

Judgement Based On Opening Posts

If I were to make a decision on who won purely based on opening posts then this would be one of the hardest judging's I have ever done. Both posters have virtually no chinks in the armour of their posts. Except a minor couple of things with Darksaint.

Namely him stating about how Nimrod's adapting he used on the 3 mutants would mean nothing for his amalgam but the whole point of Nimrod is to adapt not overadapt. And the argument about Nimrod possibly having a memory bank which he uses to scan people. And he states that g=he wouldn't know of Midnighters memories. But when they are an amalgam. They presumably share thoughts that they have both experienced.

If I was judging this battle based on opening posts I would be making this a draw. But only slightly. Darksaint almost lost this draw. A bit more slipping up and this would be Leo's for the win.