It's Inspection Time Again!

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin says the six-week autumn semi-annual motor vehicle inspection, which starts September 1 and runs through Thursday, October 15, will be a rigorous one for the owners of the 3½ million registered motor vehicles and motorcycles.

"I caution the owners to get their vehicles to one of the 4,200 Registry approved state inspection stations as soon as possible," Registrar McLaughlin said.

The Registrar said that after the Spring inspection period ended, nearly 2,000 citations were issued to motorists who had failed to obey the law.

The fall sticker, green in color, costs $2 with a charge of 50 cents for trailers. Those not passing will be marked with a rejection sticker.

McLaughlin also urges operators to perform a "personal inspection" prior to driving to a Registry approved station.

"Turn on all the lights, walk around the car, make sure all bulbs are working. Have someone stand to one side and check the brake lights. Set the hand brake and test it yourself. You may be able to catch minor breakdowns in equipment before arriving at the station and being rejected," McLaughlin added.

Inspection includes brakes, lights, horn, exhaust system, steering, windshield and wipers, number plates, rear window, tires, fenders, bumpers, external sheet-metal and the factory installed pollution control system. Inspection of reflectors, chock blocks and splash guards is included on trucks.

Motor vehicle owners are warned the vehicle must have no signs or decals on either the front or rear window except the inspection sticker itself, which must be affixed to the lower right corner of the windshield, whether the vehicle is right or left hand drive. Also, no ornaments may hang from the inside rear view mirror.

Can We Count On You To Give Blood Again?

On December 3, 1980, in response to an urgent need for a well known Charlestown resident, "Townies" in large numbers responded and donated their blood; thus, they gave much of themselves. The need for blood continues. Everyday unforeseen accidents find victims who need it. Will you help again?

On September 14, 1981, just as in December, 1980, Bunker Hill Health Center will host the Massachusetts General Hospital Blood Mobile again to provide blood for those who need it most. If you can help by donating yours, please call Pat Connolly at the health center at 242-5703. She will give you an appointment to save as much of your time as possible.

"Townies," let's make this another blood drive of which we can be proud. Can we count on you again?

Voke Criticizes Rate Increase For Car Insurance

Representative Richard Voke strongly criticized the decision of Massachusetts auto insurance companies to seek a 225 million dollar rate increase for 1982. Voke labeled the insurance industry action as irresponsible and charged the companies with deliberately inflating their request. "The outrageous proposal, yet every year these very same companies submit an unrealistic, inflated request for rate increases."

"Unfortunately the auto insurance companies have consistently failed to realize that tactics such as these serve only to promote public distrust and legislative skepticism for their proposals," Voke stated. As a member of the Joint Committee on Insurance, Representative Voke has long been a thorn in the side of the insurance companies because of his efforts to hold down auto insurance premiums.

"I have no objection against allowing insurance companies to make a fair profit, but I know from experience that unless we keep a tight rein over the rate setting procedure, the companies will raise auto insurance premiums to excessive and unacceptable levels. The people of Charlestown pay more for insurance than most drivers in the state and they don't have anyone to turn to when inflation eats away their paychecks," declared Voke.

Representative Voke pledged to carry the fight against the rate increase proposal to the public hearing on the plan to be held before the State Insurance Commission next month.

Kelly Calls Mayor's Plan Unacceptable

Distinguishing himself from other City Council Candidates, this past week James M. "Jim" Kelly testified against Mayor White's combination "Loan Order And Budget" proposal. Kelly was the only candidate to state his position before the council's committee on public safety.

The Mayor's proposal, submitted as a home rule petition, would eliminate the amendment to the state budget which mandates the city maintain public safety personnel and facilities, as were provided in Fiscal 1980.

"Boston cannot afford to have Kevin White make the final decision on public safety. His track record is deplorable," charged Kelly. "I remind the council that, if passed, our fate would be entrusted to a man who, at the mere suggestion of budget restraint, closed neighborhood police and fire stations and layed off police and firefighters."

Kelly, the only non-incumbent endorsed by the Boston Police Superior Officers Federation, questioned the sincerity of Mayor White's promise to rehire police and fire personnel. "He may do so temporarily, but safeguards are needed to prevent the Mayor from changing his mind next April. Anytime he wants the council's approval on bonding issues he will use the threat of layoffs as a wedge," stated Kelly. "Unless there are written guarantees, I urge the council not to accept shortsighted or partial solutions. Public safety is not negotiable."

Kelly also suggested the council amend a section of the Mayor's proposal which would strike the legislature's requirement level. This section is also being contested as unconstitutional by the administration on the grounds that Boston, in order to receive $39 million in State aid, has been unfairly singled out.

"The court process could be avoided," advised Kelly. "If the council inserted a statement of compliance to the State mandate. This procedure would indicate a willingness by the City to adhere to acceptable standards. In addition to removing the judiciary, the package would also meet the needed approval of the legislature, prevent future layoffs and guarantee public safety".

