1. Part of speech
2. If noun, canonical classifier taken
    2.1. Full list of classifiers and their associated semantic domains located at the end of this document.
3. Some nouns can productively take additional classifiers. If they do, those classifiers are listed subsequently along with their definitions
4. Proto-Hidzi features vowel harmonization. Nouns harmonize according to their classifier. Adjectives harmonize according to their referent. If an entry has multiple word forms because of harmonization, additional word forms follow the canonical one, along with their pronunciations, parts of speech, and definitions. Adjectives are listed with both harmonization patterns, separated by commas. - The additional word form(s) are bolded, italicized
