:00 p.m. at the Kent Community School, 50 Bunker Hill Street.

The Committee, under the chairmanship of Mike Powers, will review the status of the proposed redevelopment of Parcels R-87, R-23B and R-59D2.

Parcels R-87, at the intersection of Tremont and Prospect Streets, has been the subject of several community meetings. The consensus of the community has been to request that the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) divide this approximately 57,000 square foot parcel into individual 3,000 square foot house lots for development by individuals. The economic feasibility of such a proposal and the time schedule for the development of this land will be addressed by Larry Brophy from the staff of the BRA.

Also on the agenda is Parcel R-23B at 36 Belmont Street, which is a lot appropriate for construction of a single family house, and Parcel R-59D2, a 3,500 square foot parcel at 41 Old Rutherford Avenue. To date, two individuals have expressed interest in the development of this parcel for a multiple unit dwelling.

The public is welcome to attend.

Boston Harbor Art Exhibit At Charlestown Navy Yard

The National Park Service announces the opening of the exhibit "Boston Harbor: A Changing Scene," a collaborative presentation of the Boston National Historical Park and the Copley Society of Boston. This exhibition of Boston Harbor scenes contrasts a selection of nineteenth and twentieth century photographs with a juried selection of paintings and sculptures by contemporary artists. This show is free to the public and will be open daily from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Visitor Information Building (Building Five) near "Old Ironsides" in the Charlestown Navy Yard, from April 22 to July 9.

The Copley Society was established in 1879 and has served as a model for hundreds of other Art Associations throughout the United States. Established to ensure opportunities for living artists to exhibit their work and to further the educational process of recognizing art as an important form of expression, Society activities include exhibitions, classes, lectures, critiques, festivals, conferences, and social activities. Professionals, amateurs, and spectators are all welcome to join.

The Boston National Historical Park, formed in 1974, is a group of eight historic sites in downtown Boston, Charlestown, and South Boston. Except for Dorchester Heights in South Boston, the Freedom Trail connects the park sites. They include Old South Meeting House, Old State House, Faneuil Hall, Paul Revere House, Old North, Bunker Hill, and the Charlestown Navy Yard. The park is a unique cooperative of federal, municipal and private properties.

Murphy said that architect Arthur Choo of the Arthur Choo Associates, who was retained by Murphy, has surveyed the site and believes that the house at 21 North Mead Street, Phillip and Ann Doherty's house next door, and the Saint Francis de Sales cemetery are seriously endangered by the erosion.

According to Murphy, the mud slide could have been avoided if the developer had properly shored up the hill after receiving a court order to do so on March 23. "It seems to me that they were trying to save a few extra thousand dollars and didn't put up the retaining wall in time," said Murphy.

On March 23, Judge William Grabeau of the Suffolk Superior Court ordered Cobblestone to halt all excavation work until it had properly addressed the erosion problem.

While maintaining that the Murrays' house was never endangered, French said the April 5 slide probably never would have occurred if the court had not issued the temporary restraining order. According to French, the order held up construction during a critical period. If the Murrays hadn't gone to court, he said, the construction team could have taken advantage of the sunny weather and been able to properly buttress the hill.

The City's Inspectional Services Department has been monitoring the dispute since mid-March and has been receiving daily reports on any movement of the house at 21 North Mead Street from the Harry R.

Feldman surveying company. Inspectional Services Commissioner William Sommers said there appeared to be very little immediate danger for the Murrays. However, he added that if the Cobblestone Landing Company wants to continue construction, it must first convince the city that any future erosion has been completely checked.

Murphy and his clients, John and Richard Murray, are seeking a permanent halt to all excavation on the hill and a new design plan for the condominium complex subject to the Murrays' approval. "Basically, my clients don't want to be the first occupants of the Cobblestone Condominiums," said Murphy.

The Murrays are also seeking $300,000 in damages.

EROSION of the land to the rear of 21 North Mead Street following a mud slide on April 5 and 6. According to Patrick Murphy, attorney for the Murray family of that address, "the slide buried cement that had been poured to shore up the hill and took vegetation and root systems on the hill that was serving as a retaining buttress." This view, taken on April 6, is from the rear deck of 21 North Mead Street.

THIS VIEW of the site at the back of North Mead Street was taken on March 24, the day after a temporary restraining order was issued in the Suffolk Superior Court. The order, sought by Attorney Patrick Murphy on behalf of Richard Murray, owner of 21 North Mead Street, halted all excavation at the site and directed the developers to take steps to shore up the hill.

Expansion Of Moran Terminal Planned By Massport For Schiavone Site

by Chris Nicastro

In order to ease pressure on its overworked Moran container terminal, Massport plans to expand its operation into an adjacent site formerly occupied by the Schiavone scrap metal terminal.

