

Kingdom Hall Fire Alarm Survey Information Sheet

Type of Kingdom Hall

Choose from the following Kingdom Hall classifications:

Type A: Simple Single-Auditorium Kingdom Halls

These are the most common halls used and consist of:

- A single-storey building with one main auditorium, auxiliary classroom(s), toilets and other rooms such as offices, stores, kitchens, etc.
- No more than 300 seats in the auditorium and auxiliary classroom(s).
- At least two emergency exits from the building; through the entrance foyer and an alternative direct from the main auditorium.

Type B: Double-Auditorium Kingdom Halls

These halls typically allow two congregations to meet at the same time and consist of:

- Two main auditoriums. This may include halls with removable partitions.
- A combined total of no more than 300 seats in the auditoriums and classrooms.
- At least two emergency exits readily available from each auditorium; one through the entrance foyer and an alternative direct from one or both main auditoriums. One or more exits may be shared.
- Have shared facilities including auxiliary classrooms, toilets and other rooms such as offices, kitchens, etc.
- One or two-storey premises.

Type C: Large Multiple-Auditorium Kingdom Halls

Halls which allow two or more congregations to meet at the same time. They contain similar facilities to standard multi-auditorium Kingdom Halls. However, the combined seating in the auditoriums and classrooms exceeds 300.

Type D: Kingdom Halls with Sleeping Accommodation

Any Kingdom Hall which has sleeping accommodation. If there are any internal connections between accommodation and the Kingdom Hall please ensure that you describe the layout in 'Further Comments' on the Kingdom Hall Fire Alarm Survey.

Type E: Non-typical Kingdom Halls

This may include:

- Small halls with a single means of escape.
- Single-auditorium halls on more than one level.
- Listed buildings.
- Halls with additional uses (such as offices, large storage, etc. Please provide details in 'Further Comments' in the Kingdom Hall Fire Alarm Survey.)
- Complex/unusual layouts.
