

PERFECT EDGE © MICRO PERFORATED FOR CLEAN TEAR-OUTS

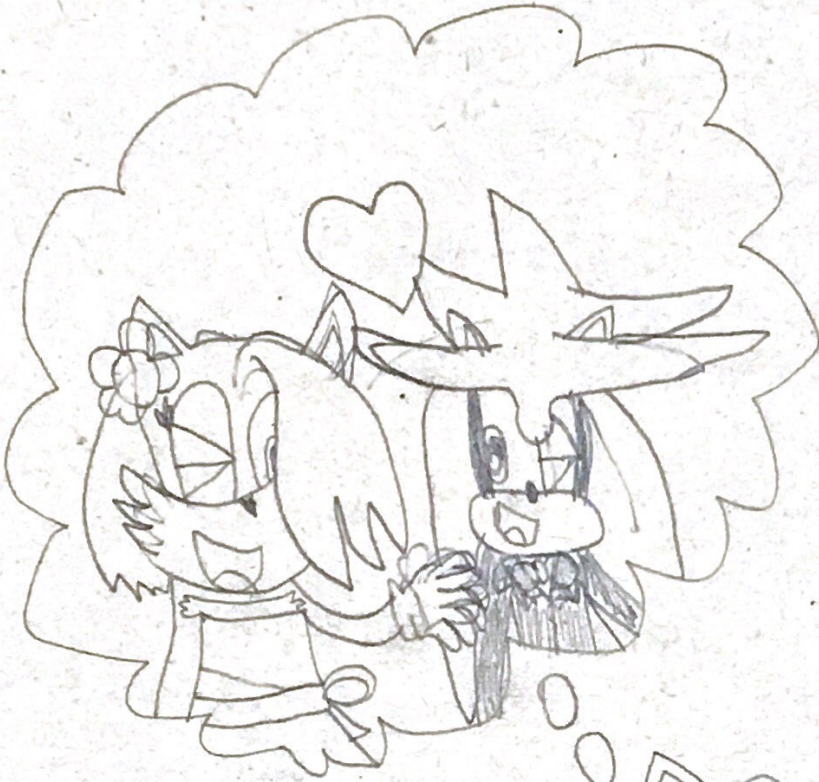

Norcom Inc. C
Item #77070

MIX
Paper from responsible sources
FSC® C002035

70 SHEETS

WIDE RULED

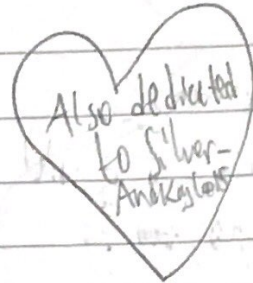

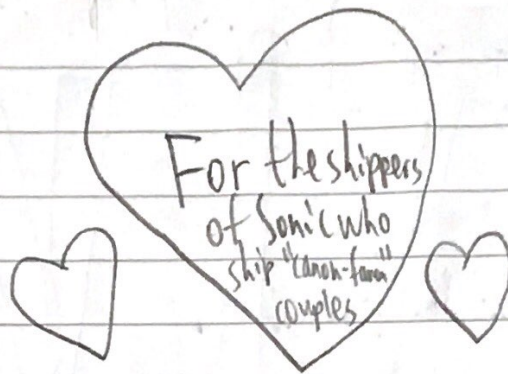

STILLVER

A Sonic Shipfic

Based on the Sonic the Hedgehog franchise by
SEGA

Illustrations and
Story by PrincessPandaLover

All illustrations and text by Princess Panda Lover.

You are free to produce variations of this story, just give credit.

DISCLAIMER: The Sonic the Hedgehog franchise is not owned by me, it is owned by SEGA.

This story is a fanwork and does NOT reflect on the canon storyline. It may contain things which are NOT canon in the Sonic universe.

All characters but Floe the Fox and Waterfall the Cat are canon and not by me. Their last names are fanmade.
Chloe the Hedgehog, Silver's ^{Spirit} the waitress

This story is a "shipfic", which means fan fiction that involves shipping. If you are AGAINST shipping in the Sonic universe, don't dare to read on.

-♡PPL

P.S. I recommend you to learn about Sonic before proceeding. It will be very confusing to non-Sonic experts.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Prologue	pg. 1
Chapter 1: High Spirits for Filo and Friends	pg. 4
Chapter 2: The Curse Hits	pg. 11
Chapter 3: Planning	pg. 21
Chapter 4: Out of Chaosville	pg. 27
Chapter 5: Into the Woods	pg. 38
Chapter 6: The Spirit of Doom	pg. 46
Chapter 7: Chasing the Demon	pg. 54
Chapter 8: Constellation Stars	pg. 64
Chapter 9: All Hail Mr. Chaos	pg. 71
Chapter 10: Away Back to Chaosville	pg. 87
Chapter 11: Dream Team Silver	pg. 100
Chapter 12: Silver's Awakening	pg. 111
Epilogue	pg. 121
Don't Miss Heart of Shadows!	pg. 'i'i'

PROLOGUE

Whoooooosh! The gentle chilly breeze blows away a maple leaf, as if it was a simple leaf blower. It was almost fall in Chaosville and summer was dissolving. Amy Rose gazed up to the pale blue sky, cluttered with honking and brave flocks of geese head south.

Mobians, as the anthropomorphic animals were called, swarmed the streets with leaves flying up as they go like pigeons. Barks, meows, caws, and squeaks filled the air fast as Sonic the Hedgehog. It was September 5th in this story.

Most of the Mobians were average, only a few of them had powers, SPECIAL POWERS that it seemed to great for someone to have.

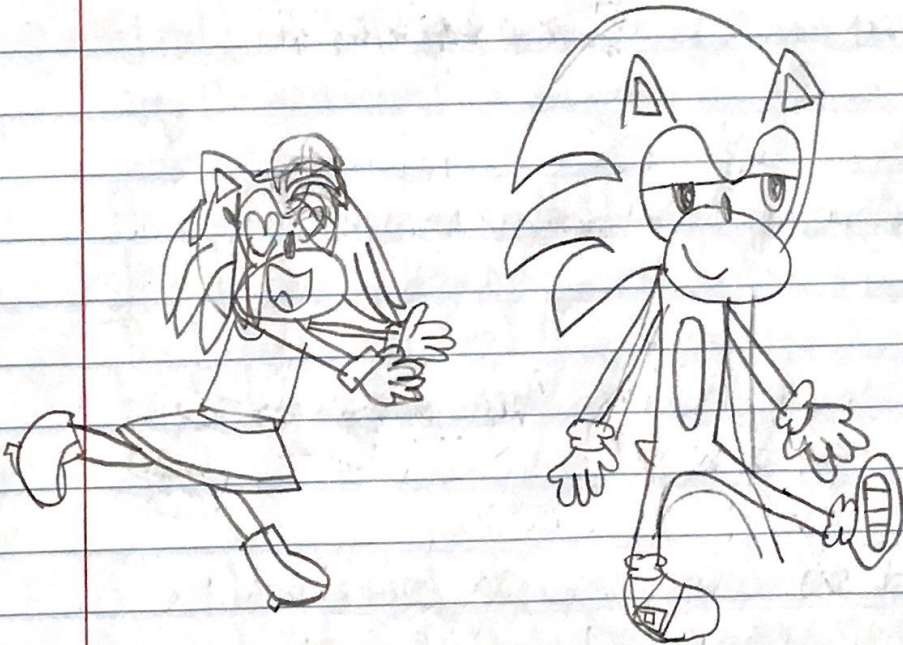

You have guessed it. Those were Sonic the Hedgehog (can run faster than sound gracefully), Miles "Tails" Prower (can propel with the sky only with his twin tails), Knuckles the Echidna (has super strength), Amy Rose (has strength to hold her Piko Piko hammer), Silver the Hedgehog (holds the power of psychokinesis, ability to move objects with mind), Blaze the Cat (holds the power of pyrokinesis, ability to manipulate fire with mind), Rouge the Bat (can kick pretty), Cream the Rabbit (can fly with her ears), Shadow the Hedgehog (can't describe powers), and Floe the Fox (can shoot lasers only with her tail).

Mixed with the precious chill of autumn, there is also mist of love and romance. Of course, Mobians need to pair up so they can reproduce their own generations. However, this piece of romance here is very special like a birthday present.

Sonic and Amy are already in love, obviously. Shadow and Blaze are together too, so does Knuckles and Rouge. Don't miss out on Tails and Cream!

I'm about to introduce the cutest couple...

SILVER AND FLOEE

That's what this entire story is all about. Floee first met Silver during the events of Sonic '06. She was first against him when he tried to kill Sonic like a giant frog. However, Floee then picked at the heart of Silver when he returned to peace, meaning she fell in love.

The problem was that Silver was already paired with Blaze. In order to win his precious heart, Floee challenged his ex-crush to battle. Despite of Floee's powers, the fox won the heart.

Now a situation starts...

CHAPTER 1: HIGH SPIRITS FOR FLOEE

"Silver!"

Floee dashed across the paved street trying to reach Silver, her boyfriend.

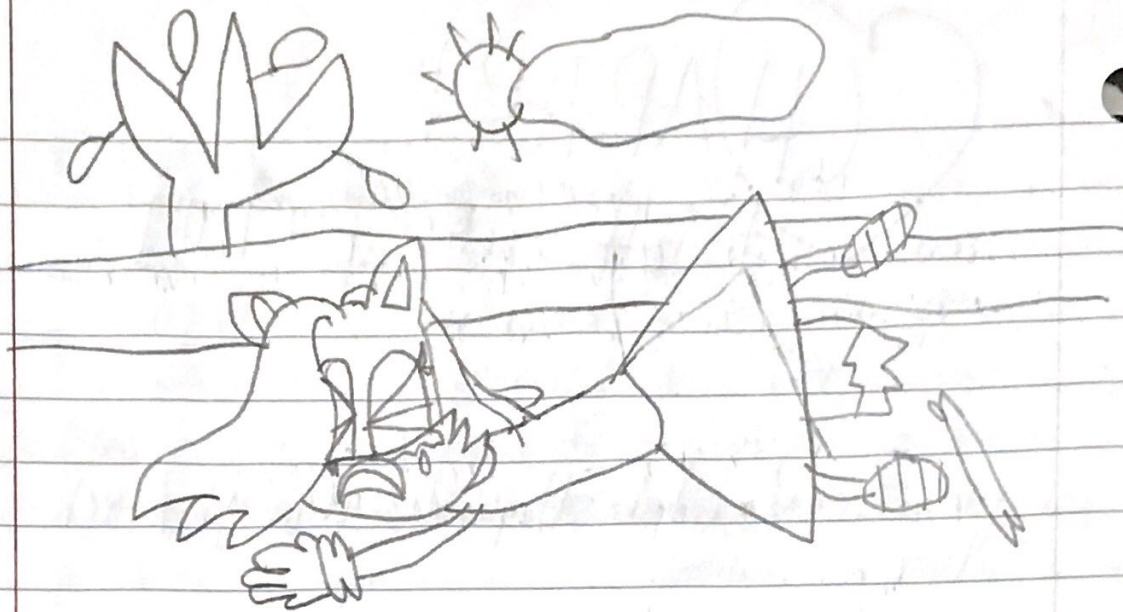

"Floee?" Silver turned around.

"Yeah!"

She gasped for breath during those words. Her throat thrashed around clogging in more oxygen like a balloon being pumped up. Her feet wobbled over gray stones and red leaves.

Floee was so excited like a hyper hyena. Next week, she and Silver will have their 8th date at a fancy restaurant. The hyper fox girl loved fancy clothes, at the date, she will wear her best pink gown while Silver wears his tuxedo, dark like Shadow.

Due to that, she wasn't concentrating and didn't look before she leaped. Suddenly, "AAAAAAA HHHH!!!!!!"

Silver inspected what was happening behind him. There, poor little Floe had tripped over a stick and is now lying flat on the road with tears stinging her eyes like lemon juice.

"Are you okay?" he asked.

"I'm alright," Floe stood upon her silver flip-flops and wiped her tears away with her paw. She had a skinned knee gushing out red, rippling blood.

"I can't stand the pain," were her last sobs before her tears evaporated.

"Have a tissue," Silver offered her a piece of napkin. "I'll walk you home."

"Thanks." Floe grasped Silver's hand and trotted away from the scene. "Oh Silver Earth, your fur shines like valuable silverore. You deserve my heart."

Silver smiled, "I have another prize Floe Blossom. Your fur is red and bright as roses and Blaze's flame."

Floe did a little "kiss-on-cheek" and then ran home with her hedgehog crush tugging behind.

Meanwhile, Blaze was shopping gifts for her dark-spirited boyfriend, Shadow. She knew he had a taste of chaos emeralds so she bought some glowing emerald models.

"What else does Shad' like?" Blaze ran out of ideas. The emerald models were the first thing she bought. She could maybe get away with one but isn't multiple gifts even better?

"If pictures of Maria Robotnik were available to buy, I would have bought 'em. But Maria ain't famous!" Blaze was ready to spark flames, as Sparks was her last name.

Instead, she came to Rouge and demanded suggestions since Rouge knew Shadow so well like a goldfish.

Rouge had an excellent idea that would almost make you scream in joy. "Why not candy? Everyone loves candy! For flavors, I heard Shadow likes coconut flavors. Dark chocolate is a good idea too."

"Good idea. But..." Blaze hesitated for a while. "What about a novelty item?"

"Hmmm... I remember that Shadow had a great deal of memory of outer space when Mom wasn't decaying flesh. You could offer him a solar system mobile or a star map!"

"Purr-fect!" Blaze stomped off like elephants to a nearby mall.

To not get off-topic, we'll get back to Floo and Silver when they're at the house. Floo the Fox was lounging on the couch watching "Moon Over Little Emerald". What about her skinned knee? It had been patched up with a pink bandage.

