As already mentioned, it is difficult, if not impossible, to modify the settings of a cellular phone. However, it is also not impossible to "unlock" phone SIM cards in this manner. This procedure requires the help of an unlocking service provider who, in turn, must be contacted by a third party. The third party's aim is to unlock the cellular phone so that the SIM card slot is compatible with other types of SIM cards.

Once the details are verified and a plan is drawn up, the service provider contacts the cell phone carrier that was initially supplied with the SIM card. In other words, the company that provided the phone is the "customer service" company. At this stage, it becomes the job of the unlocking service provider to convince the carrier to allow the SIM card to be unlocked. The "customer service" company charges a fee based on the number of SIM cards that can be unlocked simultaneously.

The "customer service" company should be able to provide you with a listing of retailers or authorized agents who offer such services. It is very simple to apply for an international SIM card. If the SIM card is locked, it will not work with your home phone, and any SIM card outside the country will not work on your new cell phone.

You can learn how to unlock the phone SIM card through online tutorials. A good manual on how to unlock a phone SIM card can be very useful. You will be able to determine the right steps to take when you are trying to modify your phone settings. This process is helpful for those who travel frequently or have international contacts.