Visitors' Center Open At Charles River Dam

The Visitors' Information Center at the Metropolitan District Commission's new Charles River Dam is now open to the public on a seven-day-a-week basis from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., MDC Commissioner Terrence J. Geoghegan announced today.

The MDC will provide guides for visitors to make tours of the new structure during those hours, Commissioner Geoghegan noted. The dam is situated just off City Square in Charlestown at the end of Warren Avenue. For those walking the extended Freedom Trail to Charlestown, a gate and stairway leads from the Charlestown bridge down to the Paul Revere Landing Park and then to the dam.

A specially planned multimedia presentation lasts 12 minutes and explains the workings of the entire Charles River Dam operation including boat locks, a fish ladder and flood control mechanisms. "We think it is one of the major learning experiences to be enjoyed by anyone walking the Freedom Trail", Commissioner Geoghegan said. "It is our hope that in years to come thousands of visitors will avail themselves of the opportunity to learn about the Charles River and its history through a visit to the Visitors' Information Center."

Free Visits To Children's Museum

Massachusetts summer camps and community groups can visit the Boston Children's Museum for free this summer.

All group visits by nonprofit community groups and schools are sponsored by a legislative grant funded through the Department of Education.

Groups must make an advance reservation by calling the museum at (617) 426-6500. Reservations may be made for any day from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and Fridays until 9. A minimum of 1 adult for every 7 children is recommended.

Changes In City Practices Needed

Sharp reductions in the city payroll and an end to "careless and expensive personnel practices" are a must if Boston is to get by on the lean rations imposed on it by Proposition 2½, Councillor John W. Sears said today.

"Proposition 2½ requires Boston to reduce its tax levy by more than $140 million in 1982 and 1983," he said. "Over $100 million will have to come from personnel alone - either from outright layoffs or by stretching out the work people do for the city."

If Mayor White, the unions and half the city councillors thank that a "satchel of Federal gold" will be showered on the city or that the Legislature will repeal or amend 2½ and everyone will be rehired, they couldn't be more wrong, Sears declared.

"The only thing that's going to save this city," he said, "is reduced staffs, increased productivity, an end to sloppy work rules, less greed and common sense."

Lecture At Legion Hall

Prof. Lowry Cites British Injustice

by Sal Giarratani
 More than 50 people filled the Legion Hall Monday of last week to hear Professor David Lowry speak on the political and social upheaval occurring in British-occupied Ireland.

The address was sponsored by City Councilor Raymond L. Flynn, who introduced the speaker. Lowry, a former resident of Northern Ireland, is currently a visiting professor of law at Harvard University. His efforts to detail the last 14 turbulent years and his knowledge of international law were acknowledged this summer in a City Council resolution sponsored by Flynn.

Lowry began his speech by criticizing the liberal news media—especially the New York Times—for its distortion of the true picture of the Northern Irish struggle and went on to denounce U.S. politicians for their less than enthusiastic attitude concerning the political repression and socio-economic oppression in the North today.

"Their (pols) policy of non-support of violence in any form is a cop out," said Lowry. "I'm trained to study the cause and effect of violence... the cause... is not the IRA."

According to Lowry, the last real chance for a peaceful solution ended on "Bloody Sunday" (January 30, 1972) when 13 unarmed, peaceful civil rights protestors were gunned down by British troops.

Lowry went on to talk about the violence, the persistent violation of human rights and the armed-camp atmosphere to which the people there have been subjected.

The visiting professor from Ireland concluded by condemning the Emergency Provisions Act which he referred to as "a conveyor-belt system of British justice" and called upon all present to contact their representatives in Washington urging them to pressure the British into ending the Diplock courts and restoring due process. He also urged people to ask these politicians to intervene "for the dignity and decency... granted to every human being."

Celebrate 35th Anniversary

A SURPRISE 35th ANNIVERSARY PARTY was held recently at the Knights of Columbus Hall for Mary and Ernest (Clancy) Lyons. The party was given by their daughter, son, and daughter-in-law. 100 guests were in attendance. Music was provided by Dick McManus and the Irish Revolution. A gala time was had by all.

CAPS - CROWNS
 Front teeth are capped with porcelain or porcelain fused to metal. Some dentists prefer one type to the other. The metal can be gold or alloys similar to gold. With properly prepared caps, very poor looking front teeth can be made to appear very pleasing. To cap or crown a tooth is an extensive and costly procedure which we believe should not be done strictly for appearance sake. A patient contemplating having extensive crowning or capping procedures done, should carefully discuss it with their dentist.

Engagement Announced

JEAN MARIE VENEZIA

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Venezia of Revere announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Marie Venezia of 15 Locust Street, Dorchester, to Mr. Joseph Patrick Cullity of 381 Bunker Hill Street. Joseph Cullity is the son of Mr. Thomas Cullity of Charlestown.

