

SUMMARY: I got a report that the helicopter raids are happening in Miami as well, and a lot of planes are flying down to Guantanamo. But those arrested are the lower level criminals, not those at the top. People who told me that there was no way that the funds would be released this week have called me up to change their story. Still looking good for an RV to be released this week.

The Newsletter Update Skype room has now been limited to posts only from me, meaning these updates. So, if you have hesitated to go there because of difficulty in finding the updates, that problem should have been resolved. Posts are still in IDC in the evening. The following link will allow you to join if you are already a Skype member, or get a temporary 24 hour guest pass if you are not. <https://join.skype.com/tJyMbfvwHJG6>

Dear Yossef & Paul,

I imagine you will get plenty of responses to your view of the "Trillionaire" problem. I have given much thought to this myself, to the point of burning them up!!.. However, I am considering (over a period of years) to donating a portion of my lot to various world charities that are already established and have connections of how to distribute portions of this mountain of loot in a responsible manner. My only problem is where to look for the many I will need each year for the distribution. I do not plan to do the distribution in only one or two years....I plan to set up a charitable trust, so that after I am gone (I am already nearly 76 years old) my legacy will carry on for many years. But my problem is, where to find people to manage the Trust for years??

Do you have an ideas for to put my plan into action?

Schools and hospitals are always needing extra funds, too, and they are easy to find. Although at my age I will need some help on how to contact these institutions and request a plan from them on how they would use the funds....

In this case would my plan be a big impact on causing inflation, as you mentioned in your letter?

I would love to hear from you concerning my plan of using established charities to accomplish what certainly I am not able to do on my own. Would my plan be a big inflation-causing event? Would this be a problem if I only chose say 50-100 charities in one year, and 50-100 different charities the next year? How would I find charities in foreign countries?

Do you know if it is allowed to to use a portion of the windfall from the Zim to use to set up a perpetual trust for our family?

I have 3 sons, 9 grandchildren, and 2 great grandchildren. And who knows...most likely more to come! You did not mention things like that in your article....so I am wondering if it is allowed.

If you have any thoughts on my ideas, I would love to hear from both of you gentlemen.

Looking forward to hearing your thoughts, THANK-YOU!

Sincerely, Theresa G.

Dear Theresa G.,

Thank you for sharing your concerns with this audience. I hope it will be acceptable to respond to in public, in this way.

My first suggestion is that you establish a foundation to handle your funds. It would be reasonable to have a Trusts Company like Northern Trust, Abbott Downing, or the like manage the trust for you and your family. If your family members would like to get involved in the management of these funds, then you can make a place for them on the board of the trust, and they can learn and develop their skills to the point that if desired, your family could take over complete control at some point in the future.

Another option would be to establish either a Family Foundation, or a Special Interest Foundation, or both, with funds divided between the two. One would be primarily for your family to use to benefit the family, and the other would be for any particular purpose which you chose, such as, humanitarian projects. A good place to set that up would be Panama. Here is some good information you can read about these two kinds of trusts. And your family can be involved in guiding these as well.

There are subtle differences between the Panama Private Interest Foundation and a Panama Charitable Public Foundation – or Panama 'Public Interest' Foundation – in that the latter is used for charitable purposes, though both have their unique uses in offshore planning, much of the characteristics of a PPIF are the same for a Panama Charitable Foundation.

Some of your money will initially be in a US bank. Each bank involved in this exchange is going to have its own basket of humanitarian projects, and you can use your money to support one or more of these projects.

My organization, Global Genius Trust, has over 400 different humanitarian projects which will be available for people to support. We will also have a Project Development Division to plan, fund and develop our projects, as well as the projects of our beneficiaries and others who want to work with us. There may be other organizations doing similar things to support the humanitarian intentions of currency exchangers. You can find out more about GGTrust at www.ggtrust.com, or by writing to info@ggtrust.com.