Silver was invited over for dinner along with Sonic and Cream. Cream hadn't come yet so Sonic and Silver were playing I Spy in Floo's room.

"I spy something with a red fox in a pink gown with you..." Sonic sneered like a crafty fox.

Silver was puzzled at first but then eyed a picture of Floe and Silver at the Valentine's Day Dance earlier in the year. He pointed, "That.....?"

"Yes, my friend or rival!" Sonic grinned with pure white teeth. "I remembered you and Ruby were playing the 'Spin the Bottle' game, huh?" Ruby was Floe's nickname.

"Yeah. Let me spy something."

CREAK! Cream swung open the white door with a Sonic poster on it. "May I play? Moon Over Little Emerald's kinda' too much for me."

"Sure," Silver smirked.

"I spy something silver and I used to check how you look."

Sonic blurted out, "THE MIRROR!!!!!" It was so comical that everyone started giggling the tears out. Cream flapped her ears so hard that she was hovering in the air like a helicopter.

The game had drifted away when Sonic decided to pull out his phone and start watching funny videos on YouTube. That lasted half-hour until "Dinner time!"

"I'm starving," Silver grumbled. "But I really want to finish that YouTube poop."

"We'll finish it later," Sonic headed for the door.

The dinner was fabulous. Mashed potatoes, butter noodles, green beans, broccoli, chili dogs, salsa... It was like a dream. Floe shoved handfuls of salsa in her throat, so much that it would actually make her scream if it weren't for her fur color. Cream was already phibbing in to water after tasting a spoonful of salsa.

Sonic was munching on a mouthful of boneless chicken. Silver only chomped on beans like a cow. Child of the Hedgehog smiled in front of 3 teenagers and 1 kid.

Soon, all plates held nothing but bits of leftovers. Almost everyone was STUFFED like a teddy bear with too much stuffing. At the moment Cream burped, everyone started cracking up like hyenas. Giggles filled the kitchen.

After the table was cleaned up, Sonic, Silver, and Cream said their goodbyes to Floe and Child. As her friends disappeared into the dark, Floe yawned and prepared to head for bedtime.

The tooth treatment and bathing was already done. Now she was dressed in her pink night gown under the silver sheets. Before falling asleep, she looked at the photo of Silver and whispered, "I wish you a happy life."

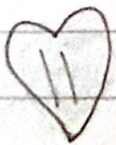

CHAPTER 2: THE CURSE HITS

It's now midnight here in the Future, Silver's time period. Hidden in a yard behind ruins of Crisis City, there lays a brick house where Silver and Blaze calls home. After having a good day in the Present, they time travel to the Future and go to bed.

The brick house is like the houses in the Present, however shaggier since it was made of ruins. Smart Blaze does gift with crafting so she constructed FABULOUS furniture and inventions.

Back to the scene, Blaze and Silver are quietly tucked in homemade beds which could send you to Dreamland in 1 second. Blaze didn't make a single poop with an exception of mews and slobbers. Her purple and magenta pajamas were wrinkled as she tossed and turned under the white sheets.

On the other bed, Silver slumbered silently like a bear, in yellow pajamas, covered with ~~beige~~ quilt. Despite the absence of crickets and only silence was very peaceful. Ahhhhh
hnhnhn

Tap, tap, tap...

Silver flung open his quilt while Blaze ignored (she was probably in a dream).

Tap, tap, tap...

The tapping noises DROVE him crazy. Silver and Blaze were very lonely and never had anyone meet them in their time period.

"What inarnation is going on" Then a thought hit him, none too early.

MEPHILES THE DARK, a demonic creature who killed off his parents and snatched him from his crib 14 years ago. Luckily, he beated up Mephiles with his primitive powers and escaped like a free-ranging cat.

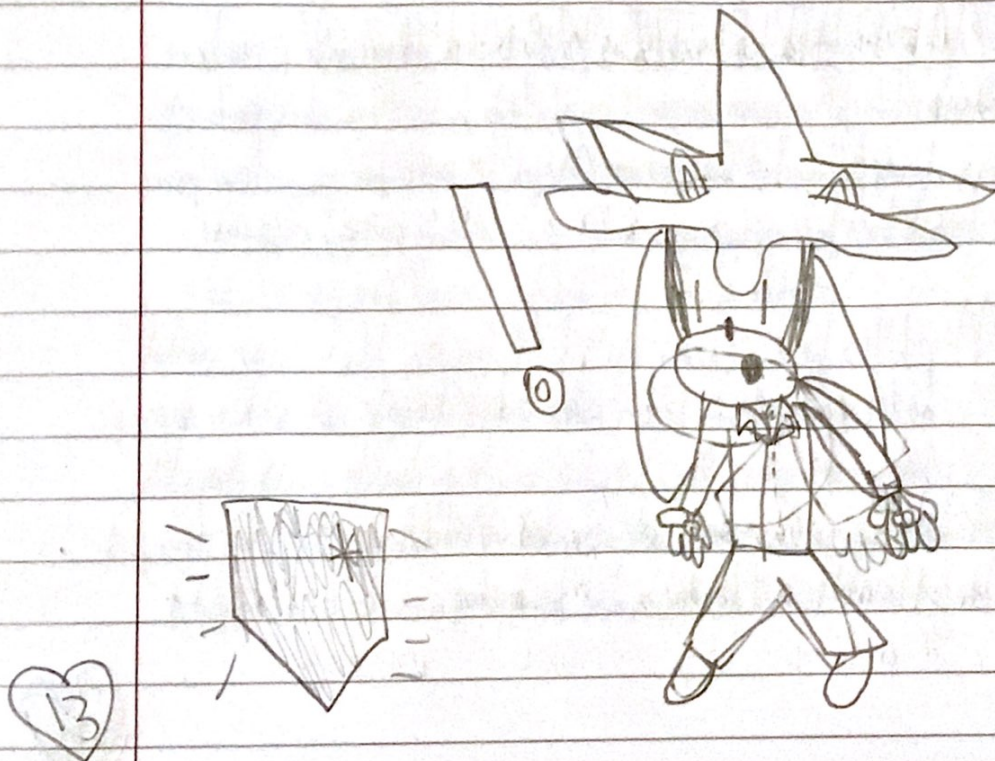

Mephiles had scarred his life forever, that scar could not be healed, not even by time. Ever since he leapt out at him during the erased events of Sonic '06, he felt like death would drag him to the shadowy more has ever documented. With a lot of his strength including the other's, the demonic hedgehog was killed.

Silver the Hedgehog was so curious, as cat, so he slowly opened the door and tip-toed across the hallway. An eerie glow flickered across the vast darkness. Curiosity was so hard to peel off for him; that he crept close and discovered a dark purple emerald.

"It could be a chaos emerald," he whispered to himself "It could be use." Without any doubt, he paced forward and knelt over to pick it up.

Caw... Caw...

Silver turned around it was just a crow perching on a dead tree.

Caw....

Silver just smirked and went back to the "chaos" Emerald. A nanosecond after he gently touched the gemstone, FZZZZZ ZZT!

The poor 14-year-old fainted and banged his big head on to the wooden floor. He couldn't remember the fact he pressed his index finger against the emerald. It was a mystery who placed this Dark Emerald in Silver's house.

A couple of hours later, he was drifted from the small coma by Blaze. She was shaking his body violently like an elephant.

"C'MON! It's 11:00 AM! You gotta meet the Present! Quick!"

Silver muttered, "O... kay..."

A lot changed since Silver touched the Dark Emerald. His voice was musty like someone who was drowsy. His powers were back to primitive mode. He moved slow like a sloth. He didn't even realize he needed to take off his pajamas!

Minutes later, he was laying on the grass near Sonic's house. Floe was waiting for him to get up and go. When she was done with her patience, she walked towards his limp body and blew a kiss.

"What's wrong?" she cried. "You should be a big hedgehog, not a newborn hoglet!"

Silver uttered, "I... don't... know..." He didn't seem to have short temper anymore.

The 13-year-old began to cry. Silver had changed a lot, did he suddenly lose his front legs? Did he get sick? Oh, he used to be an energetic hedgehog who was wanted for amazing powers, now he seemed lifeless.

"Silver," she grumbled. "Please move me." He didn't respond.

Floe leapt and a huge scream, "SONIC!!!! AMY!!! ALLOE YOU!!! Silver's has been messed up!"

Sonic, Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Blaze... all of the gang rushed out of the door and tried to confront Floe.

"What's wrong?" Rouge asked.

"S-s-s-s-silver," Floe sobbed with tears feeding on her cheek. "H-h-he can't... BELIEVE NORMALLY!" Her tears plopped onto Silver's face, hoping to restore him.

"Weird," remarked Blaze. "I dunno what happened."

Sonic announced, "This is a very strange case. It must be done by the paranormal. I don't know what to do!"

Shadow whistled, "I think he needs sacri-"

Floe screamed, "DON'T! Silver's my love!"

"Shadow," threatened Blaze. "Don't mention killing my best friend and ex-boyfriend. Or else, I will break up."

"Okay, I will stop."

"For now!" Sonic stopped everyone. "Let's bring Silver inside."

Everyone agreed. Knuckles and Amy hoisted Silver's limbs like a crow and hauled him in to the house. The rest followed into the living room where Silver is now on the couch.

Floee whispered, "Silver, I hope you restore your normal being." She was then interrupted by knocking.

Knock... knock...

"Let me get that!" exclaimed Amy.

When she swung the door open, there was no one there. She was about to leave until SPISH! Amy's back was soaked in water. She turned around.

A voice echoed, "I know what's behind Silver's curse."

"A curse?" Amy replied to the air.

Now there was a 15-year-old light blue cat with teal hair. She was wearing bronze cuffs, a dark magenta shoulder dress, a black belt, black sunglasses, and white boots. She seemed to be a spy.

"I'm Waterfall," she cat exclaimed.

Waterfall the cat was a teenage spy who was hired by the president of Mystoria (the country Chaosville's puter) to hunt down Dr. Eggman. That was the exact thing Sonic was doing. During the events of Sonic Colors, Sonic bumped into Waterfall while investigating why Eggman's plans are back firing a lot. They became good pals.

She was equipped with powers of invisibility and Water. The cat also had athletic skills and could climb the tallest trees.

"Alright," Amy declared, "You can come in."

At the living room, Waterfall met with the Son's gang and drank some iced tea. After that, she started

"Silver has been cursed by the Dark Emerald, an emerald used to weaken victims." She held up a model of the Dark Emerald. Shadow almost choked on his coconut candy.

Waterfall continued, "Symptoms of falling for the Dark Emeralds include poor speech, almost no movement, and faded memories. A very serious happening about the curse is that the victim's evil spirit will escape the body, causing the victim only to be happy."

"Ahem," she briefly interrupted. "The only cure is to bathe in the Spring of Truth (located in Mt. Chaos), capture and return Silver's evil spirit, and improve family tree love. The journey is very dangerous."

Flee decided to dig into her brain. It was a matter of life and death. If she didn't go, Silver would have been weakened forever. If she did go, her life would go in peril. Memories of dangerous travels she ~~embarked~~ pleaded her mind.

Finally, she stated her decision, "I will go do these things, however, I need someone to help me." After those words, everyone started blurting out on who will go with Fleece, just like a riot.

"Well then," snarled Blaze. "Who will take off Silver's pajamas?"

CHAPTER 3: PLANNING

Floe hesitated for a while as screaming still filled the room. Finally, she inhaled a deep breath and exhaled the following, "I choose Sonic, he's the bravest and never fears death. He risked his life and was never caught dead. Since he mentored me when I was his apprentice, he will be my support."

"What about me?!?!?" Amy fussed over like a 6-year-old. "I want to be with Sonic!"

"Okay," replied Floe. "Sometimes a friend needs love. Amy will do so."

"Yeepee!"

Floe continued, "Tails and Cream will come along too to help out with Sonic and Amy. Knuckles, Rouge, Blaze, and Shadow will stay here to maintain Silver. Waterfall, go out to track down Dr. Eggman."

"I agree!" Everyone else nodded, including Tails and Cream joining the band.

Waterfall quickly rushed out of the door while Knuckles and Blaze prepared to haul Silver upstairs.

"Where ~~is~~ ~~is~~ I?" Silver briefly muttered. Blaze answered that he was in Sonic's house.

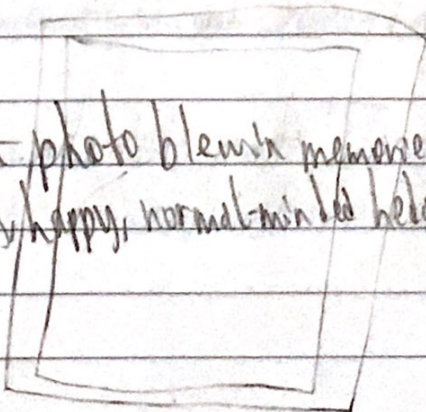

Sonic found a dusty book in a nearby shelf titled Surviving the Wild: 5th Edition. He thought it might be use (defeating Silver) so he stuffed it in his backpack. Amy sarked up her beloved Piko Piko hammer while Tails gathered his tools.

"We do need to remember who we befriend and love," advised Fleece. "So let's include some photos."

"I already have Sonic," Amy ignored the procedure.

Sonic, Tails, and Cream wrapped up their prized belongings and photos of Shadow, Rouge, Knuckles, and Blaze. Fleece threw her most precious belonging in the bundle, the photo of she and Silver at the dance. Yeah, that's the photo Sonic spread earlier.

That photo blew in memories of when Silver was a healthy, happy, normal-minded hedgehog. Happy tears watered her eyes. Around her, Sonic was confused like a goldfish with 3-second memory.

"HOW DO WE SHELTER?!?!?!?" Amy screeched soaking Floe with comic relief.

