2. BASIC TERMINOLOGY

Cryptocurrency is one of digital currency type which is designed to work as a medium of exchange. Cryptocurrency uses cryptography, the process of converting legible information into an almost uncrackable code, to track purchases and transfers. It is a secure way to pass Digital Signature through Peer to Peer transfer and decentralization.

Ethereum is an open-source, public, blockchain-based distributed computing platform and operating system featuring smart contract(scripting) functionality. It supports a modified version of Nakamoto consensus via transaction-based state transitions.

Ether is a cryptocurrency whose blockchain is generated by the Ethereum platform. Ether can be transferred between accounts and used to compensate participant mining nodes for computations performed. Ethereum provides a decentralized Turing-complete virtual machine, the Ethereum Virtual Machine (EVM), which can execute scripts using an international network of public nodes. "Gas", an internal transaction pricing mechanism, is used to mitigate spam and allocate resources on the network.

ERC-20 is a technical standard used for smart contracts on the Ethereum blockchain for implementing tokens. ERC stands for Ethereum Request for Comment, and 20 is the number that was assigned to this request. The clear majority of tokens issued on the Ethereum blockchain are ERC-20 compliant.

Exhibit Token is an ERC-20 standard token under Ethereum Platform.