Jean Marie is a graduate of Revere High School, and Joseph Patrick is a graduate of Charlestown High School.

A September 13, 1981 wedding is planned.

Boys' Club News

by Charlie McGonagle

McLain was dull. Even he could do nothing to dispell that accusation. He was a nice enough guy alright, but he was downright, undeniably dull.

In his earlier days McLain was a lampshade on the head, life of the party type who refused to go home until the host's refrigerator had surrendered its final bottle of Budweiser. The good times, the kids, his wife, and the years, however, had played an irreversible tune upon his body. The transition had been gradual, but one look at his overly populated waistline convinced him it had now been complete.

McLain's idea of a wild time now was to pick up a six pack Friday evening after work and attempt to finish it before the completion of the late news at 11:30 p.m. on Sunday. If he could control his insatiable hunger for roast beef and baked potatoes at Sunday's supper. There would be enough room for the final two cans. If not, the six pack would emerge as victorious for the weekend. There was a string of six solid mid-winter weekends where the decision went in favor of the cold Bud. This, of course, resulted in his not having to spend the two and a half bucks on the seventh Friday.

McLain was an assistant bookkeeper for a rather large firm, a position he had held for the past twenty two years. In that time he had worked under no fewer than six head bookkeepers, always being bypassed for a promotion, not because he wasn't capable, for he was, but his ability to be dull greatly exceeded his ability to keep the books. In his early years with the company, this had bothered him, but lately, the complacency, a true child of his dullness, had allowed him to accept his position as it was and to be relatively happy with it.

McLain's spot on his easy chair was always filled by six and vacated by eleven thirty. The remote control television he had bought for himself was a God-send. Only a call from nature would cause him to move from the comfort of his soft recliner. On most nights, Ed McMahon's call of "Hee'er's Johnny" would shake him to a state of semi-consciousness and allow him to garner enough strength to get himself to the upstairs bedroom for what he considered a well deserved good night's sleep.

Laurie, McLain's wife, had also been softened and made wide with the years. The lines of communication between the two had widened considerably since their oldest daughter had married and moved away, and "What's for Supper?" "Macaroni," was considered an overly long conversation for the two.

Her spot, except for Monday and Wednesday nights when bowling and bingo occupied her after supper hours, was on the couch. Television to Laurie was not entertainment, it was a combination sleeping-birth control pill. Within minutes of placing her head upon the enormous pillow she had bought just for this reason, she would be asleep. After his second beer on Friday and Saturday nights, he was sure he could see her growing fatter as she bothered his movie, ballgame, or variety show with her incessant snoring.

To Talk Of Many Things . . . .

by Sal Giarratani
SAILING AGAINST THE WIND?

The topic of this week's column was to have been Northern Ireland but I found something that couldn't wait another week and that's my credibility as a journalist as a conservative journalist!

No one is a perfect 10, not Bo Derek and not this writer. I sometimes can stray from the conservative fold as could be seen by my recent support for striking air traffic controllers.

I don't expect everyone to agree with everything I say. All that would prove is that I was boring and too predictable. However, I do hope that readers, whether they agree or disagree, find my columns thought provoking.

I write what I believe and have built a reputation based on my honesty and my integrity in general. I hope, I'm not sliding over too far to the left as some have charged. That was never my intention. On most issues like busing, abortion, affirmative action, tuition tax credits, textbook reform and a host of social issues, I have not changed one iota in my 13 years as a writer. Anyone who believes in the values and principles I support would be classified a conservative, pure and simple. Sometimes when it comes to labor issues, I take a definite anti-conservative stance. However, I do not feel, and never have, that I talk from both sides of my mouth.

My credibility is something I value more than anything else in this world. While I write to please myself, I also hope it pleases others.

I'm not about to go out and join the ADA or campaign for Barney Frank.

However, I let the chips fall where they may. I still read all the right conservative journals and newspapers but I don't take everything in them the way I heed the Church Magisterium.

As a conservative, I took a stand in favor of the PATCO strikers. Some people might see this as hypocritical but it is no more hypocritical than President Reagan supporting Lech Walesa, Solidarity and the Polish workers movement and then pulling his Cal Coolidge act on striking air traffic controllers!

Nobody's a perfect 10, not Bo Derek, not this writer and not Ron Reagan!

I never claimed to be a 100 percent conservative but I've never played games either. Ronald Reagan is still my political hero. I think we elected the wrong Ed King and I'm glad to see Avi back on WITS!

If I go off on a liberal tangent which I might do from time to time, let me know. There are certain people in this Town whose opinions I value highly. From time to time I go to them to exchange ideas and to find new topics for future columns.