"Whoa, take a chill pill," Cream whispered. "Why not a tent?" She was tugging the green tent bag behind her heels.

"Starvation is never accepted," announced Sonic. "Food is required to pack up."

Everyone raided the fridge trying to ~~find~~ find the soon-to-be-lost lip-smackin' food. Along with hot dogs, chili sauce, fruits, sandwiches, and green beans, Floe pulled out spicy hot salsa which everyone hated. Unless your fur color is red, your tongue would be on flames before the telephone could be picked up.

As tails added in homemade trail mix, Floe suggested some sleeping bags and pajamas. These were included too.

"What's next?" Amy ~~asked~~ knew that readers did not appreciate a short chapter.

"Never fear!" Sonic came to rescue. "I think we should plot our route." He took out the map of Western Mystoria.

"Dangit," Amy sighed. "Too much hinky, I mean symbols. How can we even find the city again?"

"Hmmm... We're on the Gasprilket. I know it's by the coast - Ha! Found it! Mt. Chaos is in the east, located by the Firey Hills border, 10 miles to the nearest city."

Cream, smart as Einstein, carefully studied the map, trying to pinpoint where Mt. Chaos is. She then quickly pointed to the triangle symbol on the map.

"That's Mt. Chaos. It's down southeast where we are, so we have to go through ~~hundred~~ ~~of~~ ~~incidents~~ before heading to the forest."

"Dangit!" Amy uttered that again.

"Don't worry," Sonic kissed Amy. "We'll get there in time."

Floee grumbled, "We'll have to look for Silver's evil spirit."

Suddenly, a smash was heard. When Floe turned, she could see the bush's leaves flutter.

"Is that the spirit?"

"I think not," Tails chuckled. "I think it's a squirrel."

"Whatever." =P

Amy squeaked, "Do we need more stuff?"

Sonic answered, "Nope."

"Good."

Blaze came up to Floe, "I wish you have a safe and wonderful quest. I really wanted Silver to offer you a hug and kiss, but he can't do that now."

"Alrighty," Floe shook paws. "You were a good leader in Team Phenomenal!"

"Sure Link!" Blaze winked.

Flopp smiled and gave a goodbye to her and Shadow. Even if this chapter didn't contain any drawings, a reader could feel the emotion.

"I will see you soon!"

CHAPTER 4:

OUTTA CHAOSVILLE

"I don't feel like walking miles down there," Amy gulped as she stepped outside.

"Yeah!" Floe sighed. "Even my speed can't carry me to there in a minute!"

"Hush, girls," a deep voice sounded. "I can do a lot you guys don't." It was Shadow leaning on a black and red car.

"Thanks Shad!"

Floe flung herself to the backseat by the window. As Sonic tucked their luggage into the trunk, she sighed and stared out to the Autumn group. Minutes passed and Amy got on to the car.

The pink wild hedgesaw sparked a conversation, "Watcha' doing?"

Floe kept staring, "I'm fine, I'm fine."

"Dear."

Soon, Sonic, Tails, and Cream plopped into the car like water. Shadow then stepped in and turned in the key. Vroom!

"You better hold tight!"

That was right. Now Floe's head was out of control. The world was a spinning top in her eyes. Once she recovered, she quickly fixed her position and stared in the window.

She could see an image of Silver floating outside. Not really, though. Floe's eyes sprinkled tears, happy tears.

"I wish you're with me now, giving back the heart."

The rest of the view was boring, so she just spun away and slept. In her dreams, she and Silver were in their spring clothing. They were dancing in the woods, like no average Mobian has experienced. Kisses and smiles blew to each other, as the sun stood to watch their fancy ballroom dance.

That dream lasted about an hour until Floe opened her eyes. She muttered, "When I'm older, I will marry Silver. He's a very cute hedgehog as I'm a pretty vixen!"

"Great," responded Tails, who was sitting in the middle. He was exhausted from long moments of nothing but glaring.

"Oh," Floe proudly stated, "In my dream, Silver and I were dancing and prancing in the meadow. We only wore nothing but spring clothing. How lovely!"

Amy uttered without even looking at the young vixen, "Kinda awkward."

"DON'T EVER SAY THAT!!!"

"Sorry."

"Good. It strengthens the 'Silver' thing."

All Floe could hear were leaves rustling, the gentle wind, tires rolling across the road, and birds chirping as they migrate. Until, Shadow turned on his favorite bark.

"UUUUUUUUUGGGHHHH!!!!!!!"

Her ear drums almost exploded while it tried to process the ear-splitting tone. She stuck both index fingers into both ears to block most of the sound. That was like the Berlin Wall trying to separate Germany. However, her "Berlin Wall" cracked when she released the fingers.

Floe complained, "TURN THE VOLUME DOWN!"
Her idea was accepted. "Good."

She was so bored and tired that she drifted to Dream-land. The dream was not a daydream like the previous dream. It was a nightmare, a terrifying nightmare.

Right in there, Floe and Silver were currently standing next to a tree watching the sun climb down into the mountains' shadows. Suddenly, the sunset was completely erased by an instant storm, black as Shadow. A flicker of lightning struck and uprooted the tree causing it to crush them. Luckily, not really since Silver moved the tree with his mind. That's not the happy ending.

A blaze of flames rose up from the falling tree ready to devour the couple. When they tried to escape, a strange shadow crept up and sealed all escape paths. It was revealed to be Sontk, who was cursed, not by the Dark Emerald, but by an evil monster.

Sontk bellowed, "Floe and Silver, you have enjoyed most of your life together, hoping to marry and bear children. That hope is now lost forever, at this point. Starting now, THIS IS THE LAST DAY YOU'LL EXPERIENCE!!!"

The wild fire grew even wilder. Things started to get worse. When the 2 lovebirds tried to escape, Silver was already charred.

"Silver!" Floe shrieked.

"Floe!"

"Don't die!"

However, it was too late. Floe wept as Silver disappeared into the deadly red flower and his last word echoed.

"No! I can't live without Silver!" Her tears continued to drain.

Floee fluttered her eyes open. Still in Shadow's car, no sights of flames, and no peril. She panicked in relief, "It... was... just a dream."

"Good for you that didn't actually happen," Shadow replied, he was the only Mobian awake, others were sleeping.

Floee gulped in doses of oxygen, "At least Silver is still alive." The phone rang.

She picked it up "Hello?"

"This is Waterfall," a voice blurted out "I just discovered something, if you don't hurry, Silver will surely die." Floee's heart stopped beating.

"OH MY! I gotta tell the others!"

"You betcha." The conversation halted.

Tears rained from the whites of her eyes and splattered onto her orange skirt that was ironed yesterday. She didn't even want to think of her crush dying. It seemed hopeless, she wanted to marry Silver and raise offspring.

She didn't speak a single word, grief wrapped her mind. It was 2 years since they met each other the first time, now they were together as a romantic couple. "Why, just why?"

Floee reached into her bag and got out the photo of them at the dance. All she could think of was happy memories with Silver. Silver had been attached to her for a long time, like a sticky note. Silver was like something important which Floe the "sticky note" had to be stuck on. If Silver was taken away, everything would erupt in chaos.

"Shadow," she warned. "If we don't make it, Silver will really die for sure, just like in my nightmare."

Shadow raised his voice, "That's why we're going beyond the speed limit."

"I thought that's illegal!"

"The police gave a permit for us as Sonic is well-known for his speed."

"I get it."

Floe slumped back onto her seat. In that photo, Silver was adorable in that black tuxedo with a red bowtie. She hoped that would happen again on their next date.

Cream yawned and closed her eyelids. She glanced at Floe smiling with the photo. She chattered, "Hey, what's that?"

Floep looked up and fully filled her words, "It's me and Silver in the ballroom in the Valentine's Day Dance earlier in the year."

"Oh, I remember that and I held hands and did the ballroom dance!"

"Cool."

Several hours passed, the clock kept ticking. The landscape was amazing outside as clouds set the backdrop. Cars streaked by like mindless elk and trees stood by like they were saluting to the highway.

Floep turned to the window and admired the city lights. She exclaimed, "We're in another city!"

"I know," Shadow remarked.

The lights from millions of lightbulbs glowed, hiding the stars in the sky. Busy vehicles and taxis drove by and tons of chatter scattered about.

"Cool!"

"I know!" exclaimed Shadow. "I hope this would temporarily relieve your worries. Cheese the Chee, Cream's pet chee that always follows her even if not mentioned squeaked a few whistles.

Fairy Hills was like Hanghigh, a city in Shuei Shue (the Mobian's country in East Asia). Tall skyscrapers reached for the stars and plebeians were strong themselves together. Plebeians felt like they were walking on

"Just a little announcement," Shadow interrupted. "We're now close to the forest where Mt. Chees stands."

"Were very quick!"

CHAPTER 5: IN THE WOODS

A half an hour passed. Floe was exhausted from the entire road trip, now panting like a dog that spent his entire day in the sun. The city lights had drifted away only leaving casts of eerie trees. Their long branches stood out like like arms preparing to attack.

"Here we are!" Shadow proudly announced. "The forest is waiting for us to explore."

Amy hollered Mario's line "Here we go!"

Sonic, Tails, and Shadow hopped off the car leaving the girls inside the belly. They helped each other drop off luggage on to the grass. Cream hummed a short tune about as mile.

"Girls, get off," Shadow ordered. Floe, Amy, and Cream crawled out.

Once the car was empty, the black and red hedgehog grinned and threw a goodbye. "See ya' later when you're complete your quest."

The others hooted, "See you later, alligator!"

"In a while, crocodile!"

"Not too soon, baboon!"

Floer could eye Shadow driving away into where the city lights were twinkling. She knew he would see her in a few days or... weeks.

She turned back to the gloomy woods so dark that only Rango could find her way, though foxes were fit to be nocturnal.

"I'm afraid, could the Slenderhog be out there?"

"C'mon, little Flo," Sonic patted her head. "Hedgehogs and foxes can guide themselves through the dark. It's quite ironic how you are afraid of the dark if you're a fox. And no, Slenderhog is a myth."

"Ahhhhh..."

Suddenly, Floe caught a sight of something slender in the dark.

"AHHH!!! It's Slenderhoy!"

Amy remarked, "That's just a tree."

Floe gave a sigh of relief, "Ahhhh..."

The G trotted slowly through the woods. They had to watch out for nighttime dangers such as black bears and snakes. What other dangers could be uncovered?

A flicker of lightning dashed through the evening sky as thunder hollered out for frightening cries.

"What could that be?" Cream shuddered.

Sprinkles of rain drizzled from the gray clouds. Everyone's pelts were now a little wet, like a page which has been spilt with soon. Soon a downpour rushed in and everyone was soaked.

"Quick!" Sonic announced. "Find the driest spot and set up tents there! Be sure you don't have mold!"

In 1 nanosecond, everyone was out of control. They scattered everywhere, like ants, trying to find a spot free of the storm. They used up their energy and speed, there was not time to lose. It would be tragic if a Mobian was struck and killed.

Zap! A bolt of lightning shot down a tree and chopped it down. Cream was in its shadow.

"Cream!" Tail's cried.

Before the fallen tree could crush Cream, he spun his 2 tails and picked up his love interest as swift as he could.

"You saved me!" She whispered.

"The woods are filled with danger," he replied. "You always need me when you can't fight or flee."

"I know..." - Cream's smile then morphed into a scream - "LOOK OUT!" A bolt was about to zap them.

Tail's made a slight escape, just 5 inches. The lightning missed them and no fur were set on fire.

"Double rescue!" giggled Cream.

A shriek echoed from the nearby hills. "I, Floo, have found a drop spot in a ditch! Come here!"

Tails and Cream steadily flew to the cave where Floo, Sonic, and Amy were waiting patiently. They had the tent bags ready.

"Before we start pitching," exclaimed Amy. "Let's don our night wear to ease work."

Soon after, everyone was in their pajamas. Sonic was in his bright green pajamas, Amy in her lacy red-pink nightgown, Floo in her plain simple gown she wore like 5 chapters ago, Tails in his blue pajamas, and Cream in her orange pajamas.

"Very beautiful and cozy fall!" Floo praised. "Let's start working now!"

Sonic proudly announced, "I will get the stakes."

Amy added, "I will pound with my trusty Piko-Piko Hammer."

Tails and Cream chimed in, "We will set up the tents!"

43

They set off to work.

Sonic brought up some stakes from a red bag and slashed them into the Earth like the stakes were knives and the Earth was meat. However, they weren't fully sunk in to the dirt. Amy solved the problem.

She whipped out her handy Piko Piko Hammer and started to force the stakes to puncture the Earth fully. Pon, pon, pon, pon... The ditch was filled with these pounding sounds.

Pon, pon, pon...

When the stakes were now stuck into the Earth's flesh (dirt), Tails carefully emptied the tent bag and laid out the tent flat. Cream slowly pulled the twine out and tied them to the stakes.

The pit-sure-like fox raised the tent by pulling the silver rods. There, a tent stood.

"Great!" Flare smiled. "But how do we keep our genders separate?"

Sonic replied, "We'll let the guys sleep on the left side and girls keep on the right. Deal?

"Deal."

Amy unrolled and laid out all sleeping bags as Tails moved all luggage inside. The 5 then stalked inside and shut the door with velvet.

"Okay," Flare announced. "I have something important. If we don't make it to all of the cures, Silver will pass away."

Cream's ears dropped. Everyone just stared.

"Really?" Amy gasped.

"I'll ensure that we'll make it through," Sonic conformed.

A minute later, everyone has tucked themselves in fluffy sleeping bags and now hit Dream Land. They all knew they must hurry to save Silver.

CHAPTER 6: THE SPIRIT OF DOOM

Hoo... hoo... hoo...

The owl hoots as Floe wakes up from her midnight dream. All she could see was her yellow sleeping bag, & others sleeping in other sleeping bags and orange walls.

"Let me take a look outside," she whispered.

