

Minecraft User Creates Giant Tortoise with Steampunk City on Its Back

Atropos is the name given to the oldest of three Fates in Greek mythology. It is the name given to the sister who used shears for cutting the thread of a mortal's life. Another forum It is also the name of Minecraft user CARLOOOO's gigantic tortoise clockwork which has a steampunk town emerging from its back.

We are not a celebrity gossip or fashion site and therefore we don't have a heated debate about the name. If we did, we think you'd know who we'd choose. (Hint it's the gigantic tortoise clockwork with steampunk cities on its back.) Just saying.

The entire project took five months to complete, and went through several designs including a whale-themed version before choosing the one you can download. The video below will guide you through an overview of the property before you make a decision to invest in such an investment in real estate that is huge. [Image: CARLOOOO]