<input type="checkbox"/>	 Phillip the Bruce	btw, one thing I miss on the 'new improved version' is the link at the top of the article to take you to the Comments. Not because I want to skip the article but because I want to check for new comments on 1 I already read.	The Cheap Drive View Post 4	2016/12/02 at 11:50 pm

 Phillip the Bruce	I have a friend that shops at the auction frequently. He's going with me when I get my ransom check from VW	The Cheap Drive View Post 4	2016/12/02 at 11:48 pm eightsouth man	In reply to ARYLIOA . Ary, I was trying to envision that type of life and where it might exist. I've been all over and there's some great places but none fit in that category. Lots of great places but nothing quite soothes my soul like the Milky Way in a Texas sky. The stars at night really are big and bright deep in the heart of Texas. You drive or ride. 30 miles to the store is one hell of a walk. People living side by side gives me nightmares.	Life in Hock View Post 54 1	2016/12/02 at 11:09 pm eightsouth man	In reply to eric . Eric, do you want a 73-77 or the newer style? West Texas is replete with the newer ones. Not sure why there's so few of the others except not that many were made and they got driven into the ground. If it wasn't killed outright in a big wreck it was turned into a drag car. They had a great weight distribution for drag racing. I'd give my left one for a Laguna front clip.	Life in Hock View Post 54 1	2016/12/02 at 10:35 pm eightsouth man	In reply to eightsouthman . Just as I posted the previous comment Commander Cody started singing "What's The Matter Now?" That fairly well sums up the woman situation.	Life in Hock View Post 54 1	2016/12/02 at 10:13 pm eightsouth man	In reply to eric. Sometimes it seems women are zombies waiting to pounce. But they're so much like cars I feel like the moth drawn to the flame. Like your favorite hotrod if I'm not looking for that last bit of performance I'm shining and buffing them and trying to keep them from seeing me riding that other model I just gotta try out. If they could only be cool to my quest to try other ones for a change . Hell, they're always wanting something different. Back in college a couple roommates and I were contemplating what we'd do that Friday night. It was the age old question and one guy summed it up by saying, and this was all inclusive of women, drugs, and any kind of partying "let's do something new and exciting". About 3 beats later we were bout to bust a gut laughing. It's still a good laugh for us to this day.	Life in Hock View Post 54 ¹	2016/12/02 at 10:05 pm dirtybobba stard	In reply to Nunzio . Lol, I have to agree with Nunzio, if it isn't at least a 3/4 ton it's not a 'real' truck. @ Eric, fwiw used 3/4 and 1 ton work trucks sell pretty cheap around here. Seems everyone wants the bells and whistles rather than the heavy duty axles and transmission.	To Goldwing... or El Camino it Up? View Post 18	2016/12/02 at 8:53 pm

 AljerHyss	In reply to Nunzio . "...She'd blown-up several other GM products in the recent past, with well under 100K miles on them" Mercy! I'd almost pay money to hear the particulars on this! Might you furnish any of the details?	Life in Hock View Post 54 ¹	2016/12/02 at 5:31 pm
