Parcel P-2A — Affordables First

by Lynn Peters

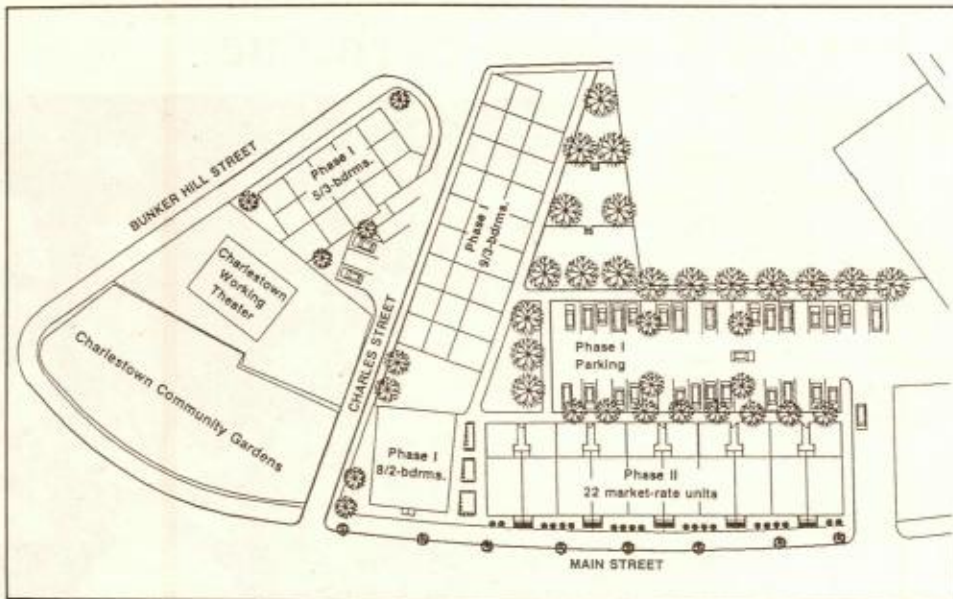

Tim O'Connell, president of Gate Five Associates, says that, although he will only break even, the 22 affordable homes proposed for Parcel P-2A will be built and moved into first. The 20 market-rate units would go up in a later construction phase, so that low- and moderate-income families would not have to wait out slumping market sales before they could move in.

O'Connell hopes that official final designation for his plans for the site will come from the Boston Redevelopment Authority any time now so that he can begin building 14 three-bedroom and eight two-bedroom affordable homes in the next four to six weeks. He announced his decision to split the project into two phases at a sparsely attended Aug. 29 public meeting to present the proposal before the BRA Board of Directors votes on the plans.

The 69,000-square-foot vacant lot between Main and Bunker Hill streets, bordered by the Charlestown Community Gardens and Charlestown Working Theater, was at one time caught in a tug-of-war between competing Back Bay developer Myerson/Allen and Gate Five, with the Charlestown Neighborhood Council and residents pulling at both sides of the rope in choosing who would build on the land.

Myerson/Allen later dropped out of the competition to go ahead with Tudor Wharf plans. Gate Five won the BRA's recommendation last year based on neighborhood and political support, and this week there were none of the struggles as O'Connell and architect John Gallagher recapped the plans.

O'Connell is proposing a total 42 two- and three-bedroom mostly brick homes with yards and on-site parking spaces. There would be wheelchair-accessible homes included. A bricked

GATE FIVE ASSOCIATES proposal for Parcel P-2A would include two construction phases, with 22 affordable two- and three-bedroom homes built first with linkage sidewalk with gas lamps would spruce up narrow Charles Street, which would be restricted to residents' and emergency vehicles. The proposal would also leave a small piece of land undeveloped behind existing homes on Main and Baldwin streets, which O'Connell says could be sold to abutters through the BRA.

Council member Ellen D'Ambrosio, who has been attending public meetings about the fate of Parcel P-2A since 1987, says she doesn't think mixed-use housing generally works for families in the affordable bracket, but she likes O'Connell's idea.

"There are so many people waiting for the chance to own homes in Charlestown," D'Ambrosio says, "and this way they wouldn't have to wait."