Remember, no one has to agree with what I say sentence by sentence but you can always have faith that I'm writing what I believe! It might seem screwed up sometimes as when I support the right to strike for public employees and claim conservatism as my philosophy but that's what I believe!

BOTTOM LINE

Together, We the people can make the difference if we keep on keeping on!

S.T.O.P.

by Charlie Ross
T.S.Y.L.T.

A mailing received back in 1977 brought us a card emblazoned with the inscription "I LOVE YOU." Also stated thereon, was the following message:

This card is sent to you as a part of a "Tell Someone You Love Them" campaign. It is meant to counteract some of the hatred in the world that is so often expressed in bitter words and acts of violence. Why should we deny our fellow man the love which he craves so deeply? Let us learn to give love generously, to express love honestly and to receive love graciously. The condition of the world may very well be the sum total of the love and hatred that exists in it. I am expressing my love for you to help change the balance to a more loving world.

Gilbert Stack, O.S.B., was the originator of this campaign and his recent letter, on T.S.Y.L.T. stationery, informs that over a million cards have already been sent out, and that he is busier than ever telling someone, somewhere, that he loves them. "It would be wonderful indeed if everybody in the world could feel that someone loves them, he says, but it would be even more wonderful if everyone in the world could learn to love and to be able to express their love."

Ironically, love can be said to have started with His birth at Bethlehem, and if you are interested in its continued promotion (in the aforementioned fashion) you may obtain cards, stationery and/or details from Gilbert Stack, O.S.B., of LOVE, at Bethlehem, So. Dakota 57708.

And as the song says, "P.S. I Love You."

DR. SCOTT STRIKES AGAIN.....

The July-August 1981 NANS Bulletin advises that Dr. Ralph Scott has published "an important new work" on the negative effects of forced busing on black children, "Black Achievement and Desegregation: A Research Synthesis."

The article further states, "Using the cutting edges of truth and common sense, Dr. Scott has skillfully examined the efforts of those who, either out of blind advocacy of forced busing or timidity, have either presented distorted and deliberately skewed "findings" or have meekly diminished their findings with weak conclusions out of fear of ostracism by their peers." Isn't it refreshing (and courageous) to have a social scientist dare to be this candid?

Dr. Scott, incidentally, was a NANS Founder, served a long while on their National Executive Board, and is with the Educational Clinic of the University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls. Two of his earlier works - "The Busing Coverup" (under the pen name Edward P. Langer-ton) and "Rebuilding American Education" remain important reference works utilized by parents and educators addressing the forced busing issue.

It was on just such a night when McLain first saw the T.V. Ad.

"Are you single, divorced, or widowed? Are you tired of the singles bar routine? Are you interested in meeting somebody who's predicament may be similar to your own?"

McLain snapped to total consciousness. A sudden erotic reverie slipped through his mind, but lasted long enough to make a total impression upon a part of his innerself he had forgotten existed.

"Call 800-111-1111 and we will send, free of charge, a brochure outlining our organization, Match-A-Mate."

In the days that followed, McLain's excitement intensified. At last the literature arrived, and he filled out the "interest form" hastily. He would lie about only one thing. For now he would be "single, never married."

Being careful not to be discovered by Laurie, he secured a money order from the local bank, in lieu of a personal check, for the twenty five dollar "Mating Fee," and forwarded it to the Match-A-Mate address. It would be at least two to three weeks before the organization would select an ideal mate for McLain, and after the first few days, the wait became exciting, yet almost unbearable.

He had used his office address as his own and each day he eagerly searched through the sea of envelopes which normally covers a bookkeeper's desk. Finally, after more than the advertised three week waiting time, the letter arrived. He was to go to the local Match-A-Mate office in downtown area at seven o'clock on the ensuing Monday night. There he would meet his ideal mate. He had figured on a few indiscreet meetings before telling the girl he was married. That would end it. He would have his fun and run.

Monday was perfect. It was Laurie's bowling night. As he was asleep when she returned home each week, he was certain of only one thing. She was always out until after eleven thirty. He would be home before then. It was also inventory time, the one time during the year when he would have to work late. Everything seemed perfect.

"I'll be home late tonight Laurie, it's inventory."

"Yeah."

"You bowling tonight?"

"Yeah"

"Tell the kids I'll be late."

"Yeah"

The bathrobe, which seemed to be a permanent part of her, and the half wrapped curlers hanging from her head seemed to magnify her already large torso. He left, eagerly anticipating his evening rendezvous.

The Match-A-Mate office wasn't much more than an old converted candy store. Fresh paint and a few sheets of inexpensive panelling did little to dress up the place.

"Good evening," McLain's voice trembled a bit as he approached the vivacious young blonde at the receptionist's desk.

"Mr. McLain?"

"Yes."

