Here are few Examples from the Infatuation Scripts program:

=====
Ex: #1 Liking vs. Infatuation
=====

One of the problems a lot of women run into, is that very often, the things they do to get a guy to 'like them' is at odds with what would get him to feel infatuated with them.

For example, giving a man everything he thinks he wants, being extremely available to him and always willing to do things on his terms, might get a guy to LIKE you. But would make it virtually impossible to trigger those feelings of infatuation so important for getting a guy whole-heartedly committed to you.

While being willing to frustrate him a little, to remain slightly out of reach for him, and not to give him exactly what he wants whenever he wants it can turn on those feelings of infatuation.

I knew that the best way to help my female friends, was to get them to stop focusing on getting men to LIKE them, and instead to do those things that would get him INFATUATED.

What Triggers Infatuation ?

Through the author's research there were 3 main Ingredients of infatuation. 3 things that, when combined, cause a chemical reaction inside a man's brain and body that overwhelm his emotions, push all other women out of his mind, and make him absolutely sure you're the one for him.

The rest of the infatuation scripts program is divided into following 3 different modules. Each module covers a different ingredient and gives you exact scripts you can use to add that ingredient into the mix:

The 1st Ingredient is UNCERTAINTY

Part of triggering a man's infatuation instinct comes from him being uncertain about exactly where he stands with you. When he's not sure that he completely 'has you' he feels a little out-of-control.

And as you'll see as you go through this module, the feeling of being out-of-control is inextricably linked with feelings of infatuation.

The 2nd Ingredient is INVESTMENT

The more a man INVESTS in you and your relationship — that is — the more time, effort, and energy he puts in, the stronger his feelings for you — a psychological phenomenon known as The Investment Effect.

I'm going to show you ways to get him investing more and more in you and your relationship, deepening and enhancing his feelings no matter how much he takes you for granted.

The 3rd Ingredient is Curiosity

It's the key to sticking in a man's mind and getting him thinking about you constantly. Curiosity gets and holds a man's attention, and releases dopamine in his brain — a crucial neurotransmitter for infatuation.

Example: #2 : Leaning In

=====

Another way to make a guy feel pressure is by psychologically "leaning in" to him. Leaning in means trying to get more of his time, more of his attention, more of him than he's freely offering, even in the very short term.

You're talking on the phone or texting and he says he needs to go. If you say, "Ok, just one more thing though" or you ask him a question or do ANYTHING that keeps him in the conversation, THAT'S leaning in.

You're at a guy's place and he says, "Ok, I need to sleep, let's get you home" and you say, "Aw, can't I sleep here?" or even "Ok, just let me lie here for 5 more minutes". THAT'S what I mean by 'leaning in'.

Ideally, you're the one saying, "I should go now". You're ending conversations first and you're leaving HIM a little hungry for more. But if he draws things to a close, just say, "Ok, talk to you later" and get out of the conversation.

=====

Example: #3: Projection Questions:

=====

This is one of the most powerful techniques I know. It's a sneaky sort of way to communicate something about yourself.

You can use it for all sorts of qualities — but it's particularly effective for signalling that you don't get attached to someone the moment you sleep with him.

What you do is, you take the quality you want to communicate, and ask him questions which screen HIM for that same quality.

For example if you want to communicate that you're not needy, ask him if HE'S needy.

This is POWERFUL:

After Sex:

“You’re not one of those guys that assumes just cause we slept together we’re getting married now are you?”

“You’re not going to get clingy and text me 20 times a day no are you?”
