

How Do You Choose The Best Gradual Tanning Products?

You want to get a tan, but you don't want to get burned from the sun, you don't want it to look fake and, you don't want to surprise your friends with an instant solution, and you don't want to go to a salon, so how do you choose the best gradual tanning products to do it yourself and build your colour slowly?

You would think that it would be easy to find the perfect gradual self-tanning solution for you with the latest advances and innovations in technology. Stop right there! Before you go out and buy the first thing you find in the mall or online, you have to take a lot of things into consideration, or you'll just end up regretting it.

If you are looking to achieve a soft subtle bronze glow, here are the most important things you should consider before choosing the best gradual tanning products for you.

Safe for You

The first and the most critical factor you need to consider is your safety. You should use gradual self-tanning products that are free of harmful ingredients that can be dangerous to your health. There are self-tanners that contain parabens, a group of chemicals widely used as artificial preservatives in cosmetic and body care products.

Scientific studies show that parabens can cause skin irritations, disrupt hormones in the body, harm fertility and reproductive organs, affect birth outcomes, and increase the risk of cancer. Look for ingredients with isobutyl-, butyl-, and propylparaben. As your luck would have it though, all Shellcove products are paraben free and made with natural ingredients and 100% natural DHA!

Takes Care of Your Skin

You want gradual tanning products that will not just give you an exquisitely glowing tan that looks gorgeous from all angles but also with skin that looks and feels healthy, fresh, and nourished. You want products that will gently condition your skin while building and maintaining your tan with a glowing and hydrated finish.

With Shellcove Self-Tan Foam, you don't only get a premium quality self-tanning solution but also a highly effective skincare regime to keep your skin fully moisturised and conditioned to achieve a healthy hydrated complexion. With Shellcove, you can turn your daily tanning regime into your ultimate moisturising skincare routine.

Fast Acting

You want your gradual tanning products to progressively build your tan over time like you would do naturally when you bathe under the sun. You can develop a beautifully bronzed and sun-kissed glow in a matter of days and make it look like a natural progression. But you don't want it to take forever!

Shellcove gradual tanning products are created with Super Express Technology. With our fast-acting formula, you will see noticeable results after just one application. You can achieve a perfectly natural-looking tan with absolutely glowing skin in less time than other products in the market.

Australian-made

Of course, you will want gradual tanning products that is proudly Australian made. Inspired by the 'shades of the Australian sun', our self-tanning formula is proudly made with love here in Australia with nourishing locally sourced botanicals and the highest quality 100% natural DHA. Now, you can achieve a true Aussie bronzed look with salon quality every time.