By clearing out and paving over the 11-acre site, Massport expects to be able to properly manage future growth in the port of Boston through 1995. Experts currently predict a four percent growth in business at the Moran Terminal over the next eight years.

"The capacity for Moran Terminal is really about 33,000 containers a year. Right now we're at 40-45,000. When the Schiavone site became unexpectedly available, we, of course, took advantage of it," said Massport's Maritime Director Anne Aylward. The Schiavone scrap terminal vacated its Charlestown site in 1985 while still under lease.

At a community meeting on Tuesday, April 14, Aylward said that the two year, $10-12 million construction project would involve removing debris, grading, paving, fencing, and lighting the site. Towards the end of this expansion project, Massport plans to move the main entrance to the Moran Terminal from its present location to the east end of the facility allowing direct access from the bridge over the Little Mystic Channel.

Robin Ellis, Massport's environmental analyst said that clean-up at the Schiavone terminal would also involve the removal of a small area of contaminated soil in the far corner of the site. The Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE) has ordered Massport to clean-up the "hot-spot." The affected area is ten feet square and six inches deep. According to DEQE, the contamination is very minor.

During the peak construction period from mid-September to December, 5,000 cubic yards of debris and fill will be removed per day, translating into 40 one-way truck trips per day through Charlestown. In light of the imminent Central Artery North Area project and the potential Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) transfer facility on Piers 48, 49 and 50, Charlestown residents at the meeting said they were not thrilled with the prospect of more trucks travelling down Charlestown streets.

"So, basically you are increasing truck traffic in Charlestown on Medford Street during the summer when the school children are on vacation," charged Moe Gillen of the Neighborhood Council. "What if anything, is Massport doing to expedite the truck route signs?" he asked.

Aylward said that permanent truck route signs in Charlestown were long overdue. She, however, cited the difficulty of coordinating such sign postings with the City and urged Gillen and other residents to petition the City for the signs.

"Look, we've got a major construction site on which we want to build. This is a lever that you ought to use to get the truck signs. This is an opportunity to get those signs," said Aylward.

Charlestown resident Ed Johnson said that the truck traffic problem on Charlestown streets is not as acute as many residents believe. According to Johnson, virtually all of the trucks that travel through Charlestown stay on the main roads.

"I don't see many trucks running through the town because someone doesn't know where he's going. Everyone's always concerned with where the trucks are going but for fifty, sixty years when the Navy Yard had 40-50,000 cars coming in and out, there was no major concern."

Aylward agreed. "I never met a trucker who wanted to take a tour of residential streets with a forty-foot trailer."

Neighborhood Council President John Tobin, following a line of questioning he had used at last week's MWRA meeting, urged Massport to consider using railway to transport some of the debris and fill out of Charlestown. According to Aylward, the rail option is simply too expensive to give serious consideration.

In concluding remarks, Aylward said she agreed with Charlestown resident Bob Wallace who believes that a deficient roadway infrastructure in Boston could jeopardize the city's future growth. With nearby ports in New Hampshire and New York, Aylward said that Boston must address its serious traffic problems before frustrated shippers and truckers turn elsewhere.

Aylward also said that an increased emphasis on traffic problems has diverted time and energy away from other items on the Massport agenda. "It's gotten to the point where I have to go to public meetings to see members of the ILA and other business associates."

Speaking on the bid by the MWRA to locate a transfer facility on Massport's Piers 48, 49 and 50 in Charlestown, Aylward said she sees some real problems with the MWRA plan. Aylward said that with all of the other projects being planned for Charlestown, the MWRA would have to come up with a thorough traffic analysis ("with 1987 numbers") before leasing out the piers.

"It's really hard for me to believe that this is the ideal point for the facility," said Aylward. "There are two choke points into the peninsula and one is going to be cut off with the City Square project. I am not about to let the MWRA choke this terminal (Moran) because of Deer Island."

The Bicentennial Of The United States Constitution

Two centuries ago, in May 1787, representatives of the American States convened in Philadelphia to revise the Articles of Confederation. On September 17, they completed work on a new national Constitution — a document that laid the foundation for a truly democratic society, establishing a federal government of the people, by the people and for the people.

The events leading to the establishment of the Constitution that took place during this week two hundred years ago were:

April 16, 1787 - William Blount was chosen to represent North Carolina at the Philadelphia Constitutional Convention.

April 17, 1787 - The New York House of Assembly went to committee on the bill to repeal all laws or parts of laws inconsistent with the treaty of peace.

April 18, 1787 - James Madison suggested in Congress that to facilitate reaching an agreement with Spain on navigation of the Mississippi River, Thomas Jefferson should proceed to Madrid to replace John Jay.