The red vixen motion her hands and knees, couldn't stand to not disturb, and carefully detached the door from the dent wall. It was still nighttime and the silver moon gleamed in front of her. That reminded her on the night she was born in a freezing desert and especially Silver the Hedgehog.

Suddenly, tsk... tsk.

Floe stopped, she turned. No one.

Tsk... tsk.

She again stopped and looked around. Then this

Sight made he shriek like a bat.

It was Silver's evil spirit, floating in the air like a balloon. He had glowing red eyes, sharp fangs and claws, and glowing blood-red circles on his gloves. He was like Silver except with no gear.

"I'm coming to get you!" he growled.

Floes' heart was beating quicker than ever, she only managed to escape into the tent. She dove in, locked up the door, and hid under sleeping bag.

Hearing Floe Blossom cry. Some Speed and others sat up in their bays.

"What's wrong?" Amy ran up to Floe.

Floe uttered "I crept outside and then found Silver's evil spirit, ready to claw my flesh."

"That's why campers shouldn't go outside at night," Sonic pointed out. "Next time, don't do that."

"Okay." Everyone went back to snore mode.

Floe couldn't fall asleep, she was haunted by Silver's demon. His words echoed in her thoughts.

"I'm coming to get you!"

Her eyes kept rolling around searching for this nasty spirit. She kept visualizing the demon with sharp claws and fangs. Terrifying. Bloodshedding. Deadly. Ready to kill.

Finally after 30 minutes, her eyelids fell and covered her whites. She was asleep now.

Nightmares were the only gifts she had in this trip to Dreamland. Here, Floe and Silver were in the moonlight admiring the silver streams of light. Suddenly, Silver started to act weird and Floe was puzzled as a peep, that then, he morphed into his evil demon and then sneaked to bite Floe.

Floe was shot from Dreamland at that point, only to find out it was still early dawn. She yawned and went back to sleep without counting sheep. There were no dreams, due to that nightmares were not welcome for her.

A voice shocked her "Wake up, Flo!"

9:00 AM She sat up in her comfy bag only to find it was and Sonic was calling her for sleep.

"I cannot get rid of such curse!" she cried. "The demon wants to scare the daylight out of my eyes!"

"Stay calm" Sonic reassured. "We'll catch Silver's demon and he will be gone faster than rabbits!"

"Thanks!" she smiled.

A mesh window welcomed the sunlight to greet the brave animals. Enough sunlight to burn vampires. Lots of golden streams.

"What's for breakfast?" A boy growled. "I'm starving."

"Me too," Tails moaned.

Tumbling out of the locker was a box of cereal, packed with whole grain and fiber. The instant shock got everyone's digestive systems producing acidic juices. Drool started to rain like a waterfall from their gums.

5 bowls and a carton of low fat milk sat across from the cereal box.

Sonic reminded his friends, "Rule of the thumb one food bowl per Mobian."

Soon, all of the bowls held nothing but some drops of milk and grain. Every tummy is now at work digesting all of those cereal and milk.

"What's next?" Floe groaned. She didn't want Silver to pass away like a smelted fly. "Oooh, itchy!" she was then picking at a pesky flea messing around in her delight + pet.

"Get out of here!" she finally scratched its obese body. "There!"

"Enough of the flea business." Sonic announced. "We got to pack up and move on. We need to catch that demon!"

"Yes, Sonic!" everyone responded.

The sleeping bags were rolled up, everybody had changed into normal outfits, the tent was pulled down, and the luggage were loaded onto a sled. Suddenly, the phone rang in Floe's sock.

She picked it up. "Yes?"

"Hi, Waterfall here," some words popped out. "If you get attacked by the demon of the curse here, you'll get cursed too!"

"O... kay..." she hung up.

"Gotta go fast!" Amy hollered her crush's catchphrase.

Carefully, the five trekked out of the ditch by climbing slope. The last night storm had soaked the yellow grass.

"Um, Floe," Sonic advised. "You should probably switch the flip flops for your sneakers. Although your socks would probably get soaked, the sneakers would protect your feet from jagged rock, that would scrape the skin."

"Hao ba," Floe then fitted her pink sneakers and silver cuffs onto her 2 feet. The word she said is Chinese for "okay".

"Those sneakers look attractive!" Cream praised her footwear.

"Thanks," she winked at Cream's peach-and-orange face.

"Let's get moving!" Sonic flourished his arms beside his torso. "We must catch the demon!"

"Yeah!" Tails hollered out.

The group started to stamp across the damp meadow.
Neither a bear nor a fox distracted them.

CHAPTER 7

CHASING THE DEMON

"So..." Floe mumbled. "How can we do spirit catching? I know how to catch physical forms but not spirit forms."

"Think about it," Tails suggested.

"Okay," she putted on her thinking cap. "Spirits can escape through a net or any opening in a closed object. So, why not a metal box with a lock?"

"You guessed it!" Tails pulled out a metal box with an electronic lock. "The password is 'sonic can go faster than silver!'"

Amy added, "You also need invisibility so you don't fall for the demon's claws. To simulate that, you must use all your speed and strength to accomplish the capture. Since foxes are very crafty and up to tricks, your wisdom can prove it!"

Floe closed her eyes and stuttered. "I-I-I w-w-wi-l-l-l... n-n-never... g-g-gi-gi-give u-u-up!"

"Whoa!" Sonic applauded. "You're now ready to go spirit catching!"

"But," Cream confessed. "The metal box might not work!"

"Don't worry," Tails added a solution. "If in that case, we'll find another way."

The conversation was done. They stormed across mushy hills and pruned spooky woods. Though Flocca's socks were soaking and itching, she kept ignoring the feeling and kept trotting.

Soon, the sun was up high meaning it was noon. The heat slapped the sweating heads of the five little critters. They were exhausted and almost fell to the ground.

"Let's take a break," Sonic announced.

"What's for lunch?" Tails gasped. "I only sipped 2 teaspoons of water but never chewed a crumb!"

"Well," Sonic checked the food bag.

"We have a staple of lunch meals, plus some dessert. Lets get munchin'!"

"Please don't let any of Dr. Eggman's Evil Cookies get into our throats," Tails pleaded.

"GIMME SPICY SALSA!!!" Floe shrieked
Everyone else pouted about the extreme spiciness.

"I'll have a chili dog with mild salsa instead," Sonic sighed. "But you may have the jars of spicy salsa."

"I scream for ice cream," Cream hollered.

Chili dogs, grapes, ice cream, tortilla chips, salsa, sandwiches, cookies, salad, and chicken filled the picnic blanket on the drying grass. This was like summer returning, the happiness briefly filled the picnic spot.

"So....." Tails munched a bagel. "Where could that spirit be?"

"He could be EVERYWHERE!" Floe squealed revealing salsa and chip bits in her mouth. "He could be up in the clouds, hiding in the caves, climbing trees, or even next to us!"

Amy tried to swallow a spoonful of salsa before spitting out and gurgling on bits of water.

"I WOULD RATHER" - she briefly choked on the clear drink - "HAVE MILD SALSA!!!"

"I told you!" Flare chuckled. "Only creatures with red fur can eat spicy salsa without a problem."

"But my fur color is pink."

"Still!"

Suddenly, sounds of something moving in the bushes rattled. Every humanoid animal turned to where the rattles were coming from. The bushes shimmered as if something was tickling them.

Silver's demon popped out to their eyes!
Everybody was so surprised that they paused the lunch and pulled out the metal box. They dived towards the spirit.

"You can't catch me!" the demon barked. "It's no use!"

"Those words are lies," Floe yapped to others. "We never give up."

A strange cyan glow emitted from her fur as she lost control. Through her retinas, Silver's evil spirit was coming closer.

"Really?!" she gasped. "His demon has psychic powers too!"

A painful "thud" hit her back like a rock. The demon was distracted by Amy's flashlight and was drifting closer.

"No!" She hurled her laser to a nearby stump.

"You saved me!" Amy let out a joyful cheer and then, "YOW!"

The 12-year-old hedgehog had accidentally tripped onto a metamorphic stone and hurled to the Earth. Strains of red blood were leaking from her nose like a river.

Cream wailed, "Amy's got a nosebleed! Amy's got a nosebleed!"

Sonic and Tails raced over to Amy Rose's limp body and prepared to squeeze the nose shut with a napkin.

"Here," the blue speedy hedgehog whispered to the crying hedgehog. "Don't let out any tears, it's not dead."

"Uhhhh..." Flace stared around. "Where is the demon now?"

Tails replied, "I think he fled already."

"Drats," she sighed. "Let me go finish the meal. I hope the ants didn't attack." She walked over to the picnic mat and no ants were scurrying around.

"Good."

After she wiped the last pieces of chips, cookies, salad, and sandwiches off her lips, she stood on her toes and looked up to the blue sky, ready to begin!

"I'm done!" Sonic cried after finishing off his last chili dog.

"Let's go!" Tails started to trot off the hill.

The picnic equipment and mess was then cleaned up and stored somewhere in the luggage. The 5 left the hill and started to walk into the woods.

"The woods look so dark as if it's midnight," Floe shuddered. "I'm not like a normal fox!"

"There are nothing creepy in there, Floe," Sonic answered calmly.

"Thank you! You're so much like Silver." So

Sonic winked back.

Some rustling noise rattled.

"I THINK THAT'S THE DEMON!!!" Floe shrieked.

Out came was a hawk carrying a fresh bill of mice. She sighed of relief. The hawk looked humbled and didn't even want to attack.

Suddenly, rustling shook up the woods again. That would possibly be Silver's demon, no one knew what to do.

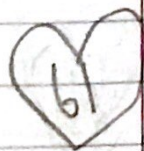

A hawk hopped out of the bushes. It just shook its head and then skipped away.

"Whew," Floe sighed.

"I told you the spirit isn't here," Sonic whistled.

A voice tapped Tail's back, "I'm here."

He turned around, "AHHHHH!!!"

"Oh no," Amy cried. "We have to catch him again."

Silver's demon tried to snuff Cream but she fluttered away swiftly like Rouge.

"Light! Light!" Sonic squeaked. "We gotta distract him!"

Floee collected Amy's flashlight and waved it near Tail's metal box. The spirit stopped following Cream and then floated towards the box.

Slam!

"GET ME OUT!!!" the evil spirit roared while being trapped in the metal box.

Cream hurried back to the metal box and listened to the noise. It was a football game.

Folding her ears, she squeaked, "That noise is ridiculous. Can anyone put it in a sound-proof box?"

Sonic settled the box into a noise-proof chest and words could pass the barrier.

"Job well done!" Cream Milk tumbled into the sky.

Tails Sun muttered, "All we need to do is to find Mt. Chaos and promise the love."

CHAPTER 8: CONSTELLATIONS

Several hours passed since the successful catch. The sun has now hid in the mountains shadows and the moon is about to show the sky.

Floke and Tails began to sing.

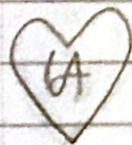

"When are we there yet?
There's so much to find,
so much to see.

I wonder where we are,
our destination is far.
Countless hills and mountains roam the landscape,
the laaaandscaaaaape.

WHEN ARE WE THERE YET?!!
OH-OH-OH-

"Stop singing!" Sonic hissed. "It's too annoying." No vocals were pulled out.

"Did you see the stars?" Amy pointed to the sky. Twinkling stars spanned everywhere over the black. The Milky Way, a white trail of glowing stars, spreaded the north of the sky.

Tails looked up, "Cool."

Sonic pointed to a very big star, "That's Factor."
Factor is what the Mobians called Venus.

A shooting star streaked across the silver moon.
"Let's make a wish!" Amy exclaimed. "I wish for a pony."

Sonic uttered, "I wish for a peaceful world without Eggmen."

"I wish for infinite ice cream!" Cream screamed.

"I wish to win the Nobel Prize," Tails glared at the Milky Way.

Floe shuttled her eyes and made a very, very important wish, "I wish that Silver's curse would be released and he would be a very happy hedgehog."

"Awwwww..." Amy almost fainted.

"Star gazing is so amazing (hey, that rhymes!)" announced Sonic. "That we'll stay up late watching a nice natural display."

Floe pointed to the sky, "That's the Big Dipper. Oh! I see the Great Bear."

"Where's the North Star?" asked Tails.

Cream shot up to the dark and touched a very bright star. "There."

"Do we have a star map?"

Floe snuck into the luggage and tossed out many useless knock knucks before finding what she wanted.

"I have it!" she threw the paper to Tails.

"Let me see..." He examined the map. "We have billions of constellations. I'll try to find the obvious one."

Floer turned back, "Silver and I had many moments looking up at the night sky. The Silver moon was always be very special, it represented Silver and the night I was born."

"Stargazing is better than birdwatching!" Cream did a little shuffle dance while flapping her ears. "Who!"

Tails leaned over on the lush hill and exclaimed, "I found the Little Bear!"

"Good for you!"

He sat up and tried to pin-point many stars as he could find. It was COUNTLESS. New stars pop up every night like chicks and some stars fade away for good like fog.

Amy leaned back on the grass and yawned. She felt very drowsy and ignored the stars. "I'm tired."

"Me too," Sonic fell down. "Let's set up the tent and sleep here for the night!"

Everyone did the same process as for the previous

Sonic and Amy handled the stakes. Tails and Cream held up the tent.

"Job well done!" Floe praised. "Let's put on nightwear."

Everyone's change into sleepwear and are now storing luggage into the tent. Amy used her strength to haul heavy boxes and Tails unrolled the sleeping bags quickly and with a wink.

Floe slipped into her warm, cozy bag. Above her, the plastic roof revealed marvelous stars in the twilight sky, now faded by clouds. Sonic and Amy then tucked themselves into the bags.

Tails rushed in unrolled fabric which covered the ceiling, so no one could get disturbed. Cream and Cheese hopped into her yellow bag. The fox yawned and settled to his blue bag.

