He identified the brain's "motor strip", a vertical strip of brain tissue on the \diamond cerebrum \diamond in the back of the \diamond frontal lobe, which controls different muscles in the body. In 1870, Hitzig published his findings in an essay called \diamond Ueber die elektrische Erregbarkeit des Grosshirns \diamond (On the Electrical Excitability of the Cerebrum). This experimentation was considered the first time anyone had done any localized study regarding the brain and electric current. full article