April 19, 1787 - "Plato" pointed out in the U.S. Chronicle that the people were divided into two great classes: the holders of public securities and those who held few or none whose interest was discharging the public debt in the easiest manner possible.

April 20, 1787 - An editorial from Portsmouth, Massachusetts in The New Hampshire Spy predicted Franklin's and Washington's presence at the Convention would win over the "... narrow-souled, anti-federal politicians, who have hitherto damned us as a nation."

April 21, 1787 - The New Hampshire Spy reported the Massachusetts Supreme Court decision to sentence John Wheeler and other rebels to death by hanging for the crime of treason. They were all later granted pardons, including Daniel Shays.

April 22, 1787 - James Madison considered the complaints about the government's weak enforcing power as "infinitely embarrassing."

Main Street Reconstruction Update

Excavation of the roadway between Auburn and Green Streets continues and all traffic has moved to the Mishawum side of the street and travels very slowly during the day while construction crews are working. Storm drains are being worked on between Thompson and City Squares causing more traffic problems along that stretch of the road. It is advised to travel an alternate route, if at all possible, while the reconstruction is taking place, to prevent delays.

A layer of asphalt will be placed along the road between Auburn and Green Streets this week and sidewalks will be replaced as soon as the utility companies have finished their work.

Residents are advised to note the no parking signs. Cars will be towed.

Congressman Kennedy Endorses Mystic River Plan

United States Representative Joseph P. Kennedy II this week announced his endorsement of the Flatley Company proposal to revitalize the Mystic River waterfront area adjacent to the Schrafft High Tech Center in Charlestown.

In a letter to Colonel Thomas A. Rhen, Division Engineer of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Congressman Kennedy urged final approval of the plan and endorsed the proposed construction of new parking facilities on river tidelands abutting the Center and the Ryan Playground.

The plan also calls for developing the area as a new community recreation site. If approved, the Flatley Company will oversee construction of a public waterfront park, boat launching ramp, water taxi terminal and a community sailing club.

"I believe the revitalization plan presented by the Flatley Company represents an attractive, new use of what is now a rubbish-strewn, highly polluted stretch of the Mystic River," said the Congressman.

Kennedy says he likes the plan because it will diminish the demands for on-street parking in the residential areas surrounding The Schrafft Center. He also feels the improvements and additions to the waterfront will draw new businesses to the Center which, in turn, will lead to additional employment opportunities for local residents.

The Congressman joins other prominent local officials, including former Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., State Representative Richard Voke and Boston City Councillor Robert Travaglini in supporting the plan.

City Takes Lead To Ensure Neighborhood Involvement In Tunnel/Artery Project

The Interdepartmental Task Force established by Mayor Raymond L. Flynn met for the first time on Wednesday, April 8 to begin drafting a working agreement with the Commonwealth to guarantee that neighborhood residents and businesses actively participate in all phases of the Central Artery/Third Harbor Tunnel Project. One of the first tasks of the committee, which will coordinate the responses of city agencies and departments to the construction project, will be to develop a formalized structure to involve neighborhood residents in an open and public community review of the highway plans as they are further defined.

Mayor Flynn said, "I have spoken with Governor Dukakis who has assured me of his commitment to provide the best level of transition for the impacted communities during the long process of the project. What I call a tripartite agreement between the city, the state and the neighborhoods needs to be formalized so that the impacted communities know the situation every step of the way. We will have an inclusive process that takes into account the serious concerns of each neighborhood."

Don Gillis, director of the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services who, with Transportation Commissioner Richard Dimino is heading up the task force for the mayor, added, "Many of the impacted communities already have identified concerns and want to be part of the planning process. Shortly we will be initiating a community participation process so that those concerns can be heard and addressed each and every step of the way."

Transportation Commissioner Richard Dimino said, "We will be sitting down with the state's transportation secretary, Frederick Salvucci, to set up the mechanism for community review of the plans for the project to get clear timetables in terms of what part of the project is moving forward when."

Judy Evers, coordinator of Neighborhood Services for Charlestown, commented, "The North Area Task Force, which has been working for over ten years on these issues, is one group among many who want to play a role."

Others who are serving on the task force include:

Larry Dwyer, the director of Boston Community Schools; Rosemarie Sansone, director of Mayor's Office of Business and Cultural Development; Leo Stapleton, Fire Commissioner; Francis Roache, Police Commissioner; and Lucy Ferullo, East Boston/North End coordinator for the Office of Neighborhood Services.

Kevin Burke — My Apologies

In an article authored by me that appeared in the April 9th edition of the Charlestown Patriot, entitled "Senior Hockey League Update," I inadvertently offended Kevin Burke, video specialist, in the description of the video production by Kevin at the Matt O'Neil Senior League "Manly Cup Games."