As Sonic switched off the light, he whispered "Good night."

"Sleep tight," Amy responded.

"DON'T LET THE PLEAS BITE!!!" Tanks yowled.

"Shush," Sonic hissed.

As soon as everyone turned on sleepmode, Floep laid back and stared into the stem darkness. She knew that they were getting closer, to saving her long-time love.

CHAPTER 9: ALL HAIL M. CHAD

A fabulous chickadee song is heard when the golden sun crept from the eastern hills. Floe sat on her butt in the eerie orange glow. The others were still snoring and drooping on the fuzzy sleeping bag.

She stretched her floppy arms and scratched some of her felt like arat. Red fur shed from her back and rained onto the wrinkled tent floor. With no thing to do, she began to whistle simple tunes.

Thinking everyone would wake up and get startled, she whistled softly. Sonic just rolled over while Amy squealed for a moment.

Floe carefully snuck out of the tent and tip-toed on the dry grass. She lept on to a tall pine tree and scrambled all the way to the daring top.

The landscape was so beautiful that she would have fallen down and break her arm. That didn't happen, though. Many trees were scattered across large hills and meadows.

She could see a very tiny pebble along the horizon. That was Mt. Chaos, where the sun gracefully climbed out.

Knowing she was drowsy, she swooped back to the surface and crawled back to the tent. Her tentmates were still in Dreamland as she tucked herself in the bag.

2 hours later, she rose again to discover that the others woke up and are already cooking breakfast.

"Bacon and eggs!" Sonic cheerfully yelled.

Floer licked her red lips. The bacon had a strong smell that eventually lashed and dragged her toward the "mini-stove". She was about to snatch a boiling strip of bacon, until-

"Hey!" Sonic growled. "Bacon only served when ready!"

She backed away immediately and plopped herself onto the bag. All she could think was the yummy bacon and Silver the Hedgehog.

Cream and Cheese were playing a very simple game. All she had to do was hide Chao Pellets and find Cheese. The Chao had to find all of the pellets.

"Good boy!" she stroked Cheese's head.

Flee murmured, "Wo yao he shui!" Tail's was puzzled.

"It means 'I want to drink water' in Chinese," she clarified. Tail's gave her a glass of pure water. The water tasted like heaven.

Some passed out the breakfast, "Here's your bacon and eggs!" All what Flee did was devour them at once.

Burrp...

Everyone bursted into laughter but Flee. She just gave a respectful message of "Excuse me."

"We gotta go to Mr. Chaos," Amy announced.

"Let's changeent, pack up, and move!"

Everyone did what Amy just ordered. Pajamas were thrown off, silverware were cleaned up and sleeping bags were rolled up. Tails and Cream sang an infamous tune as they folded up the tent.

As the luggage was hauled onto the sled, Tails yelled, "Where are we going?"

Sonic replied, "We're going to Mt. Chaos to bathe in the Spring of Truth. Then we'll head out of the woods and go back home."

"What if...?" Tails was so paranoid. "What if there were great dangers in the Mt. Chaos?"

Amy opened up a book, "So... in 1864, 2 unknown Mobians have unsealed a mysterious tunnel. They crawled through it and then discovered a magical spring, whom they called the 'Spring of Truth'. Suddenly, demons claimed them and left them scared. A Uglyx threw a Dark Emerald cursing them!"

"So, ya," she continued. "It might contain danger so that's why the tunnel is now sealed."

"How are we going to get THERE?!?!?!" Tails jumped around like a maniac.

"Are you cursed?!" Cream cried. "That's not your personality!!!"

"I know" Tails huffed like a cow. "BUT I'm VERY AFRAID!!!"

"Shh!!"

"We'll find a way" Amy nodded. "Just never give up!"

Tails just sighed.

The five left the site and trekked all the way up the grassy hill. Grass was stomped on and squished by soles of footwear, now blistering the skin. Drops of sweat rolled over on their cheeks and crashed into the Earth. Fur and fabric were also stained by the sweat under the blazing sun.

Yes, they did have a lunch picnic at noon. After that, the Mobians rolled under the find shades of the tree. That was a very refreshing break from the heat, sunshine is NEVER welcome.

After an hour, they continued their journey for several hours and on. Although their feet were sore and couldn't lift their bodies anymore, they had to keep on moving, and NEVER stop.

Now it was evening and everyone was ready to fall down on their belly, flat.

"Is the mountain near yet?!?!?" Floe panted with a huff.

"Almost," Sonic announced. "Mt. Chaos is close."

Cheese was amazed by the word, "Chaos," that he instantly hunched rapidly, obviously because he's a chad.

"Stay calm, Cheese," Cream giggled.

"Well, Sonic," Floe hunched and shook. "Did you certainly use your speed to reach our destination...?"

"Of course, Floe!" Sonic squealed. "We're getting faster 'cause of that 'x' thing!"

Floe just huffed and puffed like the Big Bad Wolf.

At last! The five had now went under the mountain shadow and are trying to locate the pathway.

"Is that it?" Amy rushed upon a pile of rocks and tossed bunches of them away. "Welp, he."

Tails vigorously shoveled up Earth with his bare paws, "Nope."

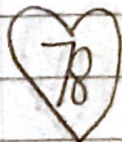

"Huh," Cream then dug into the ground like a mole. "Just useless Earth!"

Sonic bent over and grabbed a piece of shaggy paper which smells like a mix of rotten eggs and skunk spray. That artifact could have been a gongol years old. Ugh, others pinched their noses shut. Tails theorized that the sheet could have been (disgusting naming) pooped on by animals!

"Eeeeeee ewwww!!!" Fleece was about to throw up. "Don't say anything like that!"

The blue hedgehog briskly read the old note in his Mario beating up Bowser in order to rescue Princess Peach - a bunch of Toads voice:

"To find the hidden pathway which leads to the Spring of Truth, follow a path of jagged rocks to a hidden stone staircase. You will find chaos emeralds (don't ever try to retrieve them) pierced into the mountain. Touch certain emeralds at once to unlock the entrance, you only have 3 chances."

"Ick," Sonic shook his tongue out. "That sounds stinks!"

Floe quietly tapped his shoulder and pointed her index finger. "That's where the jagged rocks are!"

Everyone else followed Floe while "tip-toeing" on the pointy stones. When they made to the staircase, they hopped one by one on the stairs. It was a very long path but they certainly reached the end.

Chaos emeralds were pinned into the rocky walls. They were red, pink, silver, purple, blue, yellow, and green.

"I don't know which emerald to feel," Sonic shook his head. "Even a guardian of chaos emeralds, I still don't know!"

Tails took a guess, "Uh, the emeralds to choose may depend on the current time. It's might so choose the silver, yellow, and purple one."

Sonic pressed his fingers against the emeralds.
Everyone held their breath until-

GRRRRRRR!!!

The entrance was still sealed.

"Whoops, that didn't work," Tails sighed. "Hmm...
Maybe you have to do the emeralds in the colors of the rainbow. Try touching the red, yellow, green, blue, and purple emerald."

The method was tried and was still wrong.

Cream gave out her best guess, "So on this rotten page, the letters 'P' and 'S' are in bold. Try touching the pink and silver emeralds."

Everyone took a deep breath as Sonic tried to open the pathway. Ding, ding, ding! The giant boulder was lifted up and a plank bridge pulled out by itself.

As soon as the Mobians entered the tunnel and crossed the bridge onto a stone floor, the boulder was dropped back in blocking all light. Chaos Emeralds began to glow.

Floe found another piece of paper with some text.
It wasn't stinky as the first page, so she read it without pinching her nose:

"You have successfully entered the pathway!
Remember, DO NOT remove the Chaos Emeralds, as the demons might curse you with their Dark Emeralds. Watch out, there are many booby traps and vicious demons ready to claw flesh."

"I don't see any demons," Tails looked around.

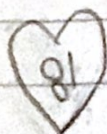

Sonic theorized, "They probably abandoned this secret pathway and allowed the good spirits to guard its items."

"Whew," Tails took a great relief.

(There were no booby traps)

The 5 wandered 10 yards before stumbling upon some light. That was the sign that the spring was near. They quickly dashed to the light and there it was. The Spring of Truth.

"Oh my emerald!" Amy squealed. "We're DEFINITELY getting there!"

As everyone edged for the glittering water they almost had a heart attack of joy. There were golden and rainbow fish swimming through the magical water. Rain forest plants crowded the spring while a rainbow soared from a waterfall. Emeralds and sapphires beaded the stone walls while some moonlight peered to be amazed.

Cream took up a page and read to the whole team

"Congratula-tions! You have survived and got to the magnificent Spring of Truth! Relax a bit while you marvel the magical properties. Once you're now done, step on to a sand platform and say the colors of the emeralds you've touched before. Then you'll be raised out of Mt. Chaos and then led to stone stair case.

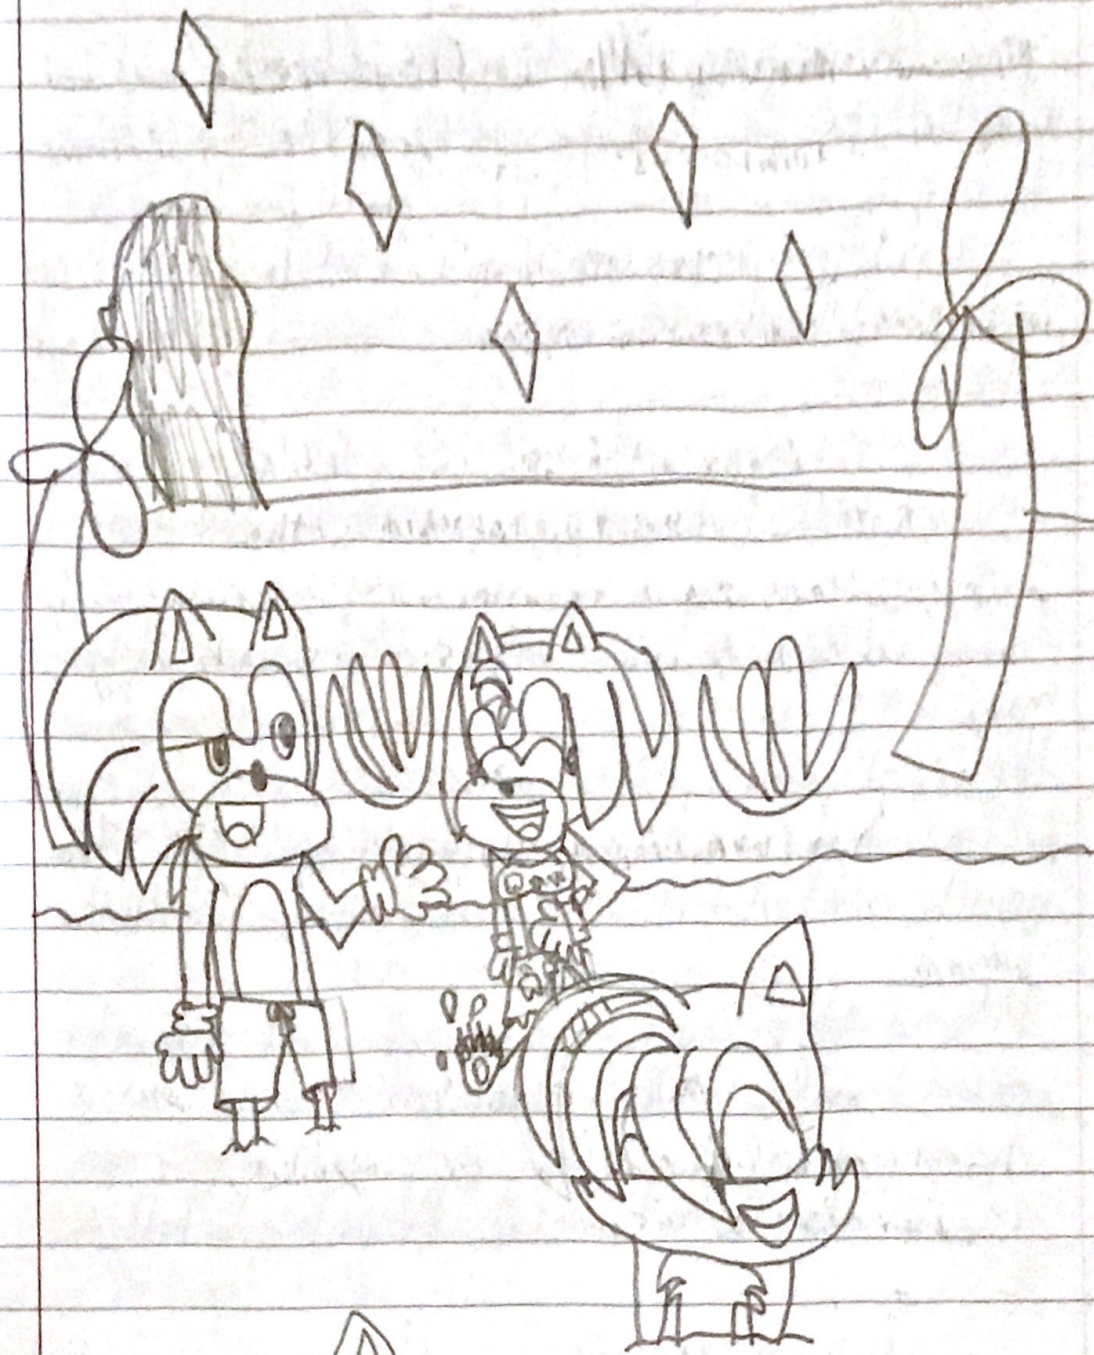

P.S. I advise you not dip yourself in the spring water or even drink from it. Demons may attack."

"Huh," Tails sighed. "We're here to bathe in it."

