Comparative Study

1. Wahoha

- One of the most important steps in a traffic exchange is managing the widget's content. It is in the best interest of the website owner to decide for what goes inside the widget area. The best thing about Wahoha is the ability to customise the widgets and keep only the relevant stuff. The publishers of various categories are shown in the widget screen, thus making it easy to filter it out. One can easily deselect the unwanted categories in it.
- The post on Wahoha is not immediately approved. They go through processes and only after checking the links and content of your website, they approve it. It might take a few days in case it is a weekend.
- Wahoha provides the users with an insight into their performance. It shows the most viewed pages/posts in increasing order of the number of clicks. A well-defined graph gives a clear picture of the page views.
- One can use any image from the internet with proper URL, there is no restriction on the copyright thing.
- The post upload process takes lesser time as compared to 2leep.

2. 2leep

- 2leep requires a lot of input to be given in each post. Thus the 2leep Vs Wahoha upload time is more in this case.
- Like Wahoha, 2leep also provides the ability to post pictures from the internet with the image URL.
- 2leep describes the clicks received, sent and their exchange ratio in a graphical form for easier interpretations.
- One of the important aspects of 2leep is the website monetization. It means that its thrust is more on earnings and revenue generation.

The 2leepVs Wahoha makes it clear that both of them have one sole target- to generate maximum traffic for the site. All other things become secondary in front of it.