"Your mate is already here with us. Won't you sit down for a moment and fill out these

Boston Is Laying Off 960 Teachers And 450 Paraprofessionals

PETER DeROEVE OF CHARLESTOWN IS ONE OF THEM.

"I never would have believed that an official city agency would break a legal contract. But that is exactly what the School Committee has done.

Their action has devastated my family."

Peter DeRoeve has lived in Boston all his life and has lived in Charlestown for 13 years. He has taught in the Boston Public Schools for 10 years.

Just one year ago, the Boston School Committee signed a contract with the Boston Teachers Union. That contract prohibited lay-offs of tenured teachers through June 1982. Seven days ago, the School Committee chose to violate that contract and lay-off 710 tenured teachers and 250 provisional teachers.

Believing that they were dealing with honorable people, teachers all over Boston made plans. These teachers had every reason to believe that they would have a steady paycheck through June. They bought homes and made other financial commitments. In breaking their word, the School Committee has betrayed its employees and dealt a devastating blow to these teachers and their families.

The School Committee is also betraying Boston's children.

Every time a teacher's job is cut out, an educational program is cut out. With these 1,410 lay-offs, the Boston School Committee is eliminating or devastating some of the most effective and important educational programs: kindergarten I, art and music education, many vocational training programs, special reading programs, and many college prep courses. In addition, there will be across-the-board increases in class size.

BOSTON'S FUTURE IS IN ITS SCHOOLS.

CYHA News

This year's Board of Directors of the CYHA has spent the past few months going over the problems which everyone talks about but no one has done much about.

First, coaches and parents alike agree that many players do not progress in their skating and hockey playing skills. The players complain about dull practices, change in schedules and changing teaching methods.

This year, two new problems have shown up - only 17 mites were at try-outs. The cost of ice-time and transportation goes up and up.

The Board has decided to make changes for the coming year so that both the individual players get more out of hockey and the organization is headed in the right direction.

This coming year, we will have one Traveling Team at Danvers for each group.

The remaining 60-80 players will be assigned to the in-house League where the CYHA will build a first-class program. Two hours per week of icetime and old-fashioned emphasis on the skating, stickhandling and general growth as a competitive hockey player.

We want each boy to learn the rewards of discipline, hard work. We also want to build a consistent training pattern so that each player - as he progresses from the Mites to the Midgets - will know what to do and have the skating skills to do it.

Here are the basic questions that we asked ourselves and we expect others to ask of us:

Q. Why should I join and pay good money for an in-house program?

A. The CYHA is serious about this program. The coaches, joined by Matt O'Neill and Arthur Clifford, will put out the best product they know how to do.

Q. Will the player be able to move up to a travelling team?

A. Definitely. Because the coaches will be a vital part of the in-house training instruction they will see the player who is hustling and has the skills to replace a present member of the travel team. We think that competition is healthy and we will try hard to keep the interest of the demoted player by good instruction in the in-house program.

Q. Will there be regular games for the in-house players?

A. At the beginning, for the first 6-8 weeks, there will be only instructional practices. But, there will be games. We intend to use both controlled scrimmages among the in-house players and to compete against other programs.

We expect the first year to be difficult but we know that the CYHA program will not grow and individual players will not develop unless we build this very solid foundation under the program.

We know this approach works in South Boston and Burlington.

We look forward to the support of the many players and parents and coaches to make this a success as we go along.

Pop Warner Corner

We thank you for the good turn out during the second sign ups. We picked up quite a few kids for the B and D Teams. If you still want to try out for these teams come down to the field.

We have the first three games of the jamboree at Chelsea field on September 6, at 11 a.m. A, B, and C Teams must be down at the "Neck" by 10 a.m. All parents and fans that would like to come are invited. We could use your help with some rides for the kids.

I would like to say thanks to the kids who were in the clean up crews around town. But where are the parents of these kids who leave bottles and cans all over the place. We have three home games down there and we do not want to see are ballplayers and cheerleaders cut up by glass from the field at the high school.

Haven't the people heard of garbage bags.

Thank you,
The Board

THE GREYHOUND betting fraternity have installed "Jamie's Lane" of Frank Reid Kennels as one of the favorites to win the Seabrook Greyhound Park's $100,000 Great Race on Saturday evening, September 5, 1981. The speedy canine, shown with Trainer Herman Creager, broke his own 5/16 furlong record five consecutive times at Plainfield, Connecticut Greyhound Park. "Jamie's Lane" was also the 1980 All-American champ of the American Greyhound Track Owners Association. The owner of the greyhound winning the Seabrook $100,000 Great Race will receive a check for $50,000.

Can Unruly Be Stopped In Derby?

The question is who's getting more attention in the 47th annual $125,000 Wonderland Derby—Unruly or the Phantom Show Bettor?

If the Phantom is around on Derby night, Saturday, August 29th, the long sought for million dollar handle would almost be a certainty since the State Racing Commission has granted the track permission to run 13 races that night, making up a race lost earlier because of malfunction in the starting box.

