

Minecraft 1.19 Snapshots, Minecraft Adds Frogs And 3D Audio

We've already had an experimental snapshot of Minecraft's next major update, but the regular 1.19 snapshot series has arrived with snapshot 22w11a. Mojang's Minecraft developers are currently focused on the Wild update. You can expect weekly beta versions of Minecraft: Java Edition, where you can enjoy those new features as soon as they are available.

The latest snapshot lets you play around with the Deep Dark biome, frogs and tadpoles as well as mangroves, mud blocks, and Sculk systems. You'll also be able to look into 3D audio directional within the sound settings, an option that "is best experienced with headphones".

Sculk and Deep Dark were already implemented in the 1.19 snapshot in February. However Frogs are now beginning to shine. Frogs can leap, swim and walk on land, croak and even eat small magma cubes. This causes a froglight bloc to drop. It's all normal frog things. You can check out the complete patch notes on the official site.
