If you were around in the mid 90s 2000s then you would know people walked into local supplement shops and asked what they should take to get shredded. Despite what seemed like hundreds of products, the store owner would say the ECA stack as if there wasn't even a choice. For the past 5 years that has been an equally effective duo with the ECA/ caffeine stack. Most companies let the FDA intimidate them into

It's a dry compound. It'll dry you out of the water you're holding but if you gain 15 lbs on a superdrol cycle and 0 was fat I'd expect half of it to be glycogen and not actual muscle though. There's only so much muscle someone can gain in a month. Even on superdrol. Gained 8-10 lbs of ACTUAL muscle in a month would be incredibly good.

Mayores niveles de testosterona en mujeres se asocian con mejor tolerancia a cargas de entrenamiento, mayor potencia muscular, mayor ganancia de masa muscular... I would strongly recommend looking at various muscle supplements and behavior supplements. While they may be able to boost testosterone levels a bit, they are not the complete answer all that separates them from other options.