The Phantom's $79,000 in show bets on Unruly recorded the track's largest single show bet ever as well as record minus pools.

Management is pulling out all the stops to handle the anticipated crowd and even has hired an 11-piece Dixieland band to keep them entertained. Temporary new concession stands, souvenirs and the like will add to the festive air.

But come around midnight the attention will be focused on the racing surface as Happy Stutz's black demon Unruly shoots for the $35,000 winner's prize in the second leg of New England's $185,000 Triple Crown series. Only Labit's Frederic, winner of the Rhode Island Derby, has a chance at the $100,000 bonus being offered to any greyhound capable of winning the Lincoln, Wonderland and Taunton derbies.

The richest greyhound race ever run in Massachusetts is being co-sponsored by the New England Greyhound Association.

papers?" "Sure." McLain suggested from a brief spell of disappointment. He had first thought the blonde was his.

The receptionist directed him to a door at the rear of the office.

"Right in there Mr. McLain." His hand was very wet with perspiration as he handled the door knob. It was brass and slipped through the wetness of his initial grasp.

The thought that his mate had been matched to him from information taken from both their "Interest Surveys" comforted him a bit. "At least we'll have a few things in common," he told himself.

McLain felt a sudden rush nausea as he opened the door. He was sure the blood surging from his brain would cause him to faint. His mate's expression told him she was suffering from similar symptoms. An eternity seemed to pass before he could speak.

"If we hurry, we can still catch 'Little House on the Prairie, Laurie.'" "Yeah."

"The winner will be the best greyhound in America."

By definition: The dog that wins the Wonderland Derby is like the horse that wins the Kentucky Derby.

Only the top greyhounds in the world are even allowed to enter: a maximum of 64. Then four tough qualifying rounds separate the best from the rest, over Wonderland's grueling 1/8 mile course.

Until finally, only eight great greyhounds are left to battle it out, in America's oldest and most prestigious greyhound event.

So if you couldn't make it to The Kentucky... Join us now at The Wonderland.

Meet The Candidates

(The announcements below are excerpted from releases submitted by the campaign organization of the respective candidates)

Palladino Asks For Third Term

Dear Voter,
As a candidate for election to a third term on the Boston School Committee, I, Elvira Pixie Palladino, seek your vote and support.

My record of opposition to forced busing as a means of true integration is well known. I believe that forced busing brings about neither integration nor equal educational opportunity. But, I should like the public to know that I am by no means a one-issue candidate.

My record on the School Committee has proved and will continue to prove that I support the following:

I. A balanced School Department budget based on a pay as you go system.

II. Constant evaluation of educational programs; keep those proven effective, discard the ineffective, and introduce updated relevant programs.

III. Evaluation of teachers and administrators. Merit and proven performance should play a part in the retention or dismissal of school personnel, together with seniority rights.

IV. A system of local school site budget management that would provide parents with real input into the education of their children.

V. A plan to attract students back into the Boston Public Schools. We have lost almost 30,000 in the last five or six years. Only by assuring parents of a high quality public school education can we hope to bring them back.

Last, but far from least, my opposition to forced busing is based on my unwavering belief that the neighborhood school concept is the only fair and defensible way of assigning students to schools. The recent Los Angeles decision proves that forced busing has been discredited as a solution to the problem of school integration and providing equal educational opportunities. Children should be assigned to their neighborhood school unless, by their own free choice, they select another.

EDMUND L. McNAMARA

Edmund L. McNamara, former Boston Police Commissioner, today announced his intention to be a candidate for election to the Boston City Council.

McNamara is concerned as are most people of Boston to see diminished and demoralized Fire and Police Departments operating without the resources necessary to meet the ever increasing public safety needs of the City.

McNamara intends to speak out vigorously on this problem which has become a primary concern in every neighborhood.

McNamara believes that if the excesses and extravagances of the City Administration are curtailed then tax relief can be provided for local property owners without jeopardizing public safety and security. He believes that the City can cope with financial limitations and still have efficient, effective public safety services.

McNamara served as a special FBI agent for 16 years, Boston Police Commissioner for 10 years, and has been President of a private security company for 9 years.

Because of long experience in the public and private safety fields he believes he can be a credible voice for the people of Boston in City Government.

McNamara was awarded the Silver Star Decoration for bravery as a PT Boat skipper in the Pacific in World War II.

McNamara was born and raised in Boston and educated in Boston public schools. He graduated from Holy Cross College and played professional football with both the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Seeks School Committee Seat

Ann Hughes Allen has devoted her life to educational study and community service, as well as the upbringing of her children. As a professional, she has worked as a counselor for both children and adults. As a volunteer, she has worked in numerous neighborhood and citywide committees on education and school improvement. As a resident of the South End, she and her husband Paul have sent their two daughters to Boston schools.