Finally, as I wrote in regards to Paul's article on Sunday, <https://www.docdroid.net/0z9dTPw/sunday-morning-30-sep-2018.pdf#page=2> Charitable Giving DOES contribute to inflation. But creating projects, which make more jobs, more goods and more services, does NOT contribute to inflation. Contrarily, it REDUCES inflation, and generates a larger, but still balanced, economy, leading to more prosperity for all.

Becky call advice

Shared with me tonight: Listened to the latest OOTAH Call. Here is what Becky said of significance:

We are VERY close. That was probably the last call.

There will be NO structured payouts. The money is yours to do with as you wish. Leave it in that bank or move it to another. It's up to you.

Wells Fargo and HSBC will give the best rates.

If you have ZIM--- tell the bank you are there to REDEEM your Zimbabwe BOND.

She stressed to say REDEEM and BOND. You EXCHANGE... CURRENCIES. (IQD and VND)

You REDEEM... BONDS. If you slip up and say 'exchange' your ZIM they will treat it as a currency. You will get a lower rate.

There will lots of scammers coming out of the woodwork offering you investments. She suggests not making any investments for two years. Then vet a company completely should you be interested in one

Kavanaugh accuser Christine Blasey Ford ran mass “hypnotic inductions” of psychiatric subjects as part of mind control research funded by foundation linked to “computational psychosomatics” neuro-hijacking (UPDATE 1)

<https://www.naturalnews.com/2018-10-01-kavanaugh-accuser-christine-blasey-ford-ran-mass-hypnotic-inductions-of-psychiatric-subjects.html>

we've now learned and confirmed that Christine Blasey Ford co-authored a science paper that involves her carrying out mass "hypnotic inductions" of psychiatric subjects as part of a mind control program that cites methods to "create artificial situations."

The study was published in the Journal of Clinical Psychology. The study title, abstract and authors can be confirmed at this link.

[With my limited experience in hypnosis and Satanic ritual abuse (SRA), and psychiatric illness, it does appear to me that Dr. Blasey-Ford has experienced traumatic mind-control treatments, and has significant personality disorder. But I am not a psychiatrist, so I cannot make such a diagnosis.

New Report Warns Russian Lawmakers That Trump Is Wiretapping Entire Democrat Party In Washington

This headline certainly seems to be affected by the usual Sorcha Faal hyperbole, but there is some interesting information in here about the Trump administration possibly requesting multiple FISA warrants against Democrats.

It also included the much maligned Corey Booker article which included his description of groping a 15 year old girl—WHEN HE WAS 15—and contrary to the Republican media noise, I thought that the article was well written, and was a sensitive exploration of his own rejection of the predominating male sexual conquest ethos which he found in college. I would give a "plus" to Corey Booker for his attitude, and for sharing his thoughts, not a minus.--dle

What really happened on Friday (9/28) at the vote?

I know this is long ... but there's no TLDR version. What happened Friday 9/28 was Shakespearean, so I'm hoping a few of you make the effort.

Almost every post on the boards is attacking Flake. He's a swamp creature, but what he, Grassley, and Reps pulled off in that hearing room was genius.

When they returned after recess every Republican Senator was sitting in their seat except Cruz ... nearly all of them. Only one of the Dems was in their seat, the rest were standing in the doorway or were in the hallway. A staffer whispers in Grassley's ear and he looks around, first right ... Reps all seated, then left, Dems still standing around. Then he hits the gavel, Cruz enters and takes his seat, Dems still standing around. Grassley stares at the door for a while ... knocks the gavel a few times, but much quieter than before. Flake enters, whispers something to Grassley in passing and takes his seat.

Then ... "As a point of personal privilege, I'm going to invite Senator Flake to speak. Normally we would start the vote right now." ... Dems still standing around the entrance ... and it's no big deal, no hurry, Senator Flake is speaking, it's not the vote.

Flake "I've been speaking to the other side and I think it would be proper to delay the floor vote for up to but not more than one week to allow the FBI to conduct an investigation." The other side were aware that Sen. Flake was only going to vote "yes" based on an FBI investigation. The "one week" was probably news to them. They are still making their way to their seats.