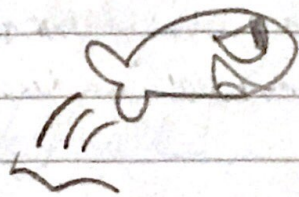

"The good spirits might allow us to," Amy responded.

Each Mobian hid in some holes to change into 83

Swimsuits privately. When Floo tried to peek at Tails changing, he turned around with a stern stare with her giggling.

Once everyone has revealed their looks, the look ^{was} magnificent even than the spring.

Floo had on this pink bikini; the top had 1 big heart and the bottom had a bunch of red hearts. Amy had a red bikini with flowers; however the bottom was a skirt. Cream wore her one-piece orange bathing suit, probably she was too young for 2-piece suits.

Sonic wore his green swimming trunks while Tails wore the blue. Both swimmers had a white waist band, which is pretty average.

"Let's jump in!" Amy hollered as she dove in to the water and disturbed the fish. The others then quickly repeated what she just did.

As they splashed around in the water, a silver fish swam to Floo and echoed, "Silver's curse is ALWAYS renewed. You must provide love in order to fully free it!"

"Swim!" she cheered. When she glanced down to look at the fish, it ~~had~~ already vanished. That was probably the spirit's message that only a ship needs to be taken.

"Is that enough?" she growled. "I want to feel like summer is returning."

Sonic snarled, "I think so. I don't know if the spirits will curse us all for using the spring as a swimming pool."

A faint voice started to answer, "Yes, you may swim in it as long as you like. That's part of celebration."

The others started to splash around like dolphins when Miles Prower's (yep, that's Tail's real name) belly growled. "I'm hungry. Maybe we should go out now. Also it's late and this chapter is going too long."

"Right," Cream plopped out with her pelt soaking wet.

Sonic looked over his shoulder while making the never learned how to swim). "Agreed!"

Everyone stepped out and changed out of the swimsuits. Tails pulled the luggage as they boarded the platform. In a blink, the fire raged out of the room as fast as Sonic.

"Hold on tight and don't look down," Sonic advised.

Soon, there were no longer walls of stone and no gems pinned somewhere. They were already out of Mt. Choss and the midnight sky was above their heads.

"Let's take some snooze!" Floe cried when she hurled herself on to the stone staircase. The other 4 swooped down and followed her to the lush grass, faster than climbing up the stairs.

In a nutshell, all of them found a dry place, set up the tent, devoured a quick supper, and slept in. Just like the previous chapters!

CHAPTER 10: AWAY BACK TO CHAOSVILLE

Floee howled at front of Sonic while tasting some pancakes. "What are you doing with your phone?"

"Shhhh..." Sonic hushed.

There were some low-quality babbling coming from the phone and Sonic was chattering about something.

He then hung up, "I was talking to Shadow and he would pick us up on the edge of the forest."

"Good," Floee sighed of relief.

When everyone has gobbled up their pancakes along with syrup, Amy announced, "We gotta head on to the forest!"

Cream caught the sight of the heavy box. "Is the spirit's killing box?"

"I think so," Tails muttered.

When the tents were folded and the luggage was loaded, Sonic stared at the sky, "I can't remember the path!"

"Were lost," Amy groaned.

"How are we going to get home?!" Floe wailed as she flourished her arms. "WE CAN'T LET SILVER DIE!!!"

Cream suddenly had a light blob glowing while hovering over her head. "Maybe we can use a compass!"

"Rats!" Tails dug into the luggage. "We didn't bring one!"

"I know that people can make simple compasses," Sonic pulled out his book and flipped through many pages.

While the "Blue Blur" was skimming through heaps of text, Floe looked over the hills and admired the beautiful landscape.

"Ah," she whispered. "The mountains and rivers,
I wish Silver was with me now."

"I know," Amy laughed.

"Found it!" Sonic announced. "It says you can use a stick in the daytime and stars in nighttime!"

Tails stuck a stick into the Earth.

"Now mark the shadows with a stone."

Amy fetched a small pebble and placed it there like it was a flower.

"Now wait for 15 minutes."

Everyone started to play "Hide and Seek".
Tails was the seeker while everyone else was hiding.

"10, 9, 8..." he stood before a tree with his eyes shut like a door. The others dove to where no one was visible.

Sonic raced into a small burrow, Amy squeezed herself into a log, Floe scrambled up high in the tree, and Cream curled up behind a rock.

"Ready or not, here I come!" Tails flung into action "Found you!" he spotted Floe blending in with the evergreen.

"When he pinpointed Cream, Amy's log started to "dance" and faster than the swiftest wind it tumbled down the hill.

"HELP!" Amy squealed like a piglet.

Sonic popped out from his burrow "Whoa! Catch that little pink girl!"

Floe set out on her cheetah speed and dashed down the slope. The log was increasing its speed edging the cheetah speed. It was an amazing dog.

Suddenly, KER-SPLASH!

The log was now floating around in the murky pond with the fox all soaked up.

She spilted out drops of mud, "Eck!" Her body was batted in gooey dark mud.

Sonic and the 2 children rushed to the scene, "Can someone get this log out of the pond and pull Amy out? Nex time, we must have common sense or a Cha will run a way."

Flee was reluctant since she was dirty. Tails and Cream offered to do the work. They hurried over to the floating log and shoved it towards the shore.

As Amy crawled out of the messy dark log, she panted, "Ugh! I should have chosen a better hiding spot!"

"Amy, you need to 'tamj' the log!" Tails joked. Everyone started to giggle.

"Uh," Sonic looked back to the "stick-thing".
"I think 15 minutes already passed."

The sticks shadow had already shifted to another place in the sail. Cream placed another's bare at its tip.

Sonic demonstrated how the compass alternate here would work. "The sun always moves from East to West. So, the first stone points to the East and the second stone points to the West." - He drew a line between the 2 stones and a line crossing the previous line. - "Now we have the North and South."

To be more specific, Floe drew in diagonal lines to point out Northwest, Northeast, Southwest, and Southeast.

"The forest's border is Northwest, follow my marked line," she shot her laser line directly at the ground, inching until her laser limit of 1 mile was reached.

"DIRECTLY Northwest?" Tails stopped his palm against his face. "What if there's a large barrier such as a cliff or lake? Also, it may lead us to the wrong place!"

"If there's a physical barrier, we'll find a way to get over it," Sonic reassured. "If we go to the wrong path..." His voice suddenly hardened like cooled lava as he pulled out the map of Blooming Hills.

"I was observing the signs while on our road trip," he cleared his throat. "We were on Peki ball Lane before stopping at the forest's edge. Mt. Chao is directly northeast!"

"I WAS RIGHT!" Floe hurled herself into the air with help of her legs. "Awww yeah!"

Some alerted everyone, "We gotta go now or else, Silver is perished."

"DON'T SAY THAT!" the snapping fox retorted

The gang headed off the hill and rushed through slick meadows and sliced through shady woods. Every habitat, the landscape is eyed from distance and admired by those who were fond of Mother Nature's creations.

White clouds soared across the blue sky as migrating flocks flew along them like they're dancing, each other. A squirrel hustled nearby and collected every acorn sighted; he wanted a long-lasting food supply during the winter.

If you have ridden a horse, you will know what it looks like in their eyes. Everything was blurred at their top speed and some couldn't hear a single note since he broke the sound barrier. Sweat soaks the fur and skin as the legs start to strain.

Despite bruises, strains, exhaustion, hunger, thirst, and sweat, the five kept on going and going and going. Abilities require fast-paced action, that's why they "gotta go fast".

"Whoa!" Amy sighed. "Look at how many miles we ran."

Juices of energy spilled out rapidly as they dashed in the Blazing Hills forest. When the last hops leaked away, everyone was in fatigue and too weak to move even an inch.

"15-minute break," Sonic announced. "Pour in some new energy juice by sipping up fluids."

Tails showed 8 ounces of mineral water, the WHOLE ENTIRE BOTTLE.

"Hey!" Cream squealed. "Didn't waste!" "AWK! A-A-AW!" She was choking on her fluid, randomly spitting out puddles.

Floe handed her "tush-tailed" friend a brand new bottle before sucking up jugs of H₂O.

"Ha!" Amy cracked up. "You sipped up so much water that your belly would be big as the Pacific Ocean!"

"Good 'Yo Floe' joke!" Sonic joked once more.

The red panned her oddly shaped, plastic "bun". "Hah! Let's get hiking!"

"Didn't you listen?!" Sonic retorted. "We would go in 14 minutes!"

"Oh."

Many minutes drifted by like leaves on the autumn floor. Stomachs filled up with precious gallons of water, leaving the tummy as a sack of grain.

"I've already drank too much water," Floe laid on the Earth like she has passed out or something.

"NOW we can get moving," Sonic slid a ounce of water on his tongue into his throat.

Passing noon (they temporarily stopped for lunch of chicken and french fries) and the rest of afternoon, they skipped across the decent land of Blazing Hills. Despite crushing innocent leaves and acorns, they respected Mobius' environment and tried to preserve its beauty.

The red sun crept down below the hills as stars scurried over the sky. It was now evening.

"Almost there!" Tails cried as sweat lept out of his forehead.

"Let's strike it quicker!" Cream screamed. At that point, everyone started to flinch their legs quicker than a hare.

When the gang swept up the street's curb, Floe howled victory message, "JOB WELL DONE! We made it!"

"Wo hoo!" Amy shuffled from the left and hopped to the right. "Dance Sonic Shuffle!"

"Hey," Floe tapped Amy's shoulder. "I see light."

"I see a black and red car!" Cream roared like a mockingbird.

"And I see SHADOW!!!!!" Amy yipped.

"Hey, there, Mammalians," Shadow Dark greeted inside the car. "Come here and board the car!"

As Sonic and Tails plopped the luggage onto the back of the car, Floe entered to car and sighed.

She had high hopes in her heart, "Were getting there Silver will never die! He will NEVER die!"

"Uh huh," Amy lifted the car door handle, swung the door open, and flopped next to Floe.

Floe fugged out the picture again, just to refresh the happy past when there was nothing that could chop Silver apart. Tears stung her whites of her eyes.

"I just miss the days of love and joy."

Tails then squeezed between Cream and Amy before Sonic and Shadow dropped themselves onto the front seat.

"Here we... go!" Shadow cried out Sonic's line as he turned the car key with a Blaze keychain.

Outside the window, the forest wandered away saying their goodbyes and a yellow glow rose from Mt. Chaos' mountain range. Blazing Hills was actually used as their natural biome brought beauty to the animals for 4 days.

"I will miss this place," Floe sighed in front of Amy.

"Don't worry," Amy grinned with some yellow overbite showing. "You may return to the Blazing Hills forest one day. Perhaps that may be the setting of your 9th date."

"I accept your suggestion!"

Once the city lights poured in to the brave adventurer's eyes, joy erases the sadness brought by Silver's curse. Hope now signals that Silver will be restored, if only one easy step is taken.

CHAPTER 11: DREAM TEAM

"These fries are SWEEEEEEET!!!!!"
Floe chewed off 5 french fries soaked in ketchup.

The gang had stopped at McHedgehog's in Knuckleball City. Though it was an unhealthy fast-food diner, Sonic and his pals usually stop there to have a bite.

Shadow already stuffed in 5 McNuggets. "Ehm"
Then he burped.

"Bal dz ya j p!" Sonic babbled in disgust before falling off the chair.

Everyone burst into laughter, "Bulhahahaha-hahahaha!!!"

"NICE SLAPSTICK ACTUS!!!" Shadow giggled
"You should be our comedian!"

"Welp," Sonic pulled up from the damp marble floor.
"That wasn't intended. Just grosse tout!"

Shadow just smirked.

"That's why I have my 'Laughter Meal'!" Cream tone opens a plastic bag with a toy inside. "Get it?"

"I get it," Floe replied. "Are we ever going to get obese from eating McHedgehog's?"

"Only if we eat too much fast food (it doesn't make you speedy as Sonic)." Amy sipped up soda.

After a yummy (and unhealthy) meal, the six
(the five now includes Shadow) have hit the highway, which is always the best part of road travel.

"Look at those stick figures!" Floe eyed a brown highway sign. She is often amused by stick figures.

"At least you can draw better," Amy was interested in complex art.

"So much cars, so much every thing," Sonic looked beyond the plastic window. "The night makes me partially-blind."

Floee pulled out her cell phone and called Blaze,
"Hello?"

Blaze's meow echoed into her left ear, "Yes?"

"How is Silver going?"

"He's still weak and not functioning properly. However, some improvements have been developed thanks to your adventures. Silver's on the couch now being fed needles by Knuckles."

"Great."

"Just a warning, you only have tomorrow to accomplish the goal. Waterfall told me that Silver would die after 5 days. So don't stop for jazzy attractions and stuff. Go to Sonic's house DIRECTLY."

"You betcha! What about the keychain on Shadow's car key?"

"I presented the key chain (I handmade it) to Shadow on our 5th date."

"Awww! Well, it's time to hang up."

"Okay."

Floe shut her eyes and hovered over to Dreamland. Since all hopes is now found, daydreams laid before her and there were absolutely no nightmares. Here's a good dream she experienced:

Sonic came across Floe who was weeping on the street during winter.

"What's the matter?" he asked softly.

"I-I-I lost my S-S-S-S-Silver," she stammered. "I tried to find him but gave up."

"I'll help you find your silver crush," Sonic reassured. He then tugged Floe upwards like rope. "Follow me to the woods."

When the two finally marched into the woods, Blaze rushed into them panicking.

"Help!" she cried. "Silver has been captured by Dr. Eggman and is planning to vaporize him into power vapors. Then his power vapors will be used to power his robots!"

"That's why I'm looking for him!" Floe exclaimed. "We will help!"

"Good."

The two climbed up ^{frozen} manhills and traversed frosted meadows before reaching Dr. Robotnik's lair.