A graduate of Columbus College of Art and Design, where she received a Bachelor's Degree and membership in a national honor society, Ann Hughes Allen began work as a Director of Arts and Crafts for the Harford, Connecticut, YWCA. In 1967, she entered the field of Art Therapy at the Columbus State Hospital in Columbus, Ohio, where she analyzed long term psychiatric illnesses through a study of patients' art work.

In 1968, Ann met and married Paul Allen, a medical student, and the couple moved to Gainesville, Florida, where Paul finished his medical studies. While in Gainesville, Mrs. Allen served as an Art Therapist at the General Hospital, counseling both children and adults in various forms of therapy.

In 1973, Ann and Paul returned to Boston, her family's traditional home. She began working as a graphic artist, on a part-time basis, to allow herself sufficient time to attend to her husband and children. She also became quite active in the community where her work has reflected both her professional background and her neighborhood interests.

Ann has served on the Community District Advisory Council for District VII of the Boston Public Schools, has been a member of the Operations Committee of the Citywide Parent Advisory Council for Boston Schools, and has worked as a volunteer for School Volunteers of Boston.

Scondras Announces City Council Candidacy

"People are being threatened by condo conversions, staggering rent increases, unjust property tax reassessments, cutbacks in basic services, and a climate of fear and intimidation," said long-time community activist David Scondras in announcing his candidacy for City Council. "Rather than securing the environment for the residents of the city, the politicians in City Hall have preferred to secure large profits for out-of-town speculators and patronage for their political friends."

Scondras, who placed seventh in a recent poll of Boston voters, stands out from the crowded field of candidates in his twelve years of solid, creative achievement on the tough problems that face people in their neighborhoods. Scondras was the co-founder of the Symphony Tenants Organizing Project (STOP), whose campaign against Fenway arsonists led to the successful conviction of a 33-member arson-for-profit ring. He has testified before the U.S. Senate committee on arson and has helped pass tough anti-arson legislation in Massachusetts.

Scondras has assisted residents of Brighton, Dorchester, Roxbury, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, and the South End in successfully combating neighborhood arson problems as director of Urban Educational Systems, a nationally-recognized arson prevention center funded through Attorney-General Frank Bellotti.

Scondras has also been a leader in the fight for strong rent controls and a ban on condo conversions since 1972. He helped establish the Boston Housing Court and chaired the Committee to Select a Housing Court Judge under Governors Sargent and Dukakis. His efforts were instrumental in precedent-setting court decisions which halted urban renewal destruction in the Fenway, extended tenant rights and won low cost housing for the elderly.

Scondras has also co-founded a neighborhood health center, a community newspaper, a low cost housing cooperative, and two neighborhood food coops.

Scondras supports district representation for both the City Council and the School Committee and is strongly opposed to political intimidation of community organizations and city employees by the Mayor and other politicians.

At 35, Scondras hails from a working class Greek neighborhood in Lowell. A Harvard graduate, he has taught economics and mathematics at Northeastern University. He has worked as an advocate for the elderly for seven years at the Boston Center for Older Americans and has taught city youth in a special education program.

"Coach" Grady Announces City Council Candidacy

The present administration has abandoned the young people of our city and the City Council has done little or nothing about it," declared John P. Grady at a reception in his honor held at the home of his sister, Mrs. Jane Darcy. A group of 75 well-wishers applauded as John outlined his reasons for seeking a seat on the Boston City Council. There are many important issues to be considered in this year's election; but, the one major issue still remains - the callous disregard the present administration has for the people of this city," Grady continued. "The recent layoffs of police and firemen, which has endangered the lives of all of us, especially the officers still working in both departments, are just another instance of political extortion by the mayor to force the City Council to give in to his wishes. This pattern has developed over the past few years and has seriously decreased the effectiveness of the City Council."

Edward J. DeSantis - City Council

"I favor a combined system of representation, whereas some members are elected by district, others are elected at large," said Edward DeSantis during his bid for City Council. "In this way, the entire populus will be insured representation, instead of the chosen few the city of Boston has reluctantly become accustomed to. As far as Police and Fire protection is concerned, it goes without saying that cuts in these areas show the continued concern shown for the people of Boston. Mutual aid is essential in dealing with the multi-faceted problems of today."

"One of my objectives will be to improve the living standards of the elderly, without ignoring, however the difficulties facing the poor and middle income citizens. In the past, this City's answer to these problems are visible in the projects; brick monuments to the ignorance of its leadership; or lack of it." "My experience has shown me how a city should be run. There shall be no option to pass the buck; problems will be tackled head on. Boston taxpayers will finally learn the true meaning of RELIEF."

Edward J. DeSantis is 55 years of age and has been employed by the Metropolitan District Commission for 31 years most recently as District Superintendent.