Senator Flake "I will vote to advance the vote to the floor with that understanding." Then he compliments the chairman and the committee. He already knows it's over!

Grassley IMMEDIATELY calls roll (vote) you can hear some Dems say "wait ... " they are still making their way to their seats, only 3-4 of them are seated. Feinstein interrupts and grabs Sen. Grassley's arm ... "What are we voting on? Can we have a description" The Dems are in complete disarray. They do not know what's happening. Sen. Grassley raises his voice, pulls away from Feinstein and says "We are voting on the motion to report the nomination to the floor Call the role!" Sen. Feinstein ... "but that's not my understanding" (she thought she had a different deal with Flake) Flake responds "Well my understanding is the deal that the Democrats would accept a one week investigation limited in time and scope." ... Feinstein starts to argue "Well ... " ... Then Sen. Grassley jumps in "we'll decide that and if there's any further discussion we'll have it after the roll CALL THE ROLL!"

As the roll starts some of the Dems are still making their way to their seats. As the 11 Reps vote yes, Sen. Feinstein grabs Grassley again ... "This is on the nominee?" she's still confused. He says "Yes", she votes "On the nominee, No." Noise in the room increases as the Dems are asking what is happening and taking their seats. Some still asking "On the Nominee?" Finally, the Chairman votes "Yes." and on hearing the roll was 11/10 declares "The nominee will be reported to the floor." It's over and the Dems are still trying to figure out what just happened, some still haven't made it to their seats. Sen. Coons (who did make it to his seat) realises that the nomination and investigation were separate and proposes that the investigation over the coming week is bi-partisan and is thanked. Feinstein then admits she was confused and thought the two were linked and seconds the bi-partisan motion for the investigation. (She has no choice)

Then Senator Graham sums it all up. "I love this committee but we're not the majority leader. Sen. Flake has said what it would take for him to support the vote, but it really doesn't matter what we say here ... because it's up to Schumer and McConnell." (In other words, any further discussion/motions regarding the investigation are pointless because it's out of our hands now) ... Next up is Leaky Leahy asking for a commitment that there is no movement on the nomination on the Senate floor ... and before Grassley can speak, Sen Flake, the guy you are hating on, jumps in and says "Let me say again, I cannot make that commitment for the Leadership ... but I would only be comfortable moving forward on the floor when the FBI has done more investigation than they have done already! It may not take them a week ... " so he's saying that he'll vote as soon as the FBI have done something, but is not committing to the week, just that he'll vote after they do something.

After a few back and forths ... Feinstein asks Flake if his "amendment includes continuing the investigation through this period of time." She is still confused. Flake responds "There is no amendment." and he's just saying that he wants the Democrats to feel comfortable as they move forward knowing an investigation has occurred and will heal the divisions. He is willing to contact the WH personally to request the investigation and it would be short and limited in scope ... sound familiar? President Trump echoes Flake and made a statement shortly after, "be limited in scope and completed in less than one week." ... Anyway, immediately after Sen. Flake said this, Sen. Grassley bangs his gavel, invokes the 2 hour rule. The meeting is over no more discussion, no more delays, no threats to walk out of the room before voting oh, and some of the Dems are still standing and wondering WTH just happened.

So if you want to hate on Flake, you can, but not for this. This was 5D chess. This was the plan. The Republicans all knew there was going to be an investigation. It was worked out with Flake beforehand, but it was going to be done on their terms, not the Dems. No more delays.

UPDATE* Judge Kavanaugh has now gone into hiding due to escalated violence. This is Judge Kavanaugh's home that was vandalized today by over 200 protesters. As you can see, it's not a mansion, he is not a wealthy man. They destroyed the yard by driving cars on it, threw feces on all the windows, every outside wall was spray painted. How do you explain

This is how we treat the best of those among us. Things have not changed much in the last 2000 years, have they?
