

ETRM Business Analyst

Founded in 2013, ROITI is a boutique energy trading and risk management (ETRM) consulting company with an expertise in the power, gas, oil, coal and freight, emissions, and financial markets. We are working with leading ETRM IT solutions for some of the biggest energy companies in Europe.

We work on solving trading and risk challenges related to the growth in generation from renewables, the introduction of large-scale batteries, the closing down of conventional thermal power plants and other fun topics in the energy sector. The solutions we build are typically related to asset optimization, data management and reporting, process improvements, and trading and risk functionalities. Our location is in Sofia, Bulgaria, which is very convenient for the regular travelling accompanying our work.

For our growing team in Sofia, we are looking for a ETRM Business Consultant who will work with our clients in the energy and commodities business to provide business analysis, design, implementation, testing, and support services for their front office and risk management activities. If you enjoy a dynamic environment and diverse challenging tasks, our expanding team is the right place for you.

Key Responsibilities:

- Analysis of products, processes, and requirements within the customer business
- Analysis of system functionality
- IT solution specifications – within existing software or of new solutions
- Solution configuration
- Supports seniors or principles with tasks
- Coordination of project activities – with design, build, testing teams
- Customer trainings and support

Candidate Profile:

- “Trial and error” - friendly attitude
- Knowledge in energy and/or finance (power, gas, oil, coal, emissions, FX, etc.) is an advantage
- Good analytic and quantitative skills
- Good English is a must
- Good German is important
- Proactive – asks for feedback and support if needed
- Willing to travel (up to 80% of the time)

We Offer:

- Competitive remuneration package
- High performance bonuses
- Challenges offering professional and personal growth – training, obtainment of certifications, internal learning and development

- Health benefits, company sponsored mobile phone plan, options for additional stimuli in the long term
- A very transparent communication within the company
- Pleasant team atmosphere
- Flexible internal policies that allow you to take control of your own schedule

If you are interested, please send us a CV at careers@roiti.com