Across the street at the Main Street Townhouses, the real estate market has snagged the move-in process for low- and moderate-income families. Advertised from $169,000 to over $200,000, these attractive single-family homes have money and bank financing, and 20 market-rate units constructed later.

been very sluggishly drawing market-rate buyers, while families eligible for the affordable homes have to wait for them to sell first. The Bricklayers all-affordable housing development in the Navy Yard ran into bank-approval difficulties, with eligible families waiting in the wings for a year

Bunker Hill Housing Development Residents Enjoy Annual Summer Barbecue

Summer Cleanup Crew Gains More Than A Paycheck

by Kathy Giordano

When 16 Charlestown teen-agers started their summer jobs with the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) they had no idea what lay ahead. Thoughts of breezing through their vacation months at a little-work or no-show job soon vanished.

Instead, they found themselves in a daily routine that required them to be punctual, reliable and hard working. But more importantly, they found themselves involved in a learning process likely to stay with them for many years.

Summer Jobs Project Director Stephen Berlandi admits that he set two goals at the beginning of the program — goals that he feels confident have been reached.

Berlandi stated that an appreciation of the community's revitalization and the enhancement of future employment opportunities were important in the crew's work experience. His background in education was the guiding factor in the methods he used to bring this message to the young workers.

Instead of handing them

a broom and shovel and pointing to a pile of debris, he spent time each day talking with them and explaining the significance of the menial task that faced them, how each task would enhance their community and that the work habits they were being taught would prove to be advantageous for future job possibilities.

He worked individually with each kid to build his or her confidence and bring out hidden leadership qualities. He taught them to be self-starters and to increase their ability to establish interpersonal relationships with fellow workers.

The estimated $4.5 million project on Parcel P-2A would take more than a year to complete, and the 10 two-family buildings fronting Main Street would come later in Phase 2, according to O'Connell. Gallagher says he believes that the market-rate homes, which would carry approximately $150,000 price tags, would sell easily now, but comments that if they were never built, the land would "be the best landscaping in the city."

Although O'Connell says he cannot discuss specifics, he says there will be a lottery for the affordable homes. The two-bedroom units would sell for approximately $92,000, and the three-bedroom affordable homes, with nearly 2,000 square feet including unfinished basements, would be priced somewhere around $98,000.

O'Connell says he believes that final designation, roughly $650,000 in linkage money and bank financing are all within his immediate grasp and he hopes to begin construction in four to six weeks.

"I think they'll sell," O'Connell says of the affordable homes, which would resemble Gate Five's all-market-rate work at 88-92 Washington St. "We hope to have people move in by Christmas of 1990."

Central Artery
North Area Project

by David Flanagan

Community Liaison, Mass. Dept. of Public Works

The new pedestrian walkway along the North Washington Street Bridge should be ready to use by mid-September. This wheelchair-accessible structure was designed specifically to move pedestrians through the City Square area during the tunnel construction.

Once the walkway is open, pedestrians will cross the bridge at Keaney Square and use it to access Constitution Road, Chelsea and Water streets and other points in Charlestown. The walkway will carry the famous Freedom Trail red stripe and will be maintained by Perini-Kiewit-Atkinson, the contractor.

Pedestrians heading toward Charlestown will access the walkway from the Rapids Furniture side of the bridge and walk down a ramp to ground level behind the Maxwell Box Co. to Water Street. Signs will direct people to the Navy Yard, the USS Constitution and across Chelsea Street.

To cross the bridge and get downtown, pedestrians will access the walkway at Water Street and take the ramp up to the bridge. Access to downtown and the North Station area will also be maintained through the MDC locks.

Not long after the walkway opens, vehicular traffic will be shifted to the Rapids Furniture side of the bridge, so that MDPW can begin widening and straightening the opposite side.

Several people have been asking about the rather tall blue structure which currently sits on the site of the former YMCA building in City Square.

The 150-foot tall structure is not surprisingly referred to as a tower crane, and it will be used to move construction materials, such as steel, concrete and mechanical equipment, used in building the tunnels.

A tower crane is set on tracks which allow it to move backward and forward within a particular construction area and to reach materials within a 200-foot radius of its base.

If you have any questions concerning the CANA project, please contact David Flanagan at the CANA hot line 241-5560 or 973-7500.

Casper Announces Candidacy For Boston City Council Citywide

The citizens of Boston are confronting problems that are not of their own making, but rather the consequences of mismanagement, weakness and a selfish disregard for the taxpayers by the people that are supposed to serve them.

"Do you believe me now?" seems to be burning in the ears of all those who for years insisted that public relations schemes-avoidance would be adequate in dealing with the city's problems. Their arrogance has proved to be the recipe for disaster; our streets are no longer safe and the city is facing fiscal ruin.

Can those people that fostered the problem look the voter in the eye and tell them that they will now do what it takes to solve the city's problems? We both know that answer is no! The upcoming Boston City Council citywide election is vital since the voters of Boston have the opportunity to dramatically change the manner in which the city's problems are addressed.

Drug dealing and drug-related violence have given rise to youth gangs that pervade and threaten the safety of our neighborhoods, which are being turned into shooting galleries. The city is also faced with a financial crisis. Reckless spending, padded payrolls and excessive bureaucracy, coupled with the expectation that substantial increases in state aid would go on forever, have brought the city tottering to the brink of fiscal ruin.

Just as important, but many times ignored, is the fact that Boston is facing a crisis in public leadership. For years public officials lacked the courage to admit that there were problems, and now that the problems are undeniable, we must ask the question: Do these public officials have the courage to do what must be done in order to find solutions?

I believe that the taxpayers are entitled to some payback for their tax dollars. Decent people, all across this city, in every neighborhood, want meaningful change! They're sick of the bogus political posturing that protects the administration at the expense of the hard-working taxpayer.

I have a reputation for speaking my mind and never dodging the issues. I have a reputation for getting things done, having little patience for an ineffective bureaucracy, and a proven record of being right on the issues. I trust that voters believe me now, value these traits, and will elect me to be their hard-line law-and-order advocate, taxpayer spokesman and charter change representative on the Boston City Council.

I announce my citywide candidacy for Boston City Council. I ask the taxpaying, law-abiding citizens of Boston to give me their vote, and give me the chance to protect their interests and reflect their values.

Charlestown Little League Annual Awards Night Banquet

photos by Lynn Peters

by John Curtin
(President, Charlestown Little League Inc.)

The second annual awards banquet for the boys and girls of Charlestown Little League is now history. We made a few mistakes, but the Aug. 26 ceremonies at the Knights of Columbus hall moved along smoothly. Most of the talent showed up, but not too many of their parents, and the kids would like to have all their folks there when they receive their trophies.

John Lynch went out of his way to get Marty Barrett of the Red Sox as a guest, but the guy never contacted him, and, as you all know, he never showed up. The kids were understandably disappointed. I wouldn't blame them if they let the Red Sox organization know how they feel.

Very few invited guests turned out, however, the ever-generous City Councillor Bob Travaglini, Dorothy "Knuckle Ball" Connolly from Massport and two wonderful people from the South Boston Little League, Ken and Elaine Preskinus, all made it. Rev. Isaiah Sears called and wished us all the best, and someone from Rep. Richie Voke's office expressed his regrets.

But the air conditioning at the Knights worked beautifully, and we want to thank Billy Boyle and the Knights of Columbus for the use of the hall. John Lynch came up with a top-flight sound system, and I want to personally thank all the other Little League people who put so much extra effort into this banquet: Brian Edwards, Bill McKeon, Ed Greator, Beverly Johnson, Sheri Krol and Alice Curtin.

Every player was presented with a trophy by their managers or coaches, and the John McGill Sportsmanship player and league MVPs were recognized with special awards. Divisional trophies went to Townie Oil of the East, K. of C. of the West and to the Minor League champion Patriot team. Certificates were awarded to the District 9 All-Star players, the 9- and 10-year-old teams that played in the South Boston Invitational Tournament this summer, and to various others including all the sponsors.

1989 Graduates:

- Boys Club: Tommy Halloran, Mike Leahy and Brian Wadman.
- Cronin Club: Dave Burns, Chris Donovan and Mike Lynch.
- Jenny's Pizza: Mark Lind.
- K. of C.: Jeff Andrea, Mike Burns, Tommy Whelan and Jimmy Yandle.
- Laidlaw: Mike Duncan, Danny Gibbons, Meng Ngan and Keith Wallace.
- Memorial Hall: Paul Hansen and Willie Machado.
- Teamsters: Paul Allen, Joe Black, Gordon D'Am-brosio and Dennis Doris.
- Townie Oil: Corey Gallagher, Jimmy McIssac, Adam Olsson and Greg Staples.

(Graduates, remember that next season, you'll be eligible for Gentle Robbie McIntosh's CYO team.)

John McGill Sportsmanship Trophy: This honor, in memory of the late Little League vice president and manager, is awarded to the player who gives his best at all times, remembers there are eight teammates on the field with him and never complains, was awarded to Dennis Doris.

Players who didn't make it to the banquet should contact their managers regarding their trophies. We didn't forget anybody.

City And Neighbors Cooperate To End Vandalism At Charlestown High Field

by Kathy Giordano

Those concerned about the Charlestown High School field are sick and tired and won't take it any more.

The vandalism, drinking, drugging and dealing have become a nightly occurrence in the area, leaving the property littered with broken beer bottles, discarded needles and trash of every contemptible description.

It took the Boston Housing Authority's teen work crew two weeks and 70 large trash bags to tote away garbage that had accumulated there, not including the scattered glass on the track and playing field that left those areas unuseable.

The crew's efforts were undone just days after their back-breaking toil. When the crew arrived at the site on a recent Monday morning, they found more debris than had been carted off the previous Friday. The Patriot received a call from a discouraged work crew supervisor, and a reporter and photographer were dispatched to the field to view the horrendous conditions. Subsequently, the School Department, which was deeded the property in 1988, sent one of its crews to clean the mess again.

A call was made to Judy Evers, community liaison from the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services, and she contacted city agencies and residents to set up an Aug. 24 meeting at CHS to discuss the problems. She called the big guns out of their city offices to come together with residents for ultimate solutions.

Virtually every city and local department was represented, with the exception of Parks and Recreation. Charlestown Community Schools Coordinator Bob McGann, Jack Marsden of the Boys & Girls Club's drug program, Bunker Hill Tenants Task Force chairwoman Mary MacInnes, CharlesNewtown manager Donna Hartung, Boston City Councillor Robert Travaglini's aide Martha Bagley, School Department's Building Services Manager Ed Walsh, Boston Municipal Police Captain Thomas Doyle and Dan O'Neil and John Houlihan from the Charlestown Town Team attended to have input.

Blame for past negligence of the school building and field was not discussed. Instead, the emphasis of the meeting was on how a combined effort could produce better management of the property and eliminate future destruction.

The past efforts of the Parks and Recreation Department in maintaining the field were praised. Houlihan said that a new field had been promised for the Town Team, but in the interim wanted "someone to maintain" the area. He said Parks and Recreation had been cutting the grass before games, and two teammates had been cleaning up afterward. City Council candidate Brian Callahan believed that discussions were centered on short-term solutions, and a commitment had to be made to keep the area maintained.

William McAfee, director of facilities management for the School Department, stated that budgetary woes would make it imperative to have full cooperation from all departments involved so that the expense of maintaining and watching the area could be spread out and not deplete a particular budget. He and others at the meeting unanimously agreed that more has to be done in the future by more than one city agency. McAfee told those gathered that an overall plan has to be worked out to outline the problems and determine the best way to maintain and safeguard the property.

School Committeeman John Nucci agreed, stating: "This job can't be done by one department alone. No one should leave this room without taking some responsibility for the care of this facility, and all should be kept accountable for their part of the job." He told those gathered, "We have the clout in this room to do it."

The problems in keeping the area are difficult. Illegal dumping behind the school building on Terminal Street forced the removal of a dumpster that was placed there. Nancy Wall from the Community Schools Central Office said that ways to eliminate the dumping are being looked at. Evers pointed out that cars are being driven on the field and tearing up the area. She said that barriers would have to be positioned in

Get Involved — Become A Transit Monitor

The Life Focus Center, a program serving the mentally and physically handicapped, has taken on a new transportation contract, which could mean that the staff could need between 15 and 30 part-time helpers.

Beginning Sept. 18, LFC will be transporting North Shore Collaborative clients to their work program in Everett, and "transit monitors" will be needed to staff the vans.

Monitors are trained by LFC in first aid, CPR, basic sign language, and in proper physical restraint methods and seizure treatment. The job training for monitors is currently being considered for college credit at Bunker Hill Community College. If the program is approved, trainees could pick up three college credits in human services, and earn $8.50 an hour as transit monitors for two hours in the morning and two hours in the afternoon.

The transit monitors will ride the vans that carry mentally retarded and medically handicapped adults to and from their day programs. Keeping a watchful eye out for the clients, recording their behavior and being there in times of emergency are the primary responsibilities of a transit monitor.

According to LFC's Danielle Marcella, this challenging opportunity is more than a baby-sitting job.

"Ideally, we want people who are not afraid to get in-involved," Marcella says. "The goal is to make a difference."

The schedule is flexible, one that easily fits around classes or another part-time job, and the vans will conveniently pick you up and drop you off at the Life Focus Center in City Square every weekday. Hours are 7 to 9 a.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.

The only requirement for anyone interested in becoming one of LFC's newest staffers is that you must be 18 — and like people. As a transit monitor, you might make a difference in someone's life.

For more information about transit monitor opportunities, call Danielle or Lucy Gould at the Life Focus Center, 242-3423.

Robertson Committed To Helping People In Need

by Tony Ferullo

One of the most valuable lessons that Dr. Piedad F. Robertson, president of Bunker Hill Community College in Charlestown, has ever learned did not come out of a book.

"When I was growing up, my mother told me that it's always easier to give than to have to ask," said Robertson, reflecting for a moment down memory lane. "It was one of those sayings that just stayed with me all these years. I'll never forget it."

Following her mother's advice, the Cuba native has volunteered both her time and skills to help other people for most of her adult life. As associate chair of the Education Division of the United Way of Massachusetts Bay, Robertson is committed to help raise as much money as she can to help people in the community — like the homeless, teens in trouble, the neglected elderly and so many others who desperately need a helping hand.

That was important to 1989 United Way General Campaign Chairman Peter E. Madden, president of State Street Bank and Trust Company, when he recently recruited Robertson as one of his team players.

"The type of people as-

sisting me in this year's fund-raising efforts are people who care about their community," said Madden. "People who can influence decisions, and people who are willing to work hard and do a great job planning, recruiting, and motivating other leaders to help raise the most money possible for our community."

As a vice chairman on United Way's board of directors, Robertson is a key member in the organization's decision-making process. Fulfilling such a prestigious role can be quite a demanding job, but Robertson is accustomed to conquering any challenges that come her way.

"Since I was real young, my parents put a great deal of emphasis on achievement," explained the 50-year-old Robertson. "They taught my four sisters and I to set goals for ourselves that were beyond our reach, so that we would always be striving to be the best in whatever we did."

Prior to being named only the second president in the history of Bunker Hill Community College a year ago, Piedad Robertson held the title of vice president for education at Miami-Dade Community College in Florida. By her own admission, she has made the transition from one school to another with remarkable aplomb.

"I think I've adjusted quite well to my new role," said Robertson, who has guided the creation of a new satellite campus in Chelsea, started a new student assessment program, revamped the school's English-as-a-Second-Language course, and even marched in last year's Bunker Hill Day Parade. "Like every other job

I've had, it has been a learning experience for me.

"I'm very excited about having the opportunity to serve the needs of those people who go to school, work, and live in an inner-city environment. I'd like to make this institution a place where everyone succeeds."

"It's extremely important for me to be involved with the United Way Because it helps so many people of all ages who really need it," explained Robertson, who along with her husband, William, have five children. "It is an organization that I'm proud to be associated with because it has deep concerns for all people, including those in the Hispanic community, which is growing at a tremendous rate in the New England area."

Robertson, a Charlestown resident, strongly believes in community improvement. That's why she and the United Way make such a perfect match.

Heel pain should be treated NOW to avoid further injury!

Treatment is easier than you might think.

Your heel hurts. Throbs. You may feel a stretching or tearing sensation. But you don't have the time or energy to find the right doctor to look at it.

The heel pain is actually caused by problems with a ligament on the bottom of your foot. Undue strain and stress on the ligament, causes it to begin to pull away from the heel bone. The best solution is to 1) Administer medications to reduce the inflammation and 2) To use arch supports to strengthen the foot and reduce stress and strain. This eliminates pain and prevents further damage. We have found that only one percent of our heel pain cases really need to be treated surgically.

When your feet hurt, come to Northeast Podiatric.

At 9 p.m., an individual entered the Bunker Hill Liquor Store at 200 Bunker Hill St. wearing a ski mask, and pointed a handgun at the clerk and demanded the cash receipts. He then fled on foot in the direction of Polk Street. A search of the area was conducted but the suspect was not found.

These incidents are under investigation by the detectives of Area A.

Residents are reminded: If you know of any drug activity in your neighborhood, call the Boston Police Hot Line at 247-4697. It is not necessary to give your name, and all information will be investigated.

Charlestown Furniture Designers To Be Featured On 'Studio 7'

Music, art and furniture design will be the focus of WNEV-TV Channel 7's "Studio 7" program to be aired on Sunday, Sept. 3 from 8 to 9 p.m.

"Studio 7" will profile Charlestown furniture designer Jay Stanger, who will explain the creative process behind the development and construction of two contemporary chairs. Stanger, who says, "I hope there is never a time when I can't reach in a new direction and grab a new idea," will also discuss the inspiration for his innovative creations.

This segment of the show will also feature the creations of a number of other local furniture designers including Peter Dean of Char-

The program will also include a comparison of the work of three Boston photographers, Lou Jones, Janet Knott and Chris Enos, who each shot the same block in the Back Bay; the unusual techniques of voice-class instructor, Phyllis Curtin, at Tanglewood; Deborah Henson-Conant, an innovative jazz harpist, will perform and discuss her approach to composing; and artist Alvin Paige, who created a sculptural room based on his experiences at the recent student uprisings in Beijing, will be profiled.

Town Team Tames The Tigers

by Judie Dunphy
Eastern Football League action last week saw the Town Team roll over the Worcester County Tigers with a 22-6 victory.

The fifth-place Townies opened the scoring with a 21-yard field-goal kick by Jeff Eteward and a first-quarter 3-0 lead over the Tigers.

Neither team was able to score in the second quarter, leaving Charlestown ahead at the end of the first half at 3-0.

Charlestown kept control in the third quarter with a 3-yard touchdown by running back/receiver Gary Errico but was unable to score on the point after kick. The quarter ended with a 9-0 Charlestown lead.

A touchdown on a 20-yard pass from quarterback Ed Sullivan to Errico began fourth-quarter action, and the extra point by Eteward brought the score to 16-0, Charlestown.

Errico put the icing on the cake with a 3-yard run for Charlestown's third touchdown of the game, but the point after kick failed, making it 22-0.

Worcester scored its lone touchdown in the fourth quarter on an 80-yard pass from quarterback Tracy Kohler to receiver Mike Jenkins. The Tigers failed to make the extra point, ending the quarter and the game as tame as kittens.

Errico, Charlestown's premier running back and receiver, was named the EFL Player of the Week, scoring all of Charlestown's touchdowns in the win over the Tigers. Errico rushed for 45 yards in eight carries, scoring twice, and caught five passes for 88 yards and another touchdown. He also ran back a punt-return for 35 yards. Errico is one of the top five rushers in the league with 68 carries for 239 yards.

Charlestown will meet the Randolph Oilers on home turf tonight, Thursday, Aug. 31 at 8 p.m. So, come down and cheer on the Town Team at the Charlestown High School field.

Not For Nothin' . . .
But Have You Heard . . .

• So Long . . . And Good Luck . . . to Rosa Freda who spent her summer vacation as an intern here at the Patriot. She won't be far away this fall as she is entering her second year at Bunker Hill Community College and will be serving as news editor for The Third Rail, the college's student publication. She has done a great job, and we will miss you, Rosa.

• The Cobblestones Are Safe . . . according to Boston Edison's Jim Webster. Area residents were concerned that workmen were carting away Mount Vernon Avenue's historic cobblestones which were being dug up during roadway reconstruction. The Edison spokesman would like to assure residents that the stones were taken away to preserve and protect them from theft, and they will be returned to the avenue when work is complete.

• Have Some Fun . . . Help Our Kids . . . The annual Softball Game between Massport and the Charlestown Little League managers and coaches is set for Wednesday, Sept. 6 at the Barry Playground (Oilies). This annual rivalry, which gets underway at 6 p.m., is always a lot of fun — and best of all, the proceeds help support our local kids who get so much from Little League. So come on down . . .

• Speaking Of America's Favorite Pastime . . . We haven't enjoyed Charlestown's favorite variation of the game, the annual Halfball Tournament, in a few years. Two local halfball greats are considering resurrecting this cherished part of Charlestown's history. So folks, if you're interested in seeing old friends and having some fun, please give a call to Bob O'Neil at 242-2788, or Wendell Fidler at 396-0195, and hopefully we'll see you at the tourney. Oh, by the way, Bob's wife Gail lost her glasses on Tuesday. If you find them please drop them off at the Patriot.

• Best Wishes . . . go out to Henry (Hank) Sikkema, who is retiring from the Bunker Hill Health Center. Your patients and Charlestown friends wish you good luck and happy days.

• Golden Anniversary Wishes . . . are the order of the day for Josie and Jim Venezia of Belmont Street. The couple will be celebrating 50 years of wedded bliss on Sept. 4. The very best to you both as you reach this milestone.

• A Gala Celebration . . . is most likely in store for Kay Thompson and Monie Thompson as they celebrate their birthdays on Sept. 5 . . . and belated birthday wishes go to Mary Giarratani at the Constitution Co-op . . . Hope each of you have a great year!

• Word Has It . . . that the New England Aquarium proposal for developing a new facility in the Charlestown Navy Yard won't go before the BRA Board until Sept. 28, at the earliest. A Charlestown Neighborhood Council meeting will be scheduled mid-month so that a "preferred option" site can be presented. Stay tuned!

• Commendations Should Be In Store . . . for the Charlestown work crews that spent the summer beautifying this community. The bags of weeds and debris represent the hours and hours of work these local young people devoted to their jobs. Let's hope that their efforts are an inspiration to others to keep our town clean. Congratulations for a job well-done — the residents appreciate your efforts!

• Reminder . . . Sept. 12 marks the date that Police Commissioner Francis "Mickey" Roache is coming to Charlestown to talk to residents about whatever concerns they have. Mark your calendar! Plan to be there!

• They're Not In School . . . but they are being tested daily. A three-member team from Fotec, located at the Schrafft Center in Sullivan Square, is taking part in the daily segment "Test the Teams" this week on WBZ-Radio. They are the mid-day team, answering questions just before noon and 1 p.m. Good luck, Fotec . . . we'll be listening for the results on Friday.

• Countdown Winding Down . . .
Only 7 more days until school opens!
You'll make it, Parents!!!!

• Summer's Last Holiday . . . Labor Day . . . which was first believed to have been celebrated with a parade on Sept. 5, 1882 in New York City, has since evolved into a national holiday recognizing the country's workforce. In 1883, a resolution by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America declared the first Monday in September of each year a Labor Day, and more than half of the states observed the holiday. During that year, a bill to establish Labor Day as a federal holiday was introduced in Congress. It was not until 1894 that President Grover Cleveland signed into law an act making the first Monday in September a legal holiday for federal employees and the District of Columbia. Today, Labor Day is observed in both the United States and Canada.

Vandalism At Charlestown High Field

ways that will keep the cars out.

Police patrols on a more frequent schedule, shared by the Boston and Municipal Police departments, is imperative, according to area residents. Municipal Police Sgt. Frank DeRosa said his department has worked hand and hand with the Boston Housing Authority police force, but the main problem is that once they leave the area, the vandals move back in.

Including the area on a nightly route would be the ideal situation, DeRosa said, but not always possible if the officers are needed elsewhere at a crime scene. Kelly Tinlin, community relations officer from Area A of the Boston Police Department, stated that police cars are dispatched when called, and both departments were agreeable to a combined effort in alleviating the problem.

City Councillor Robert Travaglini, when reached by phone for comment after the meeting, stated: "In every instance when I was contacted by the Town Team, I contacted the various personnel in the Parks and Recreation Department, knowing all along that it was not their responsibility. Although it was the School Department's responsibility, with its limited revenue and personnel, it never received a high enough priority to warrant the appropriation necessary to upgrade the facility."

Travaglini added: "The parks department has seeded and upgraded the field using limited resources that had been earmarked for other areas. My office and the parks department have always responded to the needs of the Town Team to the best of our ability. I am gratified that the School Department is finally paying attention to this facility."

Paying attention it is, as are other city departments. Sleeves have been rolled up and a cooperative spirit exists. Residents, Town Team players and city officials will get the message out that the Charlestown High School field will be off limits for vandals and dumping. Anyone else interested in getting involved with the effort, or who just have a suggestion, should call Judy Evers at 725-3485

Another meeting will be scheduled in the near future when all departments take on their particular responsibilities. They are determined that the pieces will be put together to everyone's satisfaction and for Charlestown's benefit.

Additional Taxi Discount For Senior Citizens

Effective Sept. 1, Boston's senior citizens can take advantage of an additional 10 percent discount in the Taxi Discount Program.

Through the efforts of the Boston Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, the Boston Police Department's Hackney Bureau and the Taxi Industry, senior citizens will be able to purchase taxi discount coupons for $6, rather than $7. Each book is valued at $10. This translates into a 40 percent discount on taxi rides for seniors using the coupons in taxis licensed in Boston.

There will be no rebates of books that have already been purchased.

If you have any questions, please call Virginia Hurley in the Elderly Commission's Field Services Unit at 725-3977.

teresting projects that involve volunteers.

Elderly Commission To Sponsor Charlestown 'Senior Town Meeting'

Boston's Commission on the Affairs of the Elderly will hold a Senior Town Meeting in Charlestown on Friday, Sept. 15 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Golden Age Center, 382 Main St. Seniors will be advised of the range of services offered by the commission, and problems which senior citizens encounter in seeking assistance will be discussed.

Another purpose of the meeting, according to Elder Affairs Commissioner Diane Watson is to "allow our seniors an opportunity to meet staff members, particularly the Community Service Advocates who work closely with individual seniors and groups in the neighborhoods on a daily basis."

Watson adds that the neighborhood forum will complement the needs assessment surveys conducted each spring by the Area Agency on Aging, which provides documentation and analysis of the many needs and concerns of Boston's elders in areas such as transportation, home care, health care, nutrition and other vital services.

TRUTH NEVER CHANGES

Churches, Denominations and Traditions change their beliefs, doctrines and practices constantly in order to appease certain groups or appeal to a broader spectrum of people. Beliefs and practices that would have damned one who disobeyed to hell, years ago, now have been changed so that, to do the opposite will make you a saint. The constant changes going on in Churches today are open proof that many Churches have not based their faith and practices upon an unchangeable, infallible truth. Jesus Christ, in His prayer to the Father, says that the Word of God is truth and that one is sanctified or made Holy through the Word. "Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth" (John 17:17). My Friend, if you are seeking Truth, then you need to go to God's Word. It tells you of a truthful Savior who is the same yesterday, today and forever (Heb. 13:8). The way of Salvation has not changed either. It is still received by believing in Jesus Christ as your Savior from sin. Seek out a Church that preaches from the Bible and bases its faith and practices on the unchangeable truth, the Word of God.

A Conversation Overheard

The following is a telephone conversation I overheard, a conversation about a meeting held last Thursday. The topic of the meeting was about how to have the Mike Quinn athletic facility fixed up and maintained.

"Wait a minute, Mildred. Hold the phone next to your ear, don't put it on the table and talk while you iron ... O.K., tell me that again, but go a little slower this time ... what? You mean to tell me that not one preservationist from Charlestown's elite bourgeois class showed up for the meeting? ... ya ... ya, O.K. ... ya ... Millie, never mind the guy who talks to God in his bathroom on 'The Phil Donahue Show.' Millie ... Millie ... but wasn't the meeting about taking care of open space in the town?"

"Millie, maybe you went to the wrong meeting again. Ya, I know you haven't done that in months, like the last time you went to a meeting about saving whales and now we have hairy krizmas dancing at our door every Saturday. I don't understand why they would rake Dave Francis and John Prescott over the coals every chance they get about open space and then not show up for this meeting ... oh, I see, not enough media coverage ... hmmm, interesting ... well, whatever ... by the way, we're working a half a night so I'll be home late ... no, I'm not at Sully's ... no, I'm not at the Spud ... bye, dear."

Then he hung up the phone and said as he walked away, "I'm at the Warren Tavern."

teens between 14 and 18 from backgrounds that differed in lifestyles, financial where-with-all and educational advantages. Some are ready to enter high school, while others are entering their freshman year of college. Some had difficulty in school, while others had earned scholarships toward their education. All were treated alike, according to Berlandi, with special attention for those who needed more guidance.

Discussions on drug and alcohol abuse and the importance of staying on the straight and narrow were a daily occurrence, according to Berlandi. Trips to historic sections of Charlestown, Cambridge and Boston took place on rainy days, and lessons on rehabilitation, zoning, architecture and the significance of preserving historic sites were taught on a routine basis, he said.

With the last day of employment fast-approaching, these 16 Charlestown teens have learned more than the importance of making a dollar. They have become aware of the beneficial difference they can each make individually to their community.

Through their sweat and back-breaking efforts, they have given back to their town a cleaner environment. With the discipline and accountability demanded of them, they will be better prepared to take on new and more challenging careers in the future.

Berlandi is pleased.

"I believe they have benefited from this work experience as much, if not more, than the community has benefited from their efforts," he said with a broad grin. In time, the teens will assuredly agree with him.

Children's Films

The Film Program for Children will be presented at the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main St., on Tuesday, Sept. 5 at 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

The features will be "Leo the Hunter," which tells whether sly rabbit and friend will escape the hunters; Towser the dog finds a cure for his toothache in "Towser and the Dentist;" and Anita's psychic energy brings surprising results in "Make Me Psychic."

Over the summer a young girl and an old woman find friendship in "The Lilith Summer," shown only at 3:30 p.m.
