

METHODS FOR BUYING PRELOVED AUTHENTIC DESIGNER HANDBAGS

Investing in a handbag at retail prices is great, but it is not the sole option. Many fashion conscious women are looking for a good deal, searching for a handbag they love from a past season or one that is not available online or in their hometown. Pre-owned, preloved or used designer handbags are a great way to go and there are many options. Below are a few tips to keep in mind.

Buy from a trusted reseller:

There are many ways to buy a pre-owned bag: from an online store, your local consignment shop, Ebay or someone selling on their Instagram account. Check out the reputation of the reseller. If it is an individual they should have a copy of their receipt. A good online store or your local consignment shop must have a return policy and guarantee the authenticity of the handbag. Trust your instincts about the seller.

Condition of the handbag:

The most typical things to look for on a pre-owned handbag are wear on the corners and handles of the handbag and light scratches to the hardware. The seller should fully disclose all wear, but you need to know what you're comfortable with. If light scuffs or hardware scratches are unacceptable, then maybe pre-owned is not for you.

Understand Pricing:

Some handbags end up being money saving deals at half their original retail value, while others will be more expensive. The general rule is: the more coveted a handbag is, the less it'll depreciate in value. Long waiting lists for Hermès, exclusive and hard to find Céline and Chanel, Louis Vuitton's popularity and rare colours from past seasons for Balenciaga tend to keep resale prices close to their retail price.

Know the return policy:

Some boutiques offer store credit for returns, while others provide you with all your money back. Be wary of the ones that do not offer returns at all and research your facts.

Waiting Lists:

Popular handbags tend to sell very quickly, sometimes within minutes to be listed online. See if there's used love moschino handbag waiting list you can get on so you're the first to know when your dream bag comes in. Some shops have a custom created alert system for you to make sure you have a chance to buy your dream handbag. Sign up to be notified by email the minute your coveted designer handbag arrives in our shop.

Date Codes and Authenticity:

Some designer handbags come with date codes stamped inside them, like a serial number. There are tons of online language resources to look up date codes and find out exactly how old (or new!) the handbag may be. This is particularly relevant for brands like Louis Vuitton, Chanel, Hermès, and Balenciaga. There is also a lot of information online to help you with authenticity. Some shops includes a some information on designer handbag authenticity to get you started on some of your favorite brands!

Always remember to go with your gut and to know what works for you!
