The way we interact with our partner is a dance. In Harriet Lerner's words: "It is a circular dance in which the behavior of one partner maintains and provokes the behavior of the other. The circular dance has no beginning and no end." When we want to change the dance, we have to change the steps that we are dancing. It matters little who started it. What matters is "how do we break out of it?". We cannot tell the other person which steps to dance but we can change our own dancing steps. Changing our own steps and keeping steady with our new steps, our partner cannot continue dancing in the same way. And the dance changes.... ◆#ConnectWithLove 1080.