I apologize for my poor taste in describing the video as "B" rated when what I was sincerely describing was the difference between the original video tape and the final touched-up tape that was completed by Tom Bryson. That process included the elimination of the foul language that crept into the video tape because, at my insistence, Kevin taped the game from the area next to both of the team's benches.

Kevin was reluctant but agreed to my wishes, knowing from experience that young men invariably forget themselves in the height of excitement and the tasteless language unfortunately becomes part of the game.

I further compounded the problem when I didn't return the original video to Kevin to allow him to put the finishing touches on the final copy for production. I innocently agreed to have Tom Bryson, who is somewhat of a video specialist himself, edit, delete and monitor the game video because he had the free time to work on the tape right away, plus I wouldn't have to bother Kevin again.

I planned to praise Kevin Burke when I was to announce that the video tape was finished and was available to all those wishing to have a copy worthy of family viewing, with all the vile language removed and music added and voice dubbed to round out the final video print.

After receiving the final tape from Tom Bryson, I proceeded to write a short article on how we finished the video production and announcing that it was available locally at a certain price. I unwisely used the term "B" rating to compare Kevin's tape to using the term "A" rating when I described the final video tape that was finished by Tom Bryson — and it was here that I upset and insulted Kevin who felt it could be perceived that his work was poor with the "B" rating, while Tom's work was superior with the "A" rating. I only meant that the final video, with all of the vile language removed, improved the original work which was Kevin Burke's. Never at any time was I under-rating Kevin's work.

I apologize to Kevin Burke for my poor choice of words in rating the tape and I ask the Burke family, whose roots run deep in C-Town, to also forgive me.

Kevin Burke, with all my faults, I still hold you as a friend.

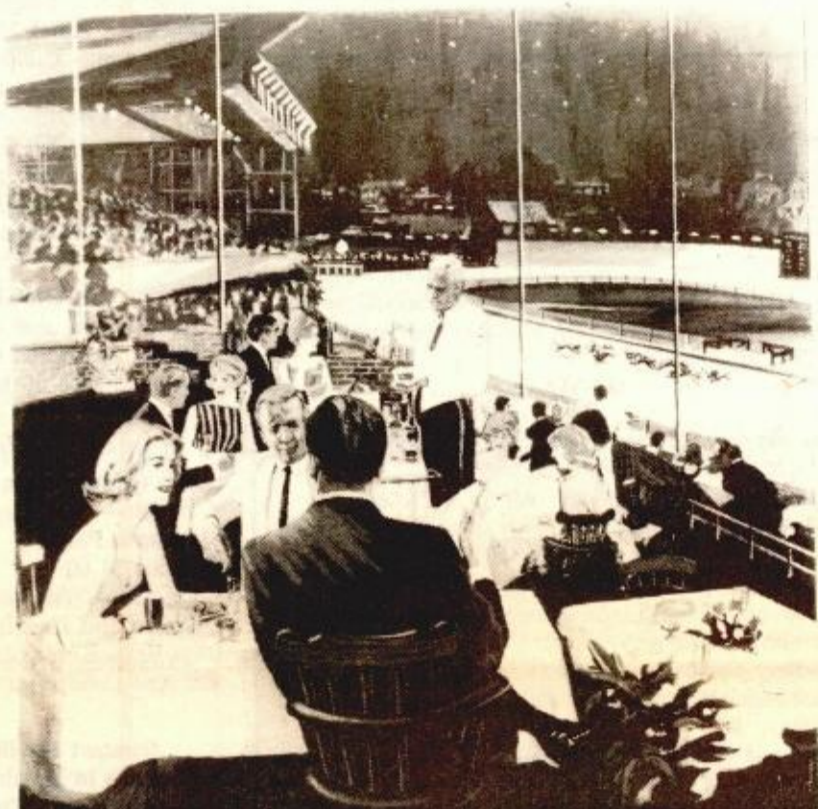

Sincerely yours,
Bernie "Scoop" Kelly

Congressman Kennedy Tours Bunker Hill Community College

Congressman Joseph Kennedy II recently visited Bunker Hill Community College to learn about the programs the institution offers, to tour the facility, and to meet with faculty, staff, and students. Kennedy took the time to stop in various offices to shake hands, ask questions, and talk in-depth to ESL (English-As-A-Second-Language) students about their academic struggles and accomplishments.

In a meeting with the administrative staff, Kennedy listened attentively and asked many questions about the current job market and job placement for BHCC students. He was impressed by the skills training programs offered remarking. "In a funny way, a person may be better off with a two year Associate Degree than a four year Liberal Arts major in finding a job."

When told how many Asian refugees and international students attend the college, Kennedy voiced an appreciative, "Wow! How many are registered to vote?"