"Be careful," Sonic advised. "Mobs have been reported missing after entering the lair." (Yes, that's actually true outside of Dreamland.)

They slipped into the entrance which has been unsealed due to winter weather. It was entirely dark like night since the snow have messed up the electrical system. The heater was also off, so they were shivering in a blanket of chill.

Most of the robots (aka Badniks) were shut off (the batteries lost to last legs) and some of them were brisbed in foam due to battery leakage.

Dr. Eggman's aggressive scolding could be heard, "ARGH! I've failed to pay any electrician to fix our dumb electricity! FOR THE 10th TIME! Will any of you do the work?!"

"Uhhhhhhhh... yes," Orbot's faint shy voice echoed.

"DO SO NOW!!!" a door swung open letting a small glow of glaiser sticks spread out. Orbot and Cubot were about to flee on foot.

"HIDE!" Sonic alerted everyone. They were now curled up in innocent balls.

"What's that?" Orbot asked pointing to the bells.

"They must be toy balls some Mobian cub lost," Cubot theorized. "Let's go." The 2 evil-but-nice bots hurried away.

Sonic directed the girls, "Tip-toe past Robotnik's room, we don't want him to detect us. Then follow me to where the caged captives are."

The rest nodded and tip-toed at a speed of slith and went through many hallways until bumping in to a metal door.

"Here, but we need apply the right fingerprint," Sonic pulled out a special formula and dabbed his finger in.
"This will disguise my index finger and allow access."

He pressed the finger against the metal pad.
Since the door runs on batteries, it slides away as they put in.

There were many high-tech cages, the one Shadow was trapped in during the events of Sonic Heroes. All of them were empty buckets but one, Silver was locked up in that cage. Flee could view his almost-bred tears, she could infer he was crying before. The cage had sprayed formula which sent Silver into deep sleep.

"How do I open this cage?" she was puzzled.

"Let me try," Sonic pushed in and hid all of those funky stuff I can't describe since I can't remember from SNV.
It took half an hour for him to release Silver. He was still in hibernation mode (not really).

"I hope we still go undetected," Flee sighed.

She rubbed Silver's neck, "Silver, wakeup."

Silver still didn't move an inch, his last tear, evaporated.

"SILVER, WAKEUP!!! FLOEE'S HERE!!!!!"

Silver slid away his eyelids and gazed at Floe's generous eyes. He lifted up his torso and gasped hugging the red vixen, "Thanks for freeing me, my love!"

"I knew you would offer me that," she smiled and kissed Silver on the cheek. Silver kissed back on the lips.

"Hello?"

Floze was no longer being hugged by Silver, no longer in Eggman's lair, and no longer in the winter. She was just in Shadow's car along with Amy, Cream, Sonic, Tails, and Shadow. Outside the windows a golden glow was peeking out of the mountains. Dawn had just started.

It was Amy who was calling her from Dreamland. She asked, "What dream did you have?"

"Oh," Floze responded. "I had a dream in which I was weeping on the street during winter and Sonic came up to me. I told him that Silver had been lost and Sonic offered to help me find him. While we were in the woods, Blaze encountered us and told that Silver is captured by Dr. Eggman and will be vaporized into Power Vapors. We entered the lair and freed the 14-year-old hedgehog in the cage room. The ending was so adorable because Silver hugged me and stuff!"

"Wow," Amy praised the dream's summary. "That was a decent 'daydream'. I bet it's a sign that you're close to unleashing the curse."

"Maybe although it might be just a cool coincidence."

"Yeah!"

"Hey girls," Shadow announced. "We're currently in Silver Township, which is 300 miles from Chaosville. I'm very sleep-deprived but have to keep moving. If Sonic stays up for one night, his running would be impaired."

"Cool," Floe made an Anime cat face.

CHAPTER 12: SILVER'S AWAKENING

Floce spent many hours since 4 AM staring at every animal but Shadow snore like a pig. The outside view is pretty boring, for her.

It was 7:00 AM when Shadow announced, "We have entered the exit to Chaosville. Everyone is now prepared to return home."

"Oooooooooooooohhhh" Floce howled waking up Sonic and Tails.

"I have slept the whole night in a car!" Sonic proudly screamed.

Cream admired many instances of "McKedgey's" because that was her favorite spot for a bite; although she always tried to be healthy. Cheese flattered by and made Sq weaky noises.

"I can't wait to bestow this gift of love to Silver! Floe seemed to bark.

"Uh huh," Sonic repeated the gag.

30 minutes later, houses took over the landscape. No Molekion was outside, light glowed from windows as if they were eyes.

"Ohhh hhhh, Silver!" Floe's eyes sparkled.
"My heart will be fulfilled once he wakes up!"

Cream giggled even though nothing was hilarious.

By then, Sonic's house pulled up like a carriage. The passenger, Blaze, could be heard moaning, "OH MY SOUL! SONIC AND HIS GANG ARE BACK! PREPARE SILVER!"

She came scampering out the door along with Knuckles when the hissing car stopped at the sidewalk. Knuckles and Sonic offered to drop off the luggage while Floe, Amy, and Cream was escorted by Blaze to the house. Shadow followed his lilac or flame.

Rouge echoed, "Here's Silver, moaning on the Couch. He recently got a meal of Fruit Emeralds."

"Ah," Floe crept to the Lady Silver. "Now here's my gift."

Pinned by Silver, in sleep-like state and drally, she whispered the following:

"Silver, your raspberries here. Since the crisis of the Iblis, I've been always glued to your heart, my precious Silverone. Your fur is always bright and valuable as gold and the stars." - She rubbed Silver's forehead.

"Our courage and spirit, along with Blaze's, have evolved us into mighty Nabians in Team Phenomenal. With our exotic powers and looks, we can kick Dr. Eggheads butt." Everyone but her started chuckling like hyenas.

Floe continued her love speech:

"Even though you're naive and sometimes immature, you're powerful as the spirits and led my wisdom to yours. The hopes are very high and we might even aim for the stars and even the moon, Silver as you."

"In your eyes, a world leaps out from your whites of your eyes. It always focuses my heart and strengthens it from stone to gold. The most memorable thing about you is that you represent the full moon, the first thing I have ever seen since I was born from chaos in the Bronze Desert. When I see you flying in the sky, you always make me think there's a moon!"

"Oh, Silver, there's no place I'll rather be without you. My heart seems to melt when I eye you with my magical eyes." - Floe pressed her head against Silver's beating heart and tears began to leak out. "I'll always rush into you and hug you so hard that your heart would push out. Due to the fact you're always close to me, the word 'silver' lightens my spirit and sends it flying free through my hope and joy."

"I always enjoy time with you in the night sky. We would cuddle each other, run around and laugh in the moonlight. Every star would enjoy our time together although unfamiliar ones would stare at us and wonder what the heck we're doing. However, to us, we're spending our romantic time in my favorite dating spot."

Everyone else had happy tears too. "In some point in our future, we may hold hands with wedding rings in our middle fingers. I in my white bridal gown and flower girl vest, you in a black tux and red bow tie, we would smile and watch others cry in joy."

"A long time after our graceful marriage, we would be mother and father of children. They may be foxes, hedgehogs, or even "hedgefoxes"! They will inherit our precious powers and transformations. Never fear, our children will handle them. Even longer after that, they would raise their children of their own and we would be grandparents. WOULD YOU LIKE THAT?!"

She summed up her very lengthy speech of romance. "Never leave me, always stay with me like I'm a study text book or something. Look at me now. I'm truly sucked into your heart. Don't be surprised, we have been familiar and similar, despite our different timelines of origins. Are you listening? I'm very close to you. PLEASE, please wake up. You're always in my hope, in my dreams, in my spirit, and ESPECIALLY in my heart. A kiss shall follow!"

JUST after her last word, she wrapped Silver's limp body and applied a kiss (sweet as blossoms) on the furless cheek.

"Hey, look!" Amy was astonished. "Silver's glowing!"

Floee looked up, "Oh!"

Silver's fur was lit up with silver light-streaks shooting out like goosebumps.

"Ooh!" Tails yelped. "I guess Silver's pelt illumination is a sign that our mission is complete."

The most memorable resolution is that Silver's spirit (no, not the mean one) rose out of the body and echoed, "If you're wondering why I'm acting like the usual Silver, I have secretly merged together with the demon you captured while Floee was crying out her message. I have accepted that speech and have communicated with the 'Dark Sides' to release the curse. They'll do so right after I re-enter the body. For now, I will wish Floee merry times with her apple of her eye!"

Silver's (a girl) spirit then lowered down and down until his head disappeared into Silver's torso. Floer's heart kept beating faster than ever as she waited for Silver to wake up. Then, this very amazing moment happened.

The psychic hedgehog blinked a few times before sitting up on the couch and staring at every Moblin.

He turned to Floer, ^{who had recently backed away from the couch} and smiled. "I've heard your message. It was descriptive and beautiful."

Floee's eyes glittered as she dashed into Silver's arms and hugged tightly, "I KNEW I TIIII! Hey, do you still like me?"

Silver glimpsed down at his wren of heart, "I don't like you, I LOVE YOU!!!!!!!" He swept up Floee in his arms.

"Let me join in the romance," Blaze shyly held hands with Shadow.

"Me too!" Amy did the same, except it was rushed.

"Awwwww," Cream almost bursted into happy tears while Tails tried to hide away.

"Thanks, Silver," Floee responded to her hedgehog of dreams. "My heart almost broke when you said 'don't.'"

"I knew that," Silver grinned.

Rouge giggled for a bit while Knuckles

19

just gave a stern look,

"What's wrong with my face?!" Blaze pouted.
"Did the illustrator have bad art skills?"

"You're beautiful," Shadow smiled. "She will improve soon."

"What's next?" Silver kissed Floe gently.

"Our next date," Floe answered. "It's on Saturday!"

Silver winked back.

"Good luck on your romantic getaway,"
Sonic muttered.

EPILLOVE

"The day is today!" Floee quickly dug out her prom dress. "I've been waiting for this day!"

She examined her fur, "Dates should be always flea-free. Dang, 3 fleas!" Then she rubbed some herbs on her pelt.

"They're now gone!"

Floee ripped off her normal outfit and spilled on her dress and pink highheels. She stared in front of the mirror "Do I look adorable?"

"Yes, you do look adorable," Chloe was standing at the door.

The vixen spun around, "Mom, I didn't know you were there."

"That's okay, Sweetie."

"Haha."

"Just heard that Silver will pick you up soon."

"Oh my-" Floe fainted to the carpet floor. "I will have a heart attack when I see him!"

After Chlo left the room, she grasped a glittery magenta album book. When she opened to the first page, there were 3 stunning photos.

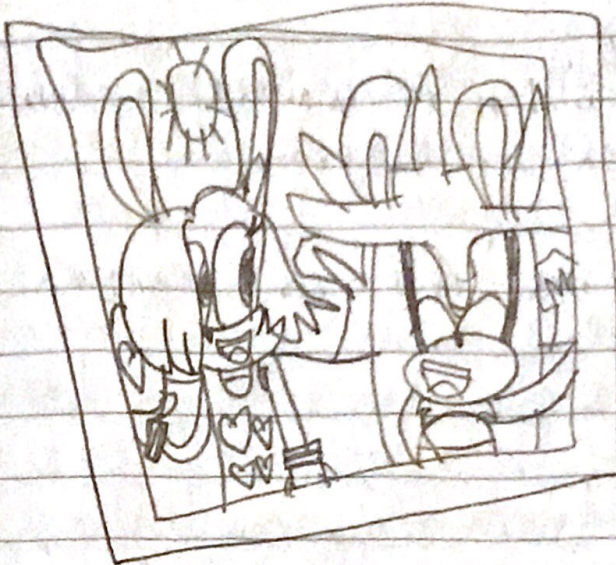

The 1st one was Silver and Floe's first date. They were at a picnic happily munching chili dogs and all sorts of stuff. The 2nd one was just their celebration of 4th of July, with them waving the flag of Mystoria and the night sky (scattered with fireworks) as their backdrop.

The 3rd one was them spending a lot of time at the lake. They were in their swimsuits splashing around in the freshwater. Those 3 images were from 2 years ago so Floe started to turn pages.

Many memories of romance flooded her mind. Days at the beach, prom dancing (she and Silver were proms rulers once), kissing, nights under the moonlight, and romantic getaways dominated the scrapbook.

Her favorite one was from 5 months ago when Silver and Floe were dressed up as bunnies and holding Easter eggs.

"Floe!" Chloe shouted from downstairs. "Silver is here!"

She shut her book, "Coming!"

Out of her white bedroom door, she flew through the hallway and down to the ground level. ~~Was~~ she planned to the front door, something almost gave her a heart attack.

Silver was standing there with slick quills and a black tuxedo, dark as night. He looked like one of those guys at the Food Cans Film Festival. Pinned on the white shirt under the black jacket was a ruby red bowtie.

"Silver," she whispered. "I love the way you look. You almost melted my heart."

"Sweet little Floe," Silver patted Floe's head.

"Awwww."

"Come to Shadow's car, my dear," he pulled his girlfriend outside and in to Shadow's car US2M. HIS. PSYCHIC POWERS.

"That power is SOOOOOO neat!" she was a little jealous of his psychokinesis power.

"Ha!"

The love birds (or probably love chins) giggled and discussed their world while Shadow drove their "limo."

"Last night," Silver proudly squeaked "I found a lone golden ~~terrier~~ who was probably an orphan. Since she's nameless, Blaze named her 'Gold' after my now-deceased father."

"Are accepting her into your house?" Floe replied.
"Will she join Team Phenomenal? Will you betray me?"

"No, I will NEVER leave you," he chuckled.
"She doesn't have any powers and we'll provide foster care until she's independent."

"Okay, oh, look at that bluejay! Blues Smile!"

Silver turned around, "Where?"

