

PSA: Twitch Streaming Goes Public In Minecraft Tomorrow

It's been available for a bit to those willing to muck about with barely-esoteric settings menus, but barring catastrophe, tomorrow ought to bring simple, one-click on Twitch streaming performance to the Minecraft plenty.

As we reported when the characteristic made its testing debut, streaming in Minecraft is obscenely simple. Simply toggle the streaming choice in the sport, then each time you are doing one thing neat that you just need to share with the world, faucet the F6 key and immediately you have acquired an internet viewers to your blocky shenanigans.

There continues to be no phrase on whether streaming performance will come to the Linux version of Minecraft. Minecraft servers "Presently, Twitch for Minecraft solely helps Home windows (Vista and later) and Mac OS X (10.8, 10.9)," the company previously informed us. "Linux assist is at present not deliberate attributable to licensing issues surrounding the encoding software."
