

Minecraft Will Get Its Own Social Community, Minecraftr

Are you guys ready to hear about what would possibly simply be the trendiest webpage in the entirety of the deep, huge web? Take the immense popularity of Minecraft, throw in a completely-featured, Fb-esque social community, after which, for good measure, tack on a very unnecessary consonant to the top of its name. What do you get? Minecraftr, a social hub designed to attach gamers of the constructive online title, permitting them to create teams, plan occasions, set up servers and chat by way of IRC and boards.

Although Minecraft actually has its share of strengths, finding amateur builders like your self is something of a chore for brand spanking new gamers. If it takes off, Minecraftr may be an incredible method to wiggle your means right into a community -- after which take its grand, intricate creations apart one brick at a time.

[Thanks, Chris!]