

CoinClash

Coin Clash White Paper V0.2

By

Alex Shepherd

What is Coin Clash?

Coin Clash is a social forum where users are rewarded for knowledgeable cryptocurrency discussion. It also has a competition system to increase the amount of overall knowledgeable discussion by adding a fun and unique factor to the forum. We respect what Bitcointalk has done for the Cryptocurrency community over the years, especially being created by Mr. Satoshi Nakamoto himself. However, we feel Bitcointalk has primarily become a place for bounties, shills, and scams. Not only will Coin Clash attempt to extinguish those types of discussion, but it will also reward users with its own token called CLASH Token for their overall quality and informative posts. CLASH Token is not a Cryptocurrency Token. It is just a Forum Token that is completely valueless and cannot be sold or traded. It can be used on the Forum Store and to compete in our competition system. The competition system between both projects and individuals which will be explained further down below. Coin Clash will use Invision Forum Software.

Mining

What we know today is coins and tokens mineable by solving a mathematical equation using top computer hardware as difficulty increases. However, a token can be mined in a variety of ways. The way CLASH Token will be mined will be by knowledgeable forum posts and overall contribution. We want to spread awareness of cryptocurrency and get more users involved in intelligent discussion regarding the subject.

CLASH Token

Coin Clash will have a token system for which users can level up and have a greater influence on which projects will appear on the website. Your points can buy a range of things from the CLASH Store but you can also keep the points and use them to level up. The benefits of leveling up will be explained in the Level Section. Points will be accrued in the following way but are subject to change to improved methods in the future:

Reply: 1 Token
Topic Started: 4 Tokens
Daily Login: 1 Token
Reputation Factor: See Reputation Section
Badge Earned: 200 Tokens
Competition Winner: Varies by Contest

All posts are subject to quality review. While it may be impossible to review every single post on the forum, posts that do not provide any real content, such as a two or three word post, or a post that is not contributing to cryptocurrency discussion will not be counted as tokens.

Reputation

Reputation will play a factor in your overall points. This will only happen quarterly. How reputation will effect overall points is still in the works and specifics will be hammered out before the launch of the token. The Reputation Model is absolutely open to suggestions and can be posted in the suggestion section of the Coin Clash Forum.

Levels

You increase your level with your points and each level requires a different amount of points. With each level you increase, the more amount of CLASH Tokens you accumulate. The more you contribute to the forum, the more points you accrue, and the higher your levels rise. The goal is to have users who contribute the most be able to earn more for their work and effort building the Coin Clash Community. Levels will consist as a small multiplier when the quarterly CLASH Token Payout happens. Here will be the structure:

Level 2: 0.1x
Level 3: 0.15x
Level 4: 0.2x
Level 5: 0.25x
Level 6: 0.30x

This continues in these increments until Level 100 which is 5x your normal amount of rewards.

Think of these levels as better computer hardware when mining Bitcoin and Litecoin. The better the hardware, the more you can earn. However, with CLASH, you do not need to pay anything and simply mine more tokens by contributing knowledgeable content. However, you do have the ability to buy a certain amount of levels. Just like you can buy equipment to improve your mining hardware.

Mining Difficulty

Like every mineable token, there will be a difficulty. This will be determined by daily online users.

Difficulty Ranges:

0-50 daily users
51-100
101-200
201-300

301-400
401-500
501-600
601-700
701-800
801-900
901-1000

1000 daily users will be the maximum difficulty. Difficulty specifics will be explained in greater detail before launch. The premise is users will gain less tokens as the difficulty in mining increases.

Competition

The Coin Clash name stems from the competition system that will come of it. There will be four types of Coin Clash competitions, one between projects and one between users.

Project Competition:

Every quarter there will be a competition between selected cryptocurrency projects. How this competition will commence will be a series of topics where coins will be matched up Head to Head. A user will vote with one CLASH Token along with a explanatory post on why which project has more potential. After one week (this duration may change) the project/currency with the most votes will win and that win will get added to their record. Every project will have a win/loss record and the top 16 records will face off in a Tournament at the end of every quarter just like a sports league. The winner of the project will be named our Crypto project of the Quarter and be awarded its very own Forum Section, Youtube video, be highlighted on <http://coinclash.pro> (more coming soon in the future on this), and be crowned Quarter Champion.

User Content Competition:

Members of the Forum will also have a competition. It will work quite similar to the Project Competition. However, instead of having head to head topics between users, which doesn't make much sense, we will take the Top 16 Token Accrued for the Quarter and they will have a Tournament as well. The winner will be crowned CLASH Content Champion of the Quarter, a Youtube Request, A Pinned Topic Request, and will be given a signature of a championship belt signaling they are the current and reigning champion of the forum. They will also receive a large sum of points still to be determined.

Prediction Competition:

Every Month there will be a Prediction Contest and users will post answers to prediction questions.

Fantasy Cryptocurrency:

Just like Fantasy Sports, you will draft a team of 15 Cryptocurrency Projects within a League. Leagues will consist of 20 users but this may change in the future. You will have a schedule and compete with the other users on a weekly basis. The Top 8 Records will compete in a Tournament to decide the Cryptocurrency Fantasy League Champion. Results are decided by the Biggest Overall Price Increases between your 15 overall projects.

Utility

The token will have three uses:

- Participate in Competitions such as Leagues, Tournaments, and so on. More details will come of this on the forum and in newer versions of the whitepaper.
- The Token will be required to cast a vote during the competition tournament. This will make sure all votes are of quality and upholds the integrity of the competition. You will also need a certain amount of reputation combined with the token. Amount of Tokens to vote is still a determination in progress but it will be a minimal amount.
- The Token will be required to buy things from the Forum Store such as Forum Sections and Pinned Topics (if you choose to do and after a review of the content). You can also buy other minimal things that will be located in the store.

Badges

There will be badges for cryptocurrency projects that you can earn such as the Bitcoin Badge, Ethereum Badge, and so on. For every Badge you earn, you will a certain amount of CLASH Tokens. The Forum will only start out with only a certain amount of badges for all the Top cryptocurrency projects to start, but we will add hundreds of badges over time for cryptocurrencies across the board. You earn these badges by talking about these cryptocurrencies in their section. Each time you earn a badge, you will earn a substantial amount of points.

Awards

At the end of every year we will have Cryptocurrency Awards for things such as Project of the Year, Developer of the Year, CEO of the Year, Community Manager of the Year, CLASH Forum User of the Year, along with several other awards. This will be a digital award offering but if the forum grows exponentially, we could do a physical location, invite guests, etc!

Advertising/Sections

Cryptocurrency projects can pay for space on the Forum such as a Forum Section or a Banner Ad. For pricing information please e-mail alex@coincash.io. Prices are subject to change as the forum grows its userbase. Forum Sections are also limited. We will only rent out a max of five to start out and will never rent out more than 25. There will also be a maximum of one Forum Banner Ad and this will be a monthly contract.

Disclaimer: This is not a legal document and Coin Clash is not bound by any information in this document. All numbers of points, tokens, multipliers, and everything in this document are not final and subject to change. This document is only for information purposes and does not constitute financial and/or cryptocurrency advice in any way. CLASH Token is not a Cryptocurrency Token or Security. It is a digital play token within the forum that will never hold value and can never leave the forum. It can never be sold or traded.

