1) The Hannah Jheel, Quetta - This is how the Hannah Lake looks in winters. Frozen, frosted and astounding. This is where Quetta's escapes rest.

2) Mud Volcanoes, Hingol - These deserted Mud volcanoes can be found in different regions of Balochistan. This particular one rests in Hingol, Balochistan.

3) Moola Chotok, Khuzdar - This tourism deprived sight is known as Moola Chotok in Khuzdar, Balochistan. Amidst stronghold of nationalists in the Jhalawan belt, Chotok seems like a lost cause.

4) Quaid-e-Azam Residency, Ziarat - Father of Pakistan, Quaid-e-Azam Mohommad Ali Jinnah spent his days of affliction in this wooden cottage in Ziarat, Balochistan.

5) Pir Ghaib Falls, Bolan - This is an awe-inspiring view of Pir Ghaib, Balochistan. Locals here believe in the myth of the Invisible Saint (Pir Ghaib), who was saved by the Almighty.

6) Princess Of Hope, Gwadar - The Princess Of Hope is a 740 year old mountain near Gwadar, along the Makuran Coastal Highway. A spectacular view of its own!

7) Urrak Falls, Quetta - The Urrak falls are known as the younger sister to the Hannah Jheel. Mentioned together as Hannah Urrak, Urrak is a fathomable vacation spot for people of Quetta and around. Fresh water and good weather.

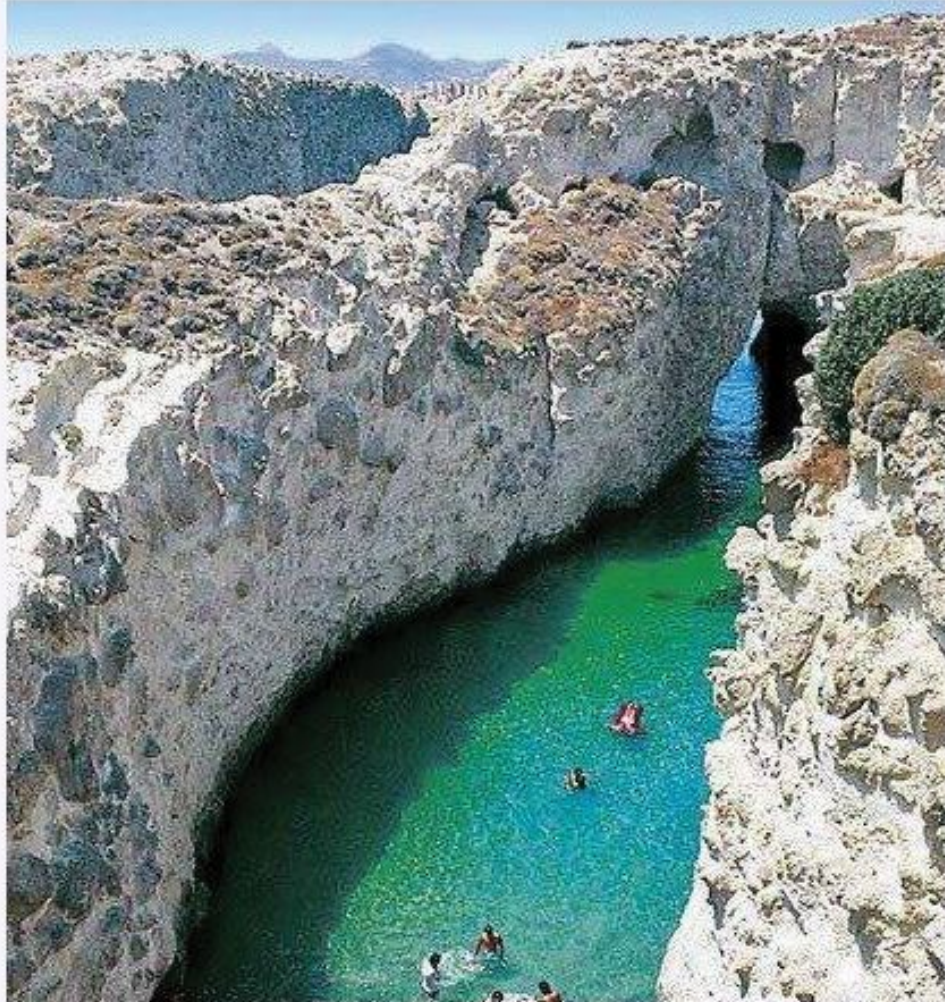

8) Astola Island, Gwadar/Pasni - Astola Island, also known as Jezira Haft Talar Satadip or 'Island of the Seven Hills', is a small uninhabited Pakistani island in the Arabian Sea. Also the largest island in Pakistan, it is the epitome of Balochistan's undermined beauty.

9) The City of Gwadar - A city separated by the sea at both ends. Gwadar has the potential to be the trade hub of Pakistan. It is not just resourceful – also is breathtakingly beautiful.

10) Salt Glaciers, Koh-e-Suleman - Yes you were mistaken if you thought this is snow. These are salt glaciers in the Koh-e-Suleman region of Balochistan. Not many know about these, let alone visit them.

11) Khojak Pass, Chaman - Finally, this amazing water-clogged passage separates Pakistan from Afghanistan. Not many can get here but the ones who do are left awe-inspired.

12. Hingol, Lasbela