He has acquired vast knowledge in the areas of public safety, fire protection, public works, parks and recreational facilities, elderly programs and most importantly ascertaining a balanced budget without compromising on essential services.

Hennigan - City Council

Recognizing a need for public confidence in Boston's City Council,

MAURA HENNIGAN

Maura A. Hennigan of West Roxbury, brings to her campaign a zest for political involvement as well as a significant record of personal achievement. Over the past several years, Ms. Hennigan, 29, has given much time to her community. She is a member of Massachusetts Young Democrats, Boston Teachers Union, West Roxbury Irish American Club, and has participated in numerous local, state and nationwide campaigns. Elected to the Democratic State Committee in March, 1980, she represents the First Suffolk and Norfolk Senatorial District, including West Roxbury, Roslindale, Jamaica Plain, Dedham, Westwood and Walpole. Hennigan was also selected Massachusetts' Outstanding Young Woman of 1980.

As Councilwoman, Hennigan would like to focus Council's attention on District Representation, Charter Reform, Boston's housing situation, and retaining basic city services. "These are key issues we must address, but by no means the only pertinent matters at hand," Hennigan remarked.

"Now that Proposition 2½ has gone into effect, the Council must draw up a plan to create a just system to work within its confines," Ms. Hennigan stressed. "The lives of Bostonians should not be endangered due to drastic cuts in basic city services. Budget allocations and reductions should be more closely scrutinized. Any reductions, such as those which have occurred in the Fire Departments, Police Force, School Department, and Department of Public Works, must be clearly and carefully monitored. Boston is a fine and historic city - we must find a way to retain this character," Hennigan asserted.

Eldest of seven children, Maura hails from a family well steeped in Boston and Massachusetts politics. Three generations of Hennigans have served in elective office. Maura's great granduncle William O'Sullivan Hennigan was a member of the Boston Common Council. James W. Hennigan, Sr., her grandfather, served as State Senator and was the Representative for Jamaica Plain, Roxbury and Mission Hill.

RITA WALSH-TOMASINI

Rita Walsh-Tomasini of Dorchester, mother of four children is a candidate for the Boston School Committee. Last election, Rita ran seventh for the position. If a vacancy should occur, she would be placed on the Boston School Committee.

At a recent candidate's night, Rita spoke about the many issues that confront the troubled school system.

At the top of her list is the elimination of K/I. Rita feels strongly that a good Kindergarten program is crucial for a child's future success in school. This was one of the better programs which was recently and irresponsibly eliminated by the current Boston School Committee. Also, these days it is a necessity for many mothers to work outside of the home. The Extended Day Kindergarten Program should be offered in each school, along with the regular Kindergarten program and include both K/I and K/II.

Rita has been informed that all vocational programs have been moved out of Charlestown High in District 7 to the Humphrey Center in District 9, due to the recent budget cuts.

Rita is also concerned about safety and security in the Boston Schools. She feels that the Code of Discipline must be enforced Fairly and Equitably.

Active in her community Rita is past President of the Columbia-Savin Hill Civic Association, a member of the VFW Lower Mills Auxiliary No. 8699 and past delegate to the 1981 Democratic State Convention.

Rita helped to establish and is Chairperson of the Little House Health Center and the Carney Hospital Evening Clinic. She has also been honored by the Kit Clark Senior House for her extensive work with the elderly.

Rita attends the University of Massachusetts at Boston, where she is a degree candidate in the Community Planning and Public Service Program.

Grady

Grady has witnessed the decline in effectiveness of all city departments in recent years first-hand. Appointed by Mayor John F. Collins to the Youth Activities Commission in June of 1967, Grady worked with young people throughout the city for thirteen years until the Mayor shut down the agency in June of 1980. "I believe I lost my job because I supported Joseph F. Timilty in the 1979 mayoral election," Grady charged. "This kind of political tyranny has got to be stopped. City employees are not graded on how well they serve the people of Boston, but rather on how well they serve the mayor. Many hardworking, dedicated civil servants have become disillusioned when they have seen people who do little or no work in a department, promoted over them because they are active in the Mayor's political forces."

Grady believes he is uniquely qualified to serve as a City Councillor, stating, "In my years as a youth worker and coach I have worked with all types of young people ranging from Harvard graduate to Walpole prison lifer. The fundamental need of all these young people has been for someone who could provide a consistent, positive, relationship - someone they could believe in. This need is not restricted to the young. We all have this need. In recent years we have experienced a steady decline in the credibility of political figures, especially our municipal officials—we have less people to believe in! As a result we have lost faith in city government."

John P. Grady is a life-long resident of Boston and has been a Hyde Park home owner for ten years. He is married to the former Mary Giblin of Mission Hill, and the father of two daughters and two sons. Anyone interested in helping John get elected should contact The Grady Committee, 69 Westminster St., Hyde Park.