"You missed it," Floe confessed

"Oh."

Shadow suddenly announced, "We're a mile close to 'Chez Chaos'. Get ready!"

"I'm so excited!" Floe almost lost her breath.

At last! Chez Chaos pulled up outside of the window. Her stomach rumbled and she licked her lips; the fancy food such as spice noodles and chicken were ready to enter her throat.

Silver swung the door open as if it was a gate to heaven. He then trekked out of the car (Floe follows behind) and escorted Floe to the glass door.

"Bye!" Shadow drove off like a barrel of monkeys.
"Pick you up soon!"

"Bye!!!" They waved their paws.

Floe hung on to Silver's chest, "You're the only boy I'll ever want to cling to."

Silver laughed, "And you're the only girl which TRULY loves me 24 hours a day, 7 days a week."

"I didn't know that!"

"Let's go in now!" Silver ordered. "We don't want to be late!"

When the two entered the restaurant, red covered everywhere. The walls were red, the carpeting was red, and fine ladies were dressed in red.

They checked in and sat at a table near the window. There were silverware, shiny as iron, resting on the table along with 2 menus.

"Ah," Floor sat at the left chair and opened the menu. "What shall we eat?"

Silver suggested, "I prefer salmon and pickled jellyfish. Oh, for the veggies, broccoli and llama beans."

"Uhhhhh..." Floe shivered. "Is jellyfish gonna sting you?!"

"No, cooked jellyfish won't sting!"

"They have salmon, broccoli, and llama beans. No jelly fish."

"Aw."

"They have chicken and needles. I would like that."

His tongue hung out of his mouth drying. "What about drinks? I'll have iced tea."

She flipped to the "Beverages" section. "They do have iced tea, and water which I'll have."

"Good, let's wait for a waiter!"

Floee stared around the room and tapped her foot while Silver rolled his eyeballs like bowling balls and whistled short tunes.

A lavender echidna waitress stopped at their table, "You two must be dating."

"Ya!" Floee giggled once more.

"What would you like to eat?"

"Silver would like salmon, broccolis, and llama beans. I would gobble in some beef noodle and chicken. For drinks, my date would sip iced lemon tea and I would let water enter my digestive system."

"Dessert?"

"Lemon pie! We both like it!"

"Ya!" Silver chimed in.

"Alrighty," the waitress announced. "Your order will be ready soon." She dashed off.

"Let's discuss our world while we wait," Floe sighed.

"Should I get a permanent tattoo?" Silver chuckled.

"No, tattoos are not beauty and are expensive to burn them off. I don't want to talk about them."

"Oh, what should we discuss then?"

"I wonder if we'll get married when we enter adulthood. Probably even bear children?"

"The chances are very high, so yes."

She flung her joy, "OH MY SONIC, OH MY SONIC! I NEVER KNEW YOU WOULD MARRY ME!!!"

"We're still young," he confessed. "Circumstances can change, so be aware."

"Welp. Oh, the food is coming!"

The same waitress rushed in with a cart

Chez Chaos' prized dishes. On the top shelf was salmon, roasted chicken, a bowl of noodles, broccoli, lima beans, and lemon pie. Below were pitchers of iced tea and water, along with napkins and silverware.

Floee slurped on her noodles (because it's a Japanese custom) while Silver munched on his beans.

"Delicious!" she smiled.

"I know," Silver responded, swallowing his beans.

They've munched and swallowed through a long period of time, for the sake of the book length. The food surplus started to shrink until only crumbs were left.

"Mmmmmmm..." Floee licked her lips while clenching her thirst. "That early lunch was DELICIOUS! Tho chi!"

"I know, right?!" Silver grinned once more.

"What should we do now?"

"Let's discuss our world before we leave."

"Oh," Silver interrupted after his statement. "Floe, you're always in my heart, beating in love and hoping for marriage." He then bent over to Floe for a kiss.

Floe barked before kissing, "It's not just a heart, it's a silver heart. Valuable as you!"

DON'T MISS

of
SHADOWS

While Silver and Fleece are having their fun, Shadow and Blaze are having it too!

In their own adventure, they investigate who was responsible for mass destruction of Cradlesville. They also meet a mysterious rabbit neighbor who seems to know all of the secrets!

For the culprit, is it Dr. Eggman? Or a spirit up to its wrath? Wait for the final story to come out!

And also be aware of another Silver story, Silver Heart 2: The Night Owl's Tale, probably a Sonamy story!

Read the preview from Heart of Shadows to get some excitement!

"This town is a car wash!" Floe stared at the ruins of Chaesville. "Silver, what we supposed to do?"

Silver just sighed at a house which was nothing but a pile of rubble. "Meh, Shadow and Blaze are currently investigating."

After his statement, Amy plowed up from the hill and bounced up and down like a beach ball, "NOOOOOOOOO!! My precious hair has been smashed into pieces! I was at my date with Sonic when I heard explosions and eyed houses tumbling down to their ends."

"Poor Rose," Floe patted Amy's spiky head (hedgehog quills aren't sharp as a porcupine's, that's why Floe and Blaze sometimes hop into their hedgehog crushes' backs). "Any insurance?"

"I don't know."

"Awww..."

There has been many chaos about the destruction of some areas of Chaosville. Along Amy's path, many houses laid in ruins and trash. Wood, bricks, smashed electronics, torn-up furniture, cracked glass, and many more covered patches of land.

To worsen the situation, the disaster ate up many Mobians like it was a Titan. Or the Mobians were fries and Chaosville was McHedgehogs. Exceeding the death toll were the number of Mobians ending up in hospitals. A lot were missing and trained chaos were sent to sniff for the food (I mean Mobians).

"Hey! Shadow and Blaze are coming!"

Shadow and Blaze unearthed from the bottom of the hill. They crept up to the lightning fox, who recently screamed the last dialogue.

"Hallo!" she pierced the air again. "Did you get any new evidence?"

"Nope," Blaze sighed.

"Rats!"

"I have a theory," Shadow introduced his thoughts, "It may have been Dr. Eggman's evil plan!"

"Wait," Flee confessed. "It may be the spirits."

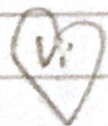

"[CUT IT OUT!!! SPIRITS ARE NOT PART OF THIS FRANCHISE!!! FOCUS ON ROBOTS-"]

"Shadow," Blaze scolded. "DO NOT shout at little Flee like that."

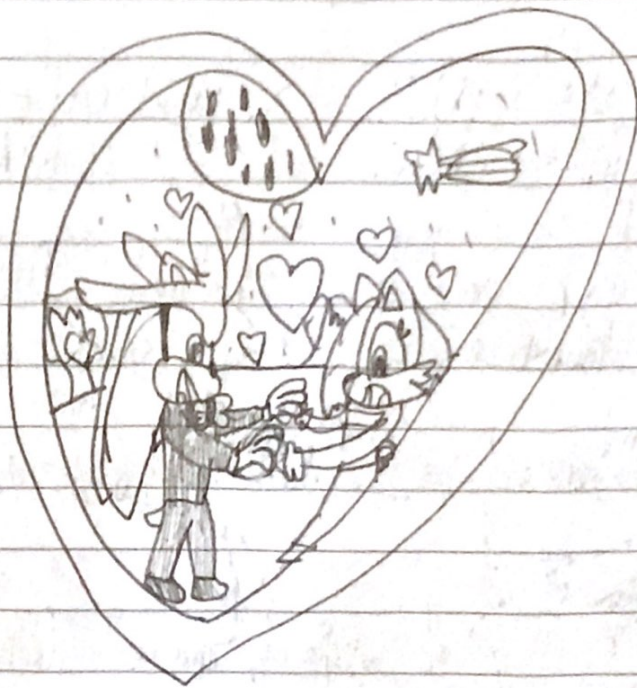

"Sorry," he uttered. "My house was wrecked too."

"Really?!" Silver and his fox crush gaped. "You witnessed #3!!!"

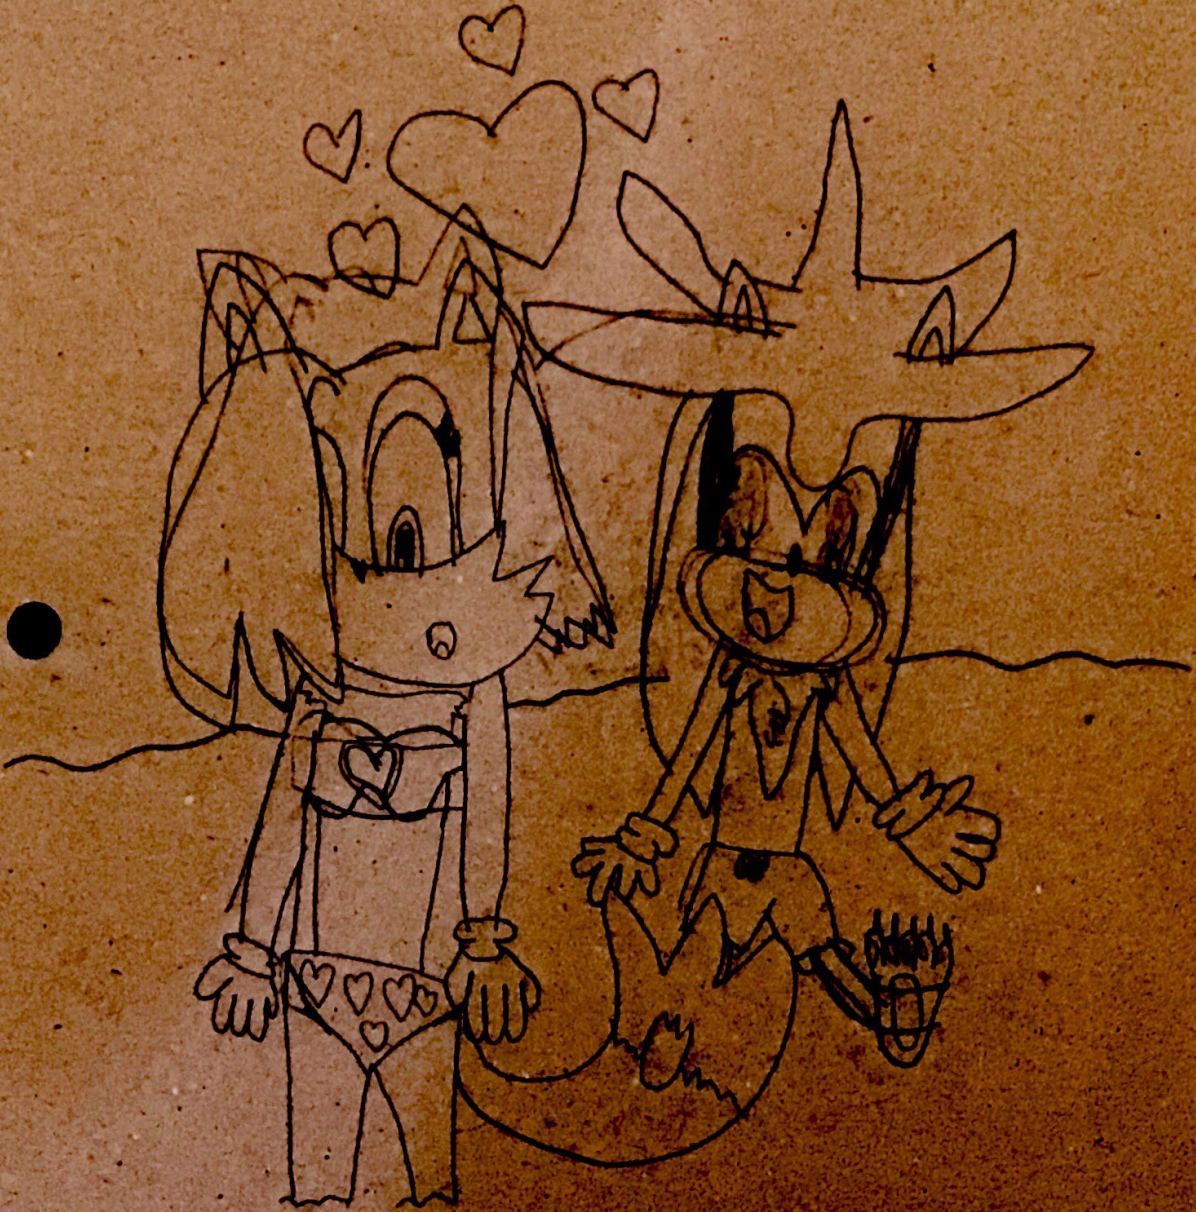

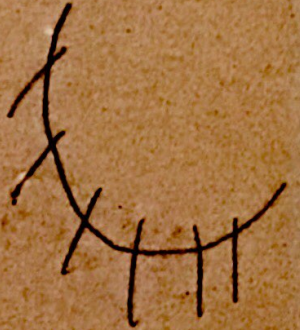

"Yeah," Shadow started to weep. "I was almost killed."

'Cause every night I will save your life
And every night I will be with you

Roses are red,
violets are blue,
the moon is as "silvery"
as you.

ONE HEDGEHOG,

ONE FOX,

ONE CURSE TO BREAK....

One young bright wren called Floe the Fox has always been in love with a fabulous powerful hedgehog known as Silver the Hedgehog. She is very excited about their next date and can't stop thinking about it.

Things seem to fall apart when poor Silver is undoubtedly cursed by the mysterious Dark Emerald. A feline spy named Waterfall the Cat reveals how the curse can be broken. With help of her funny friends, Floe sets out on a very risky journey only to revive her hero.

Rating

K+

There are very scary moments (especially when Silver gets cursed) but they should pass easily. There are some violent and dark hours. There are no bad words or profanity. There are nothing inappropriate about the love and ab-

Genres

- ★ Fantasy
- ♥ Romance
- ⚔ Action

This is a

SONIC
The Hedgehog

Fanfiction